GURBANGULY BERDIMUHAMEDOV

The time of great accomplishments and progressive beginnings

For nearly 20 years already the sacred independence has been illumining the ancient and always young Turkmen land by the light of having been realized dream. During these years our people building and strengthening their state, developing economy and culture, asserting spiritual traditions, turned the country into a flowering land with steadily increasing wellbeing of the population, into the light and secure home for the present and future generations. Since the first years of gaining independence, Turkmen people did not set hopes upon miracle but worked tirelessly, overcoming difficulties and achieving concrete results. That is why, everything our Motherland achieved can be called miracle created with the tense labor of people of all velayats, cities and etraps, who grow up bread and cotton, extract oil and gas, construct houses, teach children, treat patients, are engaged in trading...

Directed at future, devoted to ideals of peace, justice and humanism, our united people are purposefully and persistently building a new life. Closely united around the President of Turkmenistan Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov, illumed by the light of the epoch of new Renaissance, having completely taken with all their hearts and unanimously supporting the reforming initiatives of their national leader, Turkmen people under his leadership show high consciousness, creative talent and activity, with great inspiration are going ahead – to the heights of progress and wellbeing.

The year of 2010 has become the important stage in the contemporary history of Turkmenistan, worthy continuation of the epoch of its new Renaissance. It brought our people closer to great and noble goals of this epoch; it will remain in the memory as the year of good deeds, bright hopes and ardent love for the native land. «We can say with pride that 2010, marked by remarkable achievements and glorious victories of our independent neutral state... , was one of the most blessed and successful, – the President of Turkmenistan Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov underlines. – our beloved Motherland is confidently going along the path of progress and creation evidences of which are achieved high gains in all spheres of activity in 2010. We have realized great deeds, which will be written down with golden letters to the annals of our people in the third millennium»².

To fill the epoch of new Renaissance with well-defined rhythm of creation, having inherited the priceless spiritual groundwork of the history – this is the main essence of the policy of the leader of the nation, which by its dynamics sometimes goes ahead of time. Universal values, highest ideals of humanism and justice are the basis of this initiative and creative policy. High culture, social-economic and scientific-technical progress found real embodiment in it. It is characterized by innovative essence, well-thought of system of priorities and checked up program of actions.

It is known with what assurance, energy, successiveness and exactness the head of the state realizes his elaborated conception of all-sided modernizing of the country. Intuition, deep penetration into the essence of global political and economic tendencies, pragmatism and farsightedness – all this allows him to point out the only right way which is taking the Turkmen society to new trajectory of serious economic growth and complex social development. All being realized reforms and projects in the country have strict scientific argumentation. «We, – Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov stresses, – are adherent to the fundamental principle of scientific grounding of decisions taken at all most significant issues and vital problems, real scientific constructivism in elaborating long-term plans and programs»³. Timeliness and vitality of progressive policy of the national leader, successfully realized by him on practice, are fully confirmed by indicators of social-economic growth of the country in 2010.

Activating social-political life of Turkmenistan

In the epoch of new Renaissance the basis of the state is strengthening with a subject to historical-democratic values of Turkmen people. Balanced system of political structure of a society allows expressing interests of different groups of the population and realizing civil rights and freedoms guaranteed by the Constitution. Individual in Turkmen society is free because there are no persons to be depressed or deprived of freedom except lawbreakers who lose their freedom within the period established by the court. The state gives all citizens equal rights and possibilities for the development. An individual's freedom is realized on the basis of correct understanding of human's nature and his connection with the society. While a society exists, absolute freedom or independence can be only imaginary. There cannot be a society which does not know any borderline between legal or illegal actions of its members. In Turkmenistan freedom is for everybody; there is no sex, national or religious indication limits. Real freedom for a person is the opportunity to reveal and develop abilities in activities. Advanced people during many centuries dreamt of such freedom as of the highest common good and biggest valuable of human life. And today all citizens of our country fully make use of its material and legal guarantees.

Speaking of further strengthening democratic base of life of the state and society with an account to realities of the day and tendencies of universal development, the President of Turkmenistan Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov in his speeches at the sitting of the Cabinet of Ministers on the 18th of February, 2010 and the Elders' Council in Dashoguz on the 14th of May, 2010 said, that «our state will develop and perfect on the principles of real democracy»⁴. Primordial traditions of sovereignty of the people are successively becoming firmly established in the country; Turkmens were adherent to them during centuries; now they are triumphing in the epoch of new Renaissance for every person and for the benefit of the society.

Turkmenistan is a multinational state. It is seen in Ashgabat where 12,7 % of the whole population of the country live. 65 % of the populations of the capital are Turkmens, 9 % are Russians, 7 % are Uzbeks and 19 % are representatives of other nationalities⁵. They all are so firmly linked with common past and present that they cannot but have common future. They have common plans and deeds, concerns and success. In the epoch of new Renaissance they renew the country with great enthusiasm, create for the name of wellbeing and happiness of the present and future generations, contributing greatly to the development of human civilization by their selfless labor. It helps mutual understanding between peoples and promotes combining their efforts for common good.

Year after year interethnic and inter-confessional harmony is strengthening which is the result of scrupulous work of the state with the support of the whole society on bettering relationships between all national groups of the population based on mutual understanding and trust, tolerance, patriotism and civil responsibility for the fate of the country of all nations living on our blessed Turkmen land. Equal conditions have been created in the society for representatives of all nations and nationalities. These possibilities are guaranteed by the law according to which any violation of citizens' rights causes criminal responsibility.

In the epoch of new Renaissance concrete steps are taken on liberalization of social life and deepening progressive reforms, humanization of criminal-processional legislation and perfecting activities of law enforcement agencies in accordance with international demands on human rights. Thus, in 2010 was adopted the Law «On the legal profession and activities in Turkmenistan», which increased the role and significance of the institute of legal profession while considering issues in the court and also the new Criminal code of the country was approved*.

Following the inherited traditions of compassion, justice and humanism, striving for uniting every family and preserving its integrity, the Turkmen state constantly conducts acts of charity releasing people from service of sentence, those who admitted their guilt and sincerely repented of their deeds, both in our country and abroad. Only on the eve of sacred night of the Almighty by the Decree of the President of Turkmenistan dated September 3, 2010, 3999 convicted persons for their crimes and among them foreign citizens were pardoned⁶. They got the chance to return to normal life and expiate their guilt by honest labor.

In accordance with the renewed Constitution of Turkmenistan a new system of state power agencies was created; it meets mentality and radical interests of Turkmen people and reflects their originality. Being flexible and efficient, it combines principles of parliamentarianism (Mejlis of Turkmenistan), people's representation (velayat, city and etrap khalk maslahaty), local self-governing (Gengeshs) and at the same time personal

* This document decriminalized a number of criminally punished deeds, which on a legislative level passed into the rank of administrative law violations that is not connected with depriving from freedom; money penalties were not introduced as punishment. Besides, it is stipulated to reduce the maximal period for heavy criminal crimes from 25 to 15 years, widening public control for keeping people under the sentence in prisons and colonies, establishing observing councils and corrections of people under the sentence by labor at various works at institutions of confinement. Greater accent as compared with the past on labor and public upbringing of people having made a mistake must promote their returning to normal life; logic continuation of humanistic traditions of Turkmen people is displayed in it.

 In Turkmenistan there are 5 velayats, 50 etraps, 7 etraps in cities (5 in Ashgabat and 2 in Turkmenabad), 25 towns, 9 towns in etraps, 77 city type settlements, 565 gengeshliks. 1928 rural populated points⁷.

hakims' and archins' responsibility for the task assigned. All parts of the system of power and governing got legal regulation of their activities in the form laws. Thus, in 2010 were adopted the laws of Turkmenistan «On elections of khalk maslahaty and Gengeshs members» according to which were held elections of members of local representing agencies of national power, «On local executive power», defining its authorities, order of activities and relationships with other power and governing agencies, local self-governing, public unions and managing units.

The key factor of strengthening democratic and legislative basis of Turkmenistan is systematic perfecting national legislature which is to secure reliable base for successful realizing designed programs. The efficient political tool of developing legal, democratic and secular state is the Mejlis of Turkmenistan, the highest representing body, realizing executive power, elaborating new laws and making actual changes and amendments to acting normative documents. For the recent 2 years (2009–2010) deputies of the parliament adopted 66 laws and 94 decrees of the Mejlis⁸, which enriched the legislative base of the state by a number of important law acts.

In 2010 the Cabinet of Ministers of Turkmenistan, the executive and administrative body worked hard; it held more sittings⁹. It was dictated by the well-grounded and efficient character of the work connected with industrial-innovative development of the country reviving its culture and spirituality. The head of the state Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov stresses: «Our main goal is staking on active introducing advanced technologies to lead all branches of economy to new heights, provide intensive development of science and education, guarantee planned increasing people's living standards», «to turn Turkmenistan into flowering state with well-to-do and advanced society where equal conditions are provided for life, labor and creativity of all citizens»¹⁰.

In accordance with this directives of the leader of the nation the production is being modernized at full swing; market economy is being formed with social-just allocation of incomes, achievements of science and technology are widely used; significant projects are being realized which are to preserve the variety and beauty of national nature, provide rational usage of its wealth. Successful fulfillment of the tasks set by the President of Turkmenistan, to a great degree became possible due to well-thought of and correct decisions adopted at sittings of the Government, honest, harmonious and purposeful labor of people. But the main guarantee of what we managed to do in 2010, as the leader of the country Gurbanguly

Berdimuhamedov thinks is wide international support of changes in our country¹¹.

Preparation and holding of December 5 elections of members of velayat, city and etrap khalk maslahaty occupied one of central places in public-political life of the country in 2010. Great significance is attached to local representing bodies because they are main parts of governing, linking people and power, active conductors of complex programs being realized in the country. All stages of this important line were marked by high activity of the population and the atmosphere of common enthusiasm. The elections were held on the alternative bases (in the whole 3375 applicants to khalk maslahaty were registered, 1660 were elected), smoothly, transparently, honestly and in a democratic way. They were recognized being held on all 2222 election points. 95,79 % from all electors took part in them¹².

The majority of elected members of khalk maslahaty are highly-qualified specialists of agriculture and fishery, fuel-energy complex (FEC), sphere of education, culture and health-care, local governing bodies, activists of trade-union and youth organizations, representatives of practically all nationalities living in the country. Being worthy and authoritative representatives of people, they can solve tasks of developing branches and regions.

The elections vividly demonstrated unity and solidarity of Turkmen people, their readiness to consolidate democratic basis of the national statehood with the account to world experience and universal international standards. The elections became a good school of asserting principles of democracy which roots goes in the depth of centuries, to the traditions of forefathers. Today these traditions got their continuation in the policy of new Renaissance, successively being realized by the President of Turkmenistan Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov.

Activities of the Elders' council are bright evidence of it. In the epoch of new Renaissance a good tradition to consult honorable elders, wise with rich life and labor experience on actual issues of life of the state acquires new sense and significance. On the 14th of May, 2010 in Dashoguz the sitting of Elders' council took place; priorities of agrarian policy of the country and main tasks were defined at the sitting.

Also issues on further realizing the program of reforming in regions, developing agro-industrial complex (AIC) and other significant measures were considered. One of fundamental documents of new Renaissance – «National program of social-economic development of Turkmenistan for 2011–2030», was approved. Theoretic article of the head of the state Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov published on the 10th of May, 2010 «Economic strategy of Turkmenistan: supported by people and for people» was put into the basis of the document; this article has great scientific and practical significance.

In the article there is deeply grounded necessity of using scientific basis of planning the development of economy for decades ahead. It is an important sign of the new time, one more convincing argument for the benefit of reasoning, weighing of all details of own unique model of statehood, elaborated and being realized by the leader of the nation.

National program of social-economic development of the country for 2011–2030 combined two components of advancing Turkmenistan to the heights of creation and progress: grandiose achievements of its contemporary history plus colossal economic and spiritual potential, allowing people to look ahead to their future with confidence. Combination of these factors is the guarantee of planned transition to socially oriented market economy, the goal of which is increasing living standards of the population and wellbeing of every family. All issues of development of a society – political, legislative, economic, social and cultural – are considered in close interaction as complementing and enriching each other, and moreover, they are interfaced with universal tendencies of development and progress of the whole mankind.

All-national «Galkynysh» movement is a huge public-political force promoting further consolidating Turkmen society, active conductor of ideology and policy of new Renaissance among masses. Activities of organizations within this movement are perfecting; their interaction is widening; forms and methods of propagandist and cultural-mass work are being renewed. Along with it the President of Turkmenistan Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov calls to activate considerably the work of All-national «Galkynysh» movement in accordance with the increased tasks set for the state and society at contemporary stage. He thinks that public organizations must keep pace with the time, be at advanced points of the epoch of new Renaissance and explain their essence and significance. They must attach special attention to improving patriotic, spiritual, labor and moral upbringing of the youth, involving them to take part in radical reforms of the country using well-established business contacts with the staff of enterprises, daihan units, establishments and organizations¹³.

The epoch of new Renaissance brought fresh stream in the activities of Humanitarian association of Turkmens of the world (HATW), within which 27 departments are acting in 14 countries of the world; there are more than 300 collective and hundreds of individual members. As it was already marked at the XIII conference of the association, held on October 22, 2010 in Ashgabat, the contents and directions of work with foreign compatriots were recently enriched. Thus, promoting spiritual consolidating of the nation, preserving original Turkmen traditions and customs, popularizing national culture, the festival «Turkmen land is a renewed land» is annually held in Turkmenistan, which has become popular far beyond the country. It became the tradition to invite foreign compatriots for participating in state holidays, conferences and summits. Contacts were activated in such spheres as education and science, culture, art and entrepreneurship. Tens of foreign compatriots have business at their historical Motherland contributing greatly to realization of reforms. The association conducts considerable work on propagandizing home and foreign policy of Turkmenistan, its achievements in the new epoch, popularizing culture of Turkmen people in the world, studying their history and language. «To develop and consolidate economic and cultural ties with our compatriots, living in various corners of the globe, promote unity and solidarity of all Turkmens of the world, steadily strengthen international authority of our people is one of main directions of the policy of the Turkmen state¹⁴, – underlines the head of the state, the President of HATW Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov.

The founding conference of the International association of akhal-teke horse-breeding, held in Ashgabat on August 14, 2010 became a bright event in the life of the country; the head of the state, Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov was unanimously elected the President of the association.

Greeting the participants of the forum, he underlined that in the epoch of new Renaissance «we create all conditions for multiplying age-old glory of Turkmen fast horses, improving the breed, worthy evaluation of horse breeders' labor, developing horse racing sport, growing thoroughbred fast horses in private households»¹⁵. Really, today Turkmen horse breeding art and national traditions of horse riding got their worthy continuation, there is great merit of the President of the country in it; he pays great attention to popularizing and spreading this unique breed of «heavenly horses» in the world. The construction of horse-sport complexes meeting international standards has spread in all velayats of the country according to the President's decision. The book by Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov «Akhal-teke horse is our pride and glory», which gained the world fame, became a wonderful hymn to «heavenly horses». That is why the election of the leader of the nation the President of the International association of akhal-teke horse-breeding is another factor of recognition of merits of the head of Turkmenistan and it goes without saying that it will become a new impulse in the cause of development of akhal-teke pedigree horse-breeding.

As it is known, every state must be able to protect its people. And sovereign Turkmenistan takes care of peaceful, calm and problem-free life of industrious people, achieving wonderful success in fulfilling reforming programs spread in the country. Clearly understanding the necessity of strengthening national security and defense capacity of the state for securing inviolability of sacred borders of the Motherland* and its territorial integrity, the President of Turkmenistan Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov attaches much attention to increasing the might of the Armed Forces and perfecting their material-technical base, creating proper conditions for service and everyday conditions of servicemen, their full-fledged labor and rest, including construction of modern typical military small towns, frontier posts and customs complexes.

The military doctrine of neutral Turkmenistan bears exclusively peaceful and defensive character, the main and the only goal of which is increasing military training and professional skills of warriors and specialists of all types of forces, and only for self-defense and defending actions. The important role in realizing the complex military program, initiated by the Turkmen leader and aiming at introducing world standards to the Armed Forces of the country for maintaining their high combat readiness is given to training qualified officer cadres, consolidating discipline in military units and subdivisions, improving military-patriotic upbringing of youth and raising the prestige of the National army.

Demonstrative military-tactical field «Shield-2010» maneuvers with instruction practice held on the 28th of April, 2010 on the territory of «South Kelata» mountain training center of the Ministry of Defense of Turkmenistan became peculiar review of the power of the National army. The main goal of these trainings is to repulse from without invasion of powers of symbolic rivals, to destroy their manpower, defense technology and completely restore the State border of the country was fulfilled honestly by co-ordinate actions of aviation, artillery, tank and motorized infantry battalion and also army special subdivisions. Supreme Commander in Chief of the Armed Forces of Turkmenistan, the General of the Army Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov thanked servicemen for the professional skills in handling updated military technology and high battle training and congratulated them on successfully conducted training. He said that «The Armed Forces of Turkmenistan vigilantly defend peaceful labor and life of our citizens... Military security of the country is in safe hands. Our most important task is to strengthen defensive capacity of the state»¹⁶.

On the same day the President of Turkmenistan approved the Conception of development of Navy powers (NP) of the country*. According to this document balanced Navy powers will be founded on the Turkmen coast of the Caspian Sea for its protection. For providing location of battle and subsidiary ships it is stipulated to build the main navy base on the new place and create posts for on-duty subdivisions on the whole coast of the Caspian. Besides, sea parts of the State border of frontier service of Turkmenistan will be consolidated; guard ships began coming at their service. Great attention will be attached to training highly-qualified specialists for NP and sea frontier units. In accordance with the Military doctrine of Turkmenistan and for safe protection of sea borders of the country and securing its safety, training necessary specialists, for the Armed Forces, on June 8, 2010 the head of the state signed the Decree on formation of the Military-navy institute of the Ministry of Defense of Turkmenistan where both military-sea officers with higher education and specialists with secondary-technical education are trained.

With an account to the main points of the Military doctrine of Turkmenistan, defining the strategy of developing the Armed Forces of the country on September 25, 2010 the following laws were adopted: «The law on defense», stating the base of establishing of defense of the country, functions and authorities of state power and governing bodies, rights and freedoms of citizens, enterprises and organizations and their managers in this sphere; «On military duty and military service», regulating the issues of citizens' realization of their constitutional duty on the defense of the Motherland, providing authorities and obligations of military structures, the order of handling military registration, training, military service, being in the reserve etc.

In 2010 the people of Turkmenistan widely and in a grand way celebrated the 65th anniversary of the Victory over the Hitler Germany and militarist Japan. It was a great and bright holiday of all progressive peace-loving forces of the planet. Turkmen citizens celebrated it by their persistent labor in all spheres of the national economy, dedicating their achievements to a glorious jubilee. The celebration of the remarkable date demonstrated unity and solidarity of the Turkmen society, its creative energy and devotion to the Motherland of all layers of the population. Its great political and instructive significance is in it.

As it is known, in Turkmenistan veterans of the Great Patriotic war of 1941–1945 are surrounded by special attention of the state, as age-old traditions of Turkmens demand, they always revere the memory of their heroes – courageous defenders of the native land. The President of Turkmenistan Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov carefully and attentively treats representatives of elder generation, veterans of war and labor, on whose examples of their destinies, field and labor feats young Turkmens are brought up today. Thanks to benefits given at the initiative of the leader of the nation all conditions are created for worthy life of war participants and home battle toilers, who make considerable contribution to noble work on cultivating the youth's feelings of patriotism and courage and successful conducting large-scale changes in the country. In the capital, velayats, cities and etraps the active work is being conducted on studying the history of Turkmenistan during severe war years. Scientific-searching groups have been created, they gather by grains reminiscences and other information about warriors' battle feats, sealing the fate of the Motherland in battles against fascism.

Recognizing the importance of war veterans' contribution to common cause of upbringing growing generation on the basis of high spiritual principles of the ancestors, forming deep respect to many-century old national traditions and customs of Turkmen people, the head of the state promotes working of veterans' councils, creates favorable conditions for them. Thus, the Decree of the President of Turkmenistan dated January 29, 2010 stipulates financing expenses of the Central Council of war veterans' Organization and its velayat, city and etrap subdivisions at the expense of the State budget of the country¹⁷.

In the epoch of new Renaissance when in Turkmenistan grandiose changes are being carried out under the slogan «The state is for people!» concern of courageous warriors, who gained the Victory and devoted widows working in the home fields and preserving home hearths acquired new sense. Thus, since the first of January 2010 minimal pension was established for war participants regardless of their salary and working years in the sum of 435 manats (it is 3,5 times higher than the minimal pension for other categories of pensioners), the maximal pension is 580 manats¹⁸.

In the capital and velayats special centers are acting, which extend war veterans and invalids, warriors' widows free before-doctor and social-everyday aid. This category of people need social service at home allowing prolonging their being in the surrounding they are used to. More than 1,7 thousands of people under the patronage of the Ministry of social provision of Turkmenistan are embraced by such form¹⁹.

With every anniversary of the end of the Great Patriotic war of 1941–1945 the Victory Day is becoming closer to hearts and souls of all Turkmen citizens. This holiday unites them by powerful feeling of patriotism and personal responsibility for the fate of the Motherland. Spiritual and moral power of all-national triumph is in it. For celebrating the glorious 65th anniversary of the Victory and for recognizing merits of war veterans and rendering honors to them, the President of Turkmenistan on November 20, 2010 issued the Decree on establishing jubilee medal «65 years of the Victory in the Great Patriotic war of 1941»²⁰.

On the eve and on the day of the remarkable date mass actions spread all over the country; war veterans and home battle toilers became their main heroes; they suffered hardships of severe war time, soldiers' widows who carried the devotion to their husbands having not returned from battle fields. Today their life path serves as the model of patriotism and loyalty to duty for young generation of Turkmen citizens.

True patriotism, deep respect to warriors-heroes always was and is one of the main spiritual traditions of Turkmen people. This idea is fully expressed in the package of decrees and resolutions of the President of Turkmenistan Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov; they were adopted on the eve of celebrating the 65th anniversary of the Great Victory and they vividly testify to high worship of unprecedented heroism of warriors in the battle for the Motherland and courage of grey-haired mothers who worked at the home front. In honor of the jubilee date 1567 war veterans were awarded with commemorative medal «65 years of the Victory in the Great Patriotic war of 1941–1945», among them 327 in Ashgabat, in Akhal velayat – 174, in Balkan - 144, in Dashoguz – 186, in Lebap - 433 and in Mary – 303 people²¹.

Revering heroism of warriors on the battle fields, considering their noble work on patriotic upbringing of the youth, consolidating unity and solidarity of our people and in the honor of the 65th anniversary of the Great Victory, they and widows of perished soldiers were presented to cash award and valuable gifts. For further improving social-everyday conditions of war veterans and toilers of the home front on 22 April, 2010 the head of the state issued the Decree, according to which their pensions since the 1st of May were increased to 20 %. Since the same date allowances to soldiers' widows were also increased to 20 %²².

Under the order of the leader of the nation on the eve of the holiday 123 war veterans were invited to the grand opening of the renewed after the reconstruction Bayramali sanatorium, where they rested and improved their health during the month free of charge. On May 20, 2010, the President of Turkmenistan Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov visited the resort and met with war veterans who came from various corners of the country; he talked to them, asked about their health, concerns, wished them solid health and wellbeing. He congratulated those present on the coming holiday of the Victory, declaring that the state would always take care of war veterans. In memory of the event the leader of the nation was photographed with the veterans.

One-time free of charge monthly rest of veterans was organized in other health resorts of the country as well; all conditions were created and high level of medical service was provided for them. Besides, in the first half of 2010 more than 400 former front-line soldiers underwent the course of treatment in hospitals of Dashoguz and Mary cities²³.

Underlying that «in the epoch of new Renaissance Turkmen people especially highly revere the memory of heroes of the Great Patriotic war», the head of the state at the beginning 2010 announced about erecting two magnificent memorials in the capital, which are to immortalize the blessed memory of our compatriots, those who have fallen for the country in the struggle against fascism and guiltless victims of the ruinous Ashgabat earthquake on October 6, 1948. Constructed not far from each other in the picturesque foothills of the Kopetdag, these monuments «will become man-made symbols of deep revering of our valiant national heroes, our grandfathers and fathers, respect of Turkmen people of their great past»²⁴.

The policy of peace and international cooperation of independent neutral Turkmenistan is the best monument to immortal feat of soldiers of the Great Patriotic war.

Based on noble humanistic traditions of our ancestors, built on principles of good will, openness, mutual trust and friendship, this policy finds real embodiment in constructive initiatives and concrete deeds of the leader of the nation Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov; they are directed to consolidating of peace, security and sustainable social-economic development in the region and on the planet.

Development of the country's economy

Farseeing politician and bold reformer, outstanding strategist and scientist of the new formation, the President of Turkmenistan put forward principally new national model of the economic development of the country, having scientifically grounded it and confirmed in the practice of state governing. Putting interests of people to the first place in his activity, achieving reasoning and logics of economic reforms, he strives for more efficient usage of mineral-raw resources of the country, combination of market elements and state governing. Introducing market relations with exact expressed social character of allocating and using profits, the state leaves for itself the right of regulating economic processes, which allows all-sided and significant assistance to the population and considerable improving their living standards. As the leader of the nation Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov states in his program scientific article «Economic strategy of Turkmenistan: being supported by people and for people»* and in two-volume monograph

* On the 9th of July, 2010 on the basis of the petition of the Academic commission of the Turkmen State institute of economy and management and the Institute of strategic planning and economic development of Turkmenistan the Supreme certifying commission of the country unanimously took the decision of awarding the scientific degree of the Doctor of economic sciences to Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov. Turkmen citizens with great spiritual-emotional joy welcomed the news about the awarding scientific degree of the Doctor of economic sciences to the President of the country.

«State regulating of social-economic development of Turkmenistan»*, the key condition of the progress of the country is also the modernizing and diversification of national economy and its active integration to contemporary system of world economy ties.

The chronicle of events having taken place in the economy of the country in 2010, confirms the correctness of the chosen new model of multi-field, multi-functional and self-sufficient economic system meeting the realities of the time and which can develop processing branches of industry, transport infrastructure and service sphere, small and medium entrepreneurship. Significant attention was attached to intensive development of agriculture and creation of new productive capacities, realization of activities on reducing the dependence of the country on raw material sector, introducing advanced technologies and attracting investments. Due to farseeing economic policy of the President of Turkmenistan we managed not only to preserve but also increase volumes of production and export of goods. The anti-crisis program of the head of the state started working in full swing, which allowed increasing tempos of real Gross National Product (GNP) to more than 3 %, that is from 6,1 % in 2009 to 9,2 % 2010. In the structure of GNP of the country the majority part is occupied by the construction (where tempos of increase of GNP for 2010 made 16 %) at dynamic development of transport and communication (12,2 %), trade (11,3 %), industry (8,1 %), agriculture (7,8 %), service sphere (6 %)²⁵. It testifies to dynamic advancing of national economy along the industrial-investment way and being realized large-scale work on its diversification.

Obvious merit of the research is deep scientific analyses, argumentativeness of proposed regulations, and wide review of the world experience, simplicity of rich theoretical, factual and statistics material. Due to this the monograph caused great interest of not only specialists, but wide circle of readers and foreign readers among them.

 High tempos of growth of real GNP were provided by the policy of state capital investments and record level of direct foreign investments. As the President of Turkmenistan states, «the neutral status, home stability, inexhaustible natural resources, availability of related legal basis caused great interest of large international companies to our country and provided systematic inflow of foreign investments to the economy of the state»²⁶. During 5 years (from 2005 to 2009) the volume of foreign investments increased to 17,9²⁷. According to the World Bank data, Turkmenistan, having become attractive partner for foreign investments, due to the level of direct investments per capita is among countries with most favorable investment climate²⁸.

In 2010 according to the data of global reports of the UNO Program on human developing (2009–2010), the GNP of Turkmenistan per capita increased to 42 % as compared with 2007²⁹. It means that despite of the world financial-economic crisis, the economy of the country did not experience its negative influence; it is developing at high tempos and occupies leading positions on the planet. The Executive committee of the International currency fund within consultations regularly held with the Government of Turkmenistan on issues of economic and finance policy of the country, having considered the report on visit of representatives of ICF in Turkmenistan in autumn 2010, positively evaluated achievements of the country in carrying out economic reforms and also measures on currency regime governing, consolidating banking sphere and perfecting tax system, stated with satisfaction the advancing of national economy³⁰.

In the epoch of new Renaissance financing system of the country is experiencing deep modernizing; it plays a significant role in providing sustainable growth of production. Tax-budget and money-crediting policy of the state stimulates attracting of investments to the real sector of economy and increasing expenses for social programs. In 2010 was preserved the surplus of State budget of Turkmenistan; its execution was provided at considerable excess of incomes over expenses. According to annual rebate the profit part of State budget was fulfilled to 125 %, expense part – to 92 %, and profit part of the local budget was fulfilled to 105 % and expense part – to 94,8 %³¹.

The Stabilization fund founded at the end of 2008 at the expense of the surplus of State budget of previous years at the initiative of the President of Turkmenistan positively influences upon economic situation in the country. Money means from this fund are increasing year after year and by the end of 2010 made more than 16 % to the GNP of the country³². Accumulated financial assets allowed supporting financing priority projects and reducing the influence of unfavorable outer factors on separate sectors of home economy. Parts of means of the fund were used for financing target programs directed to technological reconstructing of the country and increasing the wellbeing of the population.

The radical reforming of the banking sector where activities are held on perfecting supervision and regulating finance operations is a significant aspect of formation of a new national economic model as the basis of progressive development of Turkmenistan for long-term period. Adopted in 2010, new laws «On Central bank of Turkmenistan», «On commercial banks and bank activity», «On currency regulating and control in foreign economic activities» are aimed at further perfecting finance-banking system, which has great significance for dynamic development of economy. For 2010 the assets of the banks of the country as compared to 2009 increased to 42,7 %, the volume of private investments – to 24,1 %, the income received by banks – to 57,1 %. Stock-exchange bid were performed at the participation of authorized banks³³.

Denomination of manat was successfully carried out in Turkmenistan*. Since the 1st of January, 2010 its second phase has started; within it old samples of monetary units were changed to new ones. During the year exchanging rate of manat related to foreign currency remained stable.

According to the Decree of the President of Turkmenistan dated the 9th of July, 2010 gradual transition to the national system of accounting and financial statements with implementing international standards has begun in the country.

The development of its multiform on the basis of introducing various forms of property and methods of management and production relations is an important means of market reforming. The privatization of state property that is its passing to private ownership for fare opens wide possibilities for putting economic system to market rails and founding strong private sector which can occupy the leading place in agricultural complex of the country. In Turkmenistan the privatization began within economic reforms at the end of 1993. From this time on 2127 units of state property were privatized, among them 1284 enterprises of everyday service of the population, 718 enterprises of trade and public catering, 48 industrial, 9 constructions, 5 uncompleted and 63 other units, 80,54 milliards manats came to the State budget. The majority of privatized enterprises work rhythmically, the production output is increasing, the number of workers remained the same, and salary increased to 2 times³⁴.

The process of turning state enterprises into joint-stock companies got further development, which promotes establishing mixed economy. In Turkmenistan by the 1st of January, 2010, 272 joint-stock companies were registered, among them 77 in industry and agriculture, 47 in trade and public catering and 71 in other spheres³⁵.

the same time responsible before it. The most favorable conditions are being created for them: legislation and tax system are being perfected; the order of registration and licensing entrepreneurial activities has been simplified. Favorable crediting of small and medium business in such spheres as agriculture, transport, communication, service sphere, implementing and using information technologies, various innovations and so on was of great importance for increasing business activities in the country. Taking concrete measures on further developing private economy sector, the President of Turkmenistan points to the necessity of the «releasing of entrepreneurs from unnecessary checking and removing bureaucratic obstacles»³⁶. According to the Law of the country «On maintaining of small and medium entrepreneurship» on February 12, 2010 he signed the Decree on founding the State committee on maintaining of small and medium entrepreneurial activities and adopting its structure with the purpose of activating entrepreneurial activities in various branches of national economy, increasing the assortment and volume of production output and increasing its competitiveness on foreign markets³⁷.

In 2010 the Union of manufacturers and entrepreneurs of Turkmenistan, having been created at the end of March 2008 and having combined the most initiative home business circles stirred up its activities. On the 17th of September 2010 the first issue of «Rysgal» («Prosperity») of private weekly newspaper of this Union came out; it is published in Turkmen and English. News on Turkmen business, feature stories about successful entrepreneurs, advice to beginners, analytical materials on developing real estate market, information about international cooperation, advertising proposals are published on its pages.

The number of units of private economy sector is increasing every year. For 2009 their number increased to 3,5 % and made 11,6 thousand by the end of the year and on the 1st of July there were more than 12,1 thousand³⁸. The launching of «Gush toplumy» poultry farming, new productive capacities of «Bereketly» enterprise, «Aibolek» furniture factory, «Keyik» plant on glass production became bright land marks along the way of home developing of entrepreneurship; the head of the state Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov took part in their grand opening.

Encouragement of private business allowed recovering business activities in real sector of economy. Wide attracting of home entrepreneurs to spread construction of industrial and social units promote more activated usage of acquired potential, experience and own design of private construction companies. The state support of private enterprises of agro-processing and food industries makes easy the providing food abundance on consumer market of the country and filling it with various, good home food products and at the same time at reasonable prices.

With increasing the number of enterprises of non-governmental sector of economy, the volume of their production and their contribution to GNP of the country also increases. Their share in common volume of tax inflow to the State budget also increases; it made more than 20 % by the end of 2010³⁹.

Formation of powerful economy, development of extractive and processing industry with the purpose of ready-made production output*, efficient introducing newest science and technology achievements, stimulating small and medium entrepreneurship allowed founding updated industry based on progressive technologies and automated management systems. Tens of plants and factories which joined rapidly spreading economic infrastructure of the country have been constructed with the participation of foreign partners.

Speaking of positive changes in developing national economy, the President of Turkmenistan brought forth an interesting and obvious fact: if earlier the share of agriculture in GNP made almost 40 %, today it reduced to 10 %, that is in 4 times, but the share of industry and construction increased in 3 times; now it makes 60 % of GNP⁴⁰. It is the striking evidence of the fact that due to realization of reforms our state is turning into industrial country with developed industry and advanced technologies, and accordingly the wellbeing and cultural level of citizens are increasing. This process goes on at rather fast tempos.

In 2010 the fuel-energy complex of the country was developing at high tempos. For increasing production, processing and exporting of oil, gas and energy to world markets, the state invests huge resources to this basic branch of national economy and attracts foreign investments.

Being the largest energy state in the world, possessing colossal raw and industrial potential, Turkmenistan strives for realizing this potential

* It confirms the fact that every year the share of tax inflows from hydrocarbon resources comes down, but their specific weight from branches of processing industry of non-hydrocarbon sector of economy of Turkmenistan increases⁴¹.

 According to the evaluation of experts, at present energy potential of Turkmenistan is estimated at 45,44 milliards tons of oil equivalent, real stocks of gas make 24,6 trillions cubic meters, 21 trillions from them fall to Yoloten – Osman and Yashlar deposits; searches are continuing ⁴².

for the benefit of both its people and the whole mankind. «We, – as the President of the country Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov stated, – are guided by the great goal – put our inexhaustible natural riches to the service of not only Turkmen people but for the whole mankind»⁴³. For this purpose modernizing material-technical base of FEC, increasing extraction of hydrocarbon and volumes of their processing are being realized; new oil-and-gas deposits are being developed; routes of delivery of energy carriers to world markets are widening. Cooperation with foreign partners is activating; innovative technologies and experience of world leading companies are being implemented.

National power industry got new impulse in its development. In 2010 the modernizing of energy infrastructure started in Ashgabat. The system of energy supply was also being renewed in other cities and villages of the country, new LET were being laid. In Ak bugday etrap, Balkanabad city, National tourist «Avaza» zone, powerful gas-turbine power plants were put into exploitation. By the end of 2010 the capacity of all power plants of Turkmenistan exceeded 4,1 thousands of megawatts, 40 % of this volume were produced by gas-turbine generators. During this year the energy production in the country increased to 3 %, volumes of its export to Afghanistan, Iran and Turkey increased⁴⁴.

On the 11th of September 2010 the Day of energy industry workers was celebrated for the first time; it occupied worthy place in the national calendar of significant dates. This fact stresses the importance of the branch for the whole home economy.

Today Turkmenistan possesses advanced oil-and-gas industry. In 2010 a great work was done on increasing its industrial-technical potential: developing mutually beneficial partnership with famous world companies the raw base of the country was increasing; new hydrocarbon deposits were being developed, among them those on the right bank of the Amyderya, sea shelf of the Caspian; main funds were being renewed; updated industrial complexes were being built. In 2010 the volume of extracting raw oil and gas condensate increased to 2,8 % as compared to 2009. Enterprises of «Turkmen oil» State concern only extracted 5,4 million tons of oil and 10,4 cubic kilometers of gas, which is considerably more than in 2009. The growth in oil processing industry in 2010 made 2 %⁴⁵.

Extraction of natural and associated gas and the volume of its export delivery are increasing every year. Thus, in 2010 the increase of «blue fuel» extraction as compared to 2009, made 16,5 %, the volume of its export increased to 33,6 %⁴⁶. The transit of Turkmen energy carriers to world markets promotes intensifying home economy and its confident integration to the system of world coordinates. The leader of the nation Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov is sure that due to developing gas deposits and expanding hydrocarbon delivery to world markets, Turkmenistan will be able to achieve the previous level of export of natural gas which was lowered because of global economic crisis and even considerably exceed those⁴⁷.

For increasing export hydrocarbon delivery new gas-pipelines are being built and acting ones are being reconstructed, gas-compressing stations and other most complicated engineering-technical units are being constructed. One of these units is transnational Turkmenistan–China gas-pipeline through which Turkmen «blue fuel» is regularly delivered to CPR. The construction of this energy bridge is a real step along the way of realizing the Resolution «Reliable and stable transit of energy carriers and its role in securing sustainable developing and international cooperation», adopted by the General UNO Assembly at the 63rd session in December 19, 2008 at the initiative of Turkmenistan.

In January 6, 2010 the 3rd gas-pipeline to Iran* started to function; it is gas main Dovletabat–Serax–Hangeran with the length of 30,5 km and project capacity of 12,5 milliards cubic meters of «blue fuel» per year⁴⁸.

On the 31st of May, 2010 in Turkmenistan started the construction of large East–West gas-pipeline system with the length of about 1 thousand km with throughout capacity of 30 milliards cubic meters of gas per year and total cost of 2 milliards of USD. This gas-pipeline having gone through all territory of the country will connect all gas deposits, and its main part will be laid through Garagum. It will serve as additional guarantee for stable resource providing of growing inner fuel needs and international gas-pipelines, functioning and new routes. The leader of the nation charged «Turkmen gas» and «Turkmen oil-gas construction» concerns with the laying of East–West gas-pipeline, which had gained valuable practical

* On the 29th of December, 1997 the first branch of Turkmen-Iranian Korpheje–Kurtkui gas-pipeline was put into exploitation with the length of 200 km and productive capacity of almost 8 milliards cubic meters of gas per year. On December 2, 2000 was launched the 2nd Artyk–Lutfabad gas-pipeline through which Turkmen natural gas started to be exported to frontier settlements of Horasan province of IRI.

 Hangeran–Sangbast gas-pipeline is the continuation of this gas artery; the President of Turkmenistan Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov took part in grand opening of it during his working visit to Iran in November 28, 2010.

experience participating in constructing Malai–Bagtyarlyk gas main and also on their own having built Dovletabat–Serax–Hangeran gas-pipeline. Increased possibilities of these state concerns, high level of training of home oil-and-gas and construction specialists allowed them in summer of 2010 set to building gas-compressing station at Malai deposit in Lebap velayat at the expense of FEC investments⁴⁹.

On the 16th of October, 2010 in Central Garagum Zyakli–Darvaza gas-pipeline Yilanly compressing station with the length of 198,2 km and tube diameter of 720 mm with the cost of 176,6 millions USD, flowing to the system of export arteries of the country⁵⁰.

Initiated by Turkmenistan projects of constructing Caspian side, Trans-Caspian, Turkmenistan–Afghanistan–Pakistan–India gas-pipelines allow widening the access of producers of energy carriers to world markets and consumers to reliable, economically efficient and ecologically acceptable energy supply.

Other branches of home economy – light and food industries are being modernized, technically refurbished; their role and significance in national economy is increasing.

Textile industry is gaining strength and reaching the world level of development; now 72 unique enterprises are functioning in it, being oriented to output of good quality production which is in demand – cotton-spinning and weaving factories, silk-processing enterprises, textile complexes, sewing and foot-wear factories. Plants on primary leather treatment; about 30 thousands people work at them. In 2010 started working large, furnished with updated equipment cotton-spinning factories in Dashoguz city, Geokdepe and Ruhabat etrap; in Ruhabat etrap on October 13 the first factory on producing mixed cotton and synthetic fiber yarn was put into exploitation. Every year the share of the branch in GNP is increasing. In 2010 the increase of production capacities of textile industry exceeded 36 %, its production output made 9 %, and trade turnover made 15,7 %. Annual volume of its production came to 300 millions USD; more than 70 % (cotton yarn of various marks, fabrics, knitted and sewing goods) are exported to USA, Canada, Russian Federation, China, Turkey and European countries⁵¹.

Enterprises of State «Turkmenhaly» joint-stock Corporation achieved high results in 2010. Women toilers of the branch continue many-century world-famous traditions of Turkmen carpet making; these traditions got worthy continuation in the epoch of new Renaissance. Toilers increased their labor efficiency, perfected market sphere and restored ancient Turkmen patterns, increased the delivery of good quality production to world markets. According to the annual results enterprises of artistic carpet making produced 40, 68 thousand of cubic meters of carpet production, fulfilling the plan at 181 %⁵².

Enterprises of the Association of food industry of Turkmenistan carried out great work on producing high quality food products, their workers organized the output of more than 400 types; 150 types of them have not been produced in the country before; the majority of them are produced from local raw materials. On the 17th of May, 2010 in Ovadandepi of Ruhabat etrap new butter-making «Ahal» plant was launched; the head of the state took part in the ceremony. Oil-fat, meat-dairy, confectionary, fruit-vegetable, beer-alcohol-free and wine-making production of enterprises of the branch is in great demand with consumers and foreign ones as well⁵³.

Chemical and pharmaceutical industry of Turkmenistan is expanding the spectrum of the output; foundations of mining, metallurgy and other new branches were laid.

The economy of Turkmenistan has a stable investment base. Large investments are sent to production and social spheres. During the years of new Renaissance (2007–2010) investments to the main capital of national economy increased to 7 times having provided intensive tempos of growth in all branches. The evidence of great investment activity is the fact that in 2010 the correlation between investments to the main capital and GNP made about 50 %⁵⁴.

The construction industry, including production of construction materials from the local raw materials, got considerable support at the expense of investments. It is conditioned by the scope of construction spread in the country and rich raw base which allow setting the output of plenty of various construction materials the need for which is constantly increasing. On the 13th of October, 2010 in Ovadandepi of Ruhabat velayat started working the plant on producing aerocrete – modern light construction material which is in great demand on construction sites of the country. In 2010 with the comparison of 2009, the production of concrete increased to 33 %, facing plates to 9 and ceramsite to 4 %⁵⁵.

Today Turkmenistan is experiencing such scales of construction which it has not yet known before. The bright sign of the epoch of new Renaissance is the fact that large investment projects on developing transport and communication infrastructure, tourist sphere, construction of industrial enterprises and dwellings to realization of which tens of years were spent, now they are realized for several months. Almost every week new units are put into exploitation or new foundations are laid. In 2010 in the country 2190 units were being constructed with the total cost of 32,3 milliards USD, and 120 large units were put into exploitation with the total sum of 4,8 milliards USD⁵⁶. Constructions are carried out in the capital and velayat centers and also in other towns, etraps and remote villages. It is noteworthy that at present famous foreign companies and home firms are engaged in construction industry of Turkmenistan; they gained big experience during the years of independence, showed their professionalism and competitiveness; they participate in tenders together with foreign partners.

To build qualitatively, beautifully, for ever – this is the directive of the leader of the nation Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov, demanding harmonious combination of achievements of modern architecture and traditions of national architecture, using advanced engineering-technical ideas and innovation technologies, providing blameless quality of all construction-assembly works, realizing complex and systemic approach to solving the set tasks. Due to intensive construction the Turkmen land is dynamically changing, the image of cities and villages is radically changing, living standards are increasing. This is one of the most obvious symptoms of rapid development of national economy.

In 2010 active steps were taken for realizing transit-transport potential of the country, renewing of Technical Park of railway and automobile transport, civil aviation and navy. The construction of the part of North–South railway through the territory of Turkmenistan was going in a full swing; this railway is to become the shortest and the most convenient route from Europe to South Asia, to the ports of the Persian bay and the Indian Ocean. In 2010 by the railway 26,8 million tons of cargo and about 6,5 passengers were carried, which is accordingly 3,5 and 1,8 % more, than in 2009⁵⁷.

In accordance to world standards automobile roads of Ashgabat–Garagum–Dashoguz and Turkmenbashi–Farab were built. In 2010 on these being built motorways 90 new bridges were put into exploitation. Being built auto bridges through the Amyderya in Atamurat–Kerkichi and near Seydi and in future the bridge in Turkmenabad–Farab are of great importance for creating efficient transport infrastructure, strengthening the role of Turkmenistan as the international crossroads of trade roads. In 2010 auto-transport workers carried 9,95 million tons of cargo and more than 278,8 millions of passengers as compared to 2009, which is accordingly 5,7 % and 4,3 % more than in 2009⁵⁸.

Every year the material-technical base of civil aviation is strengthening replenished by updated air vessels, its land infrastructure is developing, and the geography of flights is expanding. In 2010 tempos of growth of the State «Turkmenhovayollary» national service made 7,3 % as compared to 2009.⁵⁹

Cardinal changes are going on in national sea and river fleet which replenish sea vessels, in particular, super-updated tankers for carrying oil and oil and chemical products. For 2010 the State sea and river service carried almost 5,2 millions of cargo and 36,1 thousands of passengers which is accordingly 11,1 % and 48,6 % more than in 2009⁶⁰.

Due to perfecting material-technical base of communication and telecommunication Turkmen citizens even from most remote corners of the country make use of modern types of communication. Our state became enjoying full rights member of the world information-communication space. In all regions of the country were built modern ATS; the network of mobile communication and access to the Internet is widening; now owners of mobile phones can switch to the Internet*. For satisfying needs of the population, enterprises and organizations in phone (wire), radio-phone and mobile connection almost 307 thousands of phone points were set; the plan was fulfilled to 79 %⁶².

The year of 2010 became the year of great changes and new achievements for AIC of the country, the most important task of which is providing food abundance, saturation of consumer market with various and home products of high quality. Radical reforms spread in this sphere of national economy at the initiative and under the guidance of the President of Turkmenistan Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov conditioned intensive development of all AIC branches and the upraise of Turkmen village.

In the cause of these reforms in the agrarian sector of the country three main forms of management started working intensively: about 600 daihan unions, more than 1,7 thousands daihan (farming) households⁶³ and private small holdings. «The state, – the leader of the nation stresses, – creates all conditions for productive labor of farmers, does everything so that they could grow rich crops and make use of the results of their persistent and honest labor and become well-to-do people»⁶⁴. For this purpose updated machinery is bought for land treating, fast picking of crops without losses;

* During recent years, tempos of growth of «Altyn asyr» cellular communication enterprises, providing population and guests of the country with large list of services. If in 2007 only 35 thousand were telephone subscribers, in 2010 they were more than 600 thousand. And this figure continues growing⁶¹.

daihans are completely provided with mineral fertilizers for increasing the land fertility; issues of melioration and land water supply are solved completely.

In 2010 continued the construction of II turn of «Altyn asyr» Turkmen lake in Garagum; the lake plays a great role in collecting collector-drainage waters from irrigated lands and improving the ecology of our country and the whole Central Asia. Besides, large-scale work was carried out on cleaning the riverbed of the Garagum river, widening and deepening irrigating canals. In October 2010 Bagir reservoir was put into exploitation, which locating at the foothills of the Kopetdag and accumulating mud flows, lets use accumulated moisture for irrigating hundreds hectares of sowing areas. For reducing the level of ground waters, restoring saline lands, improving reclamation conditions of sowing lands 18,9 thousand km of collector-drainage networks were cleaned⁶⁵.

Being realized reform of AIC started giving good results. Every year volumes of various types of agricultural production increase. In 2010 for the first time during many years about 1,5 millions of tons of wheat and 1,3 millions of tons of cotton were gathered. The crop of the «white gold» considerably exceeded needs of agricultural enterprises of the country⁶⁶. It became possible only due to providing farmers with sowing material of high quality, distributing sorts of wheat and cotton with an account to soil-climatic conditions of the regions, efficient using land and water resources, highly-productive agricultural machinery and farmers' selfless labor.

A cattle breeding intensively develops in the country; it provides production of most important food items – meat, milk, eggs, playing particular role in creating food abundance, also wool and leather raw materials for light industry. Due to expanding areas for fodder cultures, perfecting technology of cattle and poultry keeping, improving pedigree work and veterinary service, the growth of livestock heads increased in 2010. Thus, by the end of that year in Turkmenistan the number of small horned cattle reached to 16,7 millions heads, large horned cattle – to 2,2 million, camels to 122,4 thousands heads and poultry – 15,9 million*. It positively told upon volumes of livestock production. In 2010 the production of meat came to 534,4 thousand tons, milk – to 2 million 146 thousand of tons, and 893 millions⁶⁷.

* The most part of the horned cattle is in the hands of private farms. During the years of independence all taxes were abolished on cattle breeding production, there are no limits to number of cattle heads in private households; farmers have the right to use free of charge pastures and water resources. Rental relations brought their efficiency; they are used in daihan unions and let shepherds have considerable part of the offspring as their property. With the participation of entrepreneurs poultry branch was founded during the shortest periods of time; it provides food market of the country with poultry of good quality and at reasonable price.

So in 2010 a serious step was made to further developing productive forces and complex usage of the richest natural resources of the country, balanced developing all branches of national economy. Indisputable success and correctness of creative economic strategy of the President of Turkmenistan Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov is confirmed by dynamic growth of tempos of national economy, strengthening of its market infrastructure and rapid integration to world economic ties. It allows our state solving successfully such important issues as improving people's material conditions, health service, developing education, science, culture and other spheres.

Increasing people's wellbeing

The main goal of the reforms carried out by the leader of the nation, is people's wellbeing, their spiritual and intellectual development. «The key priority of state policy of Turkmenistan, – Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov states, – was, is and will be the concern of people, and everything done in our country is providing worthy life for the present and future generations»⁶⁸.

The President of Turkmenistan, thinking on modern lines submitted modernization of the country to concrete interests, needs and concerns of every person and every family. He is especially responsive and attentive when the matter concerns improving labor and life conditions of the population. The principle «State is for people!» guarantees all citizens social wellbeing, high living standards wherever they live – in towns or rural regions.

Increasing wellbeing of Turkmen people is confirmed by the data of the jubilee 20th edition of the global report on people's development for 2010, prepared by UNO Development Program. According to them, among 169 countries of the world, in 2010 Turkmenistan concerning the index of human potential development ascended to 22 positions as compared to 2007 that is during a short period of time it achieved big and sustainable progress and occupied the second upper line in the category of the countries with average level of human potential development⁶⁹. It is the obvious result of social orientation of economic reforms carried out in Turkmenistan and aimed at securing worthy living conditions of people.

One more confirmation of improving living conditions of Turkmen people became the results of the sociological survey, held by the scientific-analytical Gallop center* (USA) during 4 years (2006 – 2009). In international rating of happiness according to the results of this large-scale research Turkmenistan occupied the 18th place among 155 countries of the world and the 2nd place among Asian continent, having left behind a number of advanced states of the planet and all CIS countries⁷⁰. It is in itself the indicator of Turkmen people's high living standards. In the epoch of new Renaissance people are sure that their life will become better tomorrow than it is today, that the society needs their labor and that their labor is encouraged. They breathe, work and live well and quietly. Turkmen people firmly believe in their happiness feeling satisfied with the life and understanding that investing their strength, knowledge and skills to honest labor, they will reap its generous fruits tomorrow and multiply them the day after tomorrow.

In Turkmenistan real incomes of the population are steadily growing, salary, pensions, state allowances and students' stipends are increasing. In 2010, for example, the average salary increased to 12,1 %, as compared to the previous year, since January, 2011 again salary, pensions, allowances and students' stipends were increased⁷¹.

Efficient reforms are being carried out in such important spheres as labor, social insurance and pension guaranteeing. Job centers are functioning in the country; they help citizens, searching for jobs. The state pays special attention to handicapped people, creating them favorable conditions for rehabilitation, self-realization and integration to social and cultural life.

Family support is inseparable part of the social policy of Turkmenistan, the leader of the nation briefly and in a capacious way formulated in his speech at the sitting of the Elders' council held in May 14, 2010 in Dashoguz: «Democratic market reforms – well-to-do life of every family – state»⁷². The President of Turkmenistan Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov tirelessly concerns of protection and consolidation of a family, marriage, protection of motherhood and childhood as the key aspects of social relations system. Money payments, tax benefits, various services which are to reduce parents' expenses to upbringing children, – all this shows the high measure of the state's responsibility for children. He pays particular attention to children who need help.

* Gallop's institute – the scientifically-analytical centre of studying of public opinion, is based in the USA of J. Gallup in 1935. Regularly spends population interrogations on problems internal and foreign policy.

For increasing living standards of the rural population, since January 2010 limits were liberalized for registration of earnings while estimating pensions of people engaged in agricultural production; also working years in agriculture are taken into account regardless of payment of allocations to state social insurance. Since the same year higher pensions were given to the citizens engaged in the work with harmful and hard working conditions. Besides, in July, 2010 the President of Turkmenistan adopted the Decree on introducing modern conditional-accumulative method of pension guaranteeing and foundation of Pension fund⁷³.

The following facts are the evidence of increasing Turkmen people's wellbeing level: in 2010 as compared to 2009 the volume of retail goods turnover increased to 16,5 %, paid services to 17,7 %, and carrying passengers on all types of transport to 14,1 %. Along with this inflation reduced to 0,1 %⁷⁴, which is conditioned by creation of goods abundance in the country and as the result of it reducing of inner prices to consumer goods; in their resources the share of provisions makes 72 % and nonfoods to 28 %⁷⁵.

One can add that the complex of state measures on social support of the population of Turkmenistan contains free of charge water, natural gas, electricity and petroleum for owners of private automobiles, very low fare for municipal and transport services, which causes surprise abroad.

In the whole, in 2010 more than 75 % of budget means were allocated to realization of efficient social policy and in 2011 their volumes will increase considerably⁷⁶. For strengthening social security investments increase to modernizing health service, education reforming, science development, flowering of culture, in other words, «to human capital».

Housing construction gained unprecedented before scope. Citizens move in apartments with superior comfort at maximally favorable conditions of mortgage crediting. Thus, only in Lebap velayat during realization of mortgage program at the expense of bank credits in 2010 started the construction of 163 dwelling houses; 84 from them were already erected⁷⁷.

For further improving social-everyday conditions of the population and providing them with drinking water meeting hygienic norms and advanced international standards, in October 4, 2010, the Law of Turkmenistan «On drinking water» came into force, and in January 10, 2011 the head of the state approved the General program of providing all populated places of the country with pure water. Concrete measures, stipulated by this program are to improve cardinally the water supply of the country, including settlements in rural remote places and distant pastures. First and foremost attention is attached to providing children preschool institutions, schools and other educational institutions, hospitals and public catering enterprises.

Turkmen village is changing beyond recognition, preserving at the same time its originality. In 2007 started the «The national program of the President of Turkmenistan on changing social-everyday conditions of population of villages, settlements, cities, etrap and etrap centers for the period till 2020». Grandiose in scope construction spread all over the country, including rural remote places. New centers of Esenguly, Ruhubelent, Dovletli and Altyn sahra became examples of settlements which became unusually beautiful. New life, energetic and creative is coming even to most remote corners.

Within the National program on improving social-everyday conditions of people, construction works in regions are being carried out on 15 directions of creating modern production-economic, engineering-technical, transport-communication and social-cultural infrastructure. Big units are being erected, among them there are industrial enterprises, well-organized kindergartens and schools with multimedia equipment, medical institutions, cultural centers, sport constructions and digital ATS. New roads, gas-pipelines, energy supply systems are being laid. Due to preferential mortgage crediting construction of modern dwellings in rural areas gained in particular scope.

By the middle of 2010 for successful realization of the National program were spent 1,4 milliards USD. In villages 15 kindergartens, 31 schools, 24 hospitals, dwellings with total are of 1,2 square km were built and put into exploitation. During the whole year constructions were completed at 54 social units, 577 km water and 66 km of sewage lines were laid. The annual plan of capital investment was disbursed to 134,2 %, as compared to 2009, the growth on this indicator made 0,5 %⁷⁸.

Along with all-round large-scale various units, which are to promote growing of the might of the national economy and increasing living standards of the population great importance is attached to tree and shrub planting campaign, the course of its carrying out is in the focus of attention of the leader of the state and it is regularly discussed at sittings of the Government of the country. The work on creating manmade green massifs is regulated by special decrees of the President of Turkmenistan; new stages of planting are defined by these decrees. By the good tradition the leader of the nation himself gives the start to regular tree and shrub planting campaign, planting the first tree. Members of the Cabinet of Ministers, heads of departments, foreign diplomats and numerous citizens of the country follow his example. Nobody is aside, young and old work with enthusiasm. This is the peculiarity of the national mentality, when people together do necessary and noble deeds.

It is deeply symbolic, that the beginning and completion of any important unit, connected with changes in regions, construction of units in new populated places is followed by laying a new park or square and even wood massif. It is enough to recollect the first trees planted by the President of the country Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov in a new park in seaside Esenguly settlement, in new etraps of Dashoguz, Lebap and Mary velayats, while putting into exploitation the first line of «Altyn asyr» Turkmen lake, large units of the infrastructure of the National «Avaza» tourist zone and others.

During the last years the role and significance of branches serving people, their health, development and perfection are strengthening. It relates to health service and sport, education and culture, recreation and tourism. During the independence home health service has advanced greatly. In 2010 Turkmen people celebrated a remarkable date – the 15th anniversary of the adoption of the State complex «Saglyk» (Health) program; Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov was one of the main developers and ideological inspirer; during many years he headed the National Health Service system. Its successful completion provided the access of Turkmen citizens to wide spectrum of medical services at the level of international standards.

These centers allow to treat patients skillfully, diagnose, carry out various scientific research, use innovation technologies and among them telemedicine. The same day new multi-profile State medical university was opened in the South of Ashgabat; it is to become the smithy of highly-qualified cadres for health service sphere. The President of the country Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov took part in the launching of new medical units.

In 2010 in Balkanabad and Dashoguz were launched updated «Ene mahri» centers of mother's and child's health protection furnished with state-of-the-art medical equipment. Rural medicine is also being modernized; due to which rural population have the possibility to get qualified medical assistance.

Among priority tasks of the National Health Service there is development of pharmaceutical industry, in which ancient, passed from generation to generation knowledge and experience of Turkmen people on using medicinal plants are applied; our native land is rich in these plants. The fundamental scientific work of the President of the country Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov «Medicinal plants of Turkmenistan» is the real encyclopedia of herbal therapy; the 2nd volume was published in three separate books in Turkmen, Russian and English in June 2010. This edition has great theoretical and practical value for further developing not only Turkmen, but also world medical science.

The meaningful achievement of the country in the sphere of health protection of the population was adopted in 2001 decision of the World Healthcare Organization (WHO) on including Turkmenistan into the list of the states, which eradicated malaria. At that Turkmenistan was the first country among 53 states, related to European WHO region which received this certificate⁷⁹. Such great success of the Turkmen medicine is the result of huge systematic work on fulfilling «Saglyk» program, the result of personal contribution of the leader of the nation to the development of this vital sphere. The fact testifying to this is the fact that for the period from 2007 to 2010 the life expectancy at birth increased to 0,7 year which was provided, first of all by reducing infantile and common death rate⁸⁰.

Sanatorium-health-resort infrastructure is efficiently being renewed in the country. Good rest and if needed qualified treatment is necessary for people's health improving. In spring 2010 in Mary velayat was launched the famous Bayramali kidney sanatorium after the capital repairing; in July the same year in Lebap velayat new units of «Farab» sanatorium were put into exploitation.

In all corners of the country sanatorium-health-resort complexes, well-appointed are being built; there all conveniences for recreation and treatment there and for children as well. – the National museum of in a picturesque Geokdere small town became real gifts for children. During summer holidays more than 87 thousands of children rested in various health-improving centers and among them more than 17 thousands rested in sanatoriums of Avaza and Geokdere⁸¹.

This small town will house more than 30 units and become not only the decoration of the capital but also powerful training base for combined teams of the country during their training for international competitions and upbringing Olympic reserve.

Due to introducing new sport units, the number of those who want to go in for sport and physical culture noticeably increased. If in 1998 about 1,3 millions went in for sport; in 2009 there were 2 millions⁸⁴. Today they have the opportunity to choose from lots of sport sections. Such unusual for our country kinds of sport as figure skating and hockey are widely spread now. Earlier exotic but now usual Eastern martial arts are very popular with the youth. Having joined classical types of sport and mastering new ones, citizens of Turkmenistan do not forget national games (horse races on speed and fancy riding, goresh wrestling, yatlyga tovusmak and others).

Implementing world standards to the national system of education, Turkmenistan increases cooperation in humanitarian sphere with UNO, EU, leading scientific-educational centers of the planet. Practical results of this fruitful partnership are realizing a number of efficient projects within international programs «TEMPUS», «TASIS», «DAAT», »Infotuk», active exchange of specialists, scientific conferences etc.

It is well-known that science is the moving force of development of a state and society; the indicator of the progress and potential abilities was and is the level of scientific thought maturity. It became particularly obvious in XXI century, marked by unusual splash of science, technology and human intellectual. That is why, in the epoch of new Renaissance under the leadership of the President Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov in Turkmenistan decisive steps were taken on increasing the role and significance of home science in carrying out the set plans of changing society, leading it to new heights and world recognition. For a short period of time the infrastructure of national science was reformed with an account to the best achievements and advanced world experience in this sphere; it gained the most optimal organization, based on every kind support of scientists, orderly system of moral stimulating and material encouraging of creative initiatives. In 2009 the Academy of sciences of Turkmenistan (AST) resumed its work, within which new scientific-research establishments were opened. It attached powerful impulse to developing intellectual potential of the nation and its efficient springing into action for developing innovation system of economy.

Intensive development of science is possible only with the support of the state. As the main donor of scientific sphere, the Turkmen state increases volumes of investments to its development. For example, in 2010 almost two times more means were allocated to scientific-research elaborations than in 2009. Besides, at the sitting of the Cabinet of Ministers on October 14, 2010 the President of the country announced about allocating 10 millions USD for strengthening material-technical base of scientific-research institutions¹⁰⁸. Additional means for buying special equipment and consumable materials will allow increasing the quality of research, elaborate new ideas and technologies and implement them to the production.

The introducing in early October, 2010 of the post of the Vice-Chairman of the Cabinet of Ministers on issues of science, new technologies and innovations which was delegated to the president of AST, attached new stimulus to developing scientific and engineering-technical potential of the nation¹⁰⁹.

All this brought obvious results: the year of 2010 was fruitful for Turkmen science, its restructured system started working in full swing. Tens of scientific works on actual issues were carried out; their results found application in various branches of national economy. In particular, the great work was done for introducing the latest scientific achievements and technologies AIC, construction and architecture sphere, seismology, chemical industry, oil-and-gas industry, medicine, education etc.¹¹⁰ the significance of fundamental and applied researches was defined by geopolitical and economic situation of the country, availability of natural resources, needs of spiritual development of the society and Turkmen people's traditions. World tendencies in development of human civilization in the beginning of III millennium influence upon the choice of priorities*.

International contacts in scientific-educational sphere expanded and activated. Teachers of Turkmen higher institutions, scientists and other specialists, conducting scientific-research work, established efficient business ties with their colleagues from Russian Federation, European countries, Asia and America. In September, 2008 under the patronage of the head of the state Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov was launched the project of European committee «Central Asian scientific-educational network» (CAREN), which is the continuation of the «Virtual silk route» project.

* In 2010 AST registered about 400 scientific themes proposed by scientific-research establishments and higher educational institutions of the country. The priority was given to researches having practical significance for the national economy¹¹¹.

 During the action of the «Virtual silk route» 69 scientific-research establishments and educational institutions of Turkmenistan were included to a single national scientific-educational network; they got free and HS access to the Internet. Login to the global network gave the chance of virtual communication, distance learning, perspective cooperation of scientists from near and far foreign countries, obtaining necessary information from scientific-educational resources of the Internet etc.

The CAREN project provides exchanging the present satellite connection to the land wideband, optic-fiber network which will provide more qualitative connection due to stable and economically efficient net infrastructure. The realization of this project will allow consolidating professional ties of scientists from various countries in the spheres of innovation technologies, alternative energy sources, seismology, telemedicine and others and increase considerably the speed performance and stability of the work of information system¹¹².

Held in Turkmenistan international scientific conferences, exhibitions and other activities aimed at further development of science and spread of the best experience promote developing many-sided international cooperation in scientific sphere and wide introducing scientific methods. They are held at the initiative of the head of the state Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov and devoted to priority and perspective trends of science. These forums help Turkmen scientists to expand partnership with world leading scientific-research centers and maintain fruitful relations and exchange experience with their foreign colleagues. Thus, in 2010 the AST only held 10 international scientific conferences and also the international exhibition, which gathered famous scientists from many countries of the world¹¹³.

One of the participants of several international scientific conferences, held under the patronage of the Turkmen leader, the Doctor of archeology from Turin university (Italy) Karlo Lippolis, since 1999 having been headed the expedition in Nisa, says: «I do not know any other country where such favorable climate was created for development of science... I dare to assure nowhere in the world forums of scientists today get such public resonance as in your country. It is hard to overestimate the significance of such conferences as they not only promote focusing researchers' attention at actual issues but also give us the opportunity to meet with colleagues to discuss the issues, see old acquaintances and acquire new friends. Besides, it is a happy chance to know the advancing Turkmenistan better in the epoch of new Renaissance»¹¹⁴.

One of the key tasks of the science reforming program being realized in the country at the initiative of the head of the state Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov is creating contemporary system of training scientific cadres which will make a weighty contribution to the progress of the country, multiplying its international authority by their high professionalism, wide world outlook and proficiency in methodology. In 2008, the work of doctoral candidacy, post-graduate courses and clinical studies resumed in leading scientific institutions of the country. From that time on the interest of young Turkmen scientists increased to continuing scientific training, extension of qualification and being engaged in scientific-research work. This is an obvious result of the state policy held by the leader of the nation on developing fundamental and applied science, consolidating its material-technical potential and formation of new intellectual elite.

If in 2009, 73 people were admitted to doctoral candidacy and post-graduate courses on various branches of science on competitive basis, in 2010 – 54. If in 2009, 222 people were admitted as seekers of scientific degrees of candidate and doctor of sciences, in 2010 their number became 47 more. If in 2008 35 doctors were admitted to clinical studies, in 2010 – 57. Now 200 post-graduates and about 30 doctoral candidates, about 600 seekers of scientific degrees are carrying out research in 99 specialties. In 2011 the training of scientific cadres will be carried out in 19 scientific directions; for the first time there is the admittance to post-graduate courses at the Institute of oil-and-gas of the «Turkmen gas» State concern, 6 new specialties were opened in scientific-research institutions. The quantity of applications to doctoral candidacy, post-graduate courses and clinical studies and for seeking scientific degrees on various scientific disciplines was more than in 2010¹¹⁵. All this opens wide possibilities in perfecting home system of education, stimulates further developing academic, higher institutes and introducing modern technologies to educational process.

The contest of scientific works annually held by the Central council of the Youth organization of Turkmenistan named after Magtymguly among young scientists and students of the country promote finding gifted youth capable for scientific research; the results of this contest are traditionally summed up on the eve of the Science Day on the 12th of June. If in 2008 there were 33 winners, in 2009 – 47, in 2010 – 60 people¹¹⁶. They were awarded to honor diplomas and valuable prices. The youth responded to the concern of the state by their tireless creative labor, scientific research and findings.

The resultant document was adopted after the completion of the conference; it will be a reliable platform for further perfecting international-legal base in disarmament field. The forum was an important political event of international and regional scale; it caused great resonance in political circles of the world, having become another bright evidence of high authority of Turkmen state on the world arena.

The 65th session of UNO General Assembly is of great importance for achieving common goals of the III millennium – peace, security and social-economic progress, because the heads of all states – members of this international organization, gathered for the 3rd time since the beginning of the XXI century to the summit on 20-22 September, 2010. The delegation of Turkmenistan with the President Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov is at the head, regularly taking part in the work of sessions of UNO General Assembly made their contribution to discussing actual issues of contemporary world and on the basis of their own experience. Our leader's concrete proposals on disarmament in the region, founding Energy council at UNO for solving issues of carrying hydrocarbon to world markets, saving Aral and normalizing situation in Afghanistan were welcomed by participants of the session, and caused wide positive resonance in the world community. It is the best success of Turkmen diplomacy.

Closely interacting with the majority of UNO leading structures, our country strives for widening and activating business links set up during the years of independence; the Decree of the head of the state testifies to it – the Decree dated March 11, 2011 on opening Permanent diplomatic mission of Turkmenistan at UNO department in Geneva (Switzerland) and also headquarters of other large international organizations.

International cooperation is an efficient tool of realizing national interests of Turkmenistan, its all-sided integration to the system of regional and global ties. Turkmen state established diplomatic relations with 129 countries of the world and successfully develops them¹³³. Using accumulated during the years of independence experience of bilateral and multi-lateral interaction with foreign partners, it expands the geography of the contacts in all directions: trade-economic and humanitarian-cultural.

The dialogue of our country is developing and enriching with the largest political and economic centers of the world – European Union, Chinese People's Republic, the United States of America, Russian Federation and also with neighboring and other countries.

The exchange of multi-aspect visits of delegations of various levels is of great importance for further consolidating friendship and cooperation between countries and peoples. country to expand the diapason of cooperation with neighboring and other states was confirmed within these meetings. The growth of the authority of Turkmenistan in the world community promotes developing its stable trade-economic relations with more than 100 countries of the world. The work of bilateral inter-state committees as efficient mechanism of intensifying business partnership, promotes consolidating these relations. Within the data of these committees Turkmenistan is interacting with 26 states, to which fall about 90 % of its foreign-trade turnover, that is, these are its key partners. 15 sittings of the committees were held in 2010¹³⁶. Only for 2007–2010 it increased to 1,8 times at stable preserving of its positive balance¹³⁷.

Today, knowing about favorable state of things in the national economy, reliability of home legal base and stainless reputation of purchasing capacity of the country, authoritative companies and famous businessmen from many countries of the world want to get to the perspective Turkmen market. Every year foreign investments to the national economy are increasing, as well as the number of foreign companies and firms, working in Turkmenistan. 411 foreign enterprises, 727 isolated foreign subdivisions and 233 joint ventures were registered by the beginning of 2010. Priority sphere of activities of foreign enterprises is trade and population catering, priority sphere of activities of foreign isolated subdivisions is construction, and joint ventures is industry¹³⁸.

Being adherent to the policy of peace and good neighborliness, Turkmenistan is for activating economic cooperation in the region, which is an important factor of stability and wellbeing of countries and peoples. Possessing colossal hydrocarbon resources, our state put them to the service national interests, as well as for the benefit of the whole mankind.

The evidence of this is concrete practical measures taken on diversification of delivery of Turkmen natural gas to world markets, wide participation of foreign oil-and-gas companies in projects, being realized in fuel-energy sphere of Turkmenistan. Bright examples of successful realizing the policy of the President of Turkmenistan Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov in this strategic sphere are: functioning transnational gas pipeline Turkmenistan–China*, interaction in the FEC sector with neighboring Iran, and the project on the construction of the new energy-bridge Turkmenistan–Afghanistan–Pakistan–India; the agreements achieved at the summit of the heads of the states-participants of the project held in Ashgabat on the 11th of December, 2010 during the festivities in the honor of 15th anniversary of neutrality jubilee of our country were the beginning of the realization of the project. Another bright example of regional economic cooperation is joint construction of the North–South railway of Turkmenistan together with Iran and Kazakhstan; this railway will provide European countries with the exit to the ports of the Persian bay.

At present Ashgabat serves as one of recognized center of the world attraction, contemporary civilization and international cooperation. Convincing evidences of it are holding numerous meetings, conferences, and forums of international and regional rank. International conference «Permanent neutrality of Turkmenistan: cooperation in the name of peace, security and development», became a symbolic sign; it was held in Ashgabat on the 11th of December, 2010, on the eve of the 15th anniversary of neutrality jubilee of our country and devoted to this remarkable date. Representatives of the world political elite, authoritative international organizations, famous political figures, scientists and diplomats from numerous foreign countries took part in it. It testifies to increased interest of the world community to contemporary Turkmenistan, its positive experience of realizing its neutral foreign policy.

Speaking at the conference, the President of Turkmenistan Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov characterized the sources and historical prerequisites of the unique model of Turkmen neutrality, summed up the results of the path, taken by the state, gave an account of priorities of his foreign policy strategy. He underlined: «The neutrality of Turkmenistan is the reality of today and our future, in which new wonderful possibilities open for developing wide international cooperation of Turkmenistan in all directions¹³⁹.

In the message of the UNO General Secretary Pan Gee Moon read at the conference it was stated that «15 years is a short period of time in the context of world relations. Nevertheless, they demonstrated Turkmenistan's firm realizing aspirations to become the force of progress and flowering in the whole region and beyond it¹⁴⁰. The participants of the forum agreed that during all these years Turkmenistan had been sequentially realizing regulations of UNO Resolution on the permanent neutrality of the country, practically proving its firm adherence to its obligations and taking concrete steps on regulating situation in the region, becoming a reliable conductor of ideas and principles of UNO in Central Asia. Favorable influence of Turkmen neutrality on global integration processes and elaboration of mutually acceptable approaches to solving common tasks was noted at the conference. The Turkmen capital by right won the fame of one of the main educational, scientific and cultural centers of the world, where under the direct guidance and at close assistance target international scientific conferences, exhibitions, festivals, fairs and other forums are held with the participation of famous scientists, and literature and art workers from all parts of the planet. As the associate professor of the Yerevan state university (Armenia), the candidate of philological sciences Vardan Voskanyan stated, «during the last years, due to special efforts of the head of the state Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov, attaching priority attention to developing science and education spheres, Turkmenistan by right has become the center of science research in Central Asia»¹⁴¹.

All these activities have great significance for increasing international cooperation and establishing business ties with potential partners. They allow foreign guests acquainting and evaluating the success achieved by the country in various spheres of life and promote increasing authority, role and influence of Turkmenistan in the world.

Besides UNO, Turkmenistan is actively cooperating with other international organizations in consolidating common peace, global security and stability and developing friendly relations with many states. Thus, interrelation of Turkmenistan with Turkic-speaking countries united by deep spiritual, cultural-historical and language commonness is filled with qualitatively new contents, acquiring more efficient character. On the 16th of September 2010, the head of the state Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov took part in Istanbul meeting of the heads of Turkic-speaking countries, at which they discussed actual issues of cooperation in the light of available possibilities and with an account to contemporary realities and perspectives. In his speech he stated that Turkmenistan is for expanding relations with Turkic-speaking countries in all directions, first of all, in trade-economic sector, transport-communication sphere and cultural-humanitarian field. It is typical, that this position is thoroughly well-reasoned and full of convincing force, optimism and belief in people's ability to settle down their common home.

Baku summit of the heads of the Caspian basin states held on the 18th of November, 2010, was a considerable breakthrough in developing regional partnership; it became a logical continuation of previous meetings in the top circles – in 2002 in Ashgabat, and in 2007 in Tehran. In his speech at the summit the President of Turkmenistan Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov grounded with authority the necessity of preparing the packet of new inter-state agreements, regulating various spheres of activities on the Caspian, in particular, in the field of preserving and rational using biological resources of the sea, cooperation in the sphere of preventing extreme situations and liquidating their consequences. Voicing the position of Turkmenistan in the issue of just demarcation of the bottom, the bowels and area of water, he stressed, that «the delimitation on the Caspian must be realized on the basis of recognized norms of international law, principles of mutual respect and with an account to partners' interests», and the construction of underwater pipeline can be realized only at agreement of those states through which parts of the bottom such pipeline will be laid with observing the highest international ecological standards¹⁴².

On the 1st of December, 2010, the head of Turkmenistan Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov took part in the 7th summit of the heads of the states and governments of the countries-members of OSCE, which was held in Astana. Speaking at the forum, he made proposals on perfecting OSCE activity with an account to changes in the world, reforming structures of the organization according demands of the time, increasing its role in international community and purposeful using its huge potential for solving actual issues of global development. Among first and foremost tasks the Turkmen leader defined creating efficient mechanism of preventing and neutralizing international conflicts, opposition to political and religious extremism, terroristic threats, drug-trafficking and trans-border criminality, elaboration of contemporary model of international partnership in the sphere of energy carriers' delivery. In particular, it is related to including OSCE to the initiative of Turkmenistan, which was voiced at the 65th session of UNO General Assembly on founding the Forum on security and cooperation in Central Asia and Caspian basin and coordination of joint efforts on stabilizing the situation in Afghanistan.

During recent years the cooperation of Turkmenistan with European Union is becoming more active. Among important factors of this process there are: opening the European House in Ashgabat and accreditation of the head of the diplomatic mission of EU in Turkmenistan, activity of joint committee «Turkmenistan – EU», regular exchange of delegations and bilateral meetings at different level. In 2010 the meetings of the President of Turkmenistan Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov with the commissar on issues of EU power engineering, special representative of EU on Central Asian countries, Permanent EU Chairman took place. EU representatives took part in international conferences and exhibitions, international gas congress of Turkmenistan. At present Turkmenistan has trade-economic links with all European countries. The total volume of goods turnover with them made 1,5 milliards USD for 2010¹⁴³. The EU Chairman Joze Manual Barrozy, first visiting our country on 15–16 January, 2011 stated: «... already established partner links between Turkmenistan and EU countries, the dynamics of their development ... is the direct result of energetic activity and leading qualities of the President of Turkmenistan Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov... EU is proud, that Turkmenistan sees a perspective and reliable partner, a like-minded person and a friend in EU»¹⁴⁴.

Election of our country the chairman of Interstate council on standardization, metrology and certification of CIS for the period of 2010–2011 became a weighty confirmation of increasing international authority of Turkmenistan, wide recognition of its achievements along the way of progressive development. This decision was unanimously adopted at the 37th sitting of the organization in June 2010 in Odessa (Ukraine)¹⁴⁵. The fact that Turkmenistan was trusted to this honorable and responsible mission testifies to the fact, that our country achieved considerable success in introducing international standards of quality to all branches of economy, and first of all, from the aspect of protection people's health and securing ecological safety.

The election of Turkmenistan at the 5th sitting of the Heading council of Special program for the countries of Central Asia, being realized under the aegis of UNO regional economic committees the Chairman of this structure, testifies to significance of Turkmen leader's initiatives in the sphere of preventive diplomacy, providing energy safety, common disarmament, peace consolidating in Afghanistan and environment protection¹⁴⁶.

It is noteworthy, that at the XIX session of the Committee on sustainable power engineering of European committee of UNO, being held 24–26 November, 2010 in Geneva, Turkmenistan was elected the deputy chairman of the Bureau of this Committee¹⁴⁷.

It goes without saying, that these facts are the bright sign of increasing international authority and merits of our country, making weighty contribution to the cause of achieving global goals of III millennium. They vividly confirm the maintenance of foreign policy course of the President of Turkmenistan Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov, oriented to developing full-scale international cooperation for common peace and wellbeing.

In general the year of 2010 showed how the course of the leader of the nation Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov is deeply checked, absolutely logical and quite successive both in realizing the strategy of inner development of the country and in conducting open, completely oriented to broad international cooperation of foreign policy of the state, distinguished by dynamism and high responsibility. Succession and innovation are defining characters of foreign policy of Turkmenistan. Being subordinate to the interests of home development, it combines originality of Turkmen people's historical path, national traditions and notions about relations with surrounding world, with contemporary approaches to solving paramount tasks of global development. It secures worthy place in the Community of nations to neutral Turkmenistan.

In that way the country successfully completed the year of 2010, laying down the basis for further intensive movement along the creative way of progressive changes. Underlying it, the President of Turkmenistan Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov states: «We say with sincere pride about our achievements and labor successes, concrete fruits of the reforms, realized in all spheres of life of contemporary Turkmen state and society. And all these achievements, which have laid down the basis for further development of the country with an account to long-term perspective, became possible due to harmonious, selfless labor of united Turkmen people, convincingly demonstrating their responsibility for the fate of the Motherland»¹⁴⁸.

Grandiose accomplishments of the country are the result of the political course, estimated, arranged and logically realized by the head of the state. By his unbending will, with incomprehensible purposefulness, indomitable creative energy and tireless activity he achieves successful realization of mapped up plans. «We, – stated the Chairman of European committee Joze Manuel Barrozy, – admire the results of the President Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov's efforts on modernizing Turkmen economy, reforming the state structure and democratization of the society»¹⁴⁹.

Turkmen citizens are sincerely proud of their national leader; they express their boundless respect and heartfelt gratitude to him for the unprecedented deep and beneficial changes, which occurred in their life in the epoch of new Renaissance. They all draw inspiration and inexhaustible strength in the triumph of ideas and great deeds of the new historical epoch, with unremitting energy and creative initiative they set to carrying out big and important tasks of 2011, which began the 2nd decade of the XXI century. This year is special for Turkmenistan, as it is marked by glorious jubilee date – the 20th anniversary of sacred independence of the neutral state, and so it must be celebrated with new impressive accomplishments.

Since the first days of 2011 a large-scale campaign has started, devoted to this truly historical event; preparation for worthy celebrating of coming holiday has begun. Getting ready for the nationwide festivity, the country is living in well-defined labor rhythm. Practically every day there comes news on industrial and social-cultural units put into exploitation and successes of industrial employees.

The epoch of new Renaissance obliges every citizen of Turkmenistan to be energetic, competent and at the same time highly-cultural and morally pure person. A person feeling a patriot, capable to take independent decisions and be responsible for them, is the main value of the society. So it is as the natural result that the second part of the motto of the new historical epoch announced by the leader of the nation Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov says: «A person is for the state!»

Turkmenistan, advancing to the future is the country of ancient civilization and always young, is changing just before our eyes, developing dynamically, turning into mighty, flowering state with strong spiritual and social base and united people. It is the best confirmation of deeply thought of , innovative and progressive policy of the leader of the nation, convincing evidence of efficiency, of large-scale and all-embracing President's reforms.

Speech at grand ceremony of the launching of Dovletabad–Serax–Hangeran gas pipeline

(Salyr yap settlement of Serax etrap, 6.01.2010)

Dear President of Islamic Republic of Iran, dear brother Makhmud Ahmedinejad! Dear friends! Ladies and gentlemen! First of all I want to express my gratitude to my dear brother Makhmud Ahmedinejad, the President of Islamic Republic of Iran and our Iranian brothers who accepted the invitation and came to hospitable Turkmen land for the participation in this solemn launching of the Dovletabad–Serax–Hangeran gas pipeline.

The construction of the Dovletabad–Serax–Hangeran gas pipeline was carried out at high tempos and was completed in short periods of time; this is the result of confidential and close cooperation between the two countries.

This construction which became the continuation of joint plans of Turkmenistan and Iran will serve to peaceful and successful life of our peoples.

Today's solemnity is one more vivid example of «open door» policy conducted by Turkmenistan. This gas pipeline having great significance in international trade-economic relations and regional cooperation demonstrates that Turkmenistan and brotherly Iran orientate on a high political level on mutual understanding, support and serving to interests of their people.

Turkmenistan and Iran accumulated big experience of fruitful cooperation and this experience finds its reflection in the example of joint carrying out projects on a number of large units.

Today together with my dear brother Makhmud Ahmedinejad we conducted important and fruitful talks which demonstrated that cooperation between our countries and people have huge potential which we strive to realize.

The talks also demonstrated that our view-points coincide on many important aspects among which there are safeguarding security and stability in the region and in the world, maintaining objectives of steady development on the basis of mutual understanding and trust and counteraction to threats and danger of the XXI century.

We also confirmed our readiness to carry on political-diplomatic cooperation between our countries within international organizations and among them UNO, commitment the principles of peace, equality and justice.

Together with my dear brother Makhmud Ahmedinejad we pointed out the firmness of grounds of cooperation between Turkmenistan and Islamic Republic of Iran and expressed our confidence in further development of this cooperation.

As it is known, international community pays much attention to issues of reliable energy security and energy supply. Both Turkmenistan and Islamic Republic of Iran being full right and active members of UNO take part in solving this important issue. Our states are initiators of important international issues; they make worthy contributions to preparing and adopting documents of UNO on energy security.

The main thing is that Turkmenistan and Iran demonstrate by their actions the example for following in combining efforts for solving peace and regional issues of energy supply.

Energy security linked with reliable energy supply is in the proper sense of the word an inseparable part of common security. That is, energy security should be considered upon in close interrelation with various areas of common security.

On the assumption of this view point, Turkmenistan when launching its energy resources to world markets follows permanent principles of reliable supply to consumers on steady and long term basis and realizes concrete projects with its partners.

Consequently developing mutually beneficial and good neighborly relations, Turkmenistan and Islamic Republic of Iran closely cooperate for further strengthening of firmness of friendship between our peoples.

Bright example of it is the construction of the Dovletabad–Serax–Hangeran gas pipeline which is of great international significance. This gas pipeline being one more reliable bridge strengthening our fraternal and friendly relations is becoming inseparable part of world system of steady energy supply. Its specific significance lies in this.

Taking the opportunity I express my gratitude to all specialists and workers who took part in the elaborating the project, carrying out the construction and other important issues.

The Dovletabad–Serax–Hangeran gas pipeline is the construction meeting the highest requirements of contemporary science and technology. This reliable gas pipeline concerning production, safety and ecology confirms that our states have great possibilities for financing and constructing such kinds of complicated units from the view point of economy, production, science and technology.

As it is known, this gas pipeline is the second one laid from Turkmenistan to Iran. After the new gas pipeline will begin working in full power we will annually deliver about 20 milliards of cubic meters of Turkmen gas to Iran by two gas pipelines.

Launching of the Dovletabad–Serax–Hangeran gas pipeline will give new impulse to economic development of the two countries.

In a word, these gas pipelines will promote flowering, well-to-do and problem-free life of peoples of the two neighboring countries.

Our farseeing and well thought of policy in this aspect is the concern of the present and future of peoples of Turkmenistan and Islamic Republic of Iran.

Between our neighboring countries there is the state boundary of big length. Turkmen-Iranian border is the border of peace, friendship, fraternity and good neighborliness. Industrious, fraternal people of Turkmenistan and Iran work on both sides of this border; they grow fine crops, construct buildings and contribute to the flowering of their countries.

I wish peace, happiness, wellbeing and prosperity to industrious Iranian people!

I cordially congratulate all participants of today's celebrations and peoples of two countries on today's historical event!

Let this gas pipeline serve to prosperity and problem-free life of our peoples, further all-round development of mutually beneficial relations between our countries!

Let strengthen friendly, fraternal relationships between our countries and peoples!

Thank you for your attention.

Speech at the meeting of the Cabinet of Ministers of Turkmenistan

(15.01.2010)

Dear members of the Cabinet of Ministers! Dear friends! The year of 2009 has ended and remained in the newest history of the state, the year saturated with events of our country's life.

We had a number of unsolved political, economic and social issues of past time which we had to solve in the shortest periods of time.

Last year the work on reforming the Constitution, preparing and adopting new laws was continued. Reflecting main trends of activities of the state, these laws serve as reliable guarantee of our people's wellbeing.

Independence and permanent neutrality, predominating stability and civil harmony, democracy and supremacy of laws – these are fundamentals on which problem-free life of people is based.

New, enlarged list of deputies of the Mejlis of Turkmenistan elected on democratic basis has been working since last year.

In 2009 we achieved great success in conducting foreign policy course of the country.

We established mutually beneficial relations with foreign companies, big international organizations, and many countries, both with neighboring and far; we kept on conducting foreign policy course based on «open door» policy and constructive cooperation.

For this purpose, the state delegation with the President of Turkmenistan at the head visited 15 foreign countries. 15 state delegations of the foreign countries headed by leaders of foreign states and governments came to our country.

Last year the President of Turkmenistan held 163 meetings with official representatives of foreign countries and international organizations, among them with heads of governments and official people on the level of ministers, leaders of international and regional organizations, with leaders of various international corporations and companies.

Our country considerably expanded mutually beneficial relations with many countries of the world. Many-sided cooperation was established with such states as Russian Federation, Chinese People's Republic, USA, Belarus Republic, Rumania, Venezuela, Ukraine, Austria, Germany, Italy, United Arab Emirates, Saudi Arabia, Jordan, Azerbaijan, Afghanistan, Iran, Kazakhstan, Turkey, Uzbekistan and Japan. We have contacts with other countries as well.

During last year we signed 116 international agreements. Turkmenistan joined 10 international conventions and other many-sided international documents.

Guided by principles of positive neutrality in foreign policy, Turkmenistan kept going by its own way to achieving common world goals of the III millennium – securing common peace, security and social-economic progress.

Due to the complex of measures on realization of foreign policy course, we managed to protect interests of the country and gain self-dependence in solving separate regional and international issues. All this promoted considerable increasing of rating of our country in international community.

Dear members of the Cabinet of Ministers! Dear friends! Having put forward the motto «State is for people!» we submitted everything we did for development and changing of the country to the task of securing happy life of the present and future generations, improving living standards of every citizen of the country and social prosperity of every family.

Priority programs aimed at radical reforming of social-everyday living conditions of population made the core of our programs on reforming the country.

At the very beginning of 2009 we put concrete tasks before spheres of social security, science and education, health care, agricultural branch, fuel-energy complex, transport and communication branches, construction, cultural sphere, legislative and finance systems.

With the purpose of considerable increasing of social security of people it was necessary to rebuild the work, increase its efficiency and achieve new height according to changes taking place in the country with the help of state programs and projects.

I want to emphasize that due to well co-ordinate work of the Cabinet of Ministers of Turkmenistan, persistence and purposefulness of leaders of ministries and branch departments and people's support of the programs we managed to solve majority of tasks set and realize much of designated issues.

I thank you with all my heart; I thank those who by their honest labor contributed greatly to achieving colossal success of our country.

We worked persistently even under conditions of world crisis and in 2009 carried out almost all set program goals. We also achieved considerable success and concrete results in conducting large scale reforms, social-economic development of the country; in a word, in all spheres. That is why we can call passed year successful both for the country and people, the year enlightened by bright events.

As I have already said the year of 2009 with its success occupied worthy place in glorious annals of people, whose creative labor is to secure peaceful and happy life of present and future generations of citizens of Turkmenistan.

Success of 2009 is clearly seen in concrete figures reflecting economic growth of the country.

We considerably increased tempos of production and productivity of labor. This success is clearly seen in main economic performance of development of the country. Under the conditions of global finance-economic crisis growth of GNP made 106,1%, tempos of industry growth made 123,7%, in construction the growth is 131,3%. Capital investments to various branches as compared with 2008 increased in 2 times and made more than 22 milliard manats; foreign trade turnover increased to 16,8 milliard USD. Salary increased to 11%, and since the beginning of this year we increased the salary to 10% more. We managed to preserve level of inflation in specified parameters.

In spite of continuing world finance-economic crisis we did not reduce volume of means for realization of the program of improving social-everyday conditions of the population; we managed to increase salary, pensions and state allowances in determined volumes. Besides, under conditions of global crisis we found means for preserving state benefits for the population. As before, citizens of the country do not pay for electricity, natural gas, water, table salt and some other social services.

Within adopted programs efficient and productive work was carried out. Last year at the expense of our own sources of financing we put into exploitation units of productive and social-cultural purpose at total sum of 6,5 milliard manats, which to 1,7 times more than in 2008.

Among operational units I want to mention the gas pipeline Turkmenistan–China. Within this huge project there are 3 infrastructure units of Malai–Bagtiyarlyk gas pipeline the total cost of which made 537,5 million USD. About 1,5 milliard USD were put into development of «Bagtiyarlyk» contractual territory.

Among huge units in 2009 there are: I turn of Turkmen «Altyn asyr» lake at the cost of 2,7 milliard manats, railway bridge Atamurat–Kerkichi at the cost of 123 million USD, and cotton-spinning factory in Turkmenabad at the cost of 85,4 million USD.

In 2009 was continued the construction of the part of railway Uzen–Gyzylgaya–Bereket–Etrek–Gorgan at the length of 697,5 km passing through the territory of Turkmenistan. 235 km of this railway were built by the 1st of January this year.

Besides industrial constructions many units of social purpose were built and put into exploitation. I want to name the most significant, they are: the building of International center of head and neck treatment for 34,5 million USD, Center of oncology in Ashgabat for 45 million USD, «Ene mahry» Center in Geokdepe, hydropathist establishment in Archman for 15,2 million USD and its subsidiary in Yilysuv, 3 fashionable hotels of National «Avaza» tourist zone, dwellings at the total sum of 673,2 million USD, 17 comprehensive schools, furnished with updated office equipment, multimedia technologies and computer classes, and at last 14 kindergartens at the total cost of 166 million USD.

Within realization of National program of reforming social-everyday living conditions of population of villages, settlements, etrap centers and towns in Lebap velayat was opened administrative center of Dovletly etrap, where new dwellings, office buildings, health homes, recreation center, schools and kindergarten were built; all engineering systems were established: gas and water, electricity and communication.

According to the Constitution we have spent effective work on support of business and private business. It is the result of new approach to economic and social policy under the conditions of market relations.

Supporting a private sector, the state in every possible way stimulates growth of number of courageous and gifted businessmen. And those, in turn, make the contribution to creation of abundance of industrial and food production in the consumer market of the country.

At the same time, I want to underline that achieved success shouldn't calm us at all. We have new serious and big affairs.

I will dwell on the problems facing us in 2010. Creation of strong base of further blossoming of the state, implementation of grandiose programs planned by us, maintenance of happy and safe life of the people depend on their successful solving.

First of all, we should draw correct conclusions from the situation which occurred because of proceeding global financial and economic crisis.

It is necessary to study carefully the basic components of crisis, the reason of its occurrence, and influence on economy of the countries of the world and on our economy. These conclusions will be of great importance in case of recurrence of such crisis for prevention of its negative influence on economy of our country.

So I charge you, T. Japarov as the head supervising the economy and financial system of the country, to analyze questions of possible influence of financial and economic crisis on economy of our country and to prepare corresponding proposals. We will consider them at the meeting of the Cabinet of Ministers discussing the results of I quarter of the current year.

I charge all heads of the ministries and branch departments to establish computer systems and new programs of computer maintenance in all subordinated structures, in the organizations and at the enterprises. Introduction of new computer systems will allow carrying out control over the statistical data in country official bodies, for financial streams, a building course, to improve everyday administrative work considerably, to create uniform inter-branch electronic system of passage of official documents.

Dear members of the Cabinet! Dear friends! According to the basic directions of development of the country we necessarily should solve all these problems in 2010.

A.Nurberdiyeva, in the new year we expect from the Mejlis of Turkmenistan effective work on perfecting o the legislation of the country and elaborating new laws. Considering democratic values of our people, new laws should stimulate further strengthening of legal and economic base of the state.

R.Meredov, the staff of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the country and all diplomatic missions also should work hard during the current year within the Basic directions of a foreign policy of neutral Turkmenistan for 2008-2012. Consistently defending interests of our country, they should make the contribution to developing and more strengthening mutually advantageous relations with other states.

We should, cooperating with the United Nations Organization, direct all available possibilities of the country, its favorable geopolitical position and the policy based on a positive neutrality, to establishing new peaceful ways of solving conflicts, maintaining power safety, world strengthening, stating the principles, capable to prevent occurrence of the new centers of wars in the future.

T. Japarov, your task and task of all heads of financial and economic sphere consists in perfection and organization of the work of economic and financial systems of the country on a proper level.

One of your duties is defining new basic directions of development of the country for the following period. In these purposes you already should reconsider anew all programs of development of the country till 2030.

We should finish national economy diversification in the shortest terms; we should develop all branches at the accelerated rates.

We should put quality production and its export one of our main purposes.

This year we should achieve the further development of finance-bank system of the country. As a whole the level of development of financial branch still remains low, not meeting the requirements of time.

I want to remind once again to you that reforming of national economy with a view of realization of projects on the exit to the world markets, its capacity in the conditions of market economy demand from all heads competent knowledge of a financial system, mechanisms of its regulation, bases of bank work. Without having such knowledge, in modern conditions it is absolutely impossible to achieve effective results.

T. Japarov, you and all heads of financial and economic branch of the country should prepare corresponding proposals on carrying out the further privatization according to the country's Constitution, on transferring the share of the enterprises to a private property. It is necessary as it is possible to introduce more widely experience of creation of joint ventures and use of means of target credits for building of modern capacities and development of new deposits.

One of your basic tasks is maintenance of growth of all branches of national economy during the current year and control execution over the solving of tasks in view.

We should achieve the growth of GNP to be above 106,3 % provided for 2009. We also should provide the further regular increase of a salary.

Carrying out weighed monetary-credit and policy, we should achieve stability of the prices and inflation deduction at the level which is not exceeding 5 %.

It is necessary to accelerate the realization of the National program of radical restructuring of social living conditions of the population of villages, settlements, etrap centers and cities and other national programs.

B.Hodzhamammedov and all heads of an oil-and-gas complex, you should prove in fact that our country possesses the richest stocks of power resources. I charge all of you to work over other vectors of an exit of power resources to the world markets. This work should be done quickly and effectively, – just as we have recently mastered two new directions of transportation of power resources.

We are facing the problem of the prompt development and operation of again opened oil and gas deposits. In particular, it is necessary to accelerate works on I turn of industrial development of the deposit of the Southern Yoloten – Osman.

Increasing volumes of large hydrocarbon deposits opened by Turkmen geologists, and also their accelerated commissioning will allow increasing in the nearest future not only oil and gas recovery, but also volumes of output of production of their processing.

In these purposes we should involve in 2010 about 10 billion USD of investment means to development of the oil and gas centers of the country. It is necessary to provide extraction of natural gas in necessary volumes and its transportation to foreign states under the concluded contracts, to increase oil extraction by 5,2 % in comparison with the previous year.

Our problem is to provide modernization of fuel and energy branch by the newest techniques re-equipment. We should take new concrete measures for realization of the program planned in this branch.

It is important to achieve manufacture of at least 805,3 thousand tons of mineral fertilizers.

It is necessary to accelerate tempos of works in the National «Avaza» tourist zone. During the current year it is necessary to construct and in the planned terms to launch the artificial river, the distiller of sea water, hotels, the building of the international airport in Turkmenbashy and other objects. In the National tourist zone «Avaza» it is necessary to raise rates of work done here.

D.Orazov and heads of the building complex! Recently we have analyzed all large building projects of this and the following, 2011 – the year of celebrating the 20th anniversary of the independence of the country. I want to underline scale and grandness of all complex of the work program.

With attraction of foreign and domestic investments for these 2 years to the process of construction of the provided objects should be mastered about 23,6 milliard of USD.

For an investment of capitals still technological branches are priority. The lion's share from total amount of capital investments will be directed to erection of buildings in these branches.

Your attention together with other ministries and branch departments should be concentrated on maintenance of timeliness and high quality of building and putting into exploitation the units planned for 2 years.

In this connection it is necessary to accelerate works on maintenance of objects of building with local building materials, to increase manufacture of cement, nonmetallic materials, concrete designs, ceramsite and other building materials.

It is necessary for electric power branch of Turkmenistan to realize large-scale projects on the further modernization of operating gas-turbine power stations and building of new power stations. We also should provide building of new electric systems, tens of small electric distributive stations, to update systems of an electrical supply of capital and other cities and country's settlements.

It is necessary to put in operation new gas-turbine power station with the capacity of 254 megawatts to the north-east from Ashgabat. Input of this station will improve power supply not only of the capital, but also will provide uninterrupted supply of electricity in all quickly growing cities, and, besides, will allow to provide reliably with the electric power Ahal velayat for many years forward. Just the same two stations are to be built and placed into operation in the National tourist zone «Avaza» and Balkanabad.

M.Akmammedov and heads of agricultural branch! Your problem is within the 2nd stage of a carried out agrarian reform to continue realization of the complex program of reforming of agriculture. In this program there are reflection of the major priorities of the state policy and concrete measures on usage of achievements of an advanced science and techniques, the best world experience, transformation of agriculture of the country into highly profitable branch by means of new, more effective methods of using its many-sided possibilities.

On the basis of realization of this program in life it is necessary to finish production of grain to 1,6 million tons, to increase production of other agricultural crops – vegetables and watermelons, melons and gourds, different types of grapes, fruits and berries.

With a view of animal breeding development it is necessary to achieve the further increase of rates of cattle-breeding production by strengthening a forage reserve and cultivation of highly productive breeds of cattle. According to the target program it is necessary to increase a number of cattle, sheep and poultry, according to the task.

Meat manufacture should be increased by 4,5 % in all economy of the country, building and modernization of the available enterprises for production of meat and milk, confectionery is provided. All this work must be done during the planned terms.

It is necessary to achieve consistently realizing the National program on radical restructuring of social living conditions of the population of villages, settlements, cities etrap and etrap centers. 1,7 billion manats should be invested for this purpose. The basic part of these means must be directed to erection of water economic and power constructions, building of internal highways, apartment houses, hospitals, sports constructions, schools and kindergartens.

N.Shagulyev, D.Orazov and heads of transport-communication branch! In 2010 it is necessary to continue building of high-speed highways Ashgabat–Turkmenbashi, Ashgabat–Garagum–Dashoguz and Ashgabat–Mary–Turkmenabad–Farab, to start works on building and reconstruction of a highway Turkmenabad–Dashoguz, to continue building of railways Bereket–Gyzylgaya–Uzen, Bereket–Etrek–Gorgan, to start building of a new site of railway Turkmenabad–Dashoguz, to provide building of new international seaport in Turkmenbashi. The construction of television tower building in Ashgabat, development of system of cellular communication and telecasting, introduction of computer technologies and the Internet should be continued.

H.Saparliyev, and also heads of education spheres, sciences, public health services and sports! The priority of public life of the country was and is the carrying out of scale reforms of an education system. As I already marked, an education system, being the key, defines the future development of the country, the direction of spiritual, social, economic and cultural development of a society. Thanks to knowledge, we get access to the advanced world experience; we use it in interests of the development of cultural wealth and national traditions, rich historical and cultural heritage of people.

We always hold in the center of attention questions of leading of spheres of science and education of the country to world level, creation of all conditions for harmonious development of youth, expansion of its outlook. That is why your major problem is training highly skilled experts and young scientists for all branches.

For the solving of these problems in our country there are all conditions, high quality educational base. Only within last year new premises of Turkmen State Institute of Transport and Communication, Academy of Police of the Ministry of Internal Affairs, 2nd complex of buildings of Military Academy, Ashgabat branch of the Russian State University of I.M.Gubkin have been constructed and put into operation. Soon buildings of higher educational institutions – Power Institute in Mary, the State Medical University in Ashgabat, Agricultural Institute in Dashoguz, a complex of buildings of the State Institute of Culture, one more complex of educational buildings of Turkmen State University named after Magtumguly will be put into operation.

In the nearest future there will be modern buildings of Turkmen State Institute of Economy and Management and Turkmen Polytechnic Institute.

Development of mass sports is one of the most important tasks. Physical culture in the country is of great value; the Olympic movement is constantly spreading. The number of young sportsmen maintaining the honor of Turkmenistan at the international sports competitions grows. In all velayats of the country the construction of stadiums and water-sports complexes is being carried out at high tempos.

The Olympic small town and the Palace of winter sports will soon be added to sports constructions which are in Ashgabat. We put strong base for development of physical culture and sports in our country.

M.Yazmuhamedova, and also heads of sphere of culture and mass media! As I have marked earlier, the primary goal of mass media consists in comprehensive support of carried out reforms by deep display of transformations occurring in the country, wide propagation of successes and achievements.

Progressive development of a society in many respects depends on the factors stimulating people on fruitful work for the sake of improvement of conditions of life; on the degree of the society's being captured by creative inspiration. Your primary goal is to provide this general spiritual enthusiasm, filling souls of people with light, optimistic feelings.

One more major direction of our policy is connected with culture development.

We consider the sphere of culture as one of major factors of stable development. All-around development of culture assumes realization of long-term programs of cultural policy, creation of all conditions for familiarizing of the population with available cultural values, spiritually-moral perfection of the person, increasing of a role of culture in carrying out social and economic transformations.

H.Muhammedov, and also heads of sphere of trade and textile branch! This year you are facing serious problems. It is necessary to carry out all-round modernization of the enterprises of branch, and especially textile industry, to aim them at release of the high-quality, competitive production which is in great demand in the world markets.

In the spirit of time requirements it is necessary to reconstruct work of the State commodity-raw stock exchange, to raise its efficiency.

We will continue rendering all assistance to businessmen.

Dear members of the Cabinet of Ministers! Dear friends! As you can see, this year also we are facing serious tasks. The big responsibility for their solving is on shoulders of the heads of state bodies of all levels. As before, operating amicably and highly organized, all heads should put a maximum of efforts to the successful solving of the problems put before them.

As I already repeatedly marked, we, heads, always should remember the main and basic duty – to work in the name and for the public good, doing all for them to live in peace and will not be in need of anything.

So the year and the tasks are not easy. But I am sure that each of you will make all in your power for the successful solving of these problems; that you will work honesty and with inspiration.

I declare today's expanded meeting of the Cabinet of Ministers closed.

I wish all of you tremendous successes for the sake of the further blossoming of our Fatherland, and to the beloved Turkmen people – happiness and well-being!

Congratulation to workers of the State service of Turkmenistan on drug enforcement on the occasion of the 2nd anniversary of foundation of the service (18.01.2010)

I cordially congratulate you on the 2nd anniversary of foundation of the State service of Turkmenistan on drug enforcement! I wish you great success in your work on further consolidation of peaceful life and unity of the population and healthy society of our Motherland – independent Turkmenistan!

In the epoch of new Renaissance large scale reforms are being carried out in our beloved Motherland. Turkmen people celebrated the year of 2009 by great labor success. I want to point out your weighty contribution to carrying out great changes in the country.

Dear workers of the State service of Turkmenistan on drug enforcement! We admire your courage and persistence with which you together with workers of law enforcement and military agencies conduct uncompromising struggle against the scourge of the whole mankind – drug addiction, smuggling and illegal drug turnover.

Every day of Turkmen people's life in the epoch of new Renaissance is marked by great labor victories; people are confident in the future and look ahead with optimism. Events of 2009 testify of this, the year which occupied worthy page in the annals of great independence; the country achieved political and economic success in FEC, in the sphere of health care, education, science, culture, art, sport, tourism and in agricultural sphere. Last year a big railway bridge over Amyderya, one of the biggest constructions in Central Asia, was opened; grounds for automobile bridge and concrete plant in Koytendag etrap were laid. I will name among big units put into exploitation last year transnational gas pipeline Turkmenistan–China, which got the epithet of the «gas pipeline of the century», Academy of Sciences of Turkmenistan, new training building of Turkmen Transport and Communication Institute, complex of hotels in National «Avaza» tourist zone; new sport centers meeting all the requirements of international standards were built in velayats. The beginning of this year was marked by symbolic event – launching of the Dovletabad–Serax–Hangeran gas pipeline. All this testifies to rapid advancing of our state, to the fact that Turkmen people live in flowering country and at wonderful time.

Dear workers of the State service of Turkmenistan on drug enforcement! One of the main tasks the solving of which must be in the focus of your attention is the struggle against threat of global spreading of narcotic stuff. Two years ago for more efficient realization of state policy directed to suppression of illegal drug turnover and for combining efforts of health care and education organs, local power, social organizations within «Galkynysh» All nation movement, law enforcement and military agencies in the struggle against this evil we formed State service on struggle against narcotics.

It was one of determining steps along the way of preserving the gene pool of the nation, spiritual and physical health of people. This step became demonstrative example of step by step and purposeful realization of key motto of our policy «State is for people!» A person is the main wealth of Turkmen society, so main goal of the state is securing happiness and wellbeing of citizens, and its main principles are humanism, justice and enthusiasm. I believe with all my heart that you can cope with solving of these tasks. We must cherish our Motherland as the pupil of our eyes.

Since foundation of the State service just two years have passed, but for this short period of time politically and juristically educated, uncompromising and courageous workers of the service actively carried out considerable work on conducting state policy in this field. We must resolutely and uncompromisingly struggle against those who being engaged in smuggling and illegal drug turnover try to damage our people's healthy way of life.

In our country «National program of struggle against illegal drug turnover, assistance to drug addicted people for the period of 2006–2010» was adopted according to which efficient work on struggle against illegal drug turnover, psychotropic stuff and precursors, on prevention, revealing and treating drug addicted people is being carried out. Realizing measures stipulated in the Program, we closely interact with big international organizations, such as UNO, OSCE, Regional information-coordination center in Central Asia and others; we conduct the work within programs and projects recommended by them.

Dear workers of the State service of Turkmenistan on drug enforcement! I am confidently sure that in the epoch of new Renaissance you will not spare your strength and knowledge, your labor and abilities for strengthening the grounds of independence of our beloved Motherland, further securing peaceful, problem-free and happy life of our people.

Once again I cordially congratulate you on the 2nd anniversary of foundation of the State service of Turkmenistan on drug enforcement! I wish you solid health, family wellbeing, loyalty to patriotic oath, much success in your noble and responsible work on uniting people and securing their healthy way of life.

Congratulation to workers of diplomatic service of Turkmenistan on the Day of diplomatic workers

Dear workers of diplomatic service of Turkmenistan! I cordially congratulate all of you on the Day of diplomatic workers of Turkmenistan, on the holiday of diplomatic corps celebrated for the first time! I wish all of you big achievements in work, which is to secure successful solving foreign policy issues promoting steady advancing of our beloved Motherland along the road of peace and progress in the epoch of new Renaissance and great reforming!

Turkmenistan, firmly following neutrality policy, is widely known in the world as the country where wellbeing, prosperity and unity are triumphant. Defending and strengthening achievements of independence, meeting international-legal status of permanent neutrality, Turkmenistan in historically short period of time successfully overcame big trials and proved its ability to continue further advancement along the road of development.

Our country along the way of renewing in its foreign policy implements international cooperation in securing peace and safety, providing steady development of countries and peoples and their social-economic wellbeing. Having opened wide road for friendly relations with states of the world, Turkmenistan is developing diplomacy within international organizations.

World community and in particular, such large and authoritative international organization as the United Nations Organization, support every step of Turkmenistan in foreign policy, its concrete actions on securing stability in the region, securing peace and wellbeing of peoples. As an example one can name actual decisions of UNO General Assembly on proposals and initiatives of Turkmenistan, and among them important documents on development and safety of the contemporary world.

I express my heartiest gratitude to the diplomatic corps of the country which makes worthy contribution to realizing wide-ranging and long-term foreign policy acts of Turkmenistan on the international arena in accordance with national interests and high demands.

Having consolidated its worthy place in the system of international relations in the epoch of new Renaissance and great changes, Turkmenistan as the neutral state considerably influences peaceful solving of important issues of regional and worldwide level by means of negotiations. That is why the work of the Regional center of UNO on preventive diplomacy in Central Asia with the headquarters in Ashgabat is highly appreciated. Turkmenistan will continue close and fruitful cooperation with UNO and its specialized subdivisions and with other authoritative international organizations.

Conducting foreign policy based on principles of peacefulness and positive neighborliness, Turkmenistan defends national and universal interests. From this position our state in every possible way supports efforts of world community on creating a single system of global security and makes a weighty contribution to this cause. Turkmenistan energetically opposes threats and challenges of today, takes an active part in the movement on total disarmament, international terrorism, struggle against illegal drug turnover, organized criminality and systematically presents proposals and initiatives on these issues. Besides, with the purpose of securing problem-free and healthy life for the population, Turkmenistan takes an active part in many-sided cooperation on issues on environment protection and taking necessary measures under conditions of global climate changes.

Today Turkmenistan conducting the «open door» policy is known all over the world as the strong state with large geopolitical potential. Colossal energy resources of our country and huge stocks of hydrocarbon, Turkmen land's wealth of sun, wind and other sources of energy – all this reliably guarantees Turkmenistan's leadership in international economic relations. Besides, Turkmenistan is the initiator of expanding international trade ways, all-round development of transport-communication infrastructure and it realizes corresponding big projects.

Cooperation and important initiatives of the independent neutral Turkmenistan aimed at securing reliable safety in the world are widely supported by international community and are being realized. Illustrative example of it is unanimous adoption of the Resolution of UNO General Assembly on December 19, 2008 «Reliable and stable transit of energy carriers and its role in securing sustainable development and international cooperation». Measures taken for executing this Resolution clearly demonstrate the role of foreign policy of our country and its economic possibilities on the international arena.

Conducting the program of wide economic diversification, Turkmenistan successfully realizes projects of multi-vector deliveries of natural gas to world markets. The launching of Turkmenistan–Uzbekistan–Kazakhstan–China and Turkmenistan–Iran gas pipelines became considerable achievement of international cooperation in this field. In energy and especially oil spheres Turkmenistan will continue realizing wide-ranging program steps on modernizing and reliable exit of energy resources to world markets and increasing international cooperation.

As an inseparable part of its foreign policy and international cooperation, Turkmenistan noticeably expands cultural-humanitarian links. Respecting an individual's personality and giving preference to universal values, our state never forgets about its international obligations and steadily observes international-legal norms. In humanitarian trends of its foreign policy Turkmenistan develops close and fruitful cooperation with authoritative international organizations achieving the strengthening of civil society in the country and deepening its democratic bases, observing human rights, sustainable development of culture, science and education, health care and ecology.

Regular big international forums, conferences and meetings, scientific, cultural and sport activities held in our country create conditions for bringing closer and mutual enriching of peoples, establishing close links and cooperation. Relations acquiring fraternal and friendly character are important base for peaceful coexistence and flowering of countries and peoples.

Dear workers of diplomatic service of Turkmenistan! Once again I cordially congratulate all of you on the Day of diplomatic workers of Turkmenistan, on the holiday of diplomatic corps celebrated for the first time and wish you good health, long happy life, success in work and family wellbeing!

Dear members of the Cabinet of Ministers! Dear heads of diplomatic corps of Turkmenistan! Dear friends! We live at fine time – in the epoch of new Renaissance, when dynamic processes of radical reforming are taking place in our sacred Motherland. Mass labor and creative enthusiasm are felt everywhere, construction of large units is carried out at intensive tempos.

Super updated buildings of health care centers, schools, higher educational institutions, kindergartens, perfect comfort dwellings, trading centers, plants, factories and other manufacture and social units are being constructed in cities and settlements in large scales and at high tempos. One admires capital, highly esthetic and high quality character of new building works which are to serve our people for ages. On a tight timetable, during three years 677 large units at the cost of 6,5 milliard USD were built and put into exploitation. All these units are strategically important for further strengthening of economic might of our country and steady increasing level of wellbeing of our people.

Among new construction works of the century there are transnational gas pipelines Turkmenistan–China and Turkmenistan–Iran, Railway Bridge over the Amyderya, metallurgical works, new enterprises of textile industry, steel mains, units of National «Avaza» tourist zone, Turkmen lake in the middle of Garagum and called «man-made sea», and variety of other units and constructions. Diapason of construction works all over the country is steadily expanding.

I want to underline the growing dynamism of this large scaled work: the quantity of being built units in our country increased from 1500 last year till 2190 this year.

Our people have wise proverb: «It is better to see once that to hear hundred times». Recent visits to Lebap, Dashoguz and Mary velayats are confirmation of this; we were convinced in real flowering and radical reforming of every corner of our beloved Motherland.

Our white marbled capital Ashgabat is growing and becoming more beautiful day by day. On the eve of the remarkable date – the State Flag Day the whole street of new trading centers and perfect comfort dwellings were put into exploitation. The construction of large social-everyday units spread in Ahal and Balkan velayats.

Not by chance I began my speech with the subject of construction being carried out in our country. Today, in the period of continuing global financial-economic crisis many states do not have possibility of carrying out such large scale construction works. Our grandiose construction works illustratively demonstrate that Turkmenistan became real independent and economically stable state.

We must maintain such dynamic tempos of growth and development of our state; and I can say with confident that in the nearest future our sovereign Motherland will become the land of flowering and plenty.

Along with flowering and fundamental renewing of the image of our ancient land one can observe successive and dynamic perfection of the structure of the society itself, steady improving of social and living status of Turkmen people and increasing their wellbeing level. Comfortable living conditions of our citizens in super updated dwellings with all conveniences, lots of automobiles of world leading companies in the streets of our cities and villages, food abundance in shops and markets, construction of buildings of higher educational establishments and schools furnished by high technological multimedia equipment in the capital and all velayat centers acquire more visible range.

At present a new structure appeared in our society – private entrepreneurship sector. We support and will support its development.

Tolerance and purposefulness are the bases of our people's mentality. They condition reasoning, maximum suspension and constructive character of being spread political reforms. Our rule is not to hurry; and we will not artificially form and accelerate social-political processes in our society in order to please somebody.

I want to stress: our state will develop and perfect on principles of real democracy. Proceeding from these positions I state: if there will be people wanting to initiate forming of some new political party, in accordance with our Constitution such party can be registered the current year. It may be agrarian or some other political party.

Thus, foundation of opposition parties will become important event of social-political life of our country. Actively participating in social-political processes of the country, newly found parties will compete with Democratic Party of Turkmenistan. But common goal of newly founded parties as well as goals uniting us remain the same – leading of our state to worthy positions in world community, on the base of our people’s mentality strive for achieving heights in economic, social-everyday and humanitarian development to occupy worthy place in the world community.

Dear members of the Cabinet of Ministers! Dear heads of diplomatic body of Turkmenistan! Dear friends! Today we solemnly celebrate the Day of diplomatic workers of Turkmenistan!

As it is known, diplomacy is the attribute of politically and economically sovereign state. The main line of our foreign policy course is to maintain strategic partnership with all states in the interests of common peace, progress and creative development. Our realized political doctrine of constructive solving of problems emerging in the sphere of international relations on the base of principles of positive neutrality, by means of international normative-legal mechanisms, protection of national interests, widening and deepening of mutually beneficial economic cooperation acquires greater importance and support on world arena.

I wish all diplomats great success in work, to carry high the sacred State flag of Turkmenistan, represent with dignity our sovereign Motherland on international arena and provide all sided protection of its interests!

I charge R. Meredov to consider issues of construction of new buildings of diplomatic representations of our country in foreign countries, like the one built in Tashkent. Embassies of Turkmenistan in other states must be worthy the status of our sovereign Motherland.

Dear members of the Cabinet of Ministers! Dear heads of diplomatic corps of Turkmenistan! Dear friends! Once again I cordially congratulate you on the State Flag Day of Turkmenistan and the Day of diplomatic workers of Turkmenistan!

I wish you solid health, big success in your work in the name of confident advancement of our Motherland along the road of peace and progress in the epoch of new Renaissance and great changes, in successful solving of the tasks set in foreign policy sphere.

To the participants of international scientific conference «Issues of alternative utilization of energy sources in Turkmenistan»

Dear participants of the conference! Dear scientists! I cordially congratulate you on the beginning of work of international scientific conference «Issues of alternative utilization of energy sources in Turkmenistan»! I am sure that during the work of international scientific conference interesting presentations will be made; they will fully reveal remarkable achievements in developing scientific thought in Turkmenistan successively realizing the course of great reforms in all spheres of public life aimed at the benefit of our state, people and the whole mankind and also interesting presentations the object of analysis of which there will be alternative energy sources, scientific-technical, ecological and economic issues of their contemporary condition. I wish success to the work of the conference!

Dear guests! The existence of mankind itself is inseparably linked with education and science which give wings to people, becoming the source of happiness and prosperity. Now Turkmenistan widely recognized as the oasis of calmness, peace and spiritual unity, confidently entered the new historical epoch of great reforms. Within creating important conditions for further perfection and leading scientific thought in the country to the world level, we realized the work on successive strengthening of legal, material-technical base of science, adopting of a number of documents regulating and defining the main strategy of developing spheres of science. International scientific conference being held by us is a direct result of our active cooperation with the world scientific community in the sphere of studying alternative energy sources and demonstratively testifying big concern and attention paid to the development of science in Turkmenistan.

Dear scientists! Along with the realization of wide-ranging export of energy sources to world markets; these resources are national wealth and we are carrying out big work on implementing newest economically rational and safe technologies from the view point of ecology to national economy branches. We direct huge investment means to development of strategically important branches of science linked with studying alternative energy sources which firmly entered contemporary life of human society and actively promote constructive solving of such actual issues of contemporary life as the global climate warming.

We value alternative energy by the right called «the energy of future» as priority trend of further modernization of national fuel-energy complex. Foundation of «Gyun» Institute in the structure of the Academy of sciences of Turkmenistan last year, and also our initiatives on developing the scheme of utilization of additional energy sources, in particular, energy of sun, wind, thermal waters, and bio gases became strategically important steps of Turkmenistan along the way of perfecting national science sphere.

Dear representatives of scientific community! Elaborating and creating new ecologically pure high technologies in the sphere of rational utilization of alternative energy sources, in particular, energy of sun, wind, water, geo and hydrothermal warmth, bio gases and other sources are the most important scientific task. Its constructive solving by one separate state is impossible. From these positions we pay much attention to significant vector of our policy in development of science – establishing fruitful cooperation with world leading scientific centers.

In spite of sufficient volumes of energy production in Turkmenistan there are many pastures, territories with oil and gas deposits which are difficult to access for electrification. In the epoch when Turkmenistan achieves new heights of all-round development and renewing our scientific community makes worthy contribution to the solving of this problem by their scientific research and technical elaborations.

Our scientists and specialists created waste-free, working in autonomous regime sun-wind complexes, various installations and constructions working on sun energy. At the same time big projects are being realized on establishing small production of biological fuel and other waste-free, autonomous installations, researching the potential of possibilities on production of silicon from sands of the Garagum. In the nearest future the diapason of utilization of alternative energy sources in active developing of desert zone near man-made sea in the Garagum – «Turkmen kyoly» and in realization of such wide-ranging project as creation of the National «Avaza» tourist zone on the Caspian Sea will considerably expand.

Dear scientists! Dear friends! Once again I cordially congratulate you on the beginning of work of international scientific conference «Issues of alternative utilization of energy sources in Turkmenistan» which is to become a symbolic event in scientific-public life of independent neutral Turkmenistan! I wish you success in your scientific and creative work, strong health and prosperity!

Speech at the meeting with representatives of creative intelligentsia of the country

Today we gathered to exchange opinions on issues of role and place of our intelligentsia, prose writers and poets in securing all-round development of our country in the epoch of new Renaissance and great changes, to discuss frankly what prevents from creating deeply instructive and highly artistic works, more complete and detailed acquaintance with the life and problems of creative workers and to hear your opinions on this case. Members of the Cabinet of Ministers were also invited to this meeting to take an active part in discussing the issues.

Dear masters of art! Dear representatives of creative intelligentsia! Dear compatriots! I will dwell on some questions which I think should be discussed more substantially. Modern times and being realized great changes demand our creative workers and especially poets, prose writers, playwrights to treat their mission on perfecting of common conscience on the base of system of national and universal values, high principles of humanism with high responsibility.

Great reforms being realized in our country, selfless labor of our heroic people are worthy of glorifying. Our poets, prose writers, playwrights, workers of the sphere of radio and television, artists, composers and journalists should glorify great victories of our people and their labor feats with sincere pride and admiration of their Motherland.

Greatness and glory of the Motherland, our heroic, industrious people must find worthy reflection in your highly artistic works. We are expecting from our creative workers real literature masterpieces and fine works of art the distinctive feature of which must be high art, depth and harmony of ideas and thoughts depicting creative essence of renewing of social-public life. You are always to be among people, actively participate in grandiose changes in the country, glorify outstanding achievements of our heroic people and inspire your fellow citizens for new success and great accomplishments.

At present all necessary conditions are being created for free and fruitful work of masters of art, development and perfection of their creative work.

Let's consider the state of affairs in the sphere of national culture today. Constant attention is paid to masters of art in our country. We build numerous palaces of culture, museums, theatres and other cultural units. Considerable financial means are directed to further perfection of publishing business, radical improving of the work of television, radio and other mass media. But these means have not brought expected results yet.

At present you do not write highly artistic novels, plays and stories fully depicting the life of our people, deeply realistic by their contents and favorably influencing a person's spiritual world.

In works there is not enough artistic understanding, richness and depth of ideas and contents and inimitable peculiarity. There are no poems and songs which can excite and inspire hearts, touching the most sensible strings of a human's soul. Stage performances are poor, their artistic level is low. Our masters of art cannot depict the spirit of time; they lack artistic skills in depicting the role of a society in processes going on at present stage. Creative workers are behind the demands of the day; they do not treat their duties with adequate responsibility.

At present our national music-song art cannot find worthy place in the life of a society and their original way of development. Domestic journalism cannot reach expected heights either.

Especially distressing is the fact that masters of art and culture work at such a low level, the state created all conditions for them; the conditions about which creative workers of previous years could not even dream of.

What works do we expect from prose writers and poets, artists and sculptors of our country?

These works must distinguish themselves by high artistic skills, richness of idea and contents; inspire our fellow citizens to unprecedented labor accomplishments and serve to multiplying of the glory of our sacred Motherland, upbringing of new heroic generations, glorify achieved great victories. Great accomplishments are the destiny of great people!

You must take part in great changes being realized in our country. Realized reforms are entirely submitted to the goals of securing further flowering of the Motherland, happiness and wellbeing of Turkmen people. Create wonderful works fully depicting scales and essence of positive changes and great reforming in the country. Your task is to promote the formation of young generation's high moral and spiritual principles. The main is that your works must reflect the greatness of the epoch of new Renaissance and radical changes and widely propagandize its success.

You should create fine and impressive works which would leave nobody indifferent. For creating deeply instructive and highly artistic works you should be able to depict life proceeding from its real facts, boldly going deeper into actual problems of contemporary life.

Your works must not be torn off real life and become deeply instructive highly artistic depiction of national peculiarities of our people.

You should create wonderful works which will serve as a sample for our people and for our compatriots and friends living abroad.

Our language culture goes by its roots into the depth of centuries. Antiquity of roots always was a reliable base for wide perspectives in future. The following wise and deeply rich in contents sayings of our ancestors witness about antiquity and richness of Turkmen language: «High spirit is harder than stone», «A human soul is more tender than a flower», «Do the good and do not recollect, throw into water, fishes will hear, if they do not hear the God will hear», «A pearl will never be lost in cinder».

Dear masters of art! Dear representatives of creative intelligentsia! Dear compatriots! At one of the meetings of the Cabinet of Ministers I marked that as our country turned into economically powerful state, we set to considering more complicated issue. That is issues put into agenda of sittings of the Cabinet of Ministers concern not searching of sources of necessary financial means or securing food safety but variants and possibilities of concluding contracts on construction of big units which in future must become the source of millions of dividends or expanding trade turnover with various foreign states and opening Trading houses of Turkmenistan abroad. During last three years we carried out grandiose accomplishments in Turkmenistan.

1. We expect from our prose writers and poets deeply realistic, highly artistic, spiritually enriching and multiplying noble human qualities of novels and stories. These works can be of historical plan and narrating about events of contemporary life. High level of artistic depiction of reality and deep depiction of events, skillful narration, liveliness of feelings and emotions must become peculiarity of new works which are to reveal unrepeatable spiritual world of our people, peculiarities of their mentality, ancient traditions and rituals.

I wish poets big success in creating fine verses and poems which can light a sparkle of creative inspiration in every person's heart.

2. The main task of musicians and composers is launching of national music art to a new stage of development. Our musicians, composers and music experts should combine their efforts for achieving new success in creative work.

At present we need real talents and masters who absorbed unfading greatness of our music-song heritage and mastered musical art of peoples of the world. Taking life-giving sources in the midst of folk life, touching thin strings of human soul, inspiring the deepest feelings and noble intentions, real masterpieces of musical creativity will serve to further consolidating and developing relations between peoples. Our poets and composers should be able to create popular songs performed in our native language by peoples of East and West.

3. It is the time for activating functions of the Union of artists and increasing the efficiency of their work. We must have national school of fine arts and sculpture. I think that our artists basing on the richest experience of last centuries will manage to achieve new creative success.

4. Masters of national theatre and cinema art also fulfill important mission. Our playwrights, script writers and directors have the task to create highly qualitative plays and films. Producers are to lead the works of masters of national theatre and cinema to qualitatively new and higher level. Script writers of theater and cinema performances in depicting the reality must keep to principles of deep fidelity to life, producers must expose high skills and professionalism in interpretation of feelings and thoughts, searching of forms and ways of bringing them to audience.

If events of concrete time period are shown, the truthfulness of narration must become the main principle. Thus, a creative worker must always and everywhere be in search. Our people expect from you wonderful works. I believe that lots of unforgettable images will be created on Turkmen stage.

We need feature, documentary and animated films corresponding to spirit of time. The art of cinema has powerful educative influence. So we express our confidence that workers of cinema union of our country will spread large scaled activities in this direction.

5. The time has come for real inspired creativity of domestic architectures as well and their creation of real masterpieces. Before eyes of one generation the architecture-construction image of our country radically changes and become more beautiful. We need new talents, highly qualified specialists in the field of art of architecture.

6. Today the art of professional designers is in great demand. At present time very good perspectives open for them. In our country important measures on providing high esthetic level and comfort of units being under construction are realized. It, first of all means availability of vast field for designers.

7. Literature criticism is also a perspective trend. We need real talented literature and art experts. Realistic, impartial but at the same time well-wishing criticism promotes artistic growing and perfecting of creative process.

8. Speaking of present state of domestic journalism, we should set up training of multi-profile journalist cadres well orienting in the life of the country and in international situation. At present a big work is being carried out in this direction. With an account to perspective we should speak about large scaled tasks of Turkmen journalists. Essays and articles prepared by them must have their own hand and style.

TV and radio journalists are to raise the plank of their skills. The sphere of social and political journalism itself must widen. It is the main task of the Union of journalists.

Dear domestic masters of a word! You must create real talented works causing people's desire to read them in the original and not in translation. Our native language originated from our forefather Oguz khan, is the base of all Turkic people, and by its nature is worthy of becoming one of the main world languages. We must learn from our outstanding thinkers of antiquity how to raise our native language to such heights.

Passed years gave us great masters. We are heirs of such outstanding talents as Nesimi, Yunus Emre, Garajaoglan, Andalib, Magtymguly, Mollanepes, Zelili, Seydi, Mylly Tachmyradov, Berdi Kerbabayev, Bashim Nurali, Yzzat Klychev, Veli Muhatov, Alty Karliyeve, Nury Halmamedov, Gurnannazar Ezizov and many others. Our task is to train the generation of youth who can continue their way.

The epoch of new Renaissance and great changes is truly unprecedented and fine time. This epoch will enter the history of our people with new masterpieces of art and culture.

Dear masters of art! Dear representatives of creative intelligentsia! Dear compatriots! Today I want to dwell on one more issue. As you know nothing appears by itself. Big roads begin with hardly noticed paths. Everything in this world has its beginning.

Consulting our honorable elders, we for restoring noble traditions of our culture decided to open musical schools in all villages, settlements, etrap cities and centers, resume activities of rural libraries, houses of culture, provide access to the Internet and furnish them with computers. In this connection today I will sign corresponding documents on this issue.

Everybody knows that our glorified performers of folk songs – bahshy and masters-virtuosos of folk music for centuries followed common tradition according to which it was possible to begin one's independent creative way only after getting the blessing of tutors – unsurpassed deeply worshipped persons of natural gift and talents, true masters of musical genre. Blessing and kind wishes of eminent tutor were the criterion of high trust to the apprentice, and this tradition remained unbreakable from generation to generation up to nowadays.

Not every pupil managed to deserve his teacher's blessing. Recognized masters blessed only especially gifted pupils. It was some kind of national school of high spiritual-moral values. Firstly, blessing was the symbol of high trust to a pupil. Secondly, such traditional difficulty of getting the blessing was the means of bringing of degree of skills to the level of real art.

An apprentice had responsibility for honor and dignity of the teacher who had blessed him. I bring the thread of my reasoning to necessity of careful attitude to traditions of national school of tutoring and its restoring now.

Dear participants of the meeting! I want to draw your attention to one more issue. In the epoch of new Renaissance and great changes training of highly qualified specialists in cultural-mass work is being conducted on the base of Turkmen State Institute of Culture.

At present time we carry out the large scaled work on construction of new most important units, plants, factories, schools and other social-cultural buildings. So we need well trained cadres possessing methods of organizing cultural-mass activities and celebrations at a high level. I suggest founding secondary special educational institution on training such specialists.

M. Yazmuhammedova, minister of culture and TV-radio broadcasting G. Myradov, I charge you to prepare documents necessary for founding such secondary special educational institution. In this educational institution we will be training workers of libraries, houses of culture and specialists on organizing various cultural-mass activities and celebrations.

Solving the issues and tasks touched upon at today's meeting with creative workers, realization of proposals will promote inspired labor of domestic workers of culture and art and creating highly artistic and instructive works glorifying achievements of our sovereign

Motherland, further growth and development of national literature and art, and perfecting literature-artistic work.

It favorably influences improving the quality of work with prose writers and poets and other representatives of creative professions which are to create wonderful masterpieces glorifying the greatness of sacred Motherland and people. And this, in its turn, will promote further consolidating of our society, strengthening of its moral base and spiritual enriching.

Dear participants of the meeting! In the conclusion I want to draw your attention to one more pleasant event. People's actress of Turkmenistan, vocalist Medeniyet Shahberdiyeva is celebrating her 80th jubilee. During many years she perfects music-song art, trains young talents. Taking into consideration her weighty contribution to consolidating sovereignty and independence of our neutral Motherland, development of culture and art of our country, outstanding creative success, and high professional skills and for long self-denial and honest labor I signed the Decree on awarding senior teacher of Turkmen National Conservatory Medeniyet Shahberdiyeva with the order of Turkmenistan «Altyn asyr» III degree. I am going to award this order.

Dear friends! I wish you strong health, family wellbeing and great success in your activity in the name of flowering of our beloved Motherland!

To the participants of the international scientific conference «The heritage of Eastern Turkmenistan in the medieval culture»

Dear scientists! Dear guests! From the bottom of my heart I congratulate you on the occasion of the opening of the International scientific Conference «The heritage of Eastern Turkmenistan in the medieval culture». I hope that at the International Conference there will be scientific speeches about the influence of Turkmen heritage on the cultural and spiritual development of the mankind and the place it occupies in the world Civilization. I wish the International conference to be fruitful and successful.

Dear scientists! Turkmen people are one of those who created cultural, spiritual and literary values, who made contribution into cultural and scientific treasury of the mankind. Turkmen land, which is considered to be one of the Cultural Centres of the world, is rich in ancient cultural and historical monuments. In the epoch of new Renaissance we have many famous cultural and historical monuments which were accepted into the world treasury. They are: Jeitun, Merv, Nissa, Dehistan, Amul, Margush, Kunyaurgench which attract attention of scientists and travellers of the world. One of these regions, having rich cultural-historical monuments, occupying its meritorious place in the world political, economical and cultural development and which has five thousand years history, is the land of Eastern Turkmenistan.

Eastern Turkmenistan preserves the traces of the Latest Bronze, the Early Iron and Medieval period and it is one of the hearths where appeared the first settled agricultural and urban cultures. Valuable archaeological discoveries, products of china, ponds of different size, outlines of wells, all of them tell us that Eastern Turkmenistan was the first settled agricultural and urban places of the world and that this ancient region deserves an incomparable place in the world civilization.

As Gerodot, Strabon, Ptolomey, Arrian and other Greek and Rome historians affirm that Eastern Turkmenistan was the region where lived «massagets», «hionit», «ahameni» and other ancient Turkic tribes. Nowadays in Eastern Turkmenistan there are many historical-cultural monuments like «Amul», «Zemm», «Kushmahan», «Shahri-Veyengam», «Shahri-Haibar», «Gyzgala», «Yigitgala», «Odeidepe», «Zohre-Tahir», where we can see the traces of cultures of Middle Ages Maverannahr civilizations, Garahanly, Gazna and Seljuk Turkmens.

As it is noted in sources, one thousand and five hundred years ago along the Great Silk Road there were sowings, gardens, surrounded with trees; Amul, Zemm were the main cultural-scientific centres of the East, and there were writers, scientists with pseudonyms Amuli, Zemmi, Farabi. Famous historians and scholars of the East like Belazuri, Hamavi, Tabari, Beihaki, Istehri, Kazvini in their valuable heritage wrote that in middle ages in Lebap velayat on the way of caravanserais there were rich libraries, medreses, towns and villages. They also mentioned the life of the local population, their customs and religion.

Dear participants of the International conference! Nowadays scientists and travellers are deeply interested in the heritage of Eastern Turkmenistan which was in the structure of Hun, Kangly, Kushan, Eftaly, Garlyk, Garahanly, Gaznaly states. New ideas about East Turkmenistan's historical-cultural heritage, archaeological and architectural monuments Zemmi, Amuli scholars and people of literature, art who influenced the development of East and West in the first millennium before our era must be put forward in science now. Because historical sources, scientific researches affirm that Turkmen people who created Oghuz, Gazna, Seljuk cultures influenced and made intercommunicate and interchange Het, Greek, Chinese, Arabic and Persian cultures.

Dear friends! Once again I congratulate you on the opening of this International conference which will be a significant event in cultural life of Independent and Neutral Turkmenistan!

Our International Conference will show Eastern Turkmenistan's place in material and spiritual values of mankind. I believe that it will once again present to the world rich heritage of the Turkmen people.

To the participants of the international scientific conference «Importance of Turkmen «Altyn asyr» lake in improving ecological condition of the region»

Dear participants of the conference! Dear guests! I cordially congratulate you on the beginning of work of the international scientific conference «Importance of Turkmen «Altyn asyr» lake in improving ecological condition of the region», having great ecological and social-economic importance for countries of the region. I wish successful and fruitful work to the international scientific forum devoted to studying of many-sided role of construction of man-made «Altyn asyr» lake in the Garagum for states of the region, initiated for radical change of the image of one of the largest deserts of the planet, further multiplying natural wealth, abundance and generous gifts of sacred Turkmen land and also issues on defining the ways of careful and rational utilization of water resources.

Dear participants of the conference! As it is known, in arid zones of the planet artificial irrigation makes the base of agrarian farming. In our region and in Turkmenistan, too, from ancient times people use the method of surface irrigation in the process of cropping. Exit to the surface of soil while using this method is considered to be natural process. Questions of collecting and processing of collector waters in one place aimed at overcoming their negative ecological influence on development of irrigation farming are recognized to be the most important problem of modern times and have their actuality for all states of the region. Solving of the problem of eliminating negative consequences of water escape to middle and low flow of the Amyderya causing river pollution, increasing level of underground waters, reducing water quality, salting and reducing of land fertility, flooding of pastures are paramount tasks of today.

Solving these most important ecological and economic tasks in regional scale, Turkmenistan chose constructive and mutually beneficial strategy for neighboring states. For collecting collector waters from the whole territory of Turkmenistan in ecologically safe place and their processing for further reclamation it was decided to construct new man-made lake in the center of Garagum desert. We called it Turkmen «Altyn asyr» lake.

Our main task is not limited only by collecting worked-out waters; we set up the goal to provide efficient developing of thousands of hectares of virgin lands adjoining main drains of «Altyn asyr» lake, developing of agrarian farming, cattle breeding and fishery, multiplying fauna and flora of the desert.

Dear friends! On July 15 took place the ceremony of launching of the 1st turn of grandiose hydro-technical construction of III millennium – being built «Altyn asyr» lake in Garagum desert; it is, first of all, one of main trends of large scale work of our state on improving ecological condition of the region.

In spite of the short period of time which has passed since that remarkable date processes going on in the nature, reveal vivid picture of favorable influence of the man-made lake on surroundings. The desert began to revive just before one's eyes. You will be convinced in it within the work of present scientific conference; you will be able to visit man-made «Altyn asyr» lake.

At present construction of the 2nd turn of Turkmen «Altyn asyr» lake is being carried out at high tempos. Along with this we pay great attention to construction of inter household collector water intake systems in velayats of the country. Our strategic goal is combining all acting and being built collector drains into one efficiently functioning net for careful and rational utilizing of water resources and in future preventing from salting of agriculture lands and improving their irrigation condition.

In Turkmenistan, where water is considered to be the source of wellbeing and abundance, the state realizes deeply constructive and complex approach in solving issues of efficient and rational utilization of water wealth, providing the population with qualitative drinking water. The Code of Turkmenistan «On water» secures legislative base of state strategy in successful realization of priority tasks in this trend.

Acting as staunch supporter of Convention of UNO on environmental protection, Turkmenistan occupies active position in solving urgent ecological tasks, takes part in realization of important projects and programs of international community on preserving, efficient and rational utilizing of land and water resources, struggle against deserting, for preventing degradation of soil, overcoming ecological problems of the Aral and consequences of global changing of planet's climate. Turkmenistan maintains close cooperation with neighboring states, with UNO, European Union, Global ecologic fund, other authoritative international organizations; it promotes sustainable social-economic advancing of our state.

Dear participants of the international scientific conference! Once again I cordially congratulate you on the beginning of the conference held in fine spring period! I am sure that issues for discussion, ideas and proposals will multiply importance of Turkmen «Altyn asyr» lake in improving ecological condition of the region!

I wish you great success in your inspired and noble mission on improving ecological climate in the region, family wellbeing and happiness!

Dear friends! Dear guests! For improving of irrigating condition of areas under crop, collecting and reclamation of collector-drain waters in the centre of Garagum Turkmen «Altyn asyr» lake is being constructed at high tempos. Last year the 1st turn of this grandiose hydro-technical unit was put into exploitation. Creating of Turkmen lake and usage of new, advanced water saving technologies are to become efficient factor of further increasing of productivity of agrarian sector of our country under the conditions of water deficit in the world.

Introducing of Turkmen «Altyn asyr» lake into exploitation and its rational usage will found reliable base for improving ecological background of Central Asian region and will promote further growing of economy of our state.

Approving and supporting basic nature preserving conventions of UNO, Turkmenistan is rapidly integrating into the sphere of international cooperation aimed at constructive solving of problems of protecting and restoring water and other bio resources actual for the whole mankind, struggle against deserting and land degradation, overcoming consequences of global climate change, taking an active part in joint projects. Congratulation to workers of water industry of Turkmenistan, toilers of rural regions and all people on the «Drop of water is grain of gold» holiday

Dear workers of water industry! Industrious farmers of the country! Dear compatriots! I cordially congratulate you on widely celebrated holiday «Drop of water is grain of gold»! On this spring holiday I wish all of you solid health, long life, peace and wellbeing of your families!

«Drop of water is grain of gold», a remarkable and deep wise saying of our ancestors is bright evidence of respectful attitude of Turkmen people to water, considering it to be sacred and a source of everything good. For careful and rational usage of water resources our ancestors built rather large original hydro constructions which allowed efficiently using every drop of life-giving water.

Proceeding from precepts of our ancestors and their dream of plenty of water, we legislatively established the «Drop of water is grain of gold» holiday and celebrate it annually on the 1st of April. Following our farming traditions we conduct large scale work on turning our native land into flowering garden; we solve issues on usage of water resources on state level.

Going along the road of the epoch of new Renaissance and great changes, our courageous people selflessly work for further flowering of our Motherland. Home and foreign policy of Turkmenistan, economic success and achievements ensured our Motherland's high international authority.

Dear friends! Tasks on realizing large scale programs and deep reforms are set up to water industry of the country. As it is known, on July 15 last year we launched the 1st turn of Turkmen «Altyn asyr» lake – one of the largest hydro constructions in the world. Construction of this gigantic man-made water body is one of measures taken by the state for improving ecological conditions of Central Asian region. Little time has passed since the day when salty underground waters from fields flew to Turkmen «Altyn asyr» lake, but the work of the whole system of salted water flows has been normalized; the level of under soil waters reduced and so irrigation conditions of land began improving and flora and fauna of Garagum was enriched.

Quite recently the international scientific conference devoted to the importance of Turkmen «Altyn asyr» lake in improving ecologic conditions of Central Asian region was held in Turkmenbashi.

These days when we are celebrating the «Drop of water is grain of gold» holiday the international forum is taking place in Ashgabat; the forum is devoted to issues of utilizing water resources and within it international exhibition and conference are being held.

Dear workers of water industry! Toilers of agriculture! Setting the goal on growing high crops, we set to solving of such important problems as improving water supply of fields and their irrigation condition and developing of new lands. In connection with it corresponding decrees were adopted and a number of concrete tasks on carrying out the paramount work were set to water industry branch.

We are conducting sufficient work for carefully and efficiently usage of water for obtaining high crops in our hot climate. In particular, we decided to expand and deepen water storage basins named after the 15th anniversary of independence, «Househan», «Kopetdag» located along the Garagum River, also water storage basins «Saryyazy» in the bottomland of the Murgab River and use the water rationally.

For successful solving of the tasks set we bought powerful updated technique from the world leading producers. We created all conditions for efficient work of our hydro constructors of large scale units. This work will be carried out in future as well.

On this solemn day I express my confident that courageous workers of water industry of the country will do their best for timely and successful solving of all the tasks set.

To provide population of the country with drinking water is one of our main goals. We elaborated and realized some big projects; complexes of water purifying constructions which are furnished with updated technique from world leading companies are being built in Ashgabat and velayats. At present our scientists and specialists as in other advanced states of the world carry out works on desalting of salted waters and their usage in national economy. Issues of providing population with pure drinking water will always be in the focus of our attention.

Dear workers of water industry! Dear compatriots! Once again I cordially congratulate you on widely celebrated holiday «Drop of water is grain of gold»! I wish all of you good health, long life, family wellbeing, happiness and wealth; use full flowing Turkmen rivers, lakes and water storage basins as sources of wellbeing!

Let rivers of our sunny land be full flowing, years good for crops, let every drop of water turn into grain of gold and multiply abundance and generosity of our people's sachaks!

All this is care about people, the highest value for our state.

So care makes people's life longer, makes them healthier and more active. We work for long term perspective from this position. All these works serve the main goal – to bring up the generation of physically strong, educated, devoted to the Motherland and people, highly moral and spiritually strong young people. Sport construction of world class Olympic city, motor grounds, and modern stadiums turned Turkmenistan into the world center of big sport. Motherland more by your victories in international competitions and raise its international authority.

Dear compatriots! Once again I cordially congratulate you on the World health day – international holiday of high spirit and health! I wish our happy people, every citizen good health, long life and unity! Let independent neutral Turkmenistan be glorified as the country of high spirit and health in the epoch of new Renaissance!

Speech at the enlarged meeting of the Cabinet of Ministers of Turkmenistan (9.04.2010)

Dear members of the Cabinet of Ministers and all those present! Continuing today's meeting of the Cabinet of Ministers I want to dwell upon some issues of home and foreign policy of our country.

At present all states of the world are facing the problem of choosing directions of further way of development, they are searching for new, more flexible model of development and the way out from continuing global economic crisis.

Turkmenistan is developing in harmony with the world community and joins this work according to demands of time. Basing on three main conditions recognized by the world community, namely, reliability, openness and safety, our country chooses original way of developing.

On this way of developing we set up concrete goals. And I am completely sure that we are steadily going by correct way and will succeed. In all spheres of our life-production, social-everyday, and humanitarian – the process of reforming goes successfully. Foreign policy and foreign economic strategy of our state is realized in harmony with activities of the world community.

Continuing the policy of maintaining positive good neighborliness and strengthening friendly mutually beneficial relations with various countries of the world, during the period since the beginning of the year visits were made to several foreign countries.

During this period we in accordance with main trends of foreign policy paid special attention to expanding bilateral mutually beneficial relations with European Union countries, Arab countries and neighbors – Republic of Tajikistan and Islamic Republic of Iran. This year we are planning visits to Chinese People's Republic, Russian Federation and some other countries.

Turkmenistan's policy of neutrality is an efficient foreign policy line not only for our country; it became influential course on regional level and within the world community. General Secretary of UNO recently highly estimated peace loving foreign policy of Turkmenistan.

As far as home policy is concerned, results of activities of ministries and branch departments in the 1st quarter of the current year and reports of those who spoke at the meeting showed that economy of the country is developing at high tempos.

The policy being carried out now thanks to high macro-economic factors allows realizing strategic plans of long term development of the country, multiply means of production, increase their quality, maintain high tempos of GNP production due to perfection of methods of their usage.

Priority trends were indicated in the private sector as well. They have great importance for developing partnership relations between the state and private sectors and perfecting social-economic state system. Support of private initiatives is aimed at development of economy, introduction of innovations, and assistance of investment activity and division of labor.

We will continue investing huge means to economics of the country. As compared to the same period last year the volume of capital investments to economics increased in two times; salary was raised to 10,5 %. The rate of national currency is on specified level. Inflation does not go beyond specified rate. High tempos of development were achieved in construction, industry and other branches.

Our measures on reforming of agriculture started giving positive results. Good young growths of wheat were got this year. It makes us sure that we will get rich gross grain yield.

We continue realizing huge international and home projects. On Monday April 12 we will launch the new airport in Turkmenbashi city, powerful 254 mega watt electric stations in National «Avaza» tourist zone, desalting installation with the power of 35 thousand cubic meters of water, restaurants on the coast, bridges and other constructions.

Construction of the transcontinental North–South railway, work on developing of oil and gas deposits, and social units – institutes, museums, hospitals, schools, dwellings, kindergartens and other important units is going on.

At present Turkmenistan is turning into the country being the most attractive for reliable modern capital investments.

Growing number of visits of representatives of business circles, famous firms and leading companies from various countries of the world to our country is the evidence of it; they want to establish all-sided cooperation with Turkmenistan in different branches.

Material-technical base of spheres of culture considerably strengthened. Along with the construction of new libraries and cinemas circus art loved by everyone is being revived. Ashgabat State Circus will open its doors for its fans on April 23 this year.

Dear members of the Cabinet of Ministers! Your remarkable achievements must not become the cause for damping. This year it is necessary not reducing tempos to continue what we have begun. The new jubilee year will begin exactly in 9 months – the year of the 20th anniversary of our state independence. We must celebrate this not only by holiday activities but by unprecedented achievements in various spheres. It is important to show the whole world how our free, sovereign, independent, neutral state basing on its wealth and national values, in the shortest period of time could achieve such grandiose heights of progress in its development.

In connection with this I charge vice Chairmen of the Cabinet of Ministers, all heads of ministries and branch departments, khacims to use this year all reserves which are in all branches of economy and take measures for providing high tempos of development and do everything to achieve high indicators and celebrate the year of the 20th anniversary of our state independence in an appropriate manner!

Mejlis of Turkmenistan should considerably increase the efficiency of lawmaking work and as soon as possible adopt legislative acts aimed at quick increasing of tempos of growth of economics and development of the society.

I want to draw your attention to one more important issue.

Not only State service on struggle against drugs should oppose illegal turnover and spread of drugs; all of us should unite our efforts for liquidation of this evil of contemporary life. It is one of paramount issues of home policy of the country.

Today, when we successfully carry out reforms promoting strengthening of democratic principles of development, problems connected with narcotic stuff create obstacles for realizing our undertakings. Our society, public organizations, newspapers and magazines, TV and other mass media must be in the vanguard of struggle against drug addiction, spreading of drugs and drug pushing. In the struggle against this evil we should use all means and possibilities and unite the whole population of the country against it.

No tangible shifts are seen in this work from the side of heads of public organizations within all-national «Galkynysh» movement, radio and TV, editors of newspapers and magazines. That is why at some stages the struggle against this evil does not bring desirable results. Development of sport and physical culture-mass movement, propaganda and implementation of healthy way of life among citizens and, in particular, among youth, upbringing of healthy young generation must become counterbalance to drug addiction. Today development of physical culture and sport is considered one of most important trends of the state policy. The state allocates huge means for developing physical culture and sport.

According to the National program of radical changes of social-everyday living conditions of population of settlements, villages, etrap cities and centers more than 200 sport schools for 75 thousand persons are being built in the country; all existing sport grounds and constructions are being reconstructed. For today we have constructed a stadium for 1000 places with a hotel and sections for going in for various kinds of sport in every velayat center and other big sport units equipped in accordance to international standards.

It is necessary to use efficiently all sport grounds and constructions and sport infrastructure. These sport units must have the heads that take care of them and with responsibility carry out their work. In all sport centers sanitary norms should be strictly observed; cleanness, order and discipline should be kept.

There are updated stadiums answering international standards in all velayats of the country. I charge khakims and heads of tourism sphere to make competitions of velayat teams traditional and hold them annually. Sport teams – winners in velayats, can take part in competitions timed to the World health day held in Ashgabat.

Dear members of the Cabinet of Ministers! In the conclusion I want to stress that tempos of social-economic development of our country according to the results of the 1st quarter of this year became one more bright evidence of correctness of the chosen way of strategic development of the state and society; it means that steadily going by this course we will achieve all planned grandiose heights of progress of our Motherland of the epoch of new Renaissance and great changes!

At this I announce the sitting of the Cabinet of Ministers closed.

I wish all of you good health, wellbeing, luck and success in work!

To the participants of the international gas congress and the international exhibition timed to it

(13.04.2010)

Speech at the meeting of delegations of Turkmenistan and Chinese People's Republic in enlarged composition.

(Shanghai, 2.05.2010)

Dear Mister Hoo Tzintao! Dear members of the delegations! First of all, let me express my gratitude to the Chairman of Chinese People's Republic for the invitation to visit your country. I want to mark hospitality and good heartedness with which Turkmenistan delegation was met on Chinese land and wonderful organization of the visit and conditions for efficient joint work.

We consider this state visit to China as stage event in the history of relations between the two countries. Moreover, it is taking place in the context of activating the whole spectrum of Turkmen-Chinese cooperation; good perspectives and opportunities for mutually beneficial cooperation are opening for us.

Important factor of consolidating Turkmen-Chinese relations is high level of mutual understanding and support which were always distinctive features of our relations in political sphere.

We highly appreciate respectful attitude of China to neutral status of Turkmenistan and foreign policy course of our country. In its turn, Turkmenistan always precisely formulates its approach to issues actual for our Chinese partners, among them issues on territorial integrity and unity of China.

Positions of our countries are also close concerning situation in Central Asia: both Turkmenistan and Chinese People's Republic are for creation of firm safety system in the region based on many-sided balance of interests and adherence to political-diplomatic methods of solving problems.

Both Turkmenistan and China speak from the position of responsible members of world community, making practical contribution to creating regional mechanisms of relations and supporting those positive tendencies which are observed in the region. In this connection I would like to stress constructive role of China in regional processes – both political and economic, wisdom, suspension and foresight of approaches of Chinese leaders to issues of cooperation in Central Asia.

Dear members of the delegations! Relations between Turkmenistan and Chinese People's Republic are successfully developing in all spheres.

Their characteristic features are equality, respect to each other, mutual understanding and common vision of large perspectives of bilateral cooperation.

In the whole we must say that Turkmen-Chinese trade-economic links have acquired powerful dynamics. Volume of goods turnover has stable annual tendency of growth. It is enough to say that as compared to 2000 goods turnover between Turkmenistan and China has increased to almost 40 times and according to the results of the last year made 1,5 milliards USD.

Today Chinese People's Republic is one of the largest foreign trade partners of Turkmenistan.

In our country 37 enterprises are working with participation of Chinese capital; 57 investment projects with participation of Chinese companies were registered with the total sum of 4 milliards USD and almost 2,5 milliards yuans.

Companies of CPR are presented in projects in oil and gas and telecommunication spheres, transport, agriculture, textile, chemical and food industries and in construction. I want to stress that in all joint undertakings Chinese partners reveal themselves at their best; they work efficiently and organized, and gained respect of their Turkmen colleagues.

Taking the chance I would like to express my sincere gratitude to all Chinese specialists working in Turkmenistan for their selfless labor for the benefit of two peoples and states.

Fuel-energy sphere is priority trend in bilateral cooperation. It is explainable: our states possess inexhaustible potential. Successful realization of the construction of continental gas pipeline

Turkmenistan-China became the event of great importance. Last year in December honorable Mister Hoo Tzintao visited our country and was present at launching of this unique construction.

We always said that the gas pipeline constructed by joint efforts of our countries is the symbol of unbreakable friendship and cooperation, relations between Turkmenistan and Chinese People's Republic, between two peoples. It opens perspectives for long time and strategic partnership for our states in energy sphere.

The gas pipeline has great significance in the context of activating economic processes in Central Asia and on Asian continent. In this sense realization of the project of Turkmenistan-China gas pipeline is the example of relations based on equality, understanding of mutual advantages opening since the beginning of practical realizing of this project.

It is appropriate to mark closeness of views of our states on issues connected with securing safety and reliability of delivering energy raw materials to world markets.

Existing high level of mutual understanding between our states, regularity and productivity of Turkmen-Chinese dialogue create favorable basis for close partnership in other directions as well. I have already marked that Chinese companies are rather weightily represented in a number of key branches of economics. Along with it present indicators do not exhaust our mutual opportunities. The diversification of Turkmen economics, increasing part of production for export, introducing new advanced technologies open wide horizons of interrelation for our countries.

With the beginning of fast development of infrastructure in Turkmenistan, first of all on the Caspian coast, big opportunities for partnership development in this sphere as well. We are interested in Chinese experience; we are ready to consider proposals on establishing partnership in developing tourist sphere of Turkmenistan.

These days our delegation visited World exhibition «EXPO-2010» in Shanghai, where Turkmenistan also presents its exposition. I think that communication of representatives of state and private structures of our countries within this forum will give good impulse for establishing business contacts and searching for new possibilities for establishing partnership ties.

So we are glad to have the opportunity to share our success and achievements with our Chinese friends and all interested partners. For Turkmenistan economic cooperation is first of all the work for the benefit of people, for increasing wellbeing and people's living standards.

Dear friends! Friendly ties between Turkmenistan and Chinese People's Republic, efficient partnership in political and trade-economic spheres at present stage are complemented by close cultural and scientific cooperation, wide contacts in educational and humanitarian fields.

Turkmenistan and China are countries with ancient and rich history; our relations go to depth of centuries, to times of existence of Great Silk Way. Huge layers of historical ties of peoples of Turkmenistan and China should be seriously studied. Wide possibilities for mutual work are open for our scientists and historians.

Cultural-humanitarian sphere is one of key factors of strengthening friendship and mutual understanding between peoples of the two countries. Our peoples have mutual interest to art and literature of Turkmenistan and China, and the states should encourage it and create favorable conditions for broad contacts of representatives of creative and scientific intelligentsia.

Educational sphere is priority vector of cultural-humanitarian cooperation of Turkmenistan and China. We highly appreciate readiness of Chinese partners to educate our young people. We will continue sending Turkmen students to higher educational institutions of Chinese People's Republic; they will master technical and humanitarian specialties.

Dear Mister Hoo Tzintao! Dear friends! For Turkmenistan China is not only great state, the mightiest world economic and industrial centre. It is a reliable and tried-and-true friend. Much makes us closer – history, geography, deep respect to each other, and likeness of outlooks on key issues of modern global development.

Our relations are of long-term strategic character. They are time-tested; they proved their efficiency and are serious factor of stability and development on Eurasia space.

In it there is the base of our unbreakable friendship and advancing to new achievements for happiness, flowering and progress of peoples of Turkmenistan and Chinese People's Republic.

Thank you for your attention.

We have accumulated positive experience of foreign trade links. Astrakhan companies buy construction materials and other production in Turkmenistan. Nevertheless, I think that there are big opportunities in this sphere with an account to mutual industrial potential.

Turkmen side is ready to deliver production of oil processing and oil chemical industry, light industry goods, textile, carpet items and agricultural production

I stress it not by chance, as I think that there are all favorable conditions for activating and widening of trade-economic relations, first of all, from the view point of sea shipping and communications development. Turkmenistan can realize delivering of its goods to Russia via Astrakhan water transport complex; for this purpose it is reasonable to create corresponding transport-trade infrastructure. Activation of sea communication between Turkmenbashi and Olya ports is of great importance. We also consider the possibility of establishing air communication between Astrakhan, Turkmenbashi and Ashgabat.

In our turn we are ready to consider proposals of industrial enterprises and companies of Astrakhan the production of which is in great demand in economics of Turkmenistan. Possibilities of Astrakhan enterprises on construction of updated vessels are of great importance and also opportunities of educational institutions of Astrakhan on training highly qualified cadres for national fleet of Turkmenistan and separate branches of Turkmen economics.

I am sure that establishing partnership relations between our enterprises, scientific-research and educational establishments, deepening useful contacts on inter-branch level is of great importance. I consider exchange of experience on foundation of innovation-technological centers especially useful, also development of technical parks, introduction of nanotechnologies, foundation of scientific-research laboratories and science intensive enterprises. For additional impulse of business activity and fruitful experience exchange I suggest holding of Sea business forum at the end of this summer and considering complex of issues of joint trade-economic and transport-communication activities on the Caspian.

There is broad field for joint activities in a large scale project of Turkmenistan on creating National «Avaza» tourist zone on the coast of the Caspian. Favorable perspectives open here for formation of modern tourist and port infrastructure where our Astrakhan partners can take part.

All this once again demonstrates the potential which we have in the context of consolidating economic cooperation between Turkmenistan and Russian Federation.

Maintaining the high level of cultural dialogue is an important aspect in our relations, and atmosphere of friendship and mutual understanding, respect and trust shows it.

That is why we intend developing partnership ties with Astrakhan using all available mutual cultural-humanitarian and scientific-educational potential. I want to underline that people of Turkmenistan greatly respect rich Russian culture. It is appropriate to mention that we take care of the monument to Alexander Sergeyevich Pushkin, which was established on May 25, 1901 and is the very first monument to the Great Russian poet in the Central Asian region.

His name was given to one of the oldest theaters of Turkmenistan and joint Turkmen-Russian school; its new building opened at the end of the last year by the Presidents of Turkmenistan and Russia. Taking the chance, I would like to thank you, Alexander Alexandrovich, for the attention you attach to our fellow citizens living on the territory of Astrakhan region. We know how much you do to preserve cultural and historical traditions of our people. Bright example of it is opening of the monument to the great Turkmen poet Magtymguly Phragy in May 2009 in Astrakhan.

There is no doubt that all this promotes bringing peoples of two countries closer. Astrakhan lives a rich cultural life. Various creative meetings, festivals and conferences are held here. I would like to mark that in our country also great attention is attached to cultural part of a society's life. I suggest organizing regular meetings and joint activities of representatives of creative intelligentsia and masters of art.

I suggest as the first step holding seaside festival in Turkmenbashi in 2011 within which we can organize scientific conference and exhibition of artistic works.

Dear friends! Let me express once again my sincere gratitude for hospitality and well prepared program of our stay here.

Let's consider today's meeting one more evidence of mutual wish to continue developing close ties in all directions, the evidence of true friendship and deep mutual respect between peoples of Turkmenistan and Russia.

I wish you, dear Alexander Alexandrovich, great success in responsible state work; I wish your city, your wonderful land and your people wellbeing and prosperity!

Thank you for the attention.

Economic strategy of Turkmenistan: relying on the people, for the sake of the people

(10.05.2010)

I am deeply convinced: if we set down the true aim and go to it by a carefully calculated route, a success imminent. Independent and Neutral Turkmenistan confirms it above-said by the practice of its development, which has received qualitatively new acceleration in recent years. The country, as a fantastic giant, strides through barriers and difficulties, carrying the energy and optimism of the people.

But let's put allegories aside: the reality of this efforts deserves looking at from the most intent and scrupulous point of view. The world is put before a choice of further way and intense search of the new optimal model of development, including a recovery from a global economic crisis, and Turkmenistan being involved in this process, has declared itself as an equal player and partner, which is following basic three conditions, demanded by the world community – reliability, openness and safety.

Since the first day as head of this country the most important task has been the formation of the Purpose that is capable to unite and inspire the nation in achieving new horizons of independence. These horizons were dictated exclusively by internal problems of young statehood but by new calls of time which have sharply risen before the developed and developing economy, before mature and young democracies, Turkmenistan should integrate into a new world system to coordinate and continue internal development proceeding from the enormous potential of the country, its advantageous geo-strategic position, political system of permanent neutrality and necessity of spiritual self-actualization of the nation dating thousands of years back with its culture, and leave an appreciable trace in the world civilization.

I have realized well: whatever problems put forward overtime, it would not be possible to solve it without them idea of uniting the nation. Without that, in order to start the belt of energy of the nation, it needs to revive the gene of creation inherent to it. So our door was knocked, as it was called by the journalists, an epoch of new Renaissance, the name itself served as a key to solve the problems of a new century. All was subject to revival: spirit, traditions, old and new experience, goals and problems, methods and means, in short, all that is expressed by the capacious modern concept «innovation».

Along with that it was required to define accurately the state strategy as the mechanism for realization of the national idea, instrument of diversification of economy and creation of its competitive advantages in a world market of division of labour. «The state is for people!» – proclaims Turkmenistan concluding this extremely briefly under the universal form. As a matter of fact, an appealing modern idea of social development through involvement in this process of the human personality without which any national idea will sag as a badly tensed rope over a mountain precipice.

Even if we search for the main secret of our confident progression, then it is definitely in the sphere of refraction of new realities and secular traditions of the people exactly at that point where they have converged in political and economic calculation of the state.

The belief in creative potential of the nation forces us to build this strategy simultaneously both in key positions, and on flanks, not missing anything – neither big nor small, neither main nor minor, neither long nor momentary demanding decision now and today.

There was an issue to effectively adjust the public management without missing anything from that which should work on the end result that is on the person who consumes the product of his own labour but reproducing this product at a new level of knowledge and quality, living in high grade of life, creating a family, bringing up children, getting access to education and culture, in a word, creating values, above all standing in spiritual hierarchy of the people.

Such statement of the issue has demanded its attaching in the constitution. In the new edition of the Organic Law of Turkmenistan a human being is proclaimed as the highest value of the society and it has predetermined that all the further steps related to the issues of the creation of civil society, providing to each person deeply motivated and interested relation to their rights and duties. Thus, modern elective democracy has found for itself healthy ground in congenial democracy of the Turkmen people, the democracy which has prepared perception of values of modern civilized development.

Certainly, Turkmen democracy is still young, it should get stronger and rise on its feet, but those steps which are undertaken on the maintenance of genuine democracy, origin of the very civil society as a state partner, testify to the verified trajectory of movement in a direction of progress and human development.

Soaking up as a sponge, the most advanced world experience, combining, as it is considered to be, a combination of circumstances and orientation to success, Turkmenistan proves to itself first, then to the others that the true values of the modern society are not in the bowels of the earth but in the people, in their knowledge, professional and human return. From here, the combination of circumstances or strictly speaking, diversification pours out into the system, structured approach to manufacture of a cumulative national product – both raw and export focused, and also its distribution with the account of «the human factor». Thus, the preference is given to the model which is not overtaking but to the postindustrial development, the strategy which has offered new formula of development, expressed in a proportional parity of national and global institutions, the market capital and a product, the role of state and a private sector. In short, building the economic model, Turkmenistan assigns primary importance to the protection of national interest by optimal occurrence of its economy in the world economy.

Once our ancestors, having brought to perfection the ability to live in harmony with nature and use its filigree gifts perfected their vital tools which helped them masterfully cope with all their work in their native land, to create material masterpieces, take very active participation in the functioning of the Great Silk Road, in short, to solve the problems of the century adequately.

In our century our tasks have complicated thousand fold and the reasons are of great variety. These are scientific, technical growth and technological breakthrough caused by it, and the new movement of the world caused by new interests and possibilities of the civilization. This is a global problem of the security born by the new challenges and threats to mankind. In our case study, obliging us enormous energy resources and overcoming the essential historical break which negatively reflected the motivation of people to productive work.

Dividing thesis that the culture and economy are always national and state structure, cultural institutions, cultural traditions are also included in the understanding about economy. I adhere to the conclusion followed from here that to transform of any economy, especially during the transition stage, a human measurement should be given. What does it mean? It means that none of the reforms declared to society can be carried out without the conscious participation of the people and, of course, their support and social protection.

Diligence is the characteristic feature of our nation and the diligence motivated, stipulated by the cast of a soul and by all the factors of the capacity of the environment. In due time, the nation showed wonders of ingenuity adapting the environment they inhabited to reproduce material produced by rational approaches executed, and at the same time the spiritual and moral principles. Like other people conducting the history from the moment of origin of a human civilization, the Turkmen people have succeeded in the creation of their own social and cultural models which are fixed till now in the institute of a family and spiritual traditions.

The practice of the revival has demanded not the mechanical carry-over of these traditions onto the new soil but creation of principally new conditions for their reproduction by modeling of their own economy with all its natural and geographical, social and psychological aspects. Having faced with the problems of self-determination in the conditions of globalization we have seen additional self-realization possibilities for ourselves through the variety of the world and regionalization of the relations.

Our internal reforms, touching upon practically all industrial, social and humanitarian spheres, have been added with the active foreign policy and external economic strategy directed on the maximum participation of the country in the affairs of the world community. Our Neutrality has become not only an effective tool of international policy, but also as the effective impulse on regional and global space of the world.

Work at home, in the country has begun with the definition of priorities which have laid down in a basis of all strategic programmes on putting the country on the international level of development. We proceeded and the state branch and national programmes make essential impact on the structure of industrial goods and services providing them more conformity to the changed public requirements.

The main difficulty consisted in optimizing the standards of quality in respect to all programmes where and at what level they would carry out – in capital and in regions, in health care and education, in the industry and in transport field, in construction and in villages. Having begun reforms from the most remote regions in the west of the country in the town Esenguly which possesses rich on stocks and a variety of natural resources, moden etrap (town) with its corresponding infrastructure we have defined lath height to ourselves and all people and to hold the business of our national honour.

There was no ploughed field of activity in front of us and it demanded not machinery but people. The people, capable to realize all planned programmes and make serious structural changes in the economy, and intensify them, improve a control system and managing methods. In a different way, there was a problem of reproduction of cultural-professional level of the country which is capable to make an impulse to become the developed state with a high standard of living, education and professional culture of the overwhelming majority of the population.

The modern economic ideas state that up-grade starts when the economic movement is coordinated with the values of that culture. Having proclaimed the main value of the person, we started looking for the basic reserve of the production in the human factor as in cumulative national ability of people to realize economic strategy of the state.

In turn, achievement of qualitative level of the human factor has demanded appropriate social structures which in the developed state are provided at the expense of the real sector of the economy with its new scientific, technical and technological basis.

The programme of radical reform of education including academic, higher, professional, technical, comprehensive schools was derived, not casually, as the number one programme.

Like in the schools, kindergartens of the entire country are also equipped with computer classes and modern training programmes. Professional personnel are required in the country capable of being responsible for the destiny of the nation, to lead them further along this complicated world. Opening new institutions of higher education and departments, we prepare future specialists both in our country and in foreign countries where hundreds of students annually go to study and their number will constantly increase.

Re-establishing institutions for postgraduate studies and doctoral candidates with High Certification Committee on seven directions, we pursue the aim to provide all-round preparation of scientific experts proceeding from a complex issue of reform of native science, and its transformation into real productive forces.

We want to teach our new generation not only learning lives and provide education but also to develop them physically and spiritually, as sound people. I would say that this is one of the important issues of the government. Our ancestors took care of their health as the most valuable thing which is given by the almighty and established on unique system, generally speaking, on maintenance of their healthy way of life where, along with a balanced diet physical training of children and youth provided by innumerable sets of games invented by the people and sports contests.

For a healthy way of life we prepared a thoroughly realizing nation-wide programme «Health» and creating corresponding infrastructure, beginning from the modern medical centres and ending with children's resorts and sport schools.

Within the framework of the programme «Health» the system of protection of motherhood and childhood, preventive medicine, institution of family doctors have received huge state support.

We have inherited including aesthetic views the highest spiritual culture from our ancestors. Being able to work with a clear conscience, our people could also have a rest adequately, putting in all holidays competence and optimism of soul. Today we see our task in powerful constructive process to be sustained by the spiritual emancipation of the people and the material basis should be supported by various forms of the encouragement, including measures on development of professional art and arrangement of national competitions, festivals and reviews on revealing national talents.

It is clear that solving of social issues whether it is culture, health care or housing, demands much money. Accordingly social structure should have the industrial component supported by the well-elaborated social-economic policy.

In the aggregate this is our national model and the target of which is to create developed socially-focused market economy of the mixed type, gradual and stage-by-stage formation of highly effective system with the developed public sector, effective entrepreneurship and modern market infrastructure, the effective macroeconomic regulation providing social guarantees to all levels of population and focusing all economic subjects on achievement of high end results.

Our purposes can be stated briefly as follows: «Democratic market reforms – full sufficiency to each family – the strong state».

The rates of the reforms convince us that we are on the correct path. The entire country is in the building woods, covered by a network of communications and the gas pipelines, one of which has reached already China, becoming a modern symbol of the Great Silk Road. Moreover, it broke all records of extent and became the standard of regional infrastructure having passed on the territory of Uzbekistan and Kazakhstan and initiating the whole network of super manufactures on refining, distillation and gas storage.

The basis of the industry in the real sector of our economy forms fuel-energy complex (FEC) experiencing complete modernization. There is active development of the Turkmen shelf of the Caspian Sea where treaty provisions share out products and work with the biggest world companies in the sphere of extraction of energy resources. In addition to a gas pipeline Turkmenistan–China, almost at the same time a Turkmenistan–Iran additional gas pipeline was launched.

A wide range of works are carried out on the intensification of constructions, establishment of competitive national construction complex, enlarging its material and technical base including on the account of development of local manufacture on production of construction materials.

A dwelling house, including elite apartments, which changed the architectural look of Ashgabat beyond recognition, is erected in every corner of the country. Ashgabat scratches the skies with its white marble new buildings. As I have just mentioned above modern children's pre-school establishments, educational and specialized schools, higher educational institutions, medical centers and hospitals furnished with the state-of-the-art equipment, sports schools and even Olympic towns, hippodromes, theatres, Culture Palaces, museums, libraries and many others are built in the capital and regions of the country.

Intensification of construction promoted a jump of volume of value added gross year-on-year. Thus in 2008 these volumes increased 3 times, in 2009 – 2.9 times.

Recently the cement, carbamide, kaolin and metallurgical plants have been put into operation in accordance with the principle of economy diversification and intensification of investment activity in the country. A new start was given to a totally new sector – mining. Construction of textile complexes is in full swing. In whole the modernization of this sector made it possible to worthily compete with its output at the world market. Gas turbine power plants, food industry enterprises and many other objects, which have turned the country into a giant construction site, are erected all over the country.

Development of the «Avaza» tourist zone on the ecologically pure coast of the Caspian Sea is carried out at an accelerated place. Objects erected on this site are to compete with the world class resorts and this site is definitely to be created in the very near future raising the industry of recreation and tourism to a worthy level.

In accordance with this task an up-to-date complex of air-terminal is erected in the city of Turkmenbashi and radical reconstruction of the sea port is also envisaged there. As a whole, within the years of independence there has been created a contemporary transport and communication infrastructure in the country. Recently Tejen–Serahs–Meshhed, Ashgabat–Garagums–Dashoguz, Turkmenabad–Atamurat rail-lines have been laid which possess the access to foreign countries. At present the construction of new railway line Uzen (Kazakhstan) – Bereket – Etrek (Turkmenistan) – Gorgan (Iran) with further access to the Persian Gulf and Indian Ocean has already been launched. Atamurat–Kerkichi Railway Bridge has been put into operation which will give an opportunity to develop economic relations in Central Asian region and bordering states.

Domestic highways of our country are adjusted in accordance with international standards. Total length of highways from west to east and north to south make up 1.7 thousand kilometers.

Rebuilding of a village was our prior concern. Taking measures on the development of rural economy and agro-industrial complex as a whole enabled us to meet the major domestic demand in food at the expense of own resources of the country. At present only 5 percent of the total volume of imports is the share of the food supply and this figure has the tendency to systematic decrease. Just for comparison: in 2008 this index almost approached 9 percent.

Large complexes, farms and peasant unions are created in the country as a result of development of state-private partnership. Considerable successes have been gained in poultry farming; in the near future its products will completely match the country population's demands in it. A task has been set to found a firm basis for the development of other branches of livestock farming as well as fishery in the very near future.

Unique bioclimatic potential and sufficient human resources, given the successful solution of the issue of irrigation water supply, will give the opportunity to the massive planting of fruits, vegetable, cucurbitaceous, berry and nut in the country and guarantee their wide export. Development of the subtropical zones for cultivation of olives, pomegranates, figs, dates, table and sultana variety of grapes a promising future.

Competitiveness of this production in world markets is undoubtedly ensured by its high quality and ecological guarantees.

We have particular views on the further development of cotton-growing, especially cultivation of high-quality sorts of the fine-fibered cotton.

Every plant growing on the generous Turkmen land should be increased by the measures of rational efforts of people on the fields and relevant concern of the Government, that is the way we try to do, bearing in mind the issues of logistics of a village, including the delivery of agricultural machinery from the best world manufacturers, supply of high-quality fertilizers to farmers and tenants, regulation of economic-monetary relations with a view to promote material interest of manufacturers as a result of their work.

Our principal trump in the cumulative solution of this problem is the water. From all eternity the Turkmens have always valued it as the most invaluable riches, appraising its each drop as a grain of gold. Our ancestors have created unique irrigation system, having brought to perfection the kyariz method of irrigation. Today, based upon national traditions to carry the things you start through to their logical end, we have set a mission to solve the issue of water in a complex way – to introduce the fallow land in crop rotation and maintain ecologic security in the region. The Turkmen lake «Altyn Asyr», which has already stretched out for hundreds of hectares of land in the centre of Garagum desert, will serve exactly for this important purpose.

The launching of the second stage of the man-made sea in one of the greatest deserts of the planet will allow us to cope with the solution of the urgent problem of the present – the collecting and processing of drainage water in one place with a view of overcoming of their negative ecological influence to the development of irrigated cropping.

In a word, everything been and being created on our ancient land, on the one hand, will be to support its progress for achievement of a qualitative standard of living of the people, and on the other – to serve the basis for uninterrupted work of the mechanism of social protection of the population and relevant distribution of the national GDP, founded on the modern institutional base of the state-market regulation. Now the strategy of social and economic development of the country until 2030 is being worked out updating the impact influence of the world financial crisis to this process.

Meanwhile this crisis has not caused in phasing out the production, the compelled delays, reduction of workplaces or delays in salary payment. Social privileges in use of gas, the electric power, water, salt and automobile fuel free of charge and other state privileges like in the issues of housing is in full swing in the country. In the field of public health the list of free medical services is strictly observed.

The Government considers taking measures to increase employment of the population, preservation and creation of workplaces, development of services as its major task. With these purposes dozens of new enterprises are constructed annually, especially in rural areas, small and medium cities which promote the decrease of internal migration of the population.

Wages, pensions, welfare payments and grants are constantly raised in the country, in which the process of minimizing the index of consumer prices essentially levels the dynamics of growth of nominal and real incomes of the population. Payment of wages and other incomes is carried out in strict conformity with target dates.

Stable growth of incomes of the population is also expected in the future, which will overtake the general dynamics of the development of the country for the purpose of expansion of internal demand. Thus the population incomes will depend not only on wage levels, but also on equity.

I would like to make a special emphasis on the following: «Turkmenistan has entered a phase of economic reforms while the world economic crisis has faced a great number of problems connected with the maintenance of balance in labour market and the capital. As is known the global crisis was preceded by financial crisis in the course of which, after all, there have taken place structural disproportions between financial and credit-and-monetary sphere, on the one hand, and real sector, on the other.

So to a definite extent we have appeared in a role of pupils who profit by the mistakes of the world and, maybe, its main mistake is to attach more power to the role of the market as the regulator of social demand and offer. Besides, the market mechanism cannot provide sufficient investment in the human capital, i.e. in primary and secondary education, healthcare, culture, sports.

Coincidence of our own way of an optimal mode of development with the joint efforts of the world community on overcoming the consequences of crisis has become our advantage which has caused acquisition of sovereignty by the economy on the basis of the modern institutionalization, which is based on both rational estimation and many factors giving a freedom in choosing of institutes, friendly to economic development.

Running forward I note that this chosen course has passed a serious test of time so that the potential of the modern Turkmenistan made it possible to minimize the influence of the crisis to the national economy. According to calculations of authoritative international organizations it has lightly reflected the dynamics of economic development of our country.

Balanced state regulation with the purpose of taking advantage of all financial and political opportunities of the state including effective structure of capital, high rate of investments to basic funds and human capital have become the fundamental factor in this matter.

Successful realization of anti-crisis measures, maximization of their influence on economy are only possible with the provision of the necessary standard of macroeconomic stability, guaranteeing functionality of major sectors of economy, including such parameters like economic growth, population employment, dynamics of overall price level, exchange rate, export and import, capital movement both to and out of the country, stipulated by necessity of analyzing total revenue, the deficiency of which causes the main obstacle in the way of growth of the total gain.

The Government of Turkmenistan tries hard to take into account all factors of the crisis while elaborating and realizing anti-crisis measures and it is proceeded from the necessity of preserving the proper volume of cumulative financial reserves for the solution of both anti-crisis issues and that of the strategic development of state economy for the long-term outlook.

As of today dynamic microeconomic policy provides the maintenance of significant pace of GDP growth gained at the expense of the realization of strategic programs of long-term development of the country, radical sectoral shifts: diversification and modernization of industrial and natural-material GDP structure. Within the last 3 years the average annual temps of its development exceeded 109 percent, 17 % of which is the share of the construction sector.

In whole, considerable part of the GDP falls on industrial sector. In 2008–2009 fiscal years this index gained almost 72 percent. Prevailing figures of the industrial sector are conditioned by modern priorities of development of the national economy, since the industry meets the internal and external demand: agriculture supplies the internal market with its products, construction draws considerable investments.

Real economic potential of the country grows at the expense of the increase of manufacturing resources, improving quality, and perfection of application mechanisms. Meanwhile basic components of the economic development of Turkmenistan are the long-term investment called into money deposits with the view to gaining income and achieving positive social effect.

Hence we attach special attention to the creation of a favorable investment climate, diversification of investment sources, acceleration of major projects and programme realization, prior investment to the social and engineer infrastructure.

Today in Turkmenistan there has been created an economic system with the sufficiently solid investment potential, which is significantly important in conditions of the world financial crisis. Economy of the country is the surplus on its aspects which promotes to constantly grow «long-term credits», accumulated both in national and foreign currencies. Correlation of investment volume to GDP growth of the state in 2008 equaled to 32%, in 2009 – more than 47 %, where one third of the total volume is the share of the foreign investments drawn by dynamic tempos.

In whole it is worth mentioning that at the investment point the country is sufficiently attractive since it does possess with great reserves in both fuel and energy and non-recourse sectors of economy combined with the existing of yet created foremost production potential, manpower resources, steadily strengthening legislative base, as well as the net of the infrastructure branches for successful business, all together creating favorable conditions for further steady economic growth.

Private sector also has its priorities which attach strategic character to the state and private partnership in the development and modernization of socio-economic structure of the state. Initiatives on the private sector issues are called to significantly promote changes for the better, introduction of innovations, effectiveness of capital and differentiation of labour.

There has been set a task that by 2020 to increase the share of the private sector in GDP growth of the country by 70 percent (with no account taken of the fuel and energy complex). To realize this task it is necessary not only to widen the existing range of partnership on a number of specters of contracts extended by the Government to private companies but also to attach to this partnership more close organizational and legislative linkage concerning programs of progressive development of the country.

Concrete steps are made in this direction. Law of Turkmenistan «On the state support to the small and medium entrepreneurship» approved in 2009 is directed to the development of small and medium enterprises. A program on state support to business is being elaborated in compliance with the document. The practice of crediting entrepreneurial structures for 10 years at 5 percent interest per annum for purchasing main facilities as well as crediting for 1 year for gaining floating funds is widely applied.

By promoting private sector development, State pursues the aim of increasing its contribution to formation of GDP and corresponding increase of incomes of the population. Business itself will be responsible for many social directions.

Monetary accommodation of the financial sector is one of the significant directions of the macroeconomic balance of Turkmenistan.

In the last years the stability of purchasing-power parity of the national monetary unit is provided in the country, amount of credit resources are intensively increased, liquidity of bank assets is supported, the course on financial support of priorities on real sector of economy developments remains. Unification policy of the national currency was achieved in May, 2008 and denomination of manat is also successfully done since January, 2009. As a result of the undertaken cardinal measures financial and economic condition of enterprises has essentially improved, the movement of money improved, availability of credit resources is provided. In the overall country exchange points are available; even so the rate of manat showing its stability hadn't changed in two years.

The monetary policy of the country is aimed also at showdown of inflationary processes, stabilization of consumer prices. In 2009 the rate of inflation made 100,1 percent which is an absolute minimum for all period of calculations of the given indicator.

At the aim preservation of stability of consumer prices at the domestic market and also due to interest of local commodity producers in increasing export of goods, customs taxes rates are considerably lowered and on some vital goods they are cancelled all together.

Mortgage crediting is developing very rapidly on favorable terms with a view of improvement of security of the population housing habitation. Mortgage is loaned for 30 years under 1% annual interest rate with a grace period till 5 years in which the interest for the credit is paid, instead of the basic debt under the credit. The enterprises and the organizations are authorized to give 50% of discount from the cost of accommodation for the employees who have taken the mortgage credit. Nowadays mortgage credit has been intensively extended in the countryside, small cities and regional provinces.

An integral part of the financial policy is the formation of the qualitative tax- budgetary system acting as one of the conditions of active state regulation by economic processes. Level of tax loading on national economy for the recent years makes about 23 percent to GDP. The budget of Turkmenistan being profitable has a social orientation and the profitable part grows with the advancing rates in relation to expenses. Proficiency means accumulation in the Stabilization fund of the country which is established for the protection of the national economy from the negative influence of external factors and is directed on realization of priority government programmes and introduction of innovations.

The existing fiscal mode promotes positive dynamics of development of subjects of economic activity and stability of social environment. The taxation provides considerable benefits for priority directions of the development of economy.

As I have already noted globalization and transition processes to market relations considerably change a role and state functions. At present time reforms in the political sphere and information sector are initiated in Turkmenistan, and the legislation is updated and the institutional basis is improved. In the modern democratic state a basis to all is the acting legislative base guaranteeing equal possibilities to all its participants. In this direction many things have been done: functions of single legislative authority are transferred to Mejlis, its structure is expanded; many rules were updated and adopted, first and foremost, the Constitution of the country; reference points to multi-party system formation are planned.

It is demonstratively visible that institutional reforms touched upon economic block, construction complex and large scale national projects and entrepreneurship sector. New agencies, committees and unions called to promote efficiency of the realization of priority programmes and projects of modern Turkmenistan have been established. The Institution of strategic planning and economic development of Turkmenistan, Institute of State and Law at the President of Turkmenistan, Public Service Academy at the President of Turkmenistan were established and started their work where preparation and retraining of executive personnel for all sectors of the economy is carried out.

Possibilities of mass media are extended; population access to a global network of internet is improved.

As a whole, institutional reform is directed on as much as possible, effectively to use all financial and political possibilities of the state for realization of the national economic strategy, to provide system and assuming close coordination of economic, socio-political and cultural factors, the approach to solving of management tasks.

«How much time is for everybody, so time is for each one» – says the Turkmen proverb, containing the wisdom of the world. One will not say more accurately about interconnection of the world, as well as about, saying in modern language, what is the consistence of human capital. Today it is the main factor of economical growth or permanent progressive development of the economy.

World process of advanced investment in human capital is taking place in comparison with materially capital investments. This tendency caused the need for the factor of global security as the main condition of the whole development of human civilization, extending the world economy as economical unity of countries of the modern world, functioning of which is connected with existence of the world labor division, world system of transport and communication, and a world market of goods.

Building its economic strategy, also means tasks of participation in the creation of a global model of security, because it sees in it guarantees of national economical security as basis of its economical sovereignty. From this arrives our approach to security as the subject of unique matter, because not one of its elements, whether it is political, energy, food, ecological, could exist separately, without interdependence from each other and without acting as indivisible in the geopolitical context.

The position that we take in this issue, strong and unchangeable, because it is based on the neutral status of Turkmenistan acknowledged by the world community. This stability of principles of nonmilitary, politically-diplomatic peacemaking under the aegis of the UN attaches to our neutrality the qualities of flexible and strong mechanism for realization of security tasks where our interests and where they are connected with interests of regional and world order. So, acknowledging most vulnerable parts of the global economy the system of international energy supplies and making corresponding initiative, we, securing support of the UN, the continuously realize this initiative into reality, seeing the final aim in the development of internationally-legal document concerning the transit of energy resources taking into account proposals of interested countries and international organizations.

Being the participant to main international conventions and agreements, Turkmenistan makes initiative in the sphere of disarmament problems in the region of Central Asia and the Caspian Sea, in the issues of rational use of water resources of the region to secure food security, in the work of recovery of Afghanistan and recovery of its economy, and also for setting close cooperation with structures of the UN in the sphere of protecting of motherhood and childhood, protecting the rights of the disabled, refugees and so on. In solving these and other problems we see real role for the UN Regional Centre for Preventive Diplomacy in Central Asia that is located in Ashgabat and support more wider and subjected attraction of the Centre to the efforts of the world community undertaken in all these directions.

Turkmenistan supports regulations of the Final document of the conference of the UN on global financial-economic crisis and its consequences for development and considers actual proposals that were stated on it concerning the quick reform of the world financial institutes – the World Bank and International Monetary Fund.

Turkmenistan intends to widen its participation in the realization of projects and programs, realized in the framework of the UN and its structures, first of all, UNDP, ECE, ESKAPO. Development of international ties of our country will continue as in the framework of already signed agreements, as well by setting new international contacts. It is enough to say, that in practice 109 international programs realized in the sphere of healthcare, protection of environment, education, culture and in number of other areas.

Supporting the further development of international law, aimed to promote organization of the normal economic relations between states, Turkmenistan, on its part, guided by organizational-institutional basis of foreign economic relation, that help to successfully realize in practice the policy of «open doors». This policy favorably affected direct foreign investment in development of priority-driven sectors of the national economy.

We widely use such form of attracting foreign investment as agreements on production share that is widely used in international practice. So, every year increase the share of oil and gas, produced by joint or foreign companies «Petronas» (Malaysia), «Dragon Oil» (UAE), «Wintershall» (Germany), «Maersk Oil» (Denmark), «ONGC» (India), «Buried Hill» (Canada). For 2009 the unit weight of oil, produced by joint or foreign companies, was 41 percent, and gas – about 6 percent. Close cooperation with leading American companies «John Deer», «Case», «Exxon Mobil», «Shevron», «Eurasia Group », «Boing» and others taking place.

It was widely spread construction by foreign companies of various facilities of industrial and social-cultural field. For the period of 1 January 2010 in application of capital investment in the country 117 foreign companies from 25 countries of the world took part. For the same date the number of constructions, realized by foreign companies was 530 units with construction budget 11,7 billion US dollars.

In the whole world one of most fast growing areas of foreign economic activities, being a very important source of foreign income is international tourism. Beginning with the implementation of the National tourist zone of «Avaza» we thoroughly estimated its economical feasibility and effectiveness and only after this we come to decision to introduce there the mechanism of a free economic zone, acknowledged by the world community, on the basis of tax, financial and legal conditions and the creation of necessary industrial infrastructure. Complex measures, adopted for the development of «Avaza», envisage a favorable regime for foreign and local investors, businessmen of the tourist industry, including simplification of the visa regime for tourists, tax preferences (during construction and during 15 years after introducing facilities into operation of infrastructure and tourism investors are free from paying tax for property, for income and tax for added value, custom and exchange taxes, from payment for services for licensing and certification and, for rent of land.

I have mentioned already the development of all kinds of domestic transport, in which we see, besides providing a direct way to the world, it is also a serious source of foreign trade income for the state, creates possibilities of decreasing income for import, and increase export of income, and extra income from tourism.

The intensive and pragmatic foreign economic policy of Turkmenistan allows increasing year by year capacity of foreign trade turnover, average annual rates of growth of which for previous years are on sufficiently high level. During a number of years the positive balance of trade of Turkmenistan is high, favorably reflected on the balance of payment of the country.

The main priority in foreign economic policy of the state – gradual transforming of Turkmenistan from the category of the country-exporter of raw materials into country-producer and exporter of ready high technological goods. And by various means the stimulated import of leading technologies, devices and tools. For the last years the share of production of industrial-technological purpose in the structure of import was 70–80 percent.

Leading trade partners of Turkmenistan are such countries like Russia, China, Turkey, USA, UAE, Italy, Germany, Japan, Switzerland, France, Iran and other countries. Production of Turkmenistan properly presented in world markets, including numbers natural gas, oil and oil products, electroenergy, polypropylene, liquefied gas, cotton-fiber, cotton yarn, materials, agricultural production and products of processing and others.

In the country annually dozens of international conferences and exhibitions are taking place that promote further development of foreign economic relations and creation of joint ventures. At the initiative of Turkmenistan authoritative investment forums in foreign countries are held. Ashgabat is becoming the centre of attraction of scientific and cultural ideas, where regularly gather representatives of intellectual and creative elite from many countries of the world.

For further effective integration of the economy of Turkmenistan into the world economic system the country needs proper diversified and modernized industrial potential, developed transport and communication arteries, high quality market infrastructure, economical and legal guarantees, conditions for attracting wide-range investments, and stability of social and political systems. In all these directions continuous work is done and already good results were reached. But the world does not stay in one place and Turkmenistan needs more high speed development planned programs.

The world practice has proved that the right model of the development of the society is that which promotes the steady economic and political development of socially-oriented and socially-responsible types. The society has approached the recognition of national aims superior to the economics and individual material concerns. All components of force of the modern community are concerned in building such a model and every component should realize its responsibility in this process.

The basic component of the model of development of Turkmenistan, the Epoch of New Renaissance is the social vector. Our potential and every opportunity, vector must be directed most to the achievement of the closest interrelation of economic and social factors of accelerated development. Boosting of huge investments in industrial and social spheres is conditioned on the endeavor of Turkmenistan to gain advanced parameters of development and be worthily ranked among developed countries of the world. Apart from the high-technological lifestyle of the economy, this is the worthy level of welfare of the people.

All reforms taking place in Turkmenistan are aimed at gaining exactly such goals, and economic opportunities only serve as instrument for their effective realization.

Speech at the session of the Elders' Council of Turkmenistan

(Dashoguz, 14.05.2010)

Dear Elders! Dear Friends! First of all, I would like to thank you cordially and in your person the whole Turkmen people for broad support of the state policy of our Independent country and implemented reforms.

When your people stand behind your back, when you feel their strong shoulder, when you see how due to adopted decisions and implemented reforms in the record short terms the large structures are erected, new buildings are growing, how our blessed land is being transformed and become more beautiful day by day, it becomes easier to work.

Once again, I thank everyone from the bottom of my heart for your support and assistance in development scaled works on transformation of the country and its intensive development.

Dear Elders! Dear Friends! All spheres of our life – the industrial, social and humanitarian are covered with reforms, carried out by us within the country. The foreign policy and foreign economic strategy of our country is harmoniously combined with activity of the world community in this field.

The neutrality policy, pursued by us is more efficient direction of the foreign policy of not only our state, but it became the powerful political course in the frameworks of the whole world community.

As you know, before starting implementation of the reforms, we defined the priority directions, laid in the basis of the strategic programmes of the leading of the country to the contemporary level of the development.

While preparing the branch and state programmes, we took into consideration the growing needs of the society, as well as the increase of volumes of the production of goods of the sphere of services.

In accordance with programme of the development of the country, works, carried out in the capital and velayats (provinces), as well as in spheres of health care, education, industry, transportation, building, agriculture and other sectors must meet the standards of the high quality.

We implement the scale reforms in the country.

Laying the foundation of the contemporary etrap (district) with all required infrastructure in Esenguly etrap, located in the western part of the country and possessing the rich reserves of minerals, we put very high goals before us and will obtain them without fail.

We proclaimed the reforming of the system of education, including the academic, higher, secondary specialized and secondary schools as the priority task. The true palaces-modern kindergartens, schools with computer rooms, equipped with the latest multimedia technologies are erected for children in all parts of our Motherland.

We inherited from ancestors the high spiritual culture, including the culture of behaviour in society and original aesthetic views. Our people, who can honestly and selflessly work, always could have a rest deservedly, solemnly and colourfully celebrating their national holidays.

Presently, our task consists in enrichment of the powerful creative potential of the Turkmen people through their spiritual revival. We support the material basis of the spiritual revival using the varied methods of the state stimulation, including the developing different directions of art, organizing nationwide competitions, festivals and shows with purpose of revealing talented children.

Solution of the social issues, including the development of culture and health care, provision of the population with modern accommodations, demands large financial investments.

The weighed social and economic policy and powerful industrial basis are the main system of the social security.

The creation of the socially oriented development of the market economy of the mixed type in the country is one of our main tasks.

The formulation of the set tasks before us is sounded so: «The democratic market reforms – the well provided life of each family – the strong state».

The high rates of reforms, implemented in the country prove the correctness of the way, chosen by us, along which we go.

Currently, the scaled construction is going on in all parts of the country. The whole country is covered with nets of the communication and gas-transport systems. One of suchlike gas mains reached up to China and became the up-to-date symbol of the revived Great Silk Road.

It is the most extensive gas main in the world, running over the territories of Uzbekistan and Kazakhstan, and became the positive example the regional cooperation in the sphere of cleaning, processing and storing of the natural gas as a large contemporary production.

Besides the Turkmenistan–China gas pipeline, one more branch of Turkmenistan–Iran gas pipeline has been constructed and commissioned for transportation of the natural gas to Iran.

At present, the fuel-energy complex, which takes an important part in the economy of the country, undergoes a complete modernization. The Turkmen sector of the Caspian Sea is developed at a rapid pace. Within the framework of the agreement on a product sharing basis here large world companies, which carry out fruitful cooperation with our country in the oil and gas field, are employed.

A large-scale work is carried out in our country to increase the pace of construction projects, to create competitive construction complex and to strengthen its material and technical basis at the expense of production of local construction materials.

Construction of residential buildings is also carried out at a rapid pace in the country. Appearance of a whole range of residential quarters faced with white marble has completely changed the architectural outlook of Ashgabat.

As I have mentioned, pre-school, secondary and vocational and higher schools that meet modern requirements, have been constructed and are being constructed in the capital and provinces of the country.

Besides, modern medical centres, hospitals, sports schools, an Olympic town, hippodromes, theatres, palaces of culture, museums, libraries and many other projects of social importance equipped with modern technologies and the latest achievements of science are also being built in the country.

The high pace of the construction industry has led to the rapid rise of the VAT (value-added tax). For example, as compared with 2008 it has grown almost by three times in 2009.

Thanks to the growth of the volume of investment directed to the diversification of economy in the recent years there have been constructed and launched into operation cement, carbamide, and kaolin and metallurgy factories in the country.

We have started the foundation of the mining industry, which is an absolutely new field of industry for our country.

We also continue construction of textile complexes. Modernization of enterprises of this industry has allowed us to manufacture the goods which are highly demandable and competitive on the world markets.

Besides, gas turbine power stations, food industry enterprises and many other projects are being constructed in the country and today our country has turned into a large construction site.

The development of the National «Avaza» Tourist Zone in the ecologically pure zone of the Caspian Sea is carried out at a rapid pace as well. Projects being realized at Avaza are aimed at creation of a whole range of recreation and resort centres in this zone. Creation of this complex will allow bringing the tourism industry to the completely new level.

Many of you have participated in the opening ceremonies of construction projects at Avaza and witnessed how previously sandy coasts of the Caspian Sea have changed into the most beautiful and favourite place of recreation within a short period of time and thanks to it, the employability of the population is also improved.

Within the target program a new modern international airport has been constructed and opened in the city of Turkmenbashi and in future the sea port is also expected to be completely reconstructed.

In the years of independence there has been established a modern transport and communication system in the country. There have been constructed railway lines Tejen–Serakhs–Meshhed and Ashgabat–Garagum–Dashoguz–Turkmenabad–Atamyrat, and in future these railway lines will be connected with railway lines of foreign countries.

At present, the construction of the railway line Noviy Uzen (Kazakhstan)–Bereket–Etrek (Turkmenistan)–Gorgan (Iran) is also carried out at a rapid pace. In future this line is expected to run as far as the Persian Gulf and the Indian Ocean.

The railway bridge Atamyrat–Kerkichi over the Amyderya River has been also built and launched into operation. It will enable significantly expand the economic ties with Central Asian countries and neighbouring countries.

In line with international standards, inland motor roads are also built and today their total length from the west to the east and from the north to the south makes up 1700 kilometres.

As a result, thanks to the economic reforms carried out in the country, the image of cities and villages is changing before our eyes. These changes are a bright example of successful realization of the national programs on improvement of social conditions of the population of villages, settlements, towns, cities, etrap and etrap administrative centres up to 2020.

It is good that soon the social and living conditions of the village population will differ less from conditions of the townspeople. New working places are also created in village, the efficient ways for further development of the production of sphere of services and supply systems are being worked out.

Our main aim is to solve successfully the tasks planned in the present Program as soon as possible, efficiency from realization of which is rather obvious already.

Last years, the cities and villages of the country changed with taking into consideration of the contemporary architectural and town planning experience, and new cities and villages with complex of objects of the social and cultural purposes is a striking illustration of it.

The construction of objects of education and health care is widely developed in rural area. During last two years, 23 new hospitals, 19 health houses, 14 pre-schools, 17 comprehensive secondary schools were built in villages.

The number of village cultural institutions, sports schools and facilities is being increased. Last time, 4 new cultural centres, 11 sports schools and 7 sports facilities have been constructed within short interim.

Besides that about one thousand kilometers of water-supply and sewerage systems, about 840 kilometers of motor roads are built. More than 3300 kilometers of gas pipeline systems, more than 750 kilometers of power transmission lines, more than 4300 kilometers of communication line were commissioned in cities and villages. Within this period, dwelling houses with more than 1 million square meters of total area have been constructed.

All these pleasing facts tell that Programme of the complex development of the Turkmen village is realized efficiently and in stipulated dates.

Presently, taking into consideration the first experience of the first phase of realization of the Programme of development of villages, townships and cities, it is important to reconsider directions, not envisaged by the present Programme.

If along with improvement of the social and living conditions of rural population of the country, beginning from 2011, we will create conditions for production of the ecologically pure agricultural products, increase the processing capacities of the industrial sectors of the agro industrial complex, I think, you will support me.

The accomplishment of this scale work as well as support of the small and medium-sized enterprises will promote the successful implementation of the tasks set by us.

The definite measures taken in the country will make it possible to increase considerably the rates of works on fulfilment of tasks, set by National Programme on radical changes of social and living conditions of the population of villages, townships, towns of etrap and etrap centres for the period until 2010.

Besides, it will allow steadily increasing of the volumes of the industrial production in different sectors of economy, creation of additional working places, increasing the volumes of the commodity turnover at the expense of increased demands in the home markets for the commodities of the domestic and foreign production.

Taking into consideration the importance of National Programme on radical changes of the social and living conditions of population of villages, townships and towns, I charge you, the Vice-Chairperson of the Cabinet of Ministers of Turkmenistan T. Japarov, to find the required financial resources and beginning from 2011, to increase twice the financial works on the present Programme.

Dear participants of Elders' Council! Dear Elders! As you know, putting forward motto «The State is for People!», which was laid into the basis of the policy, pursued by our country, we successfully realize all programmes, aimed at steady improvement of level of life of the country's residents.

The positive reforms, implemented by us presently touched all parts of our Independent country. They are directed to the improvement of level of life and wellbeing of the people, creation of good conditions for creative labour and deserving rest of the citizens.

It is not surprising for anybody that free of charge electric power is delivered to each home in our country. We also solved the issues of regular gas supply of cities and villages.

The cellular communications and Internet has been rapidly developing in Turkmenistan. Only for last period, the number of users of the Worldwide Web exceeded to 1.5 million people.

I think that it is time to solve another pressing problem – the supply of whole population of the country, including remote villages, townships and distant pastures with pure drinking water.

If you approve, I will charge the Vice-Chairmen of the Cabinet of Ministers Mr. M. Akmammedov, H. Saparliyev, T. Japarov, the Ministries of Agriculture, Water Economy and Nature Protection of Turkmenistan jointly with the velayat municipalities and the Academy of Sciences to prepare the General Programme for full supply of all settlements of the country, and, above all, pre-schools, secondary schools and other educational institutions, hospitals, public catering establishments with pure drinking water.

For successful solution of this task, for the construction of water treatment facilities and desalination plants in every city and district, construction of small enterprises for the production of drinking water, I entrust to attract to this work the foreign companies, operating on the most advanced technology of treatment and enrichment of water, construction of water supply systems along with own construction companies.

Dear participants of Elders' Council! Dear Elders! In a word, everything realized on our ancient land will promote further improving people's wellbeing and living standards.

Taking into consideration of influence of the global financial crisis on the economy of the country, today, we have accepted «The National Programme of social and economic development of Turkmenistan for 2011–2030».

In conditions of continuing of the global financial-economic crisis in the world, we didn't allow till the current days the volumes of production, the forced stoppage of enterprises, job destruction, and arrears in payment.

Our state considers issues of employment of the population, preservation of the existing and creation of new working places, expansion of the spheres of services as the most important solution.

Annually, tens of new enterprises are constructed with these purposes in our country, particularly, in rural areas, townships and etrap centres.

The rate of wages and salaries, pension and state benefits, students' scholarships are systematically increased. At the same time, the prices are left stable, incomes of population are increased, salaries and other payments are made without delay.

The further regular increase of incomes of the population, which will promote the consecutive expansion of the consumer market, is envisaged.

At the same time, the increase of incomes of the population will be connected with not only the increase of the rate of wages and salaries but with increase of the income received from turnover of the private capital of the population, that will positively influence on further improvement of people's living standards.

I am confidently sure that our country chose the right way; it is a way of reforms and changes, which will make it possible to obtain high achievements.

The course, chosen by us, withstand the severe tests of time and continuing in the world the financial and economic crisis, and the wide nationwide support of reforms, implemented by us, promotes achievement of high indexes in the social and economic development, further growth and strengthening of the international authority of our Motherland, taking a deserving place in the world community.

Dear participants of Elders' Council! Dear Elders! We live with you in the same society, and for this reason, we can not close our eyes to the shortcomings which are the obstacle for rapid advancement of the country for the better life of the people.

I tell about the evil under the name of drug addiction. We can overcome this trouble only with common efforts, only fighting together against this global social evil of the present time. It is necessary to join efforts of bodies of state power and administration, public organizations, each family, each citizen.

I would like to stress that as the Head of the Turkmen State, I will carry on a serious, decisive and uncompromising struggle against this evil, cruel by its inhumanity, until it will not be eradicated completely in our country.

Dear Elders! You are honoured by people. It is in your power to do much in struggle against drug addiction, for this reason, you must take an active part in the decisive nationwide fight against this evil. You must control the narcotic dependent people; you must revive and use the efficient strict measures of the public censure of the drug-addicts as did our ancestors because these methods always gave the positive results.

The results of upbringing the young generation in spirit of time mostly depend on efforts of the elder generation because you have a wide life experience which will help young people to find their place in life. You must constantly admonish youth; explain how consequences of using narcotics can be destructive.

You must help drug-addicts to cope with narcotic dependence and stand on the way of reformation, to become the deserving citizens of the country, and you must protect the young people from this fatal addiction.

The village elders must unite efforts against those villagers who intend to engage in drug pushing. The crime of the distributors of narcotic drugs must be obligatorily the object of the social reprobation, censure, by law, his property must be confiscated, and he himself must discharge the term of the sentence in full, after which he must be subjected to the forcible migration.

More often the young people are caught in the net of drug addiction. The majority of troubles started from it, and the talk is about the gene pool of the nation.

The durable immunity must be cultivated in our young people against harmful habits-smoking, alcohol drinking, and using narcotics.

Often these harmful habits bring a person to the drug addiction and make him dependent from narcotics. Sooner or later, the addiction to narcotics brings to crime.

That is why, the spiritual-moral experience of the people, based on national sacred objects, plays a great role with this misfortune. We must spread this experience in families and kindergarten, to continue it in school, secondary, specialized and higher educational establishments, obtaining the considerable positive results.

The state chose the countryside development of sports and physical-mass movement, popularization and adoption of healthy lifestyle, upbringing physically and spiritually healthy generation of the young people, training highly-qualified specialists, people with broad world outlook and great erudition as one of the priority directions of its youth policy to conduct the decisive fight against drug addiction.

We declared the decisive fight against drug addiction and will not permit that our citizens, their families, natives and close friends will become the victims of this merciless evil.

Dear participants of Elders' Council! The social and economic life of our Independent Motherland has been steadily developing in a rapid pace. The firm foundation of the democratic, legal secular state has been laid in Turkmenistan. The multilateral relations of our Neutral state with international organizations and states of the world have been regularly strengthening. The experience of the permanently Neutral Turkmenistan in international relations, which allowed our state obtaining the status of the regional peace-making centre, has been increased and enriched.

The unity of our goals provides the integrity of the interests of the state, society and each person.

Presently, the market relations, have been rapidly developing in the country, different conditions for all forms of property are created.

People support the state programmes of the development of the country and take an active part in their realization. It is a confirmation of the nationwide support of our main motto «The State is for People!», guided by which we implement our reforms.

I think the time has come to start the creation of the multi-party social and political system not accelerating the artificial large-scale social and economic reforms, implemented in our Independent state, gradually, taking into consideration all conditions.

In this connection, I give the task to Turkmenistan Mejlis to work out the draft of Law on Political Parties.

Let's say that the creation of the Party of farmers meets the demands of the present time, and they are so: to explain widely and implement wholly the agrarian policy of the state. It will allow uniting efforts of our society in realization of our agrarian policy, from the ideological point of view to provide reforms, regulating the land and water relations in village, as well as further improvement of social and living conditions of the rural population.

The main requirement for the new party is the strict observation of bases of the constitutional structure of Turkmenistan and active participation in Nationwide «Galkynysh» (Revival) movement. We have the same aim, but means and methods of its achievements can be different. But the main thing – we must serve the single goal!

The Turkmen people are very diligent, self-possessed, law-abiding and open people. Our people widely support and develop inherited from ancestors the principles of good and justice, spiritual and moral values, high morality and material culture, democratic ideals of society. Support for people is a basis and the decisive condition of the social and economic development of the country.

I am confidently sure in my beloved Turkmen people, their political far-sightedness, that they feel their responsibility before the spirit of ancestors, before the present and next generations of citizens of the Independent and Neutral Turkmenistan!

As I have already mentioned, beginning from my pre-election presidential programme and meetings with electors, I always feel the wide support of the people of carried out by me home and foreign policy, I feel that people believe in positive results of our scaled reforms.

Dear participants of Elders' Council!

To discuss with elders the most important issues of the state policy, to consult with them is one of the main principles and traditions of the national democracy from the times of our ancestors. The issues, submitted to the agenda of the present session of the Elders' Council, will help to define the further ways of successful implementation of the large-scale reforms, aimed at progressive development of the country and all spheres of our life.

Only united citizens of the strong and united society will be able to solve efficiently the grandiose tasks, which we set before us in the Independent and Neutral Turkmenistan.

I wish you sound health, longevity, wellbeing to your family hearths, eternal happiness and successes in your works for further prosperity of our beloved Motherland! I wish you to live welfare and abundance, gladdening to successes of the Independent and Neutral Turkmenistan. May your life be secured!

Congratulation to people of Turkmenistan on the adoption of the Constitution of the country and the Day of revival, unity and poetry of Magtymguly Phragy

My beloved people! Dear compatriots! I cordially congratulate you on one more festivity – national holiday inspiring people and multiplying their patriotic feelings – the Day of adoption of the Constitution of the country and the Day of revival, unity and poetry of Magtymguly Phragy! On this fine holiday day inspiring Turkmen people to new heights in the epoch of new Renaissance and great changes in flowering country I wish you solid health, long life, family wellbeing, success and good luck in everything!

Dear compatriots! This year it will be 18 years since the adoption of the Main Law – the Constitution of Turkmenistan. Happy people of our powerful state on May 18 inspiringly celebrate the Day of adoption of the Constitution of Turkmenistan as the holiday of strengthening sovereignty, the holiday of revival, unity and solidarity. On the days of nationwide festivity fascinating music-song holiday activities will be held; exhibitions and creative meetings will be organized; the ceremony of launching new dwellings with improved comfort and other social-cultural units will be held. This holiday inspiring us and multiplying our feelings of unlimited pride for our happy life, confidence in happy future will be written down in the history in golden letters.

Dear friends! The Constitution of Turkmenistan being firm base of our sovereign state reflects many-centuries dreams of our people, their idea of revival, unity and solidarity, high morality, freedom, patriotism and democracy. Neutral status of Turkmenistan recognized by UNO is perpetuated in the Main Law. The Constitution of Turkmenistan guarantees citizens' worthy life and happy future.

The Main Law of independent neutral Turkmenistan gives wide opportunities for consolidating of our democratic, legal, secular state, for further developing of humane, just society of high spirituality; the main thing is in the fact that it announces a person to be everlasting value of our state and society; it creates conditions for his problem-free life and possibility to create, study and rest.

In 2008 we adopted the document which became guarantee of justice based on democratic, secular and humane principles – new version of the Constitution in which necessary amendments were made. In the epoch marked by increasing of social-cultural level of people's life, scales of newly built projects – modern dwellings, schools, kindergartens, health and culture homes, sport constructions – in the epoch of rapid advancing of the country to new heights of progress, Constitution provides normative-legal base of all reforms in the country, underlining humanism of our intentions and promoting national reviving. And, the main thing is that it multiplies our faith in great and fine future.

Dear fellow citizens! It is deeply symbolic that the date of adopting the Constitution absorbing principles of humanism, justice, unity and solidarity of our people is celebrated as double holiday, together with the day of poetry of great Turkmen thinker Magtymguly Phragy, because all poetry of great thinker and humanist is penetrated with people's sacred dreams of sovereign state, happy life, solidarity and wellbeing. Magtymguly Phragy is a great master of a word who created fine works telling the world about people's philosophy formed during millenniums, about their dreams. The poet's poems became everlasting symphony of our people's soul. Speech at the meeting of delegations of Turkmenistan and India in enlarged composition

Dear Mister Prime Minister! Dear members of the delegation! First of all let me on behalf of the delegation of Turkmenistan express heartiest gratitude to the Prime Minister of India Mister Manmohan Singh and all Indian colleagues for warm reception and hospitality, for fine conditions for joint fruitful work!

Taking the chance I also want to express my condolences to the leaders and people of India on the occasion of recent air crash of passenger airplane which caused numerous human victims and severe injuries and pass words of empathy to families of the dead and injured persons in Mangalor city.

Our present visit is taking place in the situation of maximal activation of bilateral relations marked by widening of spheres of cooperation. Last years are particularly important: thanks to mutually beneficial relations at governmental level was marked desire of both sides to widen cooperation and strategically important for both sides energy branch.

Ashgabat meetings at this period with vice-president of the republic of India Mr. Ansari, minister of foreign affairs Mr. Krishna, State ministry of foreign affairs Mrs. Kaur confirmed great interest in consolidating Turkmen-Indian relations.

In this connection I want to stress that relations between Turkmenistan and Republic of India are distinguished by deep mutual respect, equality and openness. Developing bilateral relations we base upon traditions of friendship and mutual worship of Turkmen and Indian peoples, and community of main social and moral values.

All this is a reliable platform for mutually coordinated cooperation of our states when solving issues of universal development.

During today's meeting Mr. Prime Minister and me confirmed our peoples' desire to continue contributing to the cause of securing universal peace and safety, consolidating the role of UNO recognizing constancy of principles fixed in its Regulations and other key documents. Positions of Turkmenistan and India are the same in such issues as creating conditions for equal in rights cooperation between developed and developing countries of contemporary world, respect of rights of states for self-determination and choice of the model of political and state structure.

Our countries stand for maintaining peace without wars and conflicts; we are for observing justice and equality in international relations and solving disputable issues by means of peaceful negotiations. We announce about our permanent adherence to close and coordinated cooperation under the aegis of authoritative international organizations, first of all, UNO, on readiness to promote realization of all productive ideas and initiatives of the world community.

In this connection I consider it to be necessary to note that India as the state-member of UNO supports Turkmenistan. In particular we are speaking about initiatives of Turkmenistan on securing safety in energy branch.

India actively maintained the Resolution of UNO General Assembly on transit of energy carriers to world markets and was one of its authors. Taking the chance, I want to express our gratitude to our Indian friends for cooperation and stability. Membership of our countries in the non-alignment Movement serves as important condition of mutually coordinated Turkmen-Indian cooperation on international level. India is one of founders of this movement. Both Turkmenistan and India being states not joining any alliances do not participate in military blocks. In international relations both our countries stand for supporting equality, justice and humanism.

These principles are in the base of non-alignment Movement and are one more substantial condition of consolidating Turkmen-Indian cooperation and bringing peoples closer.

Meanwhile at the present stage of world development the activities of non-alignment Movement has great significance and meets interests of millions of people. Within the non-alignment Movement we are ready to establish closer cooperation with India and combine our efforts in solving tasks set up to this authoritative organization.

I want to underline our mutual understanding on most important issues concerning situation in Afghanistan. We believe that soon Afghan crisis will be solved in a peaceful diplomatic way.

Our countries stand for supporting of world community participating in restoring economic and social systems of Afghanistan, its active non-stop struggle against spread of drugs and criminal groups which spread them.

At present our states possessing huge potential build their relations in terms of closeness of foreign policy view points and approaches and views on main long-term tasks of contemporary world – attitude to issues of maintaining peace and safety, providing stable economic growth, opposing dangerous challenges of contemporary time and among them terrorism and extremism.

Dear friends! During present meeting special part is given to discussing present and perspective directions of trade-economic ties between our countries. As I have already marked, the cooperation of Turkmenistan and India is developing dynamically; trends of its widening have been defined. I am sure that we possess all necessary conditions for leading our cooperation to the level which meets real interests and possibilities of our states. We have legal base of cooperation and great mutual interest for its widening. We have experience on establishing relations on governmental level. Along with this, in spite of annually growing tempos of goods turnover, we are not satisfied with existing volumes of mutual trading and degree of innovation activity.

Our organizations and enterprises both governmental and private sectors of economics must substantially and purposefully estimate the state of bilateral relations, define priority directions and set to many-sided negotiations for leading these relations to qualitatively new level.

In this case Intergovernmental Turkmen-Indian committee on trade, scientific and technological cooperation can become most efficient mechanism.

Taking into account that in Turkmenistan we set to diversification of national economy and gave innovation character, this question acquires particular significance. In this field cooperation with India may bring great benefits to both sides.

In relations with Indian partners we are interested in using of their experience and technologies, establishing and widening bilateral mutually beneficial cooperation in such branches as chemical, mining, textile industry, pharmaceuticals, communication and telecommunication, agriculture and high technologies. We have positive experience of such mutually beneficial cooperation. I mean acting in our country joint Turkmen-Indian pharmaceuticals «Ajanta Pharma» enterprise. This enterprise has been working for several years. Its production is in great demand not only in Turkmenistan but also abroad.

We attach special significance to potential of cooperation in energy field.

In this connection we consider India as our future strategic partner.

Turkmenistan is expanding its international cooperation by diversification; it stipulates using of new routes of export of Turkmen natural gas and construction of additional pipeline system. In connection with this we consider perspective the realization of the project of transporting Turkmen energy carriers in the southern direction along the route Turkmenistan–Afghanistan–Pakistan–India with an exit to India. Economics and industry of India need energy carriers and this demand is growing. In its turn, Turkmenistan has all opportunities for exporting energy carriers to India on long-term basis.

In this issue our bilateral long term interests coincide, as well as interests of neighboring states. We can prepare interesting proposals together, activate talks with international financial institutions and give new impulse to the idea of realizing this large-scale project. At the same time I want to stress that in accordance with legislature of the country and norms of international right oil and gas branch of Turkmenistan is open for cooperation with Indian companies.

Transport sphere is one more perspective trend of our cooperation which has great future. Turkmenistan is a convenient corridor for India's exit to Europe.

Now mutually beneficial cooperation in the sphere of air communication has been established between our countries. Thus, air vessels of «Turkmenhovayollary» carry our regular flights from India to Europe and from Europe to India.

I think that it is high time to consider possibilities of cooperation in the sphere of developing ground systems. These systems could by a transit via Turkmenistan connect India with countries of CIS and states of near Caspian and Mediterranean regions. We are interested in attracting Indian capitals to development of transport infrastructure and maintain establishing cooperation in this sphere.

I want to dwell upon mutual cooperation in the sphere of high technologies.

All know that in this sphere India is one of leading countries of the world.

In our turn, we in Turkmenistan are conducting big work on modernization of economy of the country, on its exit to contemporary highly technological level. So, big perspectives for cooperation in this field are open for our countries.

As it is known, in February 2010 in Ashgabat was signed the Memorandum between governments of our countries on mutual understanding and necessity of establishing Turkmen-Indian center of informational technologies. Now we must move forward to set up to realizing ideas stipulated by this document. I want to assure Indian side that we will create all necessary conditions for fruitful and efficient work of specialists who are going to realize this project with big future.

Dear friends! Our friendly and partnership relations with Republic of India are shown especially brightly in cultural-humanitarian and scientific-educational fields. Here definite experience of work with Indian partners has been accumulated; good traditions have been formed. In 2002 on the basis of Turkmen Polytechnic Institute was opened Turkmen-Indian educational-practical center. Within Indian program of technical-economic cooperation specialists from Turkmenistan are regularly trained in India. Last year department of Indian language was opened in Turkmen National Institute of World Languages named after Dovletmamet Azadi. Annually in Ashgabat and velayat centers Indian films days are held.

In 2000 we solemnly celebrated 500th anniversary of prominent state figure of India, great son of Turkmen people Bairam khan; it became large event demonstrating historical commonness of peoples of the two countries.

We are greatly interested in such cooperation with India and maintain it. During today's meeting with respectful Prime Minister we agreed conducting all necessary work for continuing cooperation in these fields, maintaining great mutual interest of peoples of Turkmenistan and India to history, culture and art of our countries for developing full-scale humanitarian relations.

Dear friends! In the conclusion I want to express confidence that our visit to Republic of India, held talks and achieved agreements will become one more important stage in the history of relations between the two countries and peoples.

Dear Mister Prime Minister! I express you my gratitude for great attention and your personal contribution to the cause of consolidating friendship and cooperation between Turkmenistan and Republic of India.

Taking the chance, I express my best wishes of peace, wellbeing and prosperity to talented and industrious Indian people!

Thank you for your attention!

We must create all necessary conditions for complete realization of the National program and intensive development of the country and considerably consolidate the base of energy branch for further development of strategic economic branches. Now natural gas is necessary not only for export to other countries but for our own needs as well.

In future we are planning the construction of many plants, factories, power stations and other enterprises; a number of constructions are supposed to be built in National «Avaza» tourist zone. At present we need large volumes of natural gas for developing electric energy branch.

In this branch we began realizing large projects on modernizing gas turbine power stations and constructing new power stations; new systems of power transmission and tens of power distributing installations are being built. In the capital and other towns and centers of population reconstruction of the system of energy supply and lighting systems is being conducted.

We will need much natural gas for realization of new projects on modernization and development of oil and gas and chemical branches of the country's economy.

The beginning of the construction of gas pipeline «East–West» will become important step along the way of successful realization of energy strategy of Turkmenistan making weighty contribution to foundation of modern system of universal energy safety.

This gas pipeline with throughout capacity of 30 milliard cubic meters of natural gas will go via territories of Mary, Ahal and Balkan velayats.

The gas pipeline «East–West» will provide supply of gas from the largest gas center Yoloten – Osman to western regions of the country.

Seven powerful gas compressing stations will be built for regular uninterrupted work of the gas pipeline.

Approximate cost of the construction of the gas pipeline makes more than 2 milliards USD. Necessary works were conducted at its projecting which guarantee reliability and safety of the pipeline for environment and all conditions were taken into consideration.

Erecting such a large construction by our own strength shows that our country is economically powerful state, that our specialists are high class professionals and that we achieve considerable success in development of the country.

The construction of the «East–West» gas pipeline is an illustrative example of many-sided efficient cooperation in energy sphere opening wide possibilities for further development in energy branch and gas deposits. Realization of this important project will enable foundation of new job places.

But the main thing is that with the completion of this gas pipeline we will found a single gas system. It will enable us to supply any region of the country with large volumes of natural gas.

The construction of this gas pipeline is not an economically beneficial project for the country but also the event of great political and economic significance, bright illustration that it is possible to achieve the main goal – successful realizing the main principle «State is for people!» – having political will and well thought of approach.

We are building economically mighty state with systematically perfecting society. In this state liberty of a person, creative spirit, success in science and technique will be harmoniously combined with spiritual perfection and advanced culture, high social-economic level of life and responsibility for ecological situation.

We set up high goals and I firmly believe that we will achieve them.

Dear friends! Once again I cordially congratulate you on the beginning of the construction of the «East–West» gas pipeline!

I wish you and all Turkmen people wellbeing, peace, happiness and flowering; I wish all workers and specialists who will work at laying the gas pipeline to realize this great project and achieve labor success!

Speech at the sitting of the Council of the heads of the states – members of SOC, countries-observers and honorable guests in enlarged composition

(Tashkent, 11 June 2010)

Dear Mr. Chairman! Dear heads of states and delegations! First of all, let me thank the organizers of this summit of Shanghai Organization of Cooperation for the invitation to take part in this sitting of the heads of the states – members of SOC. I also express my gratitude to respected Islam Abduganiyevich Karimov for warm reception and hospitality on fraternal land of Uzbekistan.

Taking the chance, I also want to congratulate the founders of SOC and all those present on coming holiday – the day of foundation of the Organization.

For the last nine years its authority considerably increased and consolidated; today at the summit decisions on most actual issues of regional and international importance are discussed and taken; it testifies to big potential which was accumulated and is realized by SOC.

Turkmenistan with an account to its neutral status treats fruitful exchange of opinions on discussed issues and taken decisions with respect and interest.

We share striving of the world community to solve problems on the global agenda of the day and take an active part in consolidation of international efforts.

Foreign policy of Turkmenistan remains the same – following fundamental principles of positive neutrality of our state, realizing strategic partnership in the interests of common peace, progress and creative developing with all states and authoritative organizations and among them, with Shanghai Organization of Cooperation.

I would like to thank the governments of countries-members of SOC for supporting Turkmenistan's initiatives and proposals, first of all, in such important fields as widening the dialogue in disarmament process and foundation of international-legal base of energy safety.

In particular, at the 64th UNO General Assembly we brought forth the initiative to hold the International conference on disarmament in Central Asia and region of the Caspian Sea which will take place in Ashgabat at the end of June.

Official delegation of the Organization regularly takes part in the work of international forums and conferences held in Turkmenistan.

With great attention and respect we treat initiatives of SOC on issues of struggle against terroristic threat and drug traffic.

Along with it, our country, being a participant of basic Conventions of UNO on struggle against terrorism and illegal drug turnover at national, regional and global levels, today actively realizes the complex of concrete practical measures directed to resisting to these challenges of contemporary times.

Our perspective vision of architecture of safety is based on understanding the necessity of strengthening mutual comprehension and atmosphere of trust under the conditions of harmonious combination of various formats of partnership, including cooperation on bilateral and many-sided bases.

Real implementation of such approach is foundation of new structures under the aegis of UNO. The UNO regional center on preventive diplomacy for Central Asia, the headquarters of which was opened in December 2007 in Ashgabat, takes an active part in a number of important trends linked with securing regional safety and stable development.

Being deeply interested in establishing reliable guarantees of common peace and security, Turkmenistan considers as one of priorities consolidating stability in Central Asian and Caspian regions, and, of course, in Afghanistan.

Afghanistan is our neighboring and friendly state. So we always attach great attention to the complex of issues connected with Afghan problematic, we support international efforts on restoring its social-economic infrastructure.

At the same time we stand for peaceful regulating of the situation in Afghanistan. And it, first of all, means elaboration of new political-diplomatic mechanisms of solving Afghan problems.

In this connection I would like to stress that Turkmen side is ready to place its political space for holding inter Afghan dialogue under the aegis of UNO and provide necessary conditions for this process.

Turkmenistan will continue helping Afghan people, first of all, in humanitarian sphere, in constructing units of social infrastructure, fuel and energy supply which is concrete contribution to developing the economy of Afghanistan.

In the conclusion I want once again to express our gratitude for the invitation to take part in this forum and wish success in activities of SOC.

Thank you for the attention.

To the participants of the 13th summit of Governing committee of Consultative group on agricultural research for states of Central Asia and Southern Caucasus

(12.06.2010)

Dear participants of the international conference! Dear guests! I cordially congratulate you on the beginning of the work of the 13th meeting of Governing committee of Consultative group on international agricultural research for states of Central Asia and Southern Caucasus, devoted to issues of stable, scientifically grounded development of agriculture in arid regions and expanding diapason of communication.

It is necessary to mark the importance of this forum, in the work of which heads, scientists and specialist of states of Central Asia and Southern Caucasus regions and largest international agrarian scientific centers take place.

The epoch of new Renaissance and great changes symbolizing the era of large-scale historic accomplishments opened broad way to new heights in the field of economics, culture, all branches of national economy of the country. Mutually beneficial international cooperation is steadily expanding; it is an important factor for further consolidating ties of friendship and fraternity between peoples. Today sovereign Turkmenistan became the center of holding important international scientific conferences and cultural forums, festivals and exhibitions. The 13th meeting of Governing committee of Consultative group on international agricultural research for states of Central Asia and Southern Caucasus, starting today, is another evidence of this fact.

Democratic reforms of our country, economic, political and cultural reforms serve as the base for national reviving, sustainable economic growth, consolidation of unity and solidarity of people, securing peaceful and safe life, selfless labor of Turkmen citizens and the main criteria in achieving planned heights.

For providing food abundance in Turkmenistan large-scale measures on introducing newest achievements of science, high technologies and advanced experience to agrarian sector are widely being realized. From these positions I want to stress particular importance of scientific-research activity realized together with large scientific centers which are in the structure of Consultative group on international agricultural research not only for Turkmenistan but also for states of Central Asia and Southern Caucasus.

Dear guests! Dear friends! At present all branches of our country and agrarian sector as well, are experiencing new stage of progressive changes. The key role in all-embracing revival of our state is given to realization of set up constructive measures on dynamic development of agriculture.

Planned realization of complex programs directed to achieving food abundance in the country, perfection of production-economic relations with the account to new, modern normative-legal acts, consolidation of the base of labor laws are guarantees of progressive development of the society in the epoch of new Renaissance and great changes answering deeply humane essence of the motto «State is for people!

We elaborated integral conception of rural areas revival putting forward intensification of agrarian sector, increasing crop capacity of irrigated farming and productivity of cattle breeding as main priorities. High levels of village development, wellbeing of rural population testify to economic might of the state; because if rural region revives, the country becomes richer and stronger and the level of wellbeing of population increases. From these positions, taking into account high degree of implementing new achievements of agrarian science to manufacturing and deepening integration processes in agro-industrial sphere we attach great attention to holding international scientific conferences which promote intensifying production and mutual exchanging accumulated positive experience.

It is deeply symbolic that Turkmenistan was chosen the place of holding the 13th meeting of the Governing committee of Consultative group on international agricultural research; our country is by right recognized one of the oldest centers of irrigated farming. Turkmens all the times valued precious water; they could rationally and carefully use it. Our wise ancestors equaled every drop of water to a grain of gold considering it to be the source of life. At present large-scale work is being carried out on providing rational usage of water and further improving irrigation conditions of sown areas. The completion of the construction of the first turn of grandiose engineering-irrigation unit called by right «the project of century» – man-made Turkmen lake is one more illustrative example of many-dimensional works realized by our state for advancing development of agricultural production under conditions of arid climate.

Cooperation of scientific subdivisions of agro-industrial complex of Turkmenistan with international scientific centers gives its positive results. We will continue to stand for their further widening taking their importance into account. Turkmenistan in its turn will do everything for achieving progress in this direction.

Dear participants of the international conference! Dear guests! Once again I cordially congratulate you on the beginning of the work of the 13th meeting of the Governing committee of Consultative group on international agricultural research held under the aegis of inter-regional representation for states of Central Asia and Southern Caucasus of International scientific center of agricultural research in arid regions.

To the participants of the international conference of states of Central Asia and Caspian pool on disarmament issues

Dear participants of the conference! Dear guests! I cordially congratulate you on the opening of the international conference of states of Central Asia and Caspian pool on disarmament issues and wish success in its work!

Such wide participation of representatives of different states, authoritative international organizations, expert unions, and mass media is the recognition of high authority of our country, bright evidence that the world community understands actuality and importance of issues which are to be discussed within the conference. I express my confidence that its convocation is necessary and timed step aimed at further consolidation of efforts in strengthening peace and stability, activating many-sided and coordinated interaction on disarmament issues and transforming to practical area.

Big preparatory work preceded the present forum; representatives from all states of the region and international organizations took part in it; taking the chance, I express my heartiest gratitude to them.

Dear friends! To protect peace on the planet, creating the system of common security is compulsory condition of successful solving global political, social-economic, ecology issues, and efficient realization of goals of sustainable development of humanity and steady progress. In the XXI century it is impossible to imagine world order without adopting common program of global safety. Basic principle of voluntary refusal of states to solve disputable issues from the position of strength must be the means of regulating existing international problems. Only such approach can secure peace on Earth protecting it from wars and clashes.

At present time fundamental international-legal base was found for securing strategic safety including time-tested agreements and conventions on various mass destruction weapons, and ratified regional agreements on creating nuclear weapon free zones. Entirely maintaining essence of these important documents, Turkmenistan stands for further strengthening and developing international-legal basis on securing global stability and safety.

Being the participant of a number of important international-legal acts, Turkmenistan is guided by principle of priority and reasonability of disarmament issues within international organizations and forums, first of all, UNO and its structural committee on disarmament issues using political-diplomatic instruments. I express firm confidence that for joint activity on elaborating constructive approaches to building many-sided interaction there is no alternative way.

Disarmament processes have priority character for Turkmenistan. In this issue our country not only underlines its adherence to global safety conception but takes active actions in this direction.

Thus, Turkmenistan joined a number of important international documents on disarmament issues, and among them, refusal of production, keeping, transporting and acquiring nuclear, chemical, bacteriologic and other types of weapons of mass destruction and also technologies on production of its new types.

In 2005 Communiqué on supporting the initiative of international organizations concerning struggle against spread of mass destruction weapons was adopted. In 2006 Turkmenistan together with other states of the region signed the document on foundation of zone free from nuclear weapon in Central Asia. It is pleasant that this joint initiative meeting interests of many states of the world and which deserved high evaluation of the world community was approved by UNO General Assembly.

Today our country does not limit itself by peacemaking activity at national level. Steadily following principles of peace loving and good neighborliness, Turkmenistan stands for activating of stable, well-coordinated, full-scale cooperation aimed at successive realizing of disarmament policy at regional and global levels.

With this purpose at the 64th session of UNO General Assembly we brought forth the initiative of holding international conference of states of Central Asia and Caspian pool on disarmament issues which was supported by UNO and states of the region.

This problem is very actual for our regions swiftly being involved into the orbit of world political space as one of its leading centers. At present the zone of Central Asian and near Caspian regions is the crossroad where transport corridors and energy bridges of Eurasian continent are laid; it is inexhaustible source of hydrocarbon raw materials of world significance. It allows stating that the fate of safety of the continent and the whole world to a great extent is solved here.

The direction of development of our regions depends on their states, their partnership, level of mutual understanding and commonness of goals and perspectives. Concerning this it is necessary to mark that as before cooperation with UNO will remain primary and determining vector of foreign policy course of Turkmenistan. In this context we attach great significance to activity of the Regional center of UNO on preventive diplomacy for Central Asia and consider important participation of the Center in elaborating efficient model of international cooperation and coordination of disarmament process.

In the whole constructive beginnings of Turkmenistan are aimed at giving new impulse of successive, complex and coordinated interaction and character of irreversibility of disarmament processes. Actually we speak about formation of cardinally new political-psychological situation creating favorable conditions for strengthening integral and non-confrontation world outlook promoting elaborating positive approaches to establishing many-sided interaction between states of this part of the globe, understanding basic principle on non-usage of military forces as the instrument for solving problems and disputable questions.

In accordance with conceptual regulations of foreign policy strategy of Turkmenistan, this approach is a significant factor for building true good neighborhood relations on the territory of Central Asia and Caspian pool; it opens whole complex of new possibilities for searching efficient ways of cooperation and perspective development, increasing living standards and social-everyday conditions, successful integration to international system of coordinates as regions free from risks of emerging conflicts and disputable issues.

Neutral status of Turkmenistan recognized by the world community is the key aspect in realizing these ideas. We think that for discussion of various issues of regional life and among them those directed to support of disarmament processes, elaboration of coordinated decisions acting model of positive neutrality of Turkmenistan is efficient format of the interaction within which acting mechanisms of international dialogue in the zone of Central Asia and Caspian pool acquire new shapes, and open to world community good practical chances for positive influence upon events in this region. I see the main goal of the forum in this.

Dear participants of the conference! Once again I cordially congratulate you on the opening of the conference! I wish you solid health, wellbeing, happiness and success!

Dear members of the Cabinet of Ministers! Dear friends! The more time has been passing since establishment of our state the more obvious how rapidly the economy of the country has been developing and authority and role of our Motherland on the world arena raises.

This is the result of purposeful and subsequent conduction of Open Doors policy, aimed at constructive international dialogue and acceleration of bilateral relations with various countries, integration of Turkmenistan as equal participant to the world community.

These goals were subjected the visits of governmental delegation of Turkmen State abroad in the first half year of the current year. Having multifunctional trend, these visits were aimed at strengthening relations with the neighboring states to be more exact with Russian Federation, Iran, Tajikistan, China, France, India, Belarus and the UAE.

Conducted in the course of these visits business forums, exhibitions achieved documents raised international authority of our state to the high level and promoted dynamic development of the national economy as well as highlighted growing importance of Turkmenistan as peace making center in broad Central Asian region.

All round support of initiatives, put forward by Turkmenistan at the UN General Assembly Session, aimed at keeping peace also evidence about raising international authority of our state. Last year, as known, we held international conference at a high level, dedicated to the issues of reliable and stable transit of energy. This year international conference, initiated by Turkmenistan on disarmament issues in Central Asia and Caspian region was held. Representatives of the highest authorities, heads of international organizations, taking part in these forums noted «urgency and timeliness of these important initiatives» as well as that «Turkmenistan carries out active work on strengthening collaboration and stability in Central Asia and takes leading positions in this trend».

Such high evaluation of our efforts demands from Turkmenistan further activation in solution of regional issues, assistance for consolidation of states of Central Asian space for its turning into non-conflict peaceful region as well as in the issue of employment of energy resources in the interests of entire humankind.

That is why R. Meredov, Ministry of Foreign Affairs must continue the activity in this direction. We should strive for increasing the international authority of our country and take timely measures and steps on ensuring stability, security and sustainable development in the region.

Dear members of the Cabinet of Ministers! Dear friends! Now I want to dwell on the issues of home policy of our country.

As you know, we carry out fruitful job on improvement of country's legislation. Our goal is to turn to market relations in the framework of the country's Constitution. It is very complicated work, demanding much time. It influences many branches of economy, public relations and social issues.

Solving these tasks, we improve laws, consolidating the system of complex opposition to spreading drug addiction and counteraction for income legalization, received by crime way, finance terrorism.

We create special agencies to fulfil these tasks and actively interrelate with international organizations. Activities in this direction give positive results. Presently, Turkmenistan has joined the states, conducting active fighting with negative problems. It raises prestige of our independent Motherland and consolidates trust of world community to our country, raises investing attractiveness of the state.

The records of the heads, making speech at this session of the Cabinet of Ministers prove that reformations in the country's economy in the first half year of the current year were intensively continued. Weighted investment policy of the state, much inflow of the foreign capital into various branches of the economy, adjusted job of all managing structures ensured growth of gross domestic product.

International financial organizations note that «bettering condition in the country for using foreign currency and stabilization of exchange rate of the national manat related to foreign currency aroused trust to the national currency and banking system. Low level of inflation was kept in the country».

In the first half year of the current year production of GDP in comparison with the same period of the last year has been considerably raised and made up 120,5 %. All branches of the country's economy have been developed steadily.

Growth in the construction branch made up 186 %, transport and communication – 141%. In agriculture this index made up 115 %. This year, 1 million 400 thousand tons of wheat have been gathered in the country and this index is notably higher than last year's.

Within this period of time profit part of state budget is considerably increased. Small and medium entrepreneurship has been developed rapidly.

Owing to our successes and achievements salary made up 112 %, income of population has been notably raised as well.

In spite of cataclysms in world economy we successfully realize large international and national projects.

This year, we have commissioned some objects of social destination in «Avaza» National Tourist Zone. Today we examined construction projects of the second phase in this zone. More than 300 kilometers of transcontinental North–South railroad have been constructed which would have a great importance for the country's economy. Much job is done on preparation of construction project of one more branch of Turkmenistan–China gas pipeline. At the expense of own funds, we carry out construction of East–West gas pipeline with the length of 1 thousand kilometers. Beside it within the past period some new oil and gas deposits were discovered in the country.

I would like to mention that as before we pay much attention to accomplishment of our white marble city. Today, we have viewed solid package of projects on complex construction of premises in Ashgabat. Their erection would add more gorgeousness to the architectural outlook of the main city of the country.

Drastic changes are taking place in all velayats and etraps of the country. In accordance with the national program on reformation of social conditions of population of settlements, villages, city etraps and etrap centers until 2020 in the framework of scaled works investments for 1 billion 400 million US dollars have been made.

In the villages of the country we constructed and put into operation dwellings with 1 million 200 thousand square meters total area, 31 schools, 24 hospitals, 15 kindergartens, new roads, gas and pipelines, energy supply system and other erections of social units.

In the second half of the year we must speed up tempos on realization of National programme.

Chairman of Supreme Control Chamber G. Saparliyev, acting general Prosecutor A. Halliyev must keep under strict control fulfilment of this national programme.

In order to give full evaluation of investment programme of the country we should say that presently country carried out construction of 2 thousand 100 objects with total sum 32 billion 300 Million US dollars in comparison with the same period of the last year investments have been raised up to 6,5 %. Within 5 months of the current year, the volume of investments has been raised by 1,5 times.

All these indexes evidence about grand opportunities of the country's economy and big potential of reserves and resources.

In present conditions, characterized by sustainable microeconomic indexes, high level of social-political and finance stability, our country gains more attractiveness for reliable investments.

Vivid evidence of it is regular visits to our country of representatives of world companies, expressing strive to adjust mutually beneficial large-scaled cooperation. This is one more confirmation of growing international authority of Turkmenistan.

Dear members of Cabinet of Ministers! Dear friends! In spite of the fact that such competent international organization as International Monetary Fund noted high tempos of the economic development of the country this year, we should work more for attaining goals set before us.

We should raise social level of people at the account of intensive development of economy, implementation of know-how into all branches, development of science and education, ample support of entrepreneurship.

We should keep on acceleration of multi directional collaboration with the international community in compliance with the main directions of foreign policy of Turkmenistan.

In the second half of the year we should not decrease tempos on realization of long term complex programmes and socio-economic reforms, strengthen legal basis of the state taking into consideration historical-democratic values of people-presently these directions of our activity continue to be priority ones.

In the second half of the year we would hold important function for our country – elections to velayat and etrap Halk Maslahaty.

Scientific-technical policy, carried out in the country must be directed to broad introduction of progressive technologies and innovations in all branches of economy, realization of novel programmes on science and technology, creation of modern fundamental scientific system, meeting world standards.

For strengthening scientific potential of the country and enlargement of its innovative possibilities it is required to attract talented youth to science, hire them to research centers. For this all conditions have been created, post graduate and doctoral courses are opened in higher educational establishments and research centers.

We would have to solve serious tasks in agriculture.

It is necessary to conduct work on support of individual businessmen. They have to be released from unnecessary checking and bureaucratic obstacles.

Much attention is paid in our country to development of private entrepreneurship.

I told more than once that suggestions must be given on establishment of private newspapers and journals.

We will support initiators for creation of new parties. I must say that such issues need to be thought out well.

For example, I think that Industrialists and Entrepreneurs Union must create their own newspaper or journal.

A. Dadayev, examine the issues for creation of own newspaper and journal for Industrialists and Entrepreneurs Union. In periodicals you could issue articles about successes and positive experience in entrepreneurship sphere; it will give opportunity to exchange opinions.

Great support for businessmen would become placement in these issues advertisement of produced goods as well as publication of legislations acts, concerning entrepreneurship.

It is necessary to study the issue for establishment newspapers and journals and in some other branches and hold required activity in this direction.

Dear members of Cabinet of Ministers! Dear friends! I would like to say that as the Head of State I am not satisfied with requirements, put forward for the heads. From the first days of conduction of drastic reforms we dealt with low organizing abilities and lack of the economic knowledge of some heads.

For confident promotion ahead by means of reformatations, those who take leading post must be politicians possessing organizing abilities and knowing economics.

So we would appraise the head by his organizing abilities, industriousness, capability to solve complicated issues independently, not expecting instructions.

Special attention must be given to political culture of the head, such features as patriotism, faithfulness to state and people. Head must be close to people, be honest and morally pure.

Dear members of Cabinet of Ministers! Dear friends! Finishing my speech, I would like to note that in the first half of the current year we gained good results in many sectors of the country. Within this period considerable successes have been achieved in all branches of the country.

The total cost of projects in «Avaza» is more 1,5 milliard USD.

Every newly built construction is the evidence of increasing economic power of the country and improving social-everyday living standards of people. A number of modern units of tourism sphere have been constructed and are functioning now. Fine health-improving homes, splendid hotels with all accommodations and other units of tourism on the coast of the Caspian are weighty result of reforms aimed at social-economic flowering of Turkmen state.

I am sure that the present international exhibition and scientific conference will be successfully held at the sunny coast of «Avaza» where various international activities will be regularly held in future.

Dear compatriots! Dear guests! «Avaza» is the first free economic zone in the country oriented at developing tourist industry. Considerable tax and customs benefits, best conditions for realizing joint projects are given to home and foreign companies working here and people who invest to construction of sanatorium-resort and social-economic units. «Avaza» project occupies special place in strategic plans of Turkmenistan for nearest decades and so accumulates the most advanced achievements of world architecture and engineering-technical thought and newest technology.

Among compatible advantages of «Avaza» there are fine nature-climatic conditions, key geographical position, high potential for tourist and health-improving services, and also availability of rather free territory for developing of the project.

In the nearest future our tourist zone will make serious competition to world tourist brands and Turkmenistan will enter the ranks of most compatible states of tourist world. Congratulation to energy industry workers on their professional holiday

Dear energy industry workers! I cordially congratulate you on the Day of energy industry workers – state holiday widely and solemnly celebrated in the epoch of new Renaissance and great changes!

Your highly productive labor at energy branch enterprises occupying one of leading positions in economy of our Motherland provides availability of energy resources not only for our people but also for peoples of other countries. Success being achieved by you testifies to it. Today consumption of energy resources is growing in the world. In this connection foreign countries systematically activate their activities on constructive cooperation with Turkmenistan in the sphere of power industry.

Our Motherland is rich in energy resources. One of our main tasks is rational utilizing of this wealth for further improving everyday-living conditions of Turkmen people. In the «National program of the President of Turkmenistan on radical changing of social-everyday living conditions of population of villages, settlements, etrap cities and centers for the period till 2020» along with other measures concrete steps are stipulated on radical improving of energy supply of the population.

You are carrying out big work on reliable and non-interrupted supply of electricity consumers. Your scrupulous activity on providing lines of electricity transmission for delivering energy to newly opened points deserves respect. Having been built and are being built energy installations with the beginning of development of big industrial potential of oil and gas centers on the right bank of Amyderya promote increasing economic might of Turkmen state.

At present time our country is systematically increasing volumes of energy delivery to Islamic Republic of Pakistan and Islamic Republic of Afghanistan and Turkish Republic. Besides, we study possibilities of delivering electric energy to Kazakhstan and Armenia and Pakistan by transit through Afghanistan as export directions most beneficial for our country.

Realizing projects of using sun and wind energy under climatic conditions of our country has great future. In this connection energy workers are to solve big tasks on providing population of remote regions with electricity.

Industrial development of gas deposits of Turkmenistan and opening new etraps set up big tasks to builders working in energy industry. Construction of circular energy system of the country and in Ashgabat as well, modernization and reconstruction of some energy installations, transition to using advanced energy saving technologies will allow achieving complete supply with energy.

Dear energy industry workers! Thanks to your honest and persistent labor year after year volumes of energy production and supply are growing, consumers' demand is completely satisfied. Interview to Turkmen mass media (19.09.2010)

D*ear Mr. President, how would you assess the current level of cooperation between Turkmenistan and the international community?*

– First of all, I would like to underline the importance of this cooperation, its usefulness and effectiveness, compatibility with long-term interests of the Turkmen people and our partners in the global community.

I would like to mark out two spheres in which we develop our relations. These are bilateral contacts and multilateral cooperation. In the sphere of bilateral relations Turkmenistan builds up friendly, equal, good neighbourly relations with each country – both in the region and beyond. I highly evaluate the progress and content of these relations developed in a comprehensive manner today – in the political, trade and economic, cultural and humanitarian spheres, in the framework of international organizations, where we always find support and understanding from their partners.

At the multilateral level, our contacts are also developed successfully. We found the clear algorithms of collaboration in various fields, worked out the coherent approach to urgent global and regional problems. These approaches are based on the necessity to strengthen peace, stability and security, respond to new threats, the common willingness to develop economic cooperation, enhance cultural and humanitarian contacts, promote cooperation in the spheres of science and education, sports and tourism.

I define this type of relationship with the global community based on universal values, the understanding of the integrity and indissolubility of tasks set to modern civilization, as a conceptual, strategic choice of Turkmenistan. We adhere to the clearly framed system of views and conceptions that includes the establishment of the philosophy of peace and cooperation in international affairs.

– Dear Mr. President, what are today's foreign policy priorities of the country?

– Our priorities are enhancement of global peace, security and stability, contribution towards the goals of sustainable development and progress.

We act on the premise that the modern world is the one, and the challenges it faces can not be addressed in isolation. We believe that security of one country cannot be ensured without achieving security in the region, on the continent, in the world. As well as political or military security cannot be long-term and comprehensive without economic, energy, food security, without prevention and management of environmental and anthropogenic risks and threats, without effective counteraction to terrorism, drug trafficking and international crime. Our foreign policy is aimed at concerting global efforts in the whole spectrum of existing problems and building jointly the models of partnership to effectively address them.

From this point of view, Turkmenistan, in particular, suggests initiating the development of the unified security concept under the auspice the UN.

Of course, the aspects of regional cooperation on such issues as disarmament, nonproliferation of weapons of mass destruction, counteraction to terrorism, illicit drug trafficking are of particular importance for us among the priorities. A special focus is the assistance in resolving the situation in Afghanistan.

Another priority of our foreign policy is to create the enabling environment for effective economic cooperation in the region, implement international projects in the transport, communications, energy and other sectors, attract foreign investments to the region. All this are the key vectors of Turkmenistan political and diplomatic activity.

It is developed at the bilateral level as well as in the framework of the authoritative international organizations, including the UN, OSCE and others.

We attach great importance to regional cooperation in the protection of the environment and efficient management of water and energy resources. We face the challenges in saving the Aral Sea and preserving the unique natural heritage of the Caspian Sea. In this context we support a wider presence of the UN agencies, in particular the UN Environment Programme, in the region and stand ready to provide our infrastructure to open its regional office in Turkmenistan.

Together with partners we carry out the task-oriented work on the status of the Caspian Sea based on the respect of the interests of all littoral states and in compliance with international law norms.

– Dear Mr. President, this year Turkmenistan is going to celebrate the 15th anniversary of international recognition of its status of neutrality. How would you evaluate the outcomes of the foreign policy during this period?

– Today, after almost 15 years have elapsed, we can talk about the evident positive results of the neutral foreign-policy strategy of Turkmenistan.

At the global level we were able to build steady partnership with the world powers and the major centres, including the United States, Russia, China, the European Union. At the regional level Turkmenistan has established friendly, good neighbourly and equal relations with nearest countries and other neighbours in the region.

Absolute and unconditional non-participation in international military and military-political alliances and blocs enabled Turkmenistan to avoid being involved in regional rivalry of any forms.

As well as anyone's temptation to win over Turkmenistan's military and economic resources during potential conflicts. Turkmenistan's military strategy is purely defensive in nature; it clearly sets forth the ban on the use of the Turkmen armed forces outside its borders. This enabled Turkmenistan to focus on strengthening its defense capability, modernization the national army to respond to modern requirements. However, Turkmenistan does not deny military-technical cooperation with other countries if it is not based on political demands. Also, we foster international cooperation in responding to the threats facing the region and the world such as terrorism, illicit drug trafficking, transnational organized crime.

Turkmenistan's status of neutrality guaranteeing minimal foreign-policy risks along with the rich resource potential and internal stability have predetermined great interest of major foreign companies in the country and ensured the inflows of foreign investments in the national economy.

Today, the companies from the United States, Japan, Russia, Ukraine, Belarus, Turkey, Iran, Arab states, Malaysia, China, India, Pakistan, the European Union states successfully operate in Turkmenistan. In collaboration with them the country has built numerous textile enterprises, modernized the oil and gas industry and agriculture, launched large-scale road and housing construction projects, upgraded communication infrastructure and boosted tourism business. According to World Bank, Turkmenistan has been maintaining the leading position by the volume of foreign direct investment per capital in the former Soviet Union since 1999.

Turkmen neutrality has another aspect that cannot be measured in figures. This is a modern, tolerant world-view of a new generation of the Turkmen people formed under the influence of the neutral foreign-policy strategy, the system of the views about themselves, neighbouring states and nations, the whole world.

The quite lively discussions among politicians, diplomats and journalists that followed up on the appearance of Turkmenistan as the first neutral state on the geopolitical map of Asia come to mind. This fact was viewed positively by almost everyone though, there were the opinions which came to a possibility of Turkmenistan's «self-isolation», its exclusion from participation in international affairs. Time has shown that these, for the most part farfetched, predictions have not only been confirmed, but have been disproved by real deeds. Suffice it to say now about Turkmenistan's role in settling the complicated socio-political situation in Tajikistan in 1995–1996 and our country's contribution to the UN peace efforts to resolve the civil conflict in Afghanistan through peaceful, political means in the late 1990s that corroborate Turkmenistan's active and positive influence on regional affairs. Turkmenistan's recent initiatives on prevention of regional crises and participatory development of new political technologies for Central Asia, its proposals for resolving the situation in Afghanistan can be mentioned.

I think the logic of regional trends will make the international community recognize the need to implement these ideas sooner or later.

Ensuring the continuity of the policy of neutrality is supplemented by filling it with a new content aimed at the use of the status characteristics of a country to intensify regional and interregional cooperation. Today, in its international activity Turkmenistan puts special emphasis on the economic rather geo-economic aspect of neutrality, in particular, the opening up of appropriate opportunities to give a new meaning to the framework of international relations in such a critical component as energy transit.

Having become an independent state, Turkmenistan has made its sovereign choice in favor of the neutral foreign-policy model. Despite the ever-changing political situation, the emergence of new regional and global configurations of our country remains committed to this choice based on a clear understanding of its role and place in the modern world.

– Dear Mr. President, what do you think are the prospects for regional economic cooperation, and what capabilities do our states have for this?

– I consider the development of economic cooperation in the region a key factor for progress and prosperity of our countries, stability, peace and good neighbourliness. The region of Central Asia and the Caspian Sea basin is unique for its geographical and resource characteristics. It is a major transport, energy, communications nodal point of strategic importance, a crossroads on Eurasian routes, the shortest corridor between the two continents. Certainly, the good opportunities for wide international cooperation, the implementation of large-scale projects, promotion of trade, investment cooperation are opened up today. I would like to focus on the transport sector. In particular, the completion of construction of the Tejen–Serakhs–Meshhed railway in 1996 that provides countries in the region with access to the Persian Gulf and the Arabian Sea among the implemented large-scale agreements.

Almost 15 years later this railway link is actively used playing an important role in optimizing the functioning of regional and interregional transport infrastructure today.

The construction of the Kazakhstan–Turkmenistan–Iran railway is deemed timely and economically feasible. There are a number of other transportation projects launched in the North–South, East–West directions that directly meet the interests of the region, open up the opportunities for cooperation with other countries on the Eurasian continent. The development of sea routes in the Caspian Sea is deemed promising.

As for the capabilities of our countries, they are the natural participants of regional and interregional economic cooperation. It is developed today in the bilateral and multilateral formats, covers various spheres.

I would like to mention the construction, textile, power industries and transport – land and sea and other spheres as the successful examples of our cooperation with neighbouring countries and other countries in the region. Our countries have the profound potential, strong industrial and resource base to transform the region into one of the largest economic and investment centres of Eurasia.

– As is known, Turkmenistan has the status of an associate member in the organizations such as CIS and ECO, but has not joined the Shanghai Cooperation Organization. How do you explain this attitude of Turkmenistan towards these and other regional institutions?

– As for the mentioned organizations, Turkmenistan decides on the forms and extent of its engagement in their work in compliance with the criteria of political and economic expediency, the compatibility between the goals of the mentioned organizations and the national interests of the country and the future trends in regional processes. Turkmenistan participates in many meetings of the CIS and ECO, including those held at the top level, and has attended twice the SCO summit as an honorary guest. We consider this effective as a convenient and natural format to exchange views on many important issues, a good supplement to our bilateral relations.

– The 65th session of the United Nations General Assembly will open very soon. Today much is said about the role of the UN, the need to reform it to respond to new realities of global development. What is Turkmenistan's view on this issue?

– The United Nations has been and remains the basis of the contemporary world order, the attraction pole for hopes and aspirations of all humanity. In the contemporary setting the United Nations must become the mainstay of constructive efforts of states to build a fair and harmonious framework of international relations.

Turkmenistan views the reforms of the UN from this standpoint. We are aware that it needs upgrading, achieving greater effectiveness and conformity with modern requirements in some aspects of its activities. This is a natural process consistent with the logic of dynamic development in the modern world.

Therefore, we are for the reasonable reform of the UN, however, in the view to enhancing it further and strengthening its position in the international system of coordinates, expanding its role and functions as a guarantor of global peace, stability and development.

We are convinced that the reform of the United Organization should be meaningful, targeted, responsive to the actual needs of the international community. Turkmenistan supports the efforts of UN member states and the UN Secretary-General aimed at making the UN's activity more dynamic, efficient, transparent and democratic. In this context, Turkmenistan shares the opinion about the need to upgrade the structure of the Security Council, promote closer and effective cooperation between the Security Council and the General Assembly.

– Turkmenistan aims to diversify its pipeline infrastructure, develop new routes of transportation of raw materials. How do you intend to implement this in practice given the fact that the interests of major players in this business do not always coincide?

– Let me start with introducing clarity. Turkmenistan aims to diversify energy as a whole, and the construction of new pipelines is only a part of this strategy, though very important part. Along with raw materials diversification involves export of finished products including liquefied gas, oil products, oils, etc. We have a serious intention to expand construction of refineries that will let us enter the international market with competitive of oil and gas products in large volumes.

Now, about new gas pipelines. We see no contradictions which make the implementation of large-scale continental and regional projects in this field impossible. The construction of the Turkmenistan–China gas pipeline, the largest one in Asia, was completed last year. That year we built the second gas pipeline to Iran together with Iranian partners. The Trans-Afghan gas pipeline project is in active preparation. The convergence of interests of suppliers, transit countries and consumers is evident, and this is important. Also, we supply gas along the traditional routes abiding by the principle of complementarily with new routes rather than replacement of one with another.

Promoting multi-variant transit of energy, we proceed, firstly, from a realistic assessment of our resource potential. It allows us to conclude long-term contracts for gas supplies with certainty. Our partners know well about it. Secondly, we believe that the establishment of multi-vector energy infrastructure is an objective call of the times caused by modern realities of the world economy.

States and regions cannot be cut off from sources and routes of transportation of raw materials. This is a question of big geopolitics related directly to the stability of the entire system of international relations.

Therefore, we support the development of the universal mechanisms which would ensure the harmonization of relations in the sphere of energy supplies, guarantee equal access to energy resources. In this regard, we have initiated a broad multilateral dialogue on this issue in the United Nations and developed a number of concrete proposals to be discussed during the forthcoming session of the General Assembly. Energy cooperation requires a fundamentally new approach based on compatibility rather than conflict of interests, on the understanding that a reliable, secure system of international energy supplies is a powerful stabilizing factor that can help to address many problems on a global scale – political, economic and social.

– Dear Mr. President, what is your vision of the situation in Afghanistan and the prospects for its development?

– On the whole, I am optimistic about the future of Afghanistan. The recent trends in settling the situation in this country inspire hope that the settlement is achievable, in particular through peaceful means and negotiations. Turkmenistan has always stood for that and is ready today to actively contribute to the political and diplomatic efforts of the international community to establish a broad inter-Afghan dialogue. Committed to the status of neutrality we are ready to conduct the international high level meeting on confidence-building measures and reconciliation in Afghanistan and the development of governmental institutions under the auspices of the UN in Turkmenistan.

Certainly, the efforts of the leadership of Afghanistan to resolve the situation through negotiations and create an atmosphere of civic cohesion and reconciliation must be supported through providing international economic assistance. I believe that a long-term program on revival of Afghanistan should be developed under the auspices of the UN.

This program, first of all, should include projects for development of transport and communication networks, electrification, diversification of industry, construction of schools, hospitals and other social facilities.

Today, it is necessary to widely involve Afghanistan in long-term transport, communications and energy projects launched in the region. This will give the Afghan people confidence in the future and help them feel themselves, their country a full-fledged and equal participant in regional and global processes. This will bring real economic and financial benefits to Afghanistan, help to solve many social problems and attract foreign investments.

In this regard, we attach particular importance to the Turkmenistan–Afghanistan–Pakistan–India gas pipeline project. The work on its implementation is under way; today it has the firm international support. In order to promote further the project we intend to hold the meeting at the ministerial level this month, then bring the issues regarding the construction of the pipeline to a high level and hold the summit of the leaders of four states this December in Ashgabat and adopt the relevant decision.

– Dear Mr. President, how would you evaluate the progress of the negotiation process on the status of the Caspian Sea?

– First of all, it should be noted that all five littoral states have an understanding that the Caspian Sea basin is an important strategic region, and the promotion of full cooperation there meets their long-term interests. The negotiation process is being built on the basis of this common denominator.

Using the political terms, I would define its character as constructive in whole. Participants in the negotiations respect each other's opinion and share the concerns expressed. Of course, there are differences in approaches; however, they are not the determining factors which may affect an atmosphere of relations between our countries.

Turkmenistan's approach to determining the legal status of the Caspian Sea is very balanced and responsible, we intend to continue collaboration with partners in different formats on the basis of a constructive dialogue, respect and equality. In this regard it should be noted that our country initiated the first summit of the littoral states, which was held in Ashgabat in the spring of 2002.

I would like to emphasize that we consider it absolutely unacceptable to add the political colors to any unsettled issues related to the Caspian Sea. In particular, the delimitation of the seabed and depths of the Caspian Sea is a legal issue that must be resolved only in the legal format and in compliance with international norms. Therefore, we factor it out of our relations with the Caspian states, with each of which we develop active and versatile cooperation in the political, economic, cultural and humanitarian spheres, in the framework of long-term transport, energy, shipbuilding, shipping, communications projects. We intend to intensify and expand this cooperation; it meets common interests, opens up wonderful opportunities for progress and welfare of the peoples of the Caspian states.

– Dear Mr. President, you attach special significance to the promotion of international cultural cooperation. How do you think it develops today?

– It is natural that culture as an important part of the history of mankind has a special place in Turkmenistan's international priorities. Cultural cooperation is an essential tool for mutual understanding between states and nations, one of the most effective ways to build relations of sympathy and friendship, respect and mutual confidence between people belonging to different ethnic groups and confessions.

I consider it necessary to promote it in conformity with modern realities and the needs of people, onrush of information technology, the emergence of new forms of collaboration. I think that today emphasis should be put on it, to take every effort so that wide international cooperation will be developed in line with global trends, however, preserving the identity and uniqueness inherent in the culture of every nation.

Today cultural cooperation of Turkmenistan is developed in this way. We are open for the world, open to intensive contacts between people of creative professions. International festivals involving artists from all over the world, not only renowned masters but also youth and children are organized in the country. Let's remember those that were held successfully in Avaza this summer. By encouraging cultural cooperation, we make a major contribution to the future laying a firm foundation for mutual understanding between peoples of the world for decades to come.

Speech at the 65th session of the UN General Assembly

(New-York, 20.09.2010)

Esteemed Mr. President! Esteemed Mr. Secretary General! Distinguished Heads of Delegations! Ladies and Gentlemen! On behalf of the people and Government of Turkmenistan, I cordially welcome and congratulate you on the beginning of the 65th Session of the United Nations General Assembly.

On behalf of the people and Government of Turkmenistan, I cordially welcome and congratulate you on the beginning of the 65th Session of the United Nations General Assembly.

I congratulate Mr. Joseph Deiss on having been elected the President of the UN General Assembly and express confidence that the General Assembly will work successfully and fruitfully under his leadership. I also would like to express our gratitude to Esteemed Mr. Ali Abdussalam Treki, the President of the 64th Session of the General Assembly for the effective at this post.

Esteemed Mr. President! Ladies and Gentlemen! This year, our country is preparing to the widely celebration of a remarkable date, the 15th anniversary of Turkmenistan's Neutrality. It was within the walls of the United Nations that our desire of being a neutral, peaceful, non-aligned country acquired support of the whole international community and became a reality. Throughout all these years, Turkmenistan has remained committed to this choice based on clear understanding of its role and place in contemporary world and strict fulfilment of international obligations assumed. From this high tribune I am addressing all UN member states and the Community of Nations to express gratitude for rendering support and assistance in implementing our international initiatives.

For us neutrality is not just a legal status. It is an active position, a full-scale involvement in international processes through peacemaking and assisting in working out effective models of economic cooperation. This also includes provision of a political platform for solving problems, both within the region and beyond, for the purpose of consolidating peace, security and creating favorable conditions for sustainable development and progress. This is the main purport and content of our steps and initiatives on the world arena. Turkmenistan's approach to contemporary problems is based on confidence in the ability of the international community to find right solutions, overcome stereotypes, free itself from the burden of inertial thinking and attain a new view on perspectives of global interaction. We call this a Strategy of the future, implying achievement of a wide and stable international consensus on key development issues, namely political, socio-economic, energy and ecological matters.

Due to objective reasons, issues of economic cooperation possess particular importance for Turkmenistan. A strategic priority for us in this area is diversification of energy routes, provision of a new, multi-optional pipeline infrastructure. We have started working actively in this direction, based on clearly defined principles of a state policy in this sphere, realistic evaluation of our own resource base and possibilities of its long-term exploitation. Last year, a construction of new, Turkmenistan–China and Turkmenistan–Iran pipelines was completed successfully in cooperation with our partners. We consider them as a real contribution to international energy cooperation, as an effective stabilizing factor which will positively influence on the general situation and provide additional steadiness to the whole system of political and economic ties in the Asian continent.

Today, we are actively working on implementing another project – Turkmenistan–Afghanistan–Pakistan–India gas pipeline, convincing that it is beneficial for all parties, involved to this project. The project will promote economical upturn, create a large number of additional workplaces, form a social infrastructure and support and consolidate political stability in the region.

Currently, issues of equal, uninterrupted and secure access to energy sources and means of their transportation have assumed global importance, exerting increasing impact on the general situation in the world, nature and lines of international cooperation, level of engagement of states and regions in development processes. This requires raising this issue to the UN level, working out common principles and intelligible regulations of relations between producers, transit countries and consumers under the UN auspices.

In this connection, Turkmenistan intends to make a statement in the course of the current Session, initiating adoption of a General Assembly resolution on creation under the UN auspices of an expert group that would develop an international mechanism of stable energy supply in the world.

We understand that working on such mechanism requires time and effort, responsibility, flexibility and readiness from the international community for sensible compromise and calling up political, diplomatic, intellectual, financial and organizational resources.

However, we are also convinced that from the standpoint of global security and stability, strategic benefits and advantages will immeasurably surpass all costs and expenses.

Obviously, in current conditions only the United Nations, with its unique legitimacy, enormous moral authority, available legal regulators and extensive experience in settlement of issues of universal importance, is able to give a stimulus to this process, provide conditions for a broad dialogue and act as a guarantor in case agreements are reached.

The world community has an understanding that the problem of a globally secure and reliable transit of energy carries requires multilateral discussion.

In conformation of the above, in 2008 the General Assembly supported our initiative on commencement of such dialogue, which is already being held within various international and regional meetings. We believe that we need to move forward and raise it to a brand new, institutional level.

Therefore, Turkmenistan suggests considering a matter of creating, in perspective, a special body, the United Energy Council. The purport and content of its activity is providing political format and organizational conditions for a systemic, professional discussion of the range of problems related to energy.

With due respect, we call on all UN member states to formulate their suggestions in the light of this initiative.

Esteemed Mr. President! Ladies and Gentlemen! Ten years ago, in its declaration, the Millennium Summit proclaimed all UN member states responsible for the destinies of the planet.

For Turkmenistan, Millennium Development Goals have organically fit into our own development plans, matched with ideology and outlook of the reform of the national economy, social sphere and public relations and mostly defined lines of cooperation on the world arena.

Turkmenistan has set a strategic course for active participation in broad international partnership from the position of peaceful, politically stable, economically strong state; arrangement of a multidimensional regional cooperation, based on compliance and compatibility of interest of various countries and support of own and other large-scale international projects involving regional and non-regional countries and companies.

Due to geographical peculiarities of Central Asia and the Caspian basin, development of transport and communication areas seems perspective here.

Creation in the region of a modern extensive infrastructure of railway and highway services and network of communications is able to give a great impetus to a successful integration of our counties into process of the global economic development.

This will ensure an investment inflow; create conditions for an effective cooperation within the scope of intercontinental economic realities on the Eurasian space, in «North–South» and «East–West» directions.

We suggest that the UN keenly considers perspectives of development of transport and communication infrastructure in Central Asia and the Caspian basin, and, thereby, are ready for the closest cooperation. We consider reasonable that the UN specialized structures get actively involved into this work, Economic Commission for Europe, Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific being in the first place.

The pivotal component of achieving the Millennium Development Goals in the region is solving serious ecological problems, first of all, saving the Aral Sea and rehabilitating unique natural resources of the Caspian Sea. More specifically, we consider it necessary to create a special international expert group, which in collaboration with the UN and the Executive Committee of the International Fund for Saving the Aral Sea, signed in Ashgabat on 3 March 2010.

Overall, we consider it reasonable to find an opportunity for immediate presence of the UN specialized structures in the Central Asia and the Caspian basin.

In the first place, we count on the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP) to work here actively. We propose to consider the issue of establishing of the UNEP Regional Office in one of the regional countries. Turkmenistan is ready to provide the necessary infrastructure for this purpose.

The critical problem, directly connected with the ecology, is the use of water resources. More specifically, in the Central Asia the rational use of water is one of the determining factors having a significant impact on the dynamics of the socio-economic development of our countries.

Turkmenistan views the settlement of water disputes on the basis of universally recognized norms of international law with regard to interests of all countries of the region, with the world community represented by the UN and other reputable international organizations being actively involved.

Esteemed President!

Our efforts are directed at forming a firm and effective system of regional security in the Central Asia and the Caspian basin; commitment to peaceful negotiated methods of settlement of existing issues or disputable questions. The crucial conditions here are mutual understanding, confidence and openness, honest and objective discussion of any topical issues.

This, in its turn, presupposes availability of a mechanism of a regional dialogue, a constant process of multilateral communication for the purpose of development of mutually acceptable approaches to certain issues. Such dialogue is conducted systematically with a clearly specified agenda, and parties immediately involved in a dialogue are to possess authorities required for decision-making.

We believe that such form of communication is in demand today due to the realities of regional development. We propose to establish a high-level forum on security, peace and cooperation in the Central Asia and the Caspian basin, which will serve as a political format of such interaction.

It would be reasonable to hold a forum on a regular basis, each country of the region hosting it by turns. We are ready to organize the first session of the Forum in Ashgabat within a reasonable period.

Esteemed Mr. President! Distinguished Heads of Delegations! Ladies and Gentlemen! International conferences dedicated to adjustment of the situation in Afghanistan have been held in London and Kabul this year. Overall, we are satisfied with the results of both meetings, and would like to suggest our approaches in the light of decisions made there.

1) Turkmenistan understands and supports efforts of the Afghan administration, directed at adjustment of the situation by negotiated means and creating an atmosphere of national concord and reconciliation in the country. This meets perspectives of development of intra-Afghanistan processes. We consider it necessary for the world community to render international assistance to Afghan partners. In this connection, taking into account our neutral status, our country is ready to hold, under the UN auspices, an International high-level meeting on confidence building in Afghanistan and development of efficient institutions of state power. We are ready to discuss issues of organizing such meetings with our Afghan partners, the Special Representative of the UN Secretary General for Afghanistan, other specialized UN structures involved in Afghanistan issue and all interested parties.

2) Being desirous of rendering assistance to the people of the country in state building, and in accordance with the results of the London and Kabul meetings, we offer our help in training in Turkmenistan, under the UN patronage and programmes of the Afghan personnel for management structures in various sectors.

3) The paramount task is assisting Afghanistan in developing transport infrastructure.

Our country proposes a project for constructing a railway from Turkmenistan to Afghanistan with its further extension on the Afghan territory aided by international financial institutions. We would welcome involvement of the world community.

4) We find necessary to substantially activate efforts directed at the construction of the Turkmenistan–Afghanistan–Pakistan–India gas pipeline. The Trans-Afghan pipeline can have a great impact on development of Afghan economy; help resolve major social issues, employment being among them; promote attraction of investments; positively influence the political situation in the country.

5) Turkmenistan is ready to consider matter of increasing the electric power supply to Afghanistan, as well as expanding our own energy infrastructure for the purpose of future installation and networking on the Afghan territory. We invite the international community represented by the UN to discuss this proposal.

Esteemed Mr. President! Esteemed Heads of Delegations! Ladies and Gentlemen! Full-scale and purposeful cooperation with the UN is a strategic choice of Turkmenistan. To us, the UN is more than just the most representative international structure. We view the UN as a bearing mainstay of a whole contemporary system of global interaction; guarantor of preservation and maintenance of peace and balance of interests of current security architecture.

Along with the world community, based on accumulated positive experience of cooperation, wisdom and responsibility of all UN member states, Turkmenistan will continue to work diligently for the purpose of achieving the high goals and ideals of the United Nations Organization.

Thank you for your attention!

Statement and answers to questions at the press-conference (Ashgabat, 30.09.2010)

Ladies and gentlemen! Dear journalists! I am very glad of our new meeting in this hall with turkmen and foreign journalists. As you know, we have met today to discuss the outcomes of the recent visit of the Turkmen government delegation to New York, the United States, where we participated in the 65th session of the UN General Assembly.

As is known, it has become a good tradition in our country to organize meetings with representatives of mass media.

In my speech at the 65th session of the United Nations General Assembly, I stated the principles and views of our country on the critical foreign policy issues. Also, our proposals and our views on these issues were widely supported by leaders of several countries, authoritative international organizations. Also, Turkmenistan's standpoints and initiative in this field were discussed during numerous bilateral meetings.

The program of our visit in the United States was full of events, while staying in New York there was no possibility of complying with the most of the requests for meetings and talks made by participants of the 65th session of the UN General Assembly.

Dear representatives of mass media! Dear journalists! I believe that through your efforts the dialogue about the intense interest of the international community in our country will continually extends.

Now, I am going to answer your questions about the outcomes of the participation of the Turkmen government delegation in the 65th session of the UN general Assembly.

If you have any questions, please, ask.

Igor Sasin, (France Press Agency, France):

– Dear Mr. President, in your speech at the 65th session of the United Nations General Assembly you put forward several concrete proposals aimed at addressing urgent issues of global and regional development. What motivated these foreign policy initiatives, and what you think should be done to implement them?

– First of all, I would like to emphasize that all proposals and initiatives put forward by Turkmenistan, including those stated in my speech at the UN General Assembly are based on the thorough and objective analysis of current processes, an understanding of cause-and-effect relations that lead to certain events and challenges.

We are the realists, and therefore we are not inclined either colour the reality or dramatize it too much. We state our vision of problems and offer concrete solutions to them. Proceeding from the firm belief that any state regardless of the area of territory, economic or military potential is able to make a positive contribution to sustainable and progressive development of human civilization, to progress and wellbeing of billions of people living on our planet, to the guaranteed peaceful future for the present and future generations.

Towards the end of the last century ideological confrontation of two systems, geopolitical rivalry between two superpowers which assigned, by and large, a role of extras to other countries came to an end.

No marking lines exist today on a global scale, and any attempts to restore them including through over accentuating the dubious theory of «the clash of civilizations» are groundless and futile. Yes, today's world is complicated, diverse, but it is common. Such are the objectives goals set to the community of nations, they are common too. To achieve them is possible, feasible, but with one fundamental condition that is in a couple of words can be stated as peace and security. Therefore, all intentions and aspirations of Turkmenistan as a responsible member of the international community, all our practical steps taken on the world stage, proposals and initiatives aimed at creating this condition.

We are convinced that today security cannot be selective – for one country or a group of countries. No nation, no matter how powerful and rich it may be, is able to shut itself off from problems and threats of particular concern to the rest of the world. To achieve global security, sustainable and conflict-free global development is impossible without solving many socio-economic problems related to bridging the gap between developed and developing nations, provision of food to countries and regions, equitable access to energy, prevention and mitigation of environmental and anthropogenic risks, effective counteraction to terrorism, drug trafficking and transnational organized crime. In other words, today security is as indivisible as our world is.

Therefore, we urge the world community to think about developing the unified security concept as a starting political and ideological platform for further joint actions of states to address key issues of our time. In my speech at the UN General Assembly session I called it the strategy for the future meaning the rejection of previous schemes in which geopolitical rivalry, struggle for control over territories and resources, division of spheres of influence and so forth prevailed by this notion. We offer to reach a new level of understanding of contemporary realities that objectively require overcoming differences over particulars, tactical issues in the name of common strategic goals. I would formulate a model of interstate relations in the context of collective efforts to ensure comprehensive security and development as the diversity of interests – a unity of purpose.

Let's act anticipating things for decades to come and thinking over what kind of world we want to leave to the future generations.

As for the methods for implementing our initiatives, the main thing here is the political will and responsibility of states. In particular, we proposed to establish the Forum on Security and Cooperation in Central Asia and the Caspian Basin at the high level, formulated the proposals for the political settlement of the situation in Afghanistan and economic rehabilitation of this country, the opening of UN counter-terrorism information and coordination centres and UN counter-crime training and information centres.

All these are specific issues that need negotiating. There are proven political and diplomatic tools that must be used maximum efficiently to do this. Turkmenistan stands ready to contribute actively to this work.

Mihail Pereplesnin, (Turkmenistan magazine, Russia):

– Dear Mr. President, the initiative to establish the Energy Council of the United Nations that you had put forward in your speech drew a wide response all over the world. This proposal does have global significance and, if implemented, can dramatically change the entire system of relationships on global energy market. What dictated this initiative and what will the functions of the Energy Council be once it is established?

– Let's not run ahead. Now, it is only an idea in prospect. World energy market is a complex and sensitive sphere, and the international community needs time to reflect upon our proposal, develop and formulate its approaches.

Generally speaking, the initiative to establish the Energy Council of the United Nations fits into the logic of our steps aimed at jointly elaborating new approaches to international energy supplies challenges. As you know, we first brought it out at the 62nd session of the United Nations General Assembly in 2007. The well-known Resolution was drafted and endorsed in the framework of the 63rd session, following which Ashgabat hosted the high-level international conference on security of energy transit in 2009. At the next, 64th session we put forward the idea of forming an adhoc expert group under the aegis of the UN that would deal with all necessary issues.

This August the first meeting focusing on the aspects of forming this group was organized in New York. We realize that a special Resolution of the UN General Assembly could be needed to form an expert group, determine its mandate and fund of its activities. We are ready to work on this issue so that a resolution will be adopted during the current session.

In our opinion, the group could organize its activities in three major areas.

First: adopting the legal framework to ensure reliable and stable transit of energy to world markets.

Here, I mean, first and foremost, the work on a multilateral, comprehensive international legal instrument of the UN. For example, the UN Treaty on safeguards of energy transit.

Second: building a new institutional groundwork that is essential for the implementation of international law norms on energy transit.

Third: building a new information framework that will enable to monitor and control the implementation of the Treaty on safeguards of energy transit.

In fact, what is at issue is the development of an effective and legitimate international mechanism for regulating global energy policy.

The main coordinating body responsible for making policy decisions in this field should be the Energy Council of the UN. I want to say once again that our initiative to establish it is developed for the future. We hurry nobody and stand ready to discuss thoughtfully it with our partners and draft jointly the proposals at this point.

Myrat Govshudov, (Turkmen State News Agency):

– Dear Mr. President, during your meetings with leaders of other countries, the high-ranking officials of the UN Secretariat, representatives of the world's business elite in New York you put special emphasis on the economic component of the reforms implemented in Turkmenistan. What are the priorities of state policy in this field? How does the country position itself on the world economic arena?

– You are right, the economic theme in the course of my talks was a key one. I should say frankly that the interest in Turkmenistan shown all over the world today goes far beyond the availability of access to its natural resources. Our country is no longer seen as a global reservoir of hydrocarbons only.

We are becoming a more attractive partner in other spheres, a promising target for long-term investments in industry, agriculture, transport, communications, textile and mining industries, construction, tourism. Not only first-class companies, but also the world's largest financial and economic centres trust us and want to work with us. In turn, we are talking today with our foreign counterparts from the position of not a country rich in raw materials, but an economically strong and dynamically developing nation that has something to offer to the world other than oil and gas.

Of course, this has become possible through landmark economic and social reforms implemented for the last three years. Summarily, three main sectors where most dynamic reforms are implemented can be identified. These are the economy, the financial sector and the social sphere.

When we talk about economic reforms, I would like to emphasize the most essential thing: the goal of our strategy is to diversify the economy that is the formation of multisectoral and multifunctional economic system. Naturally, the achievement of this goal depends largely on the availability and proper use of human, natural, financial, information and other resources.

To this end, on the first stage we built the fundamentally new legal and institutional frameworks regulating economic relations in our country in a short time. A package of laws was adopted, management structures are being optimized, additional financing sources were formed, drastic changes were brought about in the monetary sphere. Let me provide some examples.

With the view of distributing the authority for the management of economic and financial processes two independent government agencies – the Ministry of Economy and Development and the Ministry of Finance were established.

Also, to lay the scientific groundwork for the activity of these agencies and the government as a whole the Institute of Strategic Planning and Economic Development was established. All this enables to say about the formation of a strong governance framework, which is to ensure an effective socio-economic growth.

Furthermore, we have managed to carry out major financial reforms very quietly. First, the exchange rate between the national currency and the convertible currency was balanced. Secondly, we carried out the denomination of Turkmenistan manat. Third, a significant surplus in the State budget enabled to establish the Stabilization Fund.

Speaking about it, I would like to focus on such essential thing as the social orientation of our economy. In this regard, the social along with economic reforms are actively carried out in such important spheres such as pension provision, social insurance, labour and wages. Much has been done here. First, the new legislative acts were adopted: the Labour Code and the Social Welfare Code. Secondly, all guarantees of the regular salaries, pensions, allowances and scholarships raise were provide. Thirdly, a range of social benefits and state privileges provided to population (free gas, electricity, water, a number of communal services, etc.) is broadened.

Summarizing the aforesaid, it should be emphasized that all ongoing reforms became possible due to the effectively functioning public administration mechanism. We firmly believe that the management of economic and financial processes through developing legislative framework, optimizing the system of government and non-government institutions is the determining factor for implementing the socio-economic policy. Of course, it is needed to base upon universally accepted international norms, follow international standards, study and effectively apply international practices. In this regard the experience of the United Nations will be essential for us.

During meetings with the high-ranking officials of the UN Secretariat in New York, I suggested thinking over the development of the long-term programme for strengthening the capacity of public administration in Turkmenistan. This proposal was supported.

Jemal Bayramova, (Ogonyok magazine, Russia):

– Dear Mr. President, as is known, Turkmenistan intends to propose its membership in the Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC). For what purpose are you doing this?

– This step should be considered in the context of overall intensification of Turkmenistan's cooperation with the United Nations, which has become complex and multidimensional in recent years. Today, we cooperate with the UN in the political and humanitarian spheres and in improving our democratic institutions and on human rights issues under various cultural, educational, environmental projects and programmes.

The priorities of our cooperation include promotion of Turkmenistan's activity in the framework of the UN agencies dealing with socio-economic problems. ECOSOC is the major one among them.

By nominating for the membership in this body for the period of 2013–2015 years, we pursue two objectives which are equally important. The first one is to provide overall assistance to the UN in promoting international cooperation, closer integration of various states and regions of the planet in the process of sustainable development, improving people's welfare.

Also, we view our membership in the ECOSOC in terms of the efficient use of Turkmenistan's infrastructure potential by the international community to promote the activities of various UN agencies in the regions of the Central Asian and Caspian Basin regions.

In this regard, I proposed to work with specialized UN agencies including the Department of Economic and Social Affairs, the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe and the Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific on joint projects, the outcomes of which could be used later by the delegation of our country to the ECOSOC to promote large-scale social and economic programmes at the global and regional levels, during the period before the elections.

This will help our country implement its potential fully as an entity of international relations.

The second goal is based on the practical results of the UN projects implemented in country to represent Turkmenistan as a country whose experience can be learned by other states. And we are ready to undertake this work under the aegis of the UN during the period of our membership in ECOSOC.

We realize perfectly well that the election to this important body, on the one hand, provides great opportunities for generating and implementing new ideas, and on the other hand imposes the awesome responsibility on our country for drafting and adopting the Council's decisions.

Aybolek Babanyazova (a student of the Faculty of International Journalism, Institute for International Relations):

– Dear Mr. President, environmental issues are of increasing importance on the global agenda. Also, it is known that the protection of the environment is a priority vector of the policy of the Turkmen state. What do you see being the solutions to environmental challenges in Central Asia?

– It's natural. Today, ecology has direct impact on the lives and wellbeing of people around the world, the implementation of socio-economic development plans, the situation in different regions, has an effect on relations between states. In fact, it has transformed into a backbone factor determining to a larger extent the level of security and sustainability of global development.

These questions are relevant for Turkmenistan as a responsible member of the international community and as a country situated in the region facing environmental challenges.

However, we don't separate, from an environmental point of view, Central Asia from the Caspian Basin assuming rightly, in my opinion, that the problems existing on this vast territory are interrelated and require coordination. This is an issue of not the methodology but the implementation of the measures for physical and social rehabilitation of people living here, conservation of the unique natural heritage, efficient water resources management.

I am convinced that only joint efforts of states in Central Asia and the Caspian Basin with an active coordinating role of the UN can give a positive result.

An essential component of environmental activities in this context is cooperation with the UN Environment Programme (UNEP). It is obvious that the time for closer collaboration of Central Asian and Caspian states with this agency aimed at elaborating common approaches to addressing environmental problems has come. In this regard, Turkmenistan offers to consider thoroughly the possibility for opening the UNEP Office for Central Asia and the Caspian region.

For its part our country is ready to provide all conditions conducive to opening the Office headquarters in Ashgabat.

Jemil Yyllyz, (Zaman newspaper, Turkey):

– Mr. President, those who visited Turkmenistan in the last three years, talk about social protection of population and social orientation of reforms you implement. Please, tell a few words about this.

– The principle «The state is for people!» is consistently and purposefully implemented in our country. The cornerstone of the policy of national revival is the continuity of moral traditions and spiritual values developed by the Turkmen people over their long history. Abiding by these traditions, developing and enriching them, we put the so-called «human dimension» into the foundation of modernizing the country.

A striking illustration of this is the new Social Welfare Code of Turkmenistan providing for a wide range of legal, economic, administrative and other measures aimed at guaranteeing social protection to veterans of World War II, labour veterans, families with many children, people with disabilities and other categories of population who need social support. The real guarantees of the constitutional rights of citizens are secured by the Labour Code and other legislative acts adopted by the national Parliament in recent years.

Another eloquent fact: in average over 70 percent of the budget funds are allocated each year for the social sphere including education, health care, culture, social welfare.

I should add the fact that arouses particular surprise abroad: free gas, water, electricity, gasoline for private cars owners, very low fees for communal and transportation services, wages, annual raise in pensions, allowances and scholarships – all this are also the measures guaranteeing social support.

A comprehensive approach to Turkmenistan's multifaceted economic potential, the high standards of living underlie our national programmes, which clearly set forth the prospects for the development of the capital of each region.

As a result of the implementation of these programmes and projects the life in Turkmen towns and villages dramatically changes, the difference between centre and provinces in terms of socio-economic infrastructure providing access to all benefits of modern civilization is erased.

Sener Shevshatly, (TRT broadcasting company, Turkey):

– Turkmenistan has the quite ambitious plans to expand gas export routes. In this connection the question – whether the current gas production rates are enough to implement these plans?

– Turkmenistan is the largest «blue fuel» supplier in Central Asia and has every opportunity to increase natural gas production in the coming years. Wealth of the depth of Turkmenistan was proved by the international audit of gas reserves carried out in accordance with the international system of evaluation and classification of reserves of gas fields by the independent international experts the firm Gaffney, Cline & Associates.

I think many of you know about the results of the audit of gas reserves carried out by this authoritative international consultant in the fields of Southern Yoloten – Osman and Yashlar in 2008. Subsequent studies and exploratory drilling showed that the reserves of this grandiose field, according to latest estimates, are estimated at 18 trillion cubic metres of gas.

A profound interest in enormous resources of Turkmenistan's underground storehouses is evidenced by signing the large-scale contracts with well-known companies from the People's Republic of China, the Republic of Korea and the United Arab Emirates that initiated commercial development of the giant Southern Yoloten gas field.

The contracts worth about US$ 10 billion provide for design and construction of surface and underground facilities to extract and process tens of billions of cubic metres of tank gas.

There are great prospects for reserves of such fields as Garabil-Gurrukbi, the Central Garagum group and other rich underground deposits. Foreign companies are interested in the development of hydrocarbon reserves in the Turkmen sector of the Caspian Sea.

According to specialists, Turkmenistan's energy potential is currently estimated at 45.44 billion tones of oil equivalent. Gas reserves in Turkmenistan are estimated at 24.6 trillion cubic metres, according to experts, surveys continue.

It is planned to produce 230 billion cubic metres of gas a year by 2030 in the country – a part of this amount will be processed inside the country, and a major part will be exported. So, it is planned to increase natural gas export by that time to 180 billion cubic metres a year. So, proven reserves will be sufficient for many decades to come, the more so because there are a lot of oil and gas pools in the territory of Turkmenistan, which are still waiting for their time.

Tarik Sayedi, (Pakistan Press Network Agency):

– What are the plans for diversification of transit of Turkmen gas to foreign consumers? How are they implemented?

– Over the past few years our country has done much work to diversify transit of natural gas to international markets. By implementing these plans based on purely economic interests and meeting the emerging demand for Turkmen gas among potential buyers, Turkmenistan gradually expands the geography of its gas exports, which currently includes states situated in different parts of the Eurasian continent.

Later, in 2009 the leaders of the four states – China, Uzbekistan, Kazakhstan and Turkmenistan – launched solemnly the largest energy line of XXI century, the Trans-Asian gas pipeline.

Turkmen natural gas supplies to the transcontinental gas pipeline Turkmenistan–Uzbekistan–Kazakhstan–China have started since that day. This pipeline will export large amounts of «blue fuel» to the Celestial Empire. The agreement for the construction of the second branch of the Trans-Asian gas pipeline was reached a little later.

Another important vector for expanding gas exports is our southern neighbour, Iran. In July 2009 the agreement to increase Turkmen natural gas supplies from 8 to 14 billion cubic metres and up to 20 billion cubic metres a year in the future was reached. The ceremony of putting the Dovletabat–Serahs–Hangeran gas pipeline into operation took place in early January this year.

The estimated capacity of the new gas artery is estimated at 12 billion cubic metres of natural gas each year. This June the agreement to increase further Turkmen «blue fuel» supplies to Iran was reached.

At present, Turkmenistan consistently promotes a number of other natural gas transportation projects. So, during our state visit to India and talks with President of the Republic of India Pratibha Devisingh Patil and Prime Minister Manmohan Singh this May, we declared the intention to continue cooperation on the Turkmenistan–Afghanistan–Pakistan–India gas pipeline project with the view of accelerating the project implementation.

We view India along with Afghanistan and Pakistan as the future strategic partners in the fuel and energy sector. The Turkmenistan–Afghanistan–Pakistan–India gas pipeline project we are developing is essentially important from all points of view: for Turkmenistan as the gas supplier, for Pakistan and India as developing countries, whose economies are in need of energy, and for Afghanistan as a consumer and transit country. The construction of this transnational gas pipeline will enable the participating countries to address burning social and humanitarian issues, including those related to creating additional jobs and developing social infrastructure along this gas line.

Most importantly, it will contribute to maintaining and enhancing political stability throughout the region.

Turkmenistan is committed to strategic cooperation in the oil and gas sector with its longtime partner – Russia, though the global economic crisis has slowed the implementation of joint projects. Nevertheless, our meetings with the President of the Russian Federation as well as collaboration of companies of the two countries spotlighted the prospects of mutually advantageous partnership.

Following our meeting with Dmitriy Medvedev, the important documents specifying the priority fields of bilateral economic collaboration were signed in late December 2009 in Ashgabat.

These include the Interstate Agreement on expansion of strategic cooperation in the power and machine-building sectors, which provides for the implementation of joint oil and gas projects, including the Caspian gas pipeline project aimed at enhancing Turkmen gas exports northwards. Also, it is planned to intensify cooperation in developing hydrocarbon resources in the Turkmen sector of the Caspian Sea, developing an infrastructure for transporting oil and oil products.

The fact that Turkmenistan, Iran, China and Russia agreed to determine the «blue fuel» price on the basis of the formula that fully complies with the conditions of the European gas market is of considerable importance.

Moreover, Turkmenistan, which has large «blue fuel» reserves that it can offer to other potential buyers in the coming years, Ashgabat explores new possibilities for supplying its energy to the promising European market. The coincidence of interests of Turkmenistan as the largest natural gas producer and the EU countries, where a growth of energy imports in the next decade is forecast, has conditioned the increasing dynamics of relationships at an intergovernmental level. This is evidenced by the Memorandum of Energy Cooperation signed between Turkmenistan and the EU in 2008, and promotion of partnership between leading European companies and Turkmenistan.

Thus, the fuel and energy policy of our country is built through developing the diversified system of reliable and stable transit of Turkmen energy to world markets. We proceed from the assumption of no substitution and complementarity of existing routes in all four geographical directions.

Shagylych Mammedov, (Watan TV news program, Turkmenistan):

– Mr. President, you have put a number of important initiatives, among which you prioritize the need to develop international mechanisms for reliable protection and security of transit of energy to world markets. Why do you pay special attention to this initiative?

– I should note now that we view the issue of building a model of global security as a coherent phenomenon, since none of its components, whether it is political, energy, food, environmental security can exist separately, without conditioning each other and standing as indivisible in the geopolitical context. However, I would like to note that energy security plays a significant role in this tangle of interrelated phenomena.

It is more than obvious that energy security in contemporary global conditions is no longer a problem facing only one country. The compliance of national interests of particular states with interests of the international community in this aspect is the conceptual foundation of the world policy of concerting energy security efforts. The global nature and scale of the energy security challenge requires intensification of collaboration at the widest possible level of international cooperation.

Our initiative to ensure reliable transit of energy met with support of the world community through adopting the Special Resolution on the Reliable and Stable Transit of Energy and Its Role in Ensuring Sustainable Development and International Cooperation at the 63rd session of the UN General Assembly in September 2008.

This important document became the starting point for global efforts to lay the international legal basis for stable energy transit. In this connection, Ashgabat hosted several large-scale international forums aimed at developing a unified strategy for reliable and stable energy transit. Specifying the global energy principles was the focus of the conference «Strengthening regional co-operation in Central Asia for promoting stable and reliable energy within Eurasia», which was held in the Turkmen capital.

With the view of promoting our initiative the Turkmen government delegation was sent to New York to hold the talks with the UN officials on the establishment of an expert group, which would submit the proposals for the development of an international legal instrument on energy transit.

So far, the agreements on reliability and security of energy supplies were typically based on bilateral, at best, group agreements and contracts. Not intending to deny the importance and usefulness of these forms of cooperation it should be recognized that the local nature of these agreements, the lack of reliable international guarantees made them extremely vulnerable and dependent on a variety of factors, often subjective, timeserving. That, of course, cannot help affecting relationship between parties involved in these processes, on a general atmosphere around energy exports. This becomes especially apparent during the periods of political complications in different regions of the planet.

To overcome these negative trends, place energy transit infrastructure at the service of progress and development of nations and peoples, stabilize the international processes are becoming a prerequisite for achieving the goals of sustainable development at a global level.

However, I want to emphasize once again that global security is a coherent phenomenon and stands as an indivisible concept in geopolitical terms. Along with energy security it includes political, food and environmental security.

Aleksander Vershinin, (Associated Press Agency, US):

– Your Excellency, focusing on the further steps to promote democracy in the country at the Elders' Council meeting in Dashoguz, you declared a possibility for establishing political parties and independent periodicals. Just recently the first issue of the private newspapers founded by the Union of Manufacturers and Entrepreneurs has appeared in print. Please, tell what the prospects of further democratization of the Turkmen society regarding the establishment of private mass media and political parties are?

– The publication of the private newspapers in the country evidences that Turkmenistan is moving resolutely forward along the path of democratic reforms.

You ask what the prospects are. I have always said that citizens of our country have the right to form political parties and other public associations, which will operate under national law. Thus, the Constitution of Turkmenistan guarantees the equality of rights and freedoms of citizens irrespective of nationality, race, sex, religion, etc., including, regardless of political beliefs and party affiliation. Moreover, the Basic Law secures the right of political parties (as well as public associations and citizens' groups) to nominate candidates for election. However, there are, of course, certain limitations.

For example, law prohibits the establishment and operation of political parties based on ethnic or religious grounds. As well as parties which intend to change the constitutional order, allow violence in their activities, oppose the constitutional rights and freedoms of citizens, advocate war, racial, ethnic, religious strife etc. in other cases I see no reasons that will prevent citizens of Turkmenistan from forming political parties or associations. I believe that the establishment of new independent mass media and political parties is a natural aspect of the development of any secular state.

Frankly speaking, I have said before and say it again now that the establishment of new parties is a quite serious issue that requires a thoughtful and responsible approach from founders. The state does not preclude, but rather welcomes the establishment of political parties and private newspapers; the main thing is that they should contribute to harmonious development of our society on the basis of spiritual values inherent in the Turkmen people.

Are there any questions?

Kakageldy Charyyardurdyev, (Press Secretary of President of Turkmenistan):

– Highly esteemed Mr. President, we would like to congratulate warmly you once again on the historic and deeply meaningful speech at the 65th session of the UN General Assembly. To the participants of the international exhibition «Oil and gas of Turkmenistan–2010» and scientific conference «Oil and gas industry of Turkmenistan: today, perspectives of development and international cooperation»

Dear friends! Dear guests! I cordially congratulate you on the opening of the international exhibition «Oil and gas of Turkmenistan–2010» and scientific conference «Oil and gas industry of Turkmenistan: today, perspectives of development and international cooperation» held in the capital of the independent neutral Turkmenistan!

Turkmenistan's entering the rank of advanced countries having supply of oil and gas, is one of the factors of systematically growing interest to our state and increasing the number of those who want to establish mutually beneficial long-term cooperation with us. The evidence of it is the present opening of the international and scientific conference. Independent neutral Turkmenistan is always open for fruitful international cooperation, and our goals find support of the world community.

At the 65th General Assembly of UNO Turkmenistan brought forth the initiatives connected with achieving large-scale and firm international harmony on political, social-economic, energy and ecological aspects. Cooperation in energy sphere is of great importance for our country. Exporting natural gas to Russian Federation, Chinese People's Republic and Islamic Republic of Iran, Turkmenistan solves the issues of modernizing pipelines. At present East–West gas pipeline is being constructed at high tempos; it must lock all gas deposits of the country into a single ring. Furthermore, besides negotiating on the construction of the second line of the gas pipeline on delivering Turkmen natural gas to China, Turkmenistan actively initiates the starting of the construction of the Turkmenistan–Afghanistan–Pakistan–India gas pipeline.

Dear participants of the international exhibition and scientific conference! Turkmenistan attaches particular significance to extracting and processing hydrocarbon and introducing updated equipment and high technologies to the production, technical and technological refurbishing gas branch enterprises, constructing new gas pipelines, and modernizing all existing pipelines. All this is also confirmed by putting into exploitation of the complex of installations for collecting and transporting gas from the deposits Keimir, Akpatlavuk and Chekishler, gas compressing station «Bagtyarlyk», which is an important part of the infrastructure of Turkmenistan–China gas pipeline, developing the complex of gas deposits of the Central Garagums and compressing installation of Central Garagums – Yılanly gas pipeline.

Tempos and productivity of large-scale work in South Yoloten-Osman, one of the largest gas deposits of the world, Turkmen geologists' recent discoveries of gas in these gigantic stores in the volume of 21 trillion cubic meters became pleasant factor. At present propositions from several foreign companies came on developing these deposits; contracts were concluded on the sum of 9,7 milliards USD at the first stage of work. Allocation of large investments for financing large economic units positively influences the growth of number of buyers of high quality Turkmen natural gas, active attraction of foreign investors and further strengthening national economy.

Dear friends! Dear guests! Turkmenistan, conducting «open door» policy, is ready for large-scale and close cooperation on the principles of equality and mutual benefit.

I want to notice that convincing evidence of it are the present international exhibition and scientific conference held in «Sergi köşgi» at the high organizational level. I think that this exhibition and conference, uniting scientists and specialists, companies from tens of countries of the world will positively influence formation of multi-vector pipeline systems for sustainable, reliable and long-term transit of energy resources to world markets, concluding new international agreements in this sphere and creating equal possibilities for beneficial using fuel-raw resources both by suppliers and consumers.

I am sure that the international exhibition and scientific conference will give wide possibilities for exchanging opinions and experience and give impulse for increasing international cooperation.

Once again I cordially congratulate you on the opening of the international exhibition «Oil and gas of Turkmenistan–2010» and scientific conference «Oil and gas industry of Turkmenistan: today, perspectives of development and international cooperation»! I wish you solid health, long life, family wellbeing and success!

Congratulation to cotton growers, machine operators, cotton pickers and all toilers of agriculture on fulfilling contractual obligations on cotton harvesting

Dear cotton growers, masters of rich harvest of the «white gold»! I cordially congratulate you on fulfilling agreement obligations on cotton harvesting all over our independent neutral country! I wish you solid health, family wellbeing and further success in your noble labor for all-sided prosperity of the Motherland!

Achieved success does credit to courageous masters of cultivating «white gold» and to all toilers of agriculture. It became the result of inspired labor of leaseholders, mulkadars, machine operators who skillfully handle newest machinery, workers of fishing industry, all those who carry our great work on developing agriculture, and among them branches of cotton growing.

In the period when our sovereign Motherland achieved progress in all spheres of life and is reaching new heights, when new national-spiritual revival triumph in the life of Turkmen people, due to your selfless labor harmans of «white gold» are growing higher. Due to it today more than 1,22 million tons of high quality cotton were brought to purveying centers. In the achieved success there is worthy contribution of every rural toiler of velayats, etraps, cotton growing farms and every master of rich harvest of «white gold». Among those who fulfilled agreement obligations it is necessary to underline efficient labor of courageous masters-cotton growers of Tahtabazar, Iolotan, Murgap and Garagum etraps of Mary velayat, Serdar and Bereket etraps of Balkan velayat, Baharly etrap of Geokdepe etrap, Ak bugday and Babadayhan etraps of Akhal velayat, Sayat, Karabekaul, Garashsyzyk and Serdarabat etraps of Lebap velayat, and also Ruhubelent etrap, Gubadag etrap, etraps named after S.A.Niyazov and S.Turkmenbashi of Dashoguz velayat.

Dear cotton growers! We live in the epoch of successful realizing of our main motto «The state is for people!» This motto became the expression of policy of the state aimed at providing and consolidating happy and problem-free-life of our people. Together with all people we carry out large-scale work on all-round development of our country and providing high level conditions. We change the Turkmen land, image of our cities and villages, beginning with beloved capital and finishing with settlements in the far corners of the country. For achieving such high goals we need persistence and creative labor of all our compatriots and rural toilers and among them cotton growers.

In our country all necessary conditions were created for productive labor of those who tied their life with the land, who cultivate high crops of raw cotton. The state supports farmers, buys highly productive machinery for them and they use it cultivating the land and picking grown crops; the state provides them with mineral fertilizers, lays out irrigation canals and collector-drainage network, builds new water storages. Big work is being carried out on improving irrigating conditions of the land.

As the result of all this in the epoch of new Renaissance and great changes the attitude to the land giving birth to «white gold» and to daihans changed. Using inherited rich experience in growing abundant crops, introducing advanced achievements of science, agro-technique, worthy evaluation of farmers' labor became demand of our state. Changes and achievements in this field make us glad. Continuing deep reforms in rural regions, developing of agriculture will radically change living conditions of every rural toiler and enrich their life with new contents. All this is connected with successful realizing our large-scale programs on radical change of the image of Turkmen villages, further improving culture of farming, creating modern agrarian firms and processing enterprises, intensive developing private property, that is the programs meeting requirements of the epoch of new Renaissance and great changes.

Dear high crops masters! Once again I cordially congratulate you on the remarkable labor victory – grown and picked up «white gold»!

Let never exhaust fertility of the Turkmen land giving us its priceless fruits! You achieved success due to deep reforms in agriculture, but it should not become the reason for stopping at this. I am sure that you will pick up the harvest without losses. I wish you further success in multiplying and perfecting farming traditions of our ancestors! I wish you solid health, family wellbeing and happiness!

Let success and victories always accompany you in your persistent and inspired labor which is to make worthy contribution to the cause of flowering of the country in the epoch of new Renaissance and great changes!

Let your honest labor on developing agriculture multiply your happiness and wellbeing and glory of our Motherland!

Statement at the third Summit of the Heads of Caspian states

(Baku, 18.11.2010)

Esteemed heads of states! Esteemed members of delegations! Ladies and gentlemen! First of all, I would like to express gratitude to President of Azerbaijan Republic Ilham Geydarovich Aliiev for organizing the third Summit of heads of Caspian states and creating the perfect conditions for joint work.

In our view, all participants of today's Summit have the understanding that the Caspian Basin is an important strategic region, and the development of comprehensive partnership and cooperation here meets long-term interests of all littoral states. I believe that the negotiation process taking place among our countries in various formats is built on this common denominator.

Generally speaking, the nature of this process can be characterized as constructive. Of course, there are differences in approaches and viewpoints on certain aspects of the Caspian problems, but they are not determining factors which may affect the overall atmosphere of our relations.

The first summit of the leaders of Turkmenistan, Azerbaijan, Iran, Kazakhstan and Russia held in Ashgabat in 2002 was to bring the Caspian dialogue to a qualitatively new level adequate to those great tasks that our two countries were to address in the whole spectrum of issues relating to the Caspian Sea. I think that in this sense the goals of the Ashgabat summit had been achieved.

In recent years we have made progress in building the legal framework of cooperation, optimized its organizational forms and identified its priority areas. In this context a critical step was the second Caspian Summit held in Teheran in 2007. As is known, it resulted in signing the Joint Declaration.

The work on the draft Convention on the legal status of the Caspian Sea is carried on in a constructive way, and the parties have achieved consensus on a majority of provisions of this document. To date, the draft five-sided agreement on security on the Caspian Sea had been finalized. Our joint achievements include the signing of the Framework Convention for the Protection of the Marine Environment.

Today, experts of the Caspian states actively to and thoroughly work to draft the Protocols to this document. All this testifies to the profound potential of partnership and the willingness of our countries to strengthen substantial collaboration.

In this regard, Turkmenistan proposes to start drafting the Agreements aimed at further legal regulation of various kinds of activity in the Caspian Sea. In particular, we believe it necessary to start drafting the Agreement on conservation and efficient use of biological resources of the Caspian Sea, which once adopted will enable to lay a firm legal basis for activities in this field.

Speaking more specifically, it will provide an opportunity to reach the five-sided agreement on quotas for the use of biological resources and, in particular, to distribute and develop quotas for sturgeon fish catch among the Caspian states in compliance with international legal norms. We proposed new techniques during our presidency in the Commission on aquatic bio resources of the Caspian Sea in 2007–2008.

With the view of coordinating the efforts taken by the Caspian states to tackle emergencies or a threat of them, we also believe it appropriate to start drafting the Agreement on cooperation to emergency prevention and mitigation.

Distinguished heads of states! In my speech I would like to focus on a number of the issues relating to the legal status of the Caspian Sea, which have not been addressed so far, and present Turkmenistan's standpoints on them.

Firstly, these include the problem of the delimitation of the seabed and depths of the Caspian Sea. When considering it, Turkmenistan proceeds from the understanding that the delimitation in the Caspian Sea should be based on universally recognized norms of international law, mutual respect and interests of partners.

Here, I would like to emphasize that we are against adding political colors to the unsolved problems of the Caspian Sea.

In particular, the delimitation of the seabed and depths of the Caspian Sea is a legal issue that must be addressed only through peaceful, diplomatic and legal means and methods.

Secondly, the issues relating to construction of pipelines on the seabed of the Caspian Sea is critical for us. Turkmenistan is firmly convinced that underwater pipelines in the Caspian Sea should be built only with the consent of those parties, across whose sections of the seabed pipelines will be built. Certainly, international environmental standards and regulations must be adhered to in this regard.

Thirdly, this is the issues relating to the delimitation of the water area of the Caspian Sea. Turkmenistan adheres to the view that the Caspian Sea is delimited by the territorial waters, territorial sea and the total water space.

In this case, we stand for forming the territorial sea 20 nautical miles wide, which should be in full sovereignty of a relevant coastal state. The outer line of the territorial sea should be the state border.

Esteemed heads and members of delegations! In this regard I would like to express gratitude to present here distinguished leaders of the Azerbaijan Republic, the Islamic Republic of Iran, the Republic of Kazakhstan and the Russian Federation for their profound contribution to developing constructive partnership in the Caspian Sea. Today, we have no closed or embarrassing topics. We discuss all aspects of the Caspian issues frankly and openly as it befits good friends and neighbours. This Summit confirms this fully.

I believe that it will become a critical step to develop friendship and cooperation among the Caspian states, strengthen further our unity in the willingness to turn the Caspian Sea in a region of peace and prosperity.

Achieving lasting stability and security is essential to our successful cooperation in the Caspian region, a key to solutions to all existing challenges. Together we do much work to achieve this goal and can be rightfully proud of the fact that today the Caspian Sea does not divide but unites our countries and peoples.

I firmly believe that the process of multilateral cooperation of the Caspian states, convergence of views on various issues has become systemic and irreversible.

Thank you.

To the participants of the international exhibition and scientific conference «Education, science, sport and tourism in the epoch of great Renaissance»

(24.11.2010)

Dear guests – participants of the international exhibition and scientific conference! I cordially congratulate you on the opening of the international exhibition and scientific conference «Education, science, sport and tourism in the epoch of great Renaissance» which is to become noticeable event in scientific-cultural life of Turkmenistan.

Our key task is to change radically and develop science and education at high tempos, because they are main steps for independent neutral Turkmenistan to reach new heights of development. We see sources of problem-free and happy life of our people in perfecting the system of science and education.

National system of education must be in harmony of the world system of science and education and have precise direction of development, combining in itself world outlook, spiritual-moral and philosophic values, fostered by our ancestors during many centuries.

In the epoch of new Renaissance and great changes we took decisive steps on leading home science to entirely new level of development. Necessary conditions were created for training scientific cadres and maximal use of people's intellectual potential. One of the most important directions of our long-term programs is development of the system of science on the basis of most advanced world experience. We are supporters of expanding international cooperation in the sphere of science and innovative technologies.

Science must not be torn off the life and society development. The country must have firm scientific basis for realizing far going plans and long-term programs. Results of scientific research and technical elaborations will directly depend on our economic and intellectual development. It is necessary to think over complicated tasks from scientific positions when adopting state important decisions.

The main concern of our state is to secure the generation's happy and well-to-do life, give education of the world level to young people so that in future they would become qualified specialists, highly moral and honest people for the society and the country. For this purpose we continue constructing updated and well-equipped buildings of schools and higher educational institutions, pre-school institutions and children's health improving centers in Ashgabat, cities and villages of the country. They are furnished with computers connected with the Internet, laboratory equipment, interactive and multimedia technologies.

We see positive results if opening new departments in higher educational institutions and increasing the number of admitted applicants, sending our youth to study in prestigious foreign higher educational institutions. New bold initiatives in the sphere of reforming national system of education will lay firm basis for providing bright future of people.

Dear friends! In our independent neutral country serious attention is attached to development of sport and tourism and big work is being carried out in this direction. Today, not only in the capital but in velayats as well, modern sport complexes, stadiums, all kinds of physical-culture-health-improving centers furnished with innovative technologies serve to spiritual and physical development of the society. Starting the construction in Ashgabat, called the Pearl of the East, of large sport complex – Olympiad small city which has no analogues in the Central Asia is the evidence of our desire to turn Turkmenistan into the country of holding international sport competitions and the attention paid to issues of multiplying the authority of the national sport.

The fact that we established all-sided mutually beneficial cooperation and friendly ties with many states and large international organizations positively influences upon the development of international tourism in Turkmenistan. Creating National «Avaza» tourist zone at ecologically pure and sunny Turkmen coast of the Caspian, having become the symbol of the epoch of new Renaissance, is one of most important stages of development of tourism industry of the country with the bright future.

Dear guests! I am sure that the international exhibition and scientific conference «Education, science, sport and tourism in the epoch of great Renaissance» will become a convenient ground where you can discuss issues of joint work in the sphere of science, education, sport and tourism and define the fields of further interaction with Turkmen and foreign entrepreneurs. Scientists and specialists will be able to exchange experience and opinions on the last achievements of the world science and news in the sphere of education

Dear guests – participants of the international exhibition and scientific conference! Dear scientists! Once again I cordially congratulate you on the opening of the international exhibition and scientific conference «Education, science, sport and tourism in the epoch of new Renaissance and great changes»! I wish you solid health, long life, family wellbeing and success!

Dear compatriots! Courageous farmers! I cordially congratulate you on the Harvest Holiday, widely celebrated in independent neutral Turkmenistan of the epoch of new Renaissance and great changes!

The fact that our country celebrates the Harvest Holiday as big festivity has deep sense. The Harvest Holiday is revealing of joy connected with grown abundant harvest, wellbeing earned by honest and persistent labor; it is the sign of attention and respect to not easy labor of every daihan cultivating the land with love and diligence.

For this purpose we systematically buy updated agricultural machinery for land cultivating, quick harvesting without losses, provide farmers with fertilizers for improving land fertility; large-scale work is being carried out on improving land irrigating condition.

Due to all this in all velayats agreement obligations on raw cotton provision are over fulfilled; about 1,3 million tons of «white gold» were brought to harmans of the Motherland. I express my firm confidence that in future masters of high crops will multiply their present achievements.

Providing economic benefits to agricultural producers, high evaluation of advanced leaseholders' and farmers' labor, skillful mulkdars is the evidence of deep respect to daihan's labor. Our state will continue creating all necessary conditions so that advanced agricultural producers, combining farming traditions of ancestors with achievements of modern science could harvest high crops and become richer due to their honest labor, be prosperous and live happily, bringing up young generation of skillful farmers. In their turn, rural toilers respond to constant concern and support of the state by their inspired labor.

Courageous rural toilers! On fertile and generous Turkmen land warmed up by the hot sun, century-old traditions of our ancestors are successfully used; their experience is being perfected and occupy worthy place in the life of Turkmen people. Generous crops grown by your honest and inspired labor are riches of people, guarantee of abundance and food safety of our country. Speech at the grand ceremony of launching Turkmen-Iranian gas pipeline «Seraxs–Sangbust»

(Hangeran, 28.11.2010)

Esteemed President of Islamic Republic of Iran, my brother Ahmadinejad! Dear participants of the grand ceremony! First of all, let me greet all participants of today's festivity and express my heartiest gratitude to the President of Islamic Republic of Iran, my brother Ahmadinejad for the invitation to take part in the ceremony of launching this gas pipeline! I cordially congratulate everybody on this remarkable event – launching the new gas pipeline and wish people of Iran happiness, wellbeing and prosperity!

This gas pipeline along with satisfaction of needs in natural fuel will provide new cities and villages with warmth and also successively increase volumes of delivered Turkmen natural gas. New gas pipeline which is to serve to interests of our peoples will become reliable factor of further strengthening economic relations between the two fraternal countries.

Dear guests and participants of the solemn ceremony! Development of regional cooperation was always one of priority trends for Turkmenistan. In this connection the model is mutually beneficial cooperation of Turkmenistan and Islamic Republic of Iran. From the first days of gaining independence, our state has been actively cooperating with the nearest neighbor Iran on many branches of economy.

It is necessary to mark the significance of constructing export gas pipeline with the length of 135 km, which for the first time delivered fuel from our country to northern regions of Iran. «Korpeje–Kurtkui» gas pipeline launched at participation of the Presidents of Turkmenistan and Iran in December 1997 is successfully being exploited. 61 milliard cubic meters of Turkmen natural gas have already been delivered to IRI. «Artyk–Lutfabat» gas pipeline is being actively used since 2000.

The third acting «Dovletabad–Hangeran» gas pipeline successfully serves to interests of our peoples; it was launched at the beginning of this year. In the nearest future the first milliard cubic meters of Turkmen natural gas will be exported by this gas pipeline.

I want to underline that the participation of the Presidents of neighboring countries in the ceremony of launching gas pipelines is becoming good tradition. Being important step along the way of expanding energy partnership, these gas pipelines are of great significance for development of economies of the two countries and increasing social-everyday living conditions of our fraternal peoples.

Dear friends! The launching of this gas pipeline will promote reliable energy supplying of numerous settlements of Iran. Besides, the new energy bridge will open perspectives for realizing natural gas. At present we have opportunity to raise volumes of exported gas to Iran to 20 milliard cubic meters and increase this indicator.

Dear Iranian brothers! Once again I cordially congratulate everybody on this remarkable event – launching the new gas pipeline!

We are confident in future increasing of close relations of friendship and mutually beneficial cooperation between our states!

Taking the chance, I once again wish the President of Islamic Republic of Iran, my brother Ahmadinejad solid health and success and happiness, wellbeing and prosperity to fraternal people of Iran!

Thank you for your attention!

Speech at the Summit of the heads of states and governments of countries-OSCE participants

Dear Mister Chairman! Dear heads of states and governments! Dear heads of delegations! Ladies and gentlemen! On behalf of the Turkmen delegation let me congratulate you on the opening of the 7th OSCE Summit and wish you efficient and fruitful work. I also want to express my gratitude to the President of the Republic of Kazakhstan Nursultan Abishevich Nazarbayev, the Government of the country for hospitality and excellent organization of the forum.

The present meeting is being held on the background of processes objectively demanding consolidation of political, economic, intellectual potential of OSCE at priority trends of activities, concretization of the tasks set with an account to new factors and tendencies of world development. I would name among these tasks creating efficient mechanisms of preventing and neutralizing international conflicts, counteraction to political and religious extremism, terroristic threats, drug trafficking and trans-border criminality, elaboration of updated model of international partnership in the sphere of delivery of energy carriers. It is obvious that solving these tasks meets fundamental goals and values of OSCE and flows from the logic of developing interaction within the Organization and its relations with the whole world.

Being the state-participant of the Organization on security and cooperation in Europe, Turkmenistan stands for establishing many-planned cooperation on the OSCE space; this is to influence considerably upon universal development processes.

I am convinced that there are necessary grounds for it. In this context we appreciate the fact that Central Asia became strategic priority of OSCE activity, becoming the place of multi-sided dialogue on wide spectrum of interaction.

Turkmenistan welcomes such participation of our colleagues and partners within OSCE in regional processes and is ready for active and open discussion of plans and cooperation perspectives. I consider possible joining of OSCE the initiative of Turkmenistan, which we brought forth at UNO General Assembly, on establishing the Forum on security and cooperation in Central Asia and Caspian pool.

OSCE experience, its authority as influential international organization will promote successful developing regional dialogue in this format.

Other important trend on which efforts of our organization should be focused is securing safety of international delivery of energy carriers. This problem is without doubt very actual.

It touches vital interests of majority of OSCE members and directly influences sustainability of geo-strategic situation on the continent. It is reasonable to activate energy dialogue within our Organization, formulate mechanisms of many-sided consultations on political, financial-economic, technological, ecological aspects of construction and exploitation of multi-variant pipeline infrastructure.

It is necessary to reach new level of understanding updated realities in this sphere, refuse from politicization of issues of energy delivery, establish honest, equal in rights and transparent partnership. We suggest considering possibilities of holding special meeting of the heads of energy departments of our Organization, devoted to the problem of energy safety. We are ready to hold this meeting in Ashgabat.

Turkmenistan entirely shares the anxiety of the world community concerning existing terroristic threats, activities of criminal groupings dealing with drug trafficking, weapon smuggling and human traffic. We are ready for the closest interaction in the struggle against these challenges.

Regional processes, namely, regulating the situation in Afghanistan, occupy traditionally important place within our joint work in OSCE.

Concerning Afghan problem, the confidence which unites us is that achieving stable and long-term peace and stability in this country is one of the key issues of the whole international politics, and its successful solution meets interests of the whole world community. We understand approaches of OSCE to problems of Afghan regulating, to the efforts taken in this direction; and we are ready to assist our partners and constructively consider proposals on coordination of joint efforts.

Dear ladies and gentlemen! The present stage of development of Turkmenistan is characterized by serious reforms directed to substantial renewing social-political life of the country, introducing modern standards and norms to the practice of activity of democratic institutions, perfecting legislative basis, creating necessary conditions for revealing creative potential of a person, securing and protecting his civil rights and freedoms. In this context I suppose, that for the last period of time our interaction in the format of OSCE is developing rather dynamically. Turkmenistan is open for cooperation, for creative assimilation of experience of our Organization, highly appreciating the wish to assist us in this direction.

The main thing here is correct and adequate perception of the tempo of the reform by our partners, their correspondence to national peculiarities of Turkmenistan, originality of its historical path, traditions and mentality of people. Such approach opens wide perspectives for joint work, search of new forms of cooperation, and more efficient usage of existing potential.

It completely concerns our interaction within OSCE and in other spheres. We must say here, that the country's large scale reforms, diversification of economics, introducing innovations and other achievements of scientific-technical progress are accompanied by noticeable activating of contacts within OSCE, establishing mechanisms of technical assistance in realizing long-term national projects and programs. We speak about assisting to economic reforms and developing of agriculture, supporting ecological centers, consolidating nature protection measures in oil-and-gas sector and in the number of other directions.

This year we are celebrating the 35th anniversary of adopting The Final Helsinki Document. During these years our Organization passed along way, made important contribution to the cause of consolidating peace, stability and security. Today the tasks of OSCE, reflecting changes in the world, condition further perfecting of its activities, well- thought-of reforming of structures and institutes of OSCE in accordance with demands of the time. Turkmenistan is ready to take an active part in this work.

We see the sense of the reform in increasing the role of OSCE in the world, purposeful use of its potential at priority directions and for solving concrete tasks of modern global development.

In the conclusion I would like to stress that for Turkmenistan the membership in OSCE, active participation in its activities was and remains one of priorities of our policy. We clearly see the perspectives of cooperation within our Organization; we appreciate the progress which became particularly noticeable during the last years; we understand the significance of advancing mutually respectful dialogue with partners. We consider possibilities which the present Summit will give.

Thank you for your attention.

During this period enlighteners-giants of scientific thought Muhammet ibn Musa Horezmi, Abu Reihan Biruni, Abu ali ibn Sina, Nejmeddin Kubra, Mahmut Zamanshary, Fahreddin Razy, Mahmut Chagmyny made priceless contribution to enriching the treasury of the mankind and thinkers having come from various corners of the world.

In XIII century peoples of Central Asia experienced hard time of tragic captures and damages of science, culture and human values.

During this period glorious pages of immortal feats and courage of Turkmen warriors under the leadership of Sultan Jelaleddin were forever written down to the history; they absorbed the best features of our people – courage, bravery, kindness, generosity and magnanimity; they fought against cruel aggressors Chingizkhan and his sons. And today we are very proud of the fact that we are followers of world famous heroes who passed us unlimited love for the Motherland and people and who became the founders of the school of courage and patriotism!

Dear friends! Wonderful historic past of Kunyaurgench attracts attention of scientists; at different times it was called Urv, Jurjan, Urgench and various archeological and architectural monuments of culture of the ancient and medieval worlds, put into the List of the world and cultural heritage of UNESCO testifying to the flowering of architectural art in this state. During the work of the international scientific conference you will visit historical monuments of Kunyaurgench – the capital of large Turkmen state which struck the world by its unrepeatable architectural image, one of the largest cities of Eurasian continent of that time. You will see that in Turkmenistan great work on restoring real pages of the history and ancient culture is being carried out on the basis of true historical facts and scientific sources; we also do much for preserving and popularizing the variety of cultures of peoples of the planet.

Dear scientists! Dear guests – participants of the international conference! Once again I cordially congratulate you on the opening of the international scientific conference «Turkmen state Kunyaurgench and Central Asia in the first half of the XIII century» which is to attract the attention of the world community to a rich historical heritage of Turkmen people and become noticeable event in scientific-cultural life of Turkmenistan! I wish you solid health, happiness and wellbeing, success in your scientific-creative work!

Dear participants of the international conference! Dear guests! I cordially congratulate you on the beginning of the conference devoted to the National holiday of Turkmenistan – the 15th anniversary of Neutrality! I wish successful work to the conference and success in your work for peace and creativity!

The holiday of the 15th anniversary of permanent neutrality of Turkmenistan, which is celebrated the year before the glorious jubilee – the 20th anniversary of the state independence of our country, is the event of particular significance for Turkmen people. Our happy people, whose ancestors built many states in the past and made great contribution to the treasury of spiritual-cultural values of the mankind, widely and solemnly celebrate the Neutrality Day as the greatest achievement of independence of Turkmenistan.

This joy is shared by millions of friends living in various parts of the world. For the last years Turkmenistan as the neutral state demonstrated to the whole mankind its colossal possibilities and proved its aspiration to secure safety and wellbeing on earth, develop friendly partnership ties between countries and peoples.

Dear friends! Neutrality for Turkmenistan is not only the legal status recognized by the world community, but also the possibility to participate in international life, protecting peace, assisting elaboration of efficient trends of economic cooperation, creation of conditions for holding fruitful negotiations on all important issues in the region and beyond it. The emphasis on it was made in our speech at the 65th session of UNO General Assembly. With an account to achieving wide and efficient international consensus on main issues of world development Turkmenistan brought forth the «Strategy of the future» idea. We can say with confidence that our neutrality and its role in solving most important regional and international problems is the model of international relations of the XXI century.

Dear participants of the international conference! Turkmenistan's new initiatives and announced by UNO Goals of the millennium are oriented at further consolidating of situation of trust, security, stability and providing harmonious development of countries and peoples in Central Asia, Caspian region and in the world. Our country is developing wide diplomatic relations with world states and activating positive cooperation with UNO, OSCE, EU, Islamic Conference Organization, Organization of Economic Cooperation and many other large international organizations.

For Turkmenistan the Goals of the millennium are in harmony with our «State is for people!» policy and meet national plans of development, reforms of new epoch in economics, social sphere, public relations and to a large extent define trends of international cooperation. We offer the strategy of many-sided cooperation meeting the interests of different countries and based on supporting national and other big international projects with participation of states and companies of the region and other continents.

The neutral status, home stability, inexhaustible natural resources, availability of corresponding legal base caused the interest of international companies to our country and provided systematic inflow of foreign investments to the economics of the state. Turkmenistan, located at strategically important transport, energy and communication junction is actively participating in global economic projects. Creation of the National «Avaza» tourist zone, construction of the North–South railway, development of air and sea transport and formation of multi-functional transport infrastructure meet the interests of all states and open wide perspectives for cooperation.

Turkmenistan successively follows principles of increasing the export of energy carriers by diversification and foundation of new multi-vector pipeline systems. Our international initiatives on securing global energy safety and proposals made at the 65th session of UNO General Assembly serve to the interests of people and promote solving lots of actual issues. It should be noted that the international conferences on issues concerning these initiatives, have great importance for exchanging opinions and elaborating scientific approaches.

Dear friends! Dear guests! Once again I cordially congratulate you on the National holiday of Turkmenistan – the 15th anniversary of neutrality. I express my confidence that your presentations at the conference, exchange of experience, proposals on further perfecting of our work on consolidating peace, security, cooperation and sustainable development will serve to consolidation of efforts along the way of achieving high goals!

Interview to the mass media (10.12.2010)

Esteemed Mister President! On behalf of all numerous readers let us congratulate you and all Turkmen people on the remarkable date – the fifteenth anniversary of the country's gaining the international status of the neutral state. What is, to your mind, the value of the choice made by the country 15 years ago?

– The Neutrality Day became for Turkmenistan the second significant national holiday after the Independence Day. Judging by political, economic, legal and social consequences of the taken step, the choice made 15 years ago can be without exaggeration called historical and determinative. For our country the neutral status acquired special character of national self-identification in the world community. For Turkmenistan the notion of neutrality, figuratively speaking, is not just dry protocol line fixed in the international document, but high-altitude multi-profile complex, the construction of which does not stop.

Moreover, I have no doubt that Turkmen neutrality has become not only nation-wide value but acquired the character of obvious heritage of the whole world community.

– Esteemed Mister President! The notion of state neutrality in itself existed in the world practice for a long time. What are the peculiarities of the Turkmen model of neutrality?

– Yes, you are absolutely right. The status of neutral state in itself is not a rare thing in the international legal field. The history of development of international relations knows well that elements of neutrality both short-term and long-term were widely used in the world practice. So we are not the first to have chosen the neutral status as the basic form of interaction with the surrounding world, but not for a single country neutrality is the defining scope of aspirations in all spheres of human activities as it is in Turkmenistan.

However, let's discuss everything in succession. Let's recollect that 15 years ago for the young state which had just gained independence extremely significant issue was the issue of preserving sufficient level of security. For guaranteed achieving this goal it was necessary either to conclude military alliances with powerful states of the world or to find efficient alternative to such alliances.

Announcing about assumption of the status of neutral state did not mean obtaining of international safety guarantee. That is why unprecedented mechanism of concordance of neutral intentions with the world community was formed. In the result for the first time in its history the country got international neutrality status through consensus agreement of all states-members of UNO. It happened, as you know, on the 12th of December, 1995 in New York during the meeting of the UNO General Assembly, when all 185 countries within that organization voted for adopting special resolution «Permanent neutrality of Turkmenistan».

Gaining the neutral status, Turkmenistan took definite obligations before the world community. They are: non-alignment to any political, economic, military unions or blocks; existence of the army only for protecting its own peace and freedoms; refusal from mass destruction weapons, prohibition to carrying such weapon by the land or air of the country; adherence to universal values, principles of democracy, guarantee of civil peace inside the country; conducting its own policy in close cooperation with UNO and humanitarian international organizations.

Complete refusal from participating in international military and military-political groupings allowed Turkmenistan not to be involved in any forms of contradiction in the region, preserving the guarantees of its own security, confirmed by the whole world community. Not to be involved in any military conflicts in the Central Asian region, and there were and still are in the region, was great achievement for foreign policy course of the young state.

The first most significant consequence of gaining neutrality for home policy of the state was adopting the regulations on development of human rights. In accordance with the Declaration on international obligations of neutral Turkmenistan in the field of people's rights adopted on the 27th of December, 1995, Turkmenistan took additional obligations in this sphere. Later Turkmenistan was the first among countries of Central Asia to declare a death penalty moratorium and then abolished this punishment forever according to the Constitutional Law. Institutions of developing democracy and observing human rights are constantly developing in contemporary Turkmenistan according to taken obligations.

Other most significant consequence of realizing neutrality policy became the possibility of maximal successful solving tasks of national economic development; neutrality, from economic-legal view point, became the tool of attracting foreign investments to elaborating most important economic projects on developing mineral wealth of Turkmen land and leading our energy carriers to world markets.

– Esteemed Mister President! Do not you find some linguistic paradox in it: the «neutrality» term itself, having in its primordial lexical meaning such synonyms as «passivity», «non-interference» gradually became for Turkmenistan the means of displaying unprecedented activity in affairs of the world community?

– The life itself urged us on the new model of behavior within the frames of activities of the world community. Very soon it became clear, that the legal status gained by Turkmenistan does not exhaust its political abilities by the notion of its own military security, but is becoming important tool for securing peacemaking processes in the region in the whole. The position of neutrality that is, equity, allowed Turkmenistan acting as confidential mediator of parts in regulating civil confrontation in Tajikistan at the moment of sharp inter-political crisis in this country and also assist UNO in establishing negotiation process on peaceful regulating of the conflict during the civil war in Afghanistan.

The evolution of peacemaking component of neutral status of Turkmenistan allows the country offering the world community efficient measures of security, peace and cooperation in Central Asia and Caspian pool, initiate creating new legal mechanisms of solving complicated geo-political problems in the world scope.

There is no doubt that during the evolution of our neutral status and the consolidating in the consciousness of the world community as reliable means of achieving security, the level of international political trust to Turkmenistan considerably increased. Today we can be proud of the level and stability of trustful relations between Turkmenistan and world leading states, open partnership relations with neighboring countries.

There is no doubt that the authority of the country increased as active champion of ideas and programs of UNO in global peacemaking processes. Not by chance Ashgabat was chosen the place of dislocation of the Regional center of UNO on preventive diplomacy.

Not by chance we could hold international forums of high level under the aegis of UNO devoted to processes of regulating actual issues of international security.

Officially having the character of political legal status, Turkmen neutrality, as it turned out, was not deprived of efficient aspect of economic development. Reasonableness and peacefulness of foreign policy aspirations, strict following taken international legal obligations guarantees of non-participating in any military contradictions – all these in combination with high tempos of development of national economy led to the attraction of foreign capital to the country. Today, according to the World Bank data, Turkmenistan is among countries with more favorable investment climate.

The model of the Turkmen neutrality is valuable for us because it is not a political scheme, invented by highbrow analysts in the solitude of governmental cabinets, but it is the composition of modern outlook and many-century wisdom of people.

Tolerance, friendliness, loyalty to the principles of good neighborliness – all these qualities were always peculiar for Turkmen people. That is why our neutral status not only has wide support in national awareness but makes us more understandable and open for the surrounding world. Just this fact only can be considered the greatest valuable, cannot it?

– Esteemed Mister President! You have already mentioned Afghanistan as the object of applying the policy of Turkmen neutrality; can you touch upon this issue in details? At present the subject of possible construction of the Turkmenistan–Afghanistan–Pakistan–India gas pipeline is very actual (TAPI). To what extent is the realization of this idea possible with an account to complicated situation on the territory of Afghanistan? Are perspectives of economic benefits of realization of this project comparable with obvious political difficulties of overcoming Afghan problems?

– Thank you for the question touching a very actual subject for us. If you noticed, in the proposals of the Turkmen side in UNO on regulating Afghan crisis, five points were emphasized. The construction of the gas pipeline directed to animation of Afghan economics is in the forth point. And here the numeration of proposed measures is comparable with the priority of their fulfilling.

For us the idea of the grandiose project – construction of Trans-Afghan pipeline system with its further continuation to Pakistan and India, without doubt, has perspective of economic benefit. But for us and for the whole world community the possibility of establishing peaceful life in Afghanistan is much more important.

Turkmenistan is the nearest geographic neighbor of Afghanistan. Millions of ethnic Turkmens are permanently living on the Afghan territory. So who but not us should reveal the hottest desire in the fastest normalizing the life of Afghanistan.

We have already declared more than once, and at the recent OSCE summit in Astana as well, that the present used military model of solving inter-Afghan conflict is hopeless. Many-million amounts for weapons, numerous human victims did not bring to acquiring peace and harmony on the Afghan land. The complex of our proposals is possible measures of alternative (demilitarized) model of solving a number of Afghan problems and contradictions.

I ask you to pay attention to the fact that Turkmenistan, proposing measures of non-military solving the situation in Afghanistan, is not waiting for approval from outside, but is applying them on practice without prior arrangement. We are continuing to help our southern neighbor in the humanitarian sphere, in constructing units of social infrastructure, in energy delivery and we are sure that this contribution in changing living standards of Afghan people is more efficient than any force solving. Today we are ready to consider issues of increasing energy delivery to Afghanistan and also expanding our energy infrastructure to be switched on the territory of Afghanistan. At the same time we understand that without joined efforts of the world community the Afghan crisis cannot be overcome, and we are ready to make our maximal contribution to the common cause.

Among the measures of political regulating we see holding international meeting of high level in Ashgabat under the aegis of UNO on strengthening measures of trust in Afghanistan and developing efficient institutions of state power. We are ready to discuss plans of holding such meeting with all sides interested in it. And the result of such negotiations could be the elaboration of long-term program on restoring Afghanistan under the aegis of UNO.

Measures of economic influence upon the situation in Afghanistan are not less important. It is necessary to find application of peaceful specialties in the country, where there are generations who do not know other professional activities except the profession of the warrior.

So we offer our assistance in training in Turkmenistan Afghan cadres for managerial structures in various fields under the patronage and on the programs of UNO.

Initiating and realizing large economic projects will help breathe in new life into exhausted Afghan economics. With an account to specific geographical location of Afghanistan, the projects of developing trans-national transport infrastructure are considered the most perspective and profitable. That is why we suggest constructing the railway from Turkmenistan to Afghanistan with its further continuation through Afghan territory to neighboring countries.

Another important project, possessing big generating power for developing Afghan economics is the construction of the Turkmenistan–Afghanistan–Pakistan–India gas pipeline. Held intensive rounds of international consultations allowed revealing principle readiness of the sides to set to realization of the project and met broad international support.

Very soon in Ashgabat the leaders of the four countries will take final decision on the order and terms of this project realization.

I think I will not be mistaken if I say that all participants of this project see efficient possibility in it for maintaining the rise of Afghan economy, creating lots of additional job places, formation of social infrastructure, support and firmness of political stability in the whole region.

– Esteemed Mister President! Continuing the subject of regional cooperation, we cannot pass over the Caspian question. The legal status of the Caspian has not yet got juridical formatting. How long, to your mind will this process take place?

– The main thing is in the process being under way; it must not stop. The recent summit of the heads of near Caspian states vividly demonstrated that in spite of a number of existing disagreements, the sides manage to preserve dynamics of developing the dialogue.

In Baku the Presidents of the five countries signed the Joint Statement and Agreement on cooperation in the sphere of security on the Caspian Sea. And it is the evidence of obvious progress along the way to the final result.

Addressing the colleagues-participants of the summit, I drew their attention to a number of unsolved issues connected with the legal status of the Caspian Sea and stated the position of Turkmenistan on these issues. Today we suggest the partners on negotiation process starting the work at the projects of new agreements aimed at further legal regulation of various activities on the Caspian. In particular, we speak about elaborating the project of Agreement on cooperation in the sphere of preventing extreme situations and liquidating their consequences.

Considering the issues of demarcation of the bottom and interior of the Caspian Sea, we proceed from the understanding that delimitation on the Caspian must be carried out on the basis of universally recognized norms of the international right, principles of mutual respect and taking the interests of partners into account.

As for the demarcation of water area of the Caspian, Turkmenistan firmly follows the position, that water area of the Caspian is demarked into inner waters, territorial sea and common water area. We agreed on establishing of territorial sea with the width of 25 nautical miles, which must be under complete sovereignty of sea coast state. We suggest declaring outer line of territorial sea the state border.

Speaking of moving near Caspian states to achieving the Agreement on the legal status of the sea, I would like to emphasize, that we always were and will be against any attempts to attaching political coloring to unsolved issues on the Caspian. The demarcation of the bottom and interior of the Caspian Sea is mere juridical problem, which must be solved only by diplomatic and legal means and methods.

– Esteemed Mister President! The idea of laying Trans-Caspian pipeline system is somehow or other connected with the Caspian theme. Many authoritative representatives of the western business directly link the perspective of realizing such kind of project both with political will and economic possibilities of Turkmen side. Is Turkmenistan ready to assist realizing such ideas?

– You understand well that realization of any large international economic project is possible when observing lots of conditions. Following the idea of diversification of export delivery of the natural gas, Turkmenistan is always ready to consider any of possible versions.

Just recollect, how about fifteen years ago ideas of constructing Turkmenistan–Iran–Turkey and Turkmenistan–Afghanistan–Pakistan–India gas pipelines were most real to be carried out. Those years the construction of gas pipeline from Turkmenistan to China seemed chimera.

Today this «chimera» found its realization as combination of joint purposeful efforts of four states – Turkmenistan, China, Uzbekistan and Kazakhstan. At the same time the projects which seemed most possible for being realized are still waiting for their turn. Speaking of new projects of constructing gas pipelines, let's consider component conditions of their hypothetic realization, and first of all, all their resource potential. Today, as it seems to me, nobody has doubts concerning resource possibilities of our country. Generosity of Turkmen natural gas reserves is convincingly confirmed by the results of independent audit, held in 2008 by authoritative western experts according to international system of evaluation and classification of gas deposits in Southern Yoloten – Osman and Yashlar regions. Additional geological research allows estimating real resources of this under earth storeroom in 21 trillion cubic meters of gas. These are stocks for future, not speaking of acting deposits which gas resources are far from being exhausted.

In the whole, according to expert evaluation the energy potential of our country is estimated in 45,44 milliard tons of oil equivalent. Gas deposits in Turkmenistan, according to international evaluations, make 24,6 trillion cubic meters. It is not final figure as geological researches are being continued. Now the documents on holding one more international audit on our gas deposits are being prepared. We really count during nearest 20 years to reach the level of annual extraction of 230 milliard cubic meters of gas; we will export not less than 180 cubic meters.

This year we set to realization of the grandiose project – the construction of trans-Turkmen East–West gas pipeline. The completion of this project will allow creating universal inner gas-transporting infrastructure due to the existence of which additional volumes of hydrocarbon raw go both to western and eastern borders of the country. In other words, today we are creating conditions for guaranteed filling of any routes of export of Turkmen gas.

Turkmenistan, considering possible variants of creating export gas mains, first of all proceeds from economic reasonableness of projects, availability of guaranteed stocks of its own hydrocarbon raw and also availability of principled agreements with transit countries and consuming countries.

Coming back to the issue of usage of the Caspian bottom for pipeline system, here Turkmenistan is firmly convinced that construction of under-water pipeline can be realized at the agreement of the sides through whose areas such pipeline will be built. It goes without saying that it will be done observing all necessary nature protecting measures. This position was clearly stated at the recent summit of the heads of near Caspian states in Baku.

– Esteemed Mister President! All of us witnessed more than once that ideas of constructing new routes of energy carriers had to face different political speculations which have nothing in common with economic essence of the projects. What can be opposed to such destructive efforts?

– It cannot be denied that sometimes we have to face with such situations, too. Of course, we would like not to hear about any attempts of political speculations on participating of our country in realizing these or those large international projects of constructing pipeline systems. Moving our hydrocarbon resources to international markets, we are far from attempts of supporting or blocking someone's foreign policy interests, guided by pragmatic needs of increasing national economic potential.

As you have already noticed, our successive efforts on elaborating the mechanism of stable energy delivery in the world is also the attempt not to use pipeline systems as the tool of political and economic pressure in international relations. It is also the component of common conception of realizing neutral policy of our state.

At the recent summit of the heads of the states-members of OSCE in Astana I suggested all participants activating the dialogue on issues of energy security, as today it is obvious that providing security of international deliveries of energy carriers touches vital interests of majority OSCE members.

It goes without saying, that important condition of establishing equal in rights and transparent partnership is complete refusal from politicization of energy delivery issues. For activating energy dialogue within OSCE, Turkmenistan proposes elaborating mechanisms of many-sided consultations on political, financial-economic, technological and ecological aspects of construction and exploitation of multi-variant pipeline infrastructure. We consider it reasonable to hold the meeting of the heads of OSCE energy departments and so we suggested organizing such meeting in Ashgabat in the nearest future.

– Esteemed Mister President! On these days editorial staffs of newspapers and journals mark considerable increase of inflow of readers' letters. These are messages from all corners of the country, from Russia, many CIS countries and from far abroad. The authors of these letters, speaking of Turkmen neutrality, directly link with you the success of political progress and social-economic development of the country for the last years and also ask to pass you their sincere congratulations on the remarkable event in the life of Turkmenistan – the 15th anniversary of gaining the status of permanent neutrality...

– I am happy to have the chance to thank the readers' audience both in Turkmenistan and beyond it for warm words of congratulations. The attention of foreign readers' audience to the subject of neutrality testifies to growing understanding of the policy of the neutral state directed to both solving the tasks of our own social-economic flowering and achieving global tasks of the world community – international security and mutually beneficial cooperation of all countries. The more clear and open we are the more sincere and good willing like-minded people we will acquire.

I want to wish everybody peace and well!

Statement at the international conference «Permanent neutrality of Turkmenistan: cooperation for the sake of peace, security and progress»

Esteemed participants of conference, Ladies and gentlemen! First of all, I would like to cordially welcome all of you and congratulate on the opening of the international conference dedicated to the 15th anniversary of Turkmen neutrality. I express my gratitude to our foreign guests, representatives of governments, international organizations, experts, scientists, journalists, who have accepted the invitation to visit Turkmenistan. I consider the fact of such wide and representative participation as a mark of respect for our country, an evidence for the interest in its achievements, experience of international cooperation, willingness to know better about today's realities in Turkmenistan. We are always glad to have guests, and I am pleased to tell you «Welcome!».

During these days we are celebrating the great event – the 15th anniversary of international recognition of neutrality of Turkmenistan. Indeed, it is a significant and joyful date for our people, a landmark event in the history of the independent Turkmen state. However, it is also a good occasion to reflect on the way done over the years, draw conclusions, evaluate the present stage of development of Turkmenistan, map out prospects and priorities for the future. Today we are doing it with you – our friends and partners from all over the world. We are interested in and value your views and your evaluations.

Dear participants! Any country, which has taken the way of true independence, is forced to address a myriad of challenges in a very short period of time, to seek its place in new realities, respond to objective questions that the history puts to it.

Turkmenistan, which gained independence after the Soviet Union collapse and in toughest conditions of destruction of the entire postwar system of international relations, didn't avoid it. Therefore, the challenge of choosing a foreign policy strategy became one of most crucial and most difficult for us then. What should it be, how should we build relationships with the international community, what principles should cooperation be based on? The fate of Turkmen statehood and sovereignty depended largely on the correctness of our choice. I am saying this without exaggeration, for history knows many examples when a wrong choice of foreign models led to the loss of independence of states, their involvement in the orbit of interests, which are very far from the true objectives of national development.

We have chosen a model called positive neutrality and formulated its fundamental principles: peacefulness, non-interference in the affairs of other nations, respect for their sovereignty and territorial integrity, non-participation in international military organizations and treaties. What dictated this choice? Of course, first and foremost, we were guided by national interests. The young Turkmen state wanted to live in peace and harmony with its neighbors, maintain friendly and equal relations with all countries, develop mutually beneficial economic, trade contacts with them. We firmly believed that only under these conditions peace and cohesion could be guaranteed to our people and economic and social development plans could be implemented.

We had no claims – neither historical nor territorial, or any other to none of states, and we made up our mind to start our way in international politics from scratch having lent the hand of friendship and cooperation to our neighbors and the world. Neutrality became the optimal model to implement these plans and goals, a form in which the content of the Turkmen foreign policy was built in most harmoniously and natural.

We started to pursue consistently the sovereign, neutral and at the same time active and constructive foreign policy. Therefore, it is not surprising that our efforts to secure neutrality of Turkmenistan as an international legal status met with benevolence and understanding all over the world.

At first, we received support from our neighbors in the region, then from the Non-Aligned Movement.

On 12 December 1995 the General Assembly of the United Nations unanimously adopted the Resolution on the Permanent Neutrality of Turkmenistan.

It is significant that 25 states co-sponsored it. Today, on the eve of our holiday I would like to express once again profound gratitude to the countries-co-sponsors of the Resolution, all members of the international community, international organizations, statesmen and politicians for providing support to Turkmenistan.

It was a wise, prudent decision. Time has shown its consistency with long-term goals of the United Nations, the interests of the progress of states and nations of the world in peace and security.

The subsequent events confirmed this clearly. Neutrality of Turkmenistan has become a weighty factor in international peacekeeping efforts in our region.

Let's remember that it was in Ashgabat where a series of talks, which played a crucial role in achieving peace and reconciliation in Tajikistan, were held under the aegis of the UN. The capital of our neutral state became the venue for the negotiations on settlement of the Afghan conflict in the late 1990. Turkmenistan turned into a reliable ally and useful partner of the United Nations in preserving and maintaining political stability in the region, promoting good neighborliness, friendship and cooperation.

This was confirmed by the decision of the international community with the support of all states in the region to open the UN Regional Centre for Preventive Diplomacy in Central Asia in Ashgabat in 2007. We viewed this as an awesome responsibility and at the same time as evidence for confidence of the UN and our neighbors in Turkmenistan.

Esteemed participants, Dear friends! Comprehending the way done over these years, we can realize how profound the potential of neutrality is, what vast opportunities it has opened up for our country in foreign policy, economic and trade cooperation, to promote cultural and humanitarian contacts with other countries.

Today, Turkmenistan lives in peace and harmony with all countries of the region and the world. In this case, we integrate into the main trends in modern times in the full format. A set of the vectors oriented towards the utmost involvement of Turkmenistan in international relations is being elaborated deliberately in order to implement our geopolitical, economic, resource and human potential and to rapidly promote our country to the category of states with the high life quality, dynamic economy, stable and effective relations with the external world. This is the purport of Turkmenistan's policy of international cooperation providing new opportunities to develop each of its principal fields – the foreign policy, economic, cultural, humanitarian, scientific and educational spheres.

Today, the interests of our country have been brought out at regional as well as continental and global levels. Present-day Turkmenistan pursues the clearly defined policy in international affairs, has the standpoints on such critical issues on the global agenda as maintenance and enhancement of global peace and security, disarmament, response to new threats and challenges, promotion and protection of human rights, ecology, food security, mitigation of the financial and economic crisis, development of science, culture and education. Turkmen diplomacy has significantly boosted collaboration with international organizations in various fields, and its representatives have become frequent participants to major forums and other forms of multilateral collaboration on a variety of issues.

The space and scope of cooperation of Turkmenistan, which develops a dialogue on all geographical azimuths, considerably expanded at the bilateral level. In our field of view are the Asia-Pacific region, Europe, Americas and the Middle East. In parallel with development of cooperation with traditional partners of Turkmenistan, a dialogue with some large and economically strong countries in the Arab world and Latin America has been established in recent years. The global thinking of Turkmen foreign policy based on compatibility of the national long-term interests and the contemporary global development trends becomes more explicit.

In its international activity today Turkmenistan puts particular emphasis on the economic aspect of neutrality. This is particularly evident in the development of cooperation with neighboring countries. By the concept of good neighborliness we mean not just geographic proximity and historical affinities, but put the specific geopolitical and geo-economic sense into it.

Our country consistently promote the idea of participatory elaboration of the models of political and economic cooperation in Central Asia and the Caspian region by proposing and supporting large-scale projects with different countries.

Along with well-known projects aimed at optimization and expansion of pipeline infrastructure, these are the proposals in the sphere of power engineering, water management, communications, the initiatives to lay new transport routes between countries of the region with access to promising markets in Europe, Southeast Asia, the Middle East.

Expansion and diversity of Turkmenistan's foreign relations created the conditions conducive to diversification of international economic, trade and investment cooperation between our countries. Given the objective geopolitical and resource advantages, a strategic priority for Turkmenistan in this regard is diversification of energy transit, development of multi-variant pipeline infrastructure.

Abiding by this, our country, along with the use of traditional routes, has completed two new large-scale projects to transit its energy to world markets: Turkmenistan–Uzbekistan–Kazakhstan–China and the new gas pipeline Turkmenistan– Iran. Another large-scale energy project for the Turkmenistan–Afghanistan– Pakistan– India (TAPI) gas pipeline is in active preparation. It is supported by all participating countries and the large international financial institutions, including the Asian Development Bank. The TAPI project is a logical continuation of the long-term energy strategy envisaging the construction of new international gas pipelines in different directions.

Nevertheless, we emphasize that we view such projects not only through the prism of commercial and economic benefits, but also as effective factors that have a stabilizing effect on the overall situation in the region and beyond, impart additional stability to the system of political and economic relations and contribute to maintaining the balance of interests in the energy space on the European and Asian continents.

All of these achievements, the successful implementation of joint international projects are conditioned by neutrality of Turkmenistan in many respects. We have never politicized and don't politicize economic cooperation.

And this fact finds due understanding and highly evaluated by our partners, enables to develop equitable, mutually beneficial relations with different countries and companies. As a neutral state we can build our long-term foreign policy following the definite and comprehensible principles evolving from our international status.

Esteemed participants, Dear friends! Neutrality of Turkmenistan is a reality of today and our future, in which new splendid opportunities to develop wide international partnership of Turkmenistan in all directions are opened up.

A strategic priority of Turkmenistan remains close and multifaceted cooperation with the United Nations. For us the United Nations is not just the most representative international organization. We view it as the pillar of the modern system of global interaction, the guarantor of preservation and maintenance of peace and the balance of interests in the world arena, stability of the existing security architecture.

We firmly believe that today, against the background of the new realities, the lofty humanistic ideals and principles of the UN Charter continues to be a moral and legal foundation for the international order.

Today, a number of United Nations specialized agencies including the United Nations Development Programme, the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, the Children's Fund, the World Health Organization, the Office on Drugs and Crime, the Population Fund, the Regional Centre for Preventive Diplomacy operate on a permanent basis in Turkmenistan.

This cooperation is promoted on a systematic basis. We welcome this collaboration and accept gratefully support the United Nations provides to our country through implementing various projects and programs. Turkmenistan together with the UN will do whatever is necessary to strengthen peace, stability and security.

Also, we confirm our commitment to an uncompromising struggle against international terrorism, extremism, transnational organized crime, illicit drug trafficking.

A key priority of the foreign policy of neutral Turkmenistan will be promotion of brotherly and friendly relations with our nearest neighbors – Azerbaijan, Afghanistan, Iran, Kazakhstan and Uzbekistan. We have age-old historical and cultural bonds, wonderful traditions of mutual understanding and respect. In the modern period we implement joint large-scale energy and transport projects designed to lay the groundwork for prosperity and progress of our countries, their full integration in mainstream development processes.

In this context, we attach particular importance to providing support to our Afghan brothers in building a peaceful life, restoring the economy, resolving the situation only through peaceful, diplomatic means and methods. Turkmenistan will continue to provide assistance to Afghanistan and support further the international community in its efforts to achieve peace and reconciliation in Afghanistan.

We are determined to strengthen multilateral cooperation to address all problems related to the Caspian Sea.

Together with the other littoral states and international organizations Turkmenistan stands ready to develop mutually acceptable and balanced approaches to addressing the issues regarding the delimitation of the seabed and depths of the Caspian Sea, division of water, development of the shipping and fishing regime, regulation of the use of biological resources and conservation of the unique natural wealth. The ultimate goal in this regard should be to ensure lasting security in the Caspian Sea for the sake of cooperation and benefit of the Caspian states.

Relations of Turkmenistan with the brotherly Republic of Turkey, cooperation with which is time-tested and proven effective are developed successfully. We will strengthen and develop further bilateral contacts with Turkey in the political, economic and humanitarian spheres.

Our great neighbor in the east, the People's Republic of China is one of Turkmenistan's strategic partners nowadays.

Together we have completed the large-scale energy project for supplies of Turkmen natural gas to this country. Cooperation with China has tremendous prospects, and we intend to make maximum use of the existing potential of the two states to implement our joint plans. In this regard, I would say that our relations with the Asia-Pacific region have intensified in recent times in whole. We dynamically develop our contacts with Japan, India, Pakistan, Malaysia, South Korea and other countries in this part of the planet.

Turkmenistan is bound with the Russian Federation by strategic partnership. The recent agreements reached with the leadership of Russia reaffirmed that the countries are interested in enhancing further cooperation and give it due dynamics.

We will do this at the bilateral level as well as within the CIS. Turkmenistan as an associate member of this organization intends to use the experience of cooperation accumulated over decades due to excellent relations established with all, without exception, post-Soviet states – Belarus, Ukraine, Uzbekistan, Tajikistan, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Caucasus countries and Moldova.

Relations between Turkmenistan with the states of the Arab world, including Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates, Jordan and Qatar are brought to a qualitatively new level. Our meetings and talks with leaders of these countries have shown that there are several fields where collective efforts can be concerted.

We will fully take it into account when devising our future foreign policy and economic plans.

The multifaceted dialogue between Turkmenistan and the European Union, which has recently become concrete and goal-oriented, is developed today in a constructive and consistently manner. In this regard, we appreciate such decisions as the opening of Europe House in Ashgabat, the appointment of the Head of Delegation of the European Commission to Turkmenistan and the endorsement of the Interim Trade Agreement between Turkmenistan and the European Union by the European Parliament. We consider these facts the integral components of the process of expanding relationships between Turkmenistan and Europe.

These positive trends lay a good foundation for further cooperation based on equality, mutual benefit and awareness of its compliance with long-term interests. Against this background Turkmenistan welcomes intensification of political contacts with the European Union, expansion of trade and economic cooperation, collaboration in the spheres of culture, science and education.

Turkmenistan attaches great importance to further cooperation with the United States of America. U.S. companies are represented widely on the Turkmen market; cooperation is boosted through the Turkmenistan – U.S. Business Council.

We also welcome a recent upsurge in the political dialogue with the United States, including such an aspect as maintenance of peace and security in Central Asia. We intend to do everything necessary to strengthen this positive trend.

We believe that today the good opportunities are provided for cooperation with other nations of the Western hemisphere such as Canada and Latin America. We stand ready to further contacts initiated lately with them.

Dear participants! The foreign policy of any state is inseparable from the domestic policy.

This dialectical interaction is a key to understanding the essence of the objectives declared and practical steps taken by any country in the world arena, philosophy of its foreign policy strategy. Proclaiming and implementing the principles of peace, harmony, tolerance and humanism in the society, in the internal affairs, the Turkmen state projects also these concepts on its relationships with the external world. In this sense, neutrality of Turkmenistan is based on a firm moral framework of the state structure serving as its logical continuation and reflecting the best qualities of the Turkmen people.

Our country is celebrating the anniversary of neutrality in an atmosphere of peace and constructiveness, good neighborliness, mutual respect and understanding with our friends and partners in the international community.

We clearly see our prospects and confidently devise the plans for development of the state and society. The well thought-out strategy for wide, multifaceted international cooperation allows us to face the future optimistically. Neutral, peace-loving Turkmenistan will continue to do whatever is necessary to strengthen peace and security on our planet, make it contribution to the development and progress of human civilization.

I would like to congratulate all of you, dear friends, on the upcoming holiday, the Neutrality Day and wish the successful work to our conference.

Thank you.

Speech at the summit «Turkmenistan–Afghanistan–Pakistan–India»

Dear heads and members of the delegations! Ladies and gentlemen! I cordially greet such high and dear guests – the President of Islamic Republic of Afghanistan Mister Hamid Karzai, the President of Islamic Republic of Pakistan Mister Asif Ali Zardari, the minister of oil and natural gas of Republic of India Mister Murli Deoru. Thank you for having taken the invitation and coming to Turkmenistan for participating in this summit. Today we are the witnesses and participants of a real historical event. The start is given to one of the largest scale energy projects on the Asian continent – Turkmenistan–Afghanistan–Pakistan–India gas pipeline.

Annually 33 milliard cubic meters of Turkmen natural gas will be delivered by this main with the length of 1735kilometers. The gas pipeline will link our countries with ties of genuine friendship and good neighborhood on the basis of clear understanding common goals and vision of perspectives of long-term cooperation. I see in it the guarantee of our common success and future well-coordinated and efficient work. Wisdom, foresight and political will of the heads of fraternal countries-participants are the determining factors of realization of the project. Let me express my deep gratitude for supporting the project, for the ability to mobilize and send the resources for its successful realization.

I express my gratitude to the Asian Bank of Development which was always our supporter and assisted in carrying out necessary expertise and technical grounds. The support of the Asian Bank of Development became an important element which allowed signing four-sided Agreement.

I would also like to express my thankfulness to all those who took part in preparatory negotiations, got everything ready for our meeting and worked at project documents – diplomats, specialists and experts.

Dear friends! It is difficult to over-estimate the significance of today's event. The construction of Turkmenistan–Afghanistan–Pakistan–India gas pipeline is not only mutually beneficial energy and economic project. .

This event is of great political significance. It confirms that combination and compatibility of interests of states in international energy space and in big geo-politics are real and realizable. The present project is a convincing evidence of the fact that having political will and constructivism it is possible to achieve the main goal – providing the balance of producers' interests, transit countries and energy resources consumers. Our gas pipeline fully meets this condition being the sample of responsibility and foresight of its participants, their adherence to single approaches and principles of relations in energy sphere, commonness of views on political and economic contents of inter-state cooperation in these issues.

It is very demonstrative that Islamic Republic of Afghanistan and Republic of India supported initiatives of Turkmenistan on creating international mechanisms of reliable protection and safety of energy deliveries. I am sure that in future the successful realization of this project can become the prototype of future architecture of international energy partnership.

The availability of realizing the TAPI project was obvious from the very beginning. In fact, the goal was to achieve important and promising trend of long-term energy cooperation in Asia. The interest of all four participants was natural and well grounded.

As the natural gas deliver by the TAPI route Turkmenistan will provide increasing long-term needs of economics of Pakistan and India, one of most advancing in the world.

For Afghanistan the realization of this project will bring real benefits in economic plan, especially in the light of restoring industrial infrastructure of the country, realizing social programs and providing employment of the population.

In the whole realization of TAPI project will give powerful impulse to economic development of our countries, creation of new job places, construction of new social and production units and attract large investments.

All this will serve to people and promote increasing their standards of living. In this respect realization of this project meets radical interests of our peoples.

Besides, promising perspectives are opening for attracting foreign investments to further development of providing infrastructure. Turkmenistan, Afghanistan, Pakistan and India vividly demonstrate their potential to the world, ability to realize large scale and complicated projects, confirming their reputation of reliable and serious partners working on long-term perspective.

Successful realization of TAPI gas pipeline project from the view of its potential influence is much wider than geographic route of the track.

I think that now we can speak about it as the future real and efficient stabilizing factor which can positively influence upon common situation in Central and South Asia and neighboring regions, attach additional sustainability to the whole system of political and economic ties on the continent. Joint potential of our countries, conducted purposeful policy on consolidating peace, stability and security, building new schemes of partnership on principles of trust and balance on interests make real the turn of four-sided interaction during realization of pipeline project into the process of many-sided and many-planned inter-regional cooperation and bringing closer the approaches of Asian states on a number of actual issues.

One more principle moment linked with TAPI, is the possibility of diversification of energy flows. I am sure that new gas pipeline will become the sample of successful building relations on principles of equal right access of partners to the sources of Turkmen hydrocarbon resources and means of their delivery not at the expense of substituting one energy routes for another, but by mutual addition with the perspective of reaching new energy markets.

Dear friends! This day will enter the annals of our countries' relations by golden page. Together we are setting to large-scale beginning. It is deeply symbolic that today's meeting is held on the eve of the great holiday – the 15th anniversary of neutrality of Turkmenistan.

The main goal of our neutral foreign policy course is assisting close international partnership, consolidating links between states and increasing the level of trust and mutual understanding. It fully concerns our practical actions in the sphere of energy cooperation.

We are proud that we celebrate this remarkable jubilee with the heads of fraternal states – Afghanistan, Pakistan and India, combining our efforts and good will in the name of peace, stability and progress.

Thank you for your attention.

Congratulation to workers of oil-and-gas and geology branches of Turkmenistan on the Day of workers of oil-and-gas industry and geology of the country (14.12.2010)

Dear oil-and-gas workers and geologists! I cordially congratulate you on the Day of oil-and-gas industry and geology workers widely celebrated in our independent neutral Motherland, economic potential of which is steadily multiplying in the epoch of new Renaissance and great changes!

Due to your persistent and tireless labor oil-and-gas branch, the most important sector of national economy, reached high level of development. Huge stocks of hydrocarbon raw and creation of favorable conditions for inflow of foreign investments conditioned recognition of Turkmenistan as the largest energy state of the world.

Today we do not limit ourselves by using innumerable natural wealth of our Motherland only for increasing living standards of our people, but also plan to send them for the benefit of the whole mankind. The bright example of it is realized by Turkmenistan large-scale measures on diversification of routes of export of the Turkmen natural gas to world markets in accordance with our new energy strategy.

Industrious oil-and-gas industry and geology workers of the epoch of new Renaissance and great changes!

Your exemplary work within realizing the Program of development of oil-and-gas industry of Turkmenistan till 2030, including all complex of measures planned in the branch deserves kind words and respect. This work on rapid elaborating and putting into exploitation of earlier opened oil-and-gas deposits, studying the structure of depth layers of land, revealing the structures rich in oil and gas, conducting deep exploratory drilling, improving technical furnishing of home fuel-energy complex, successive increasing volumes of energy resources delivery to world markets.

On the 14th of December last year was put into exploitation Turkmenistan–China gas pipeline, called the ‘project of the century» and which became the largest energy system of the III millennium. This event entered the history of independent neutral Turkmenistan as great achievement of our country. That is why the decision was taken to celebrate this unforgettable event as the remarkable date in the newest history of Turkmen people. The Day of oil-and-gas industry and geology workers was established for more efficient usage of our national wealth – oil and gas and also for worthy evaluation of honest, self-denying labor of oil-and-gas workers and geologists.

At present innovations introduced to oil-and-gas branch, colossal deposits of hydrocarbon on being opened new and existing deposits by specialists of geological prospecting sphere promote successive increasing the potential of fuel-energy complex of the country. Launching of the second line of Turkmenistan–Iran gas pipeline, recent launching of Serax–Sangbust gas pipeline, which became the continuation of this transport route, accelerating the realization of the project of Turkmenistan–Afghanistan–Pakistan–India gas pipeline became large-scale and important for the state.

Tempos and efficiency of large-scale works are growing in South Yoloten – Osman deposit, one of the largest gas deposits in the world. It is pleasant that Turkmen geologists confirmed the fact of availability of more than 21 trillion of cubic meters of gas in this gigantic nature storeroom. Launching of the complex of constructions on collecting, preparing and transporting of gas from Keimir, Akpatlavuk and Chekishler deposits, opening of gas-compressing «Bagtyarlyk» installation which is important component of Turkmenistan–China gas pipeline system, elaboration of the complex of gas deposits in Central Garagums and launching of «Zyakli–Darvaza–Yılanly» gas-pipe installation are the results of tireless labor of courageous oil-and-gas workers of the country.

Today we can say with proud that our Motherland Turkmenistan, possessing countless natural wealth, is among the states of the world with powerful oil-and-gas infrastructure. Due to its favorable geopolitical and economic position, richest deposits of hydrocarbon, our country has great weight at international level as a very reliable and perspective partner.

Esteemed Cabinet of Ministers, Esteemed Heads of Diplomatic Missions! The year 2010 is coming to the end. The preliminary results, in general, are good; we will sum up the results of this year in January after the State Statistics Committee summarizes statistical data and prepares the reports. Today, I would like to focus on the foreign policy issues rather than discuss economic problems.

The analysis of global development trends, the role and place of our country in global system evidence the correctness of the strategy we have chosen to develop wide full international cooperation, its involvement in the main trends in the modern world in the political, economic, trade, information, cultural, scientific, educational, humanitarian and other spheres.

Today, Turkmenistan pursues the multifaceted, integrated foreign policy based on the distinctive principles and clear understanding of our goals. The geography of our contacts has been expanded significantly involving more countries and regions. The spectrum of Turkmenistan's international cooperation has been broadened in the bilateral and multilateral formats. We develop new vectors of cooperation with confidence, and we do it purposefully and consistently.

All this has a favourable influence on the nature of our relations with the international community, promotes trade and economic contacts, foreign investments, contributes objectively to strengthening our position in the world, enhancing Turkmenistan's reputation of being a dependable and responsible partner.

The key priority of Turkmenistan's foreign policy remains enhancement of peace, security and stability. First of all, we focus our efforts on addressing issues at a regional level. Turkmenistan as a neutral state offers its political space for the activities of the international community to prevent conflicts and create an atmosphere of mutual confidence and understanding in our region.

The celebrations of the glorious 15th anniversary of neutrality of Turkmenistan evidenced the correctness of our policy, recognition and support for it from the international community. This landmark event vividly illustrated the international prestige of our country, the celebrations of true good neighbourliness, friendship and cooperation.

Guests from dozens of countries – representatives of governments, heads of large international organizations, scientists, politicians in their speeches focused on their respect to the policy of neutrality pursued by Turkmenistan and showed keen interest in our achievements in various spheres.

Esteemed Cabinet of Ministers! Esteemed Heads of Diplomatic Missions! At the 65th session of the UN General Assembly Turkmenistan put forward a number of new initiatives aimed at closer multilateral cooperation on security in Central Asia and the Caspian Basin and making it systematic.

These initiatives should be built up, the determined political and diplomatic measures should be taken to implement them and the weighty arguments should be used to justify their relevance and usefulness for our region and the world. All this will require making the work of our embassies and missions to international organizations more active.

I instruct R. Meredov to intensify the work to implement the initiatives put forward by Turkmenistan at the United Nations, to focus continually the activity of our diplomatic missions abroad on a task-oriented dialogue with partners in host countries and at international organizations.

Certainly, these include the UN, first of all. We have recently established close, effective contacts with its leadership – the Secretary General, Under Secretaries General and representatives of its agencies. Meetings and talks with them evidenced the mutual interest in continuing and enhancing cooperation in various fields.

The UN is our priority partner, with which we intend to strengthen contacts in the future. You know that Turkmenistan intends to present its candidature for the membership of the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations for the period of 2013–2015. Even now we need to start thorough preparations for the election campaign in a worthy manner and allocate all required resources.

It is necessary to strengthen the staff of the Permanent Mission of Turkmenistan to the UN. I instruct R. Meredov to prepare the relevant proposals on this matter. Moreover, the issues regarding the opening of the Permanent Mission of Turkmenistan to the UN in Geneva, which houses a number of its key organs, next year, should be addressed.

A key aspect of the foreign policy strategy is Turkmenistan's participation in the work of the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe. At the recent OSCE summit in Astana we have stated the priority objectives of partnership. These including building the effective mechanisms for preventing and mitigating international conflicts, countering political and religious extremism, responding terrorist threats, drug trafficking and transnational crime, developing a modern model of international cooperation on energy transit. The continuing dialogue with partners within the OSCE should be maintained on all above mentioned fronts.

As consistent with our neutral status we should also pay due attention to the participation in the work of other authoritative international and regional organizations including the Non-Aligned Movement, the Commonwealth of Independent States, the Organization of the Islamic Conference, the Economic Cooperation Organization and others.

Esteemed Cabinet of Ministers! Esteemed Heads of Diplomatic Missions! Our country has established and continues to establish friendly, equal and mutually advantageous bilateral relations with dozens of countries around the world. These are traditional partners of Turkmenistan as well as the countries that have started to establish contacts recently. Increasing numbers of partners and expansion of the geography of cooperation is not an end in itself. We take a balanced and well thought-out approach to this work; we consider it necessary in the overall context of our foreign policy aimed at concerting international efforts to respond topical issues of the modern world.

And here there shouldn't be either major or minor participants, either important or unimportant partners.

We deal with all members of the international community equally respectful, and we value the current level of understanding. Today, the area of our constructive interests extends to different regions of the world. We have significantly broadened the scope and enrich the dialogue with world powers and international political and economic centers – China, United States of America, Russian Federation, European Union. With them we have common interests in key areas of cooperation – political, economic, energy, investment, through educational programmes.

Relations of Turkmenistan with neighbours in the region have been filled with a new content. Transport and pipeline projects involving Iran, Kazakhstan, Uzbekistan, Afghanistan, Pakistan and India are becoming a reality; their significance is difficult to overestimate today. During the days of the Neutrality Day celebrations a significant event – the TAPI Summit of Heads of States, at which we signed the top level agreements on the construction of the Turkmenistan–Afghanistan–Pakistan–India gas pipeline.

The construction of the pipeline is also a result of our policy of neutrality, the implementation of one of its fundamental principles – to live in peace and harmony with neighbours, maintain friendly and equal relations with all countries, develop mutually advantageous economic and trade cooperation with them. This project will profoundly contribute to expanding contacts between countries of the region and strengthening regional economic cooperation. I believe that in the near future this pipeline will be built and bring peace and prosperity to Afghan people and other nations.

Remember, only three or four years ago the idea of building a gas pipeline from Turkmenistan to China seemed to be a utopia to many, and, frankly speaking, few believed in this project. Recently, the utopia' has found real embodiment in collective efforts of four states including Turkmenistan, China, Uzbekistan and Kazakhstan, and today Turkmen gas brings warmth and light to the Chinese people.

Therefore, I can say with confidence that today our people and the state is able to perform any national and international projects, all we need is to show patience, will and persistence in achieving objectives. Also, it means that the importance of the tasks set to our diplomacy in these countries has increased.

Esteemed Cabinet of Ministers! Esteemed Heads of Diplomatic Missions! We will continue to strengthen cooperation with our traditional partners in the former Soviet Union including Ukraine, Belarus, Armenia, Azerbaijan, Georgia, Tajikistan, Kyrgyzstan, Moldova.

Pursuing the foreign policy we take account of the growing interest of the Arab world in Turkmenistan. A series of top level meetings that testified to the mutual interest in expanding cooperation took place. The work to implement the agreements reached should be intensified and due specifics should be attached to them.

The Asia-Pacific region is increasingly important for Turkmenistan. The potential of our cooperation with such countries as Japan, Korea, Malaysia is profound. An action plan should be developed to implement it.

This requires close coordination of the activity of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs with other ministries and departments of Turkmenistan. We need to expand contacts with Latin America, which is today one of the most dynamically developing regions of the planet. It's time to think about the accreditation of our ambassadors in such large countries as Brazil, Mexico, Argentina that rank among the top twenty countries with the strongest economies. This is important in terms of political interaction given the traditionally active role of Latin America in the international organizations. I instruct R. Meredov, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs to work on this issue.

Esteemed Cabinet of Ministers! Esteemed Ambassadors! In recent years bilateral relations have gained new incentives to develop, intensify contacts have been intensified at various levels. We have come to pay more attention to specific areas of cooperation, make it consistent with the vital needs of Turkmenistan's development.

The priority fields in the overall context of bilateral relations include trade and economic sector. Embassies should pay particular attention to this in their work. You should thoroughly study and analyze the economic situation in host countries, identify areas where bilateral ties could be developed, accumulate experience in promoting economic interests of our country.

In this regard the opening of trade missions abroad is deemed to be promising. Here MFA, R.Meredov, H.Muhammedov, T.Japarov, the Ministry of Trade and Foreign Economic Relations, the Ministry of Economy and Development must work together and think in which countries trade missions can be opened in the near future.

Currently, we pay much attention to promotion of international cultural cooperation of Turkmenistan. Culture as a critical part of human history is of particular importance in our international priorities. Cultural collaboration is an instrument of mutual understanding between states and nations, one of the most effective ways to build relations of sympathy and friendship, respect and confidence between people of different ethnic groups and religions.

It is necessary to develop it as consistent with modern realities and demands of people, onrush of information technology, rise of new forms of collaboration. This is that our diplomacy should focus on today so that broad international cooperation in the cultural sphere will be in tune with global trends.

We are open to the world, open to broad contacts between cultural workers. International festivals with the participation of artists from all over the world, including not only renowned masters, but also youth, children, are organized in the country. Let's remember those which were a great success in Avaza this summer. In recent years the Days of Culture of Turkmenistan abroad and the Days of Culture of other countries in Turkmenistan have been held frequently on a greater scale. The work in this sphere should be continued; new forms of a cultural exchange should be sought for.

The issues regarding the introduction of the position of cultural attaches who have required professional skills in each embassy should be considered. The MFA, R.Meredov, M.Yazmuhammedova, the Ministry of Culture and Broadcasting are to prepare the relevant proposals on these issues.

Encouraging cultural cooperation, we are making a profound contribution to the future by laying a firm foundation for mutual understanding among peoples of the world for decades to come. Due to the strategy proclaimed by Turkmenistan towards the country's openness to the external world, dynamic diversification of its political and economic contacts, expansion of the geography of cooperation with foreign partners in various spheres, strengthening of the role in regional and global processes the interest in Turkmenistan, its internal and foreign policy becomes more evident all over the world. Turkmenistan's foreign policy, the guidelines of its relations with other countries, the aspects of the implementation of Turkmen neutrality – all this increases the interest of the international political and diplomatic community, politological centres, financial and economic institutions, mass media. In this regard the need to create the conditions conducive to meeting the growing demand for unbiased, adequate and reliable information that reflects various aspects of Turkmenistan's foreign policy, our international initiatives is particularly relevant.

The effective approaches to fulfilling this task include the implementation of the well thought-out and dependable state policy in the sphere of international information, building the state-of-the-art mechanisms for collaborating with foreign media, expert community, analytical centres and politological centres in compliance with modern requirements. Present day Turkmenistan with its achievements in all aspects of the domestic and foreign policies can and should be more actively positioned advantageously in the global information space on a systematic and long-term basis as a dynamic, stable, peace-loving and friendly state.

It is obvious that there is an urgent need to take steps at a national level to give impetus to this work and ensure the conditions conducive to Turkmenistan's participation in global information processes. In this respect I am proposing to consider the issues regarding the opening of the National Politological Centre for International and Regional Studies in Turkmenistan. The major objectives of this institution could be active participation in life of the international expert community, promotion of Turkmenistan's standpoints on various issues of international and regional politics to make it known to public in foreign countries through developing a professional dialogue with politological and journalistic circles.

The role of the expert community in the world increases. Its opinion is valued when forming the state approaches to various issues of foreign policy. Today, major international and regional politological forums are held everywhere encouraging intense discussions that give directions to modern politological thought and have a profound impact on public opinion in different countries.

The integration in the international expert community will enable to clearly and realistically comprehend the modern global processes, the role and place of Turkmenistan in them, effectively position the national interests of our country. Also, this will help to improve the quality of analytical materials, make professional forecasts and recommendations on various aspects of Turkmenistan's foreign policy. Furthermore, the establishment of this institution will lay the groundwork for forming the national school of political science in the country, the need for which will increase as Turkmenistan integrates deeply in global political and information processes. I entrust R.Meredov to prepare the proposals for the establishment of this Centre.

Also, the important tasks to enhance the information activities are set to our embassies. Heads of embassies and missions of our country abroad should actively engage in information processes in host countries, hold briefings and press conferences on a regular basis, give interviews and publish articles in influential press media thus widely promoting our achievements.

Esteemed Cabinet of Ministers! Esteemed Heads of Diplomatic Missions of Turkmenistan! The fulfillment of these important tasks that will facilitate implementing further the foreign policy strategy and their implementation will largely depend on your professionalism, understanding the significance and importance of the tasks assigned, persistence in achieving the goals.

Hereon we are concluding this meeting of the Cabinet of Ministers with. I would like to wish all of you good health, happiness and every success in your work.

The New Year address to Turkmen people (31.12.2010)

Dear compatriots! My beloved people! The year of 2010, marked by remarkable achievements and glorious victories of our independent neutral state is coming to an end. These minutes, when we are confidently entering the New Year, I cordially congratulate you on the coming New Year of 2011! Let this New Year happiness and wellbeing reign in your families!

We can proudly say that the year of 2010, marked by great labor victories in the life of the state and the society, was one of the most beneficial and successful. Our beloved Motherland is confidently going along the way of progress and creation; achieved high gains in all spheres of activity in 2010 are the evidences of it. We realized great deeds, which will be written down to the annals of our people in the III millennium with golden letters.

Looking into tomorrow of Turkmen people with confidence and doing everything for their peaceful, abundant and happy life, in the leaving year we paid great attention to the reforming and rapid developing all branches of national economy complex of the country.

Due to the taken measures this year the planned growth of national economy was achieved; the image of our beloved Motherland substantially changed and became more beautiful; the level of material wellbeing of people increased. Concerning the production of the Gross National Product, Turkmenistan entered the rank of the countries, which achieved the highest rates. Considerable tempos of growth were achieved in the spheres of construction, transport and communication, energy branch, oil-and-gas industry, textile, agricultural and other branches of the national economy.

In the leaving 2010 the work on realizing the «National program on changing social-everyday conditions of the population of villages, settlements, etrap cities and etrap centers for the period till 2020» was carried out with wide scope.

Construction and putting more than 180 large modern units into exploitation, convincingly testify to the fact that Turkmenistan became one of economically advanced states. Among these new buildings there are new units in the National «Avaza» tourist zone, the 2-nd line of Turkmenistan–Iran gas pipeline, the State medical university of Turkmenistan, the largest in the region fashionable «Oguzkent» hotel, children's health-improving centers, stadiums, museums, dwellings with super comfort and tens of other large state units.

Along with other branches, high results were also achieved in agriculture of the country. During this year our courageous farmers achieved great labor victory, having gathered about 1, 5 millions of tons of wheat and 1, 3 millions of tons of «white gold».

In 2010 a number of large updated enterprises of textile industry were built and put into exploitation. Highly productive cotton-spinning factories built in Dashoguz, Geokdepe and Ruhabat etraps of Ahal velayat attached powerful impulse to dynamic development of this branch.

This year home oil-and-gas industry also was developing at high tempos. In the Turkmen Earth interior there are colossal deposits of natural resources. Relevant volumes of natural gas only in three deposits are estimated at more than 21 trillions of cubic meters. It serves as undeniable evidence of the fact, that Turkmenistan is one of powerful energy states, possessing the richest gas deposits in the world.

Steady rising of production volumes, processing and exporting of oil, gas and electric power to world markets is the most significant part of being realized large-scale measures. For successful solving these tasks our state invests huge means to this branch and regularly attracts foreign investments. For increasing volumes of export delivery of Turkmen hydrocarbons we are building new and reconstructing the acting gas pipelines.

In 2010 we set to the construction of large gas pipeline East–West system with the length of 1 thousand kilometers on the territory of Turkmenistan. This new unit will give the opportunity to transport 30 milliards cubic meters of natural gas annually. And quite recently the start has been given to the project of constructing new gas pipeline to India through the territories of Afghanistan and Pakistan. All being realized colossal measures in this sphere are to bring immense profit not only to our people but to peoples of other countries and serve to strengthening friendly ties between states.

We also attach unremitting attention to development of science and education, healthcare, physical culture and sport. Large-scale program on constructing updated schools, kindergartens, medical centers, stadiums and hippodromes is successfully realized in the capital of our sovereign Motherland and velayat centers.

The fact, that this year Turkmenistan was the first in the region to get the right of holding Asian games indoors and on martial arts in 2017 is the subject of our particular pride. Construction of super updated Olympic small city in our fine capital Ashgabat will give us the opportunity to conduct these prestigious competitions at a high level.

We have something in the sphere of culture to be proud of. Last year tens of cultural units were built and now are serving to people. Our beautiful capital today has become the center of holding international conferences, festivals and exhibitions, causing close attention of the world community.

Constructive foreign policy strategy of independent neutral Turkmenistan, directed to preserving peace and consolidating stability in the world, won high authority on the international arena to our beloved Motherland. The policy of positive neutrality carried out by Turkmenistan, allowed opening new directions of cooperation with the largest and most authoritative international structure – United Nations' Organization.

Our neutral Motherland, successfully realizing the programs of large-scale complex of reforming of all spheres and putting forward new creative initiatives, make considerable contribution to activating and fruitful developing of international cooperation. New initiatives aimed at further development of mutually beneficial international relations, suggested at the 65th session of UNO General Assembly brightly testify to it.
