In 2011, specific weight of non-governmental sector of Turkmenistan economy in production of goods and services made up 40 %, and by 2020 it raised up to 70 %²⁸.

Today, entrepreneurs are engaged in different branches of the national economy of the country, honest and fruitful labour responding for the state's concern. They carry out grandiose work in construction, food industry, furniture and shoemaking industry, agriculture, transport servicing, trade and catering. Besides it, representatives of the private sector accomplish their activity in education, tourism, sport, lend advertising and issuing services. Development of entrepreneurship and amplifying possibilities for market relations strengthens competitiveness among private producers that in turn favors growth of production volumes and raising its quality and reduction in value.

The country has rather numerous group of experienced pioneers of the private business, capable make many state ventures at the goods and services market. Among the largest private ventures, installed with the leading technologies and manufacturing premium output there are Gushtoplumy poultry complex, Keyik glass plant, Hoshzaman plant on production of eggs, Bereketli plant on meat processing, Aybolek furniture factory, Hazar confectionery production and others. Confidently acting as business partner of a state in realization of economic reforms, Turkmen entrepreneurs make valuable contribution to reformation process, carried out all over the country.

In accordance with time requirements, positive results are taking place in the national economy. The share of industry in the total GDP volume

Toilers of fuel-energy complex make valuable contribution to acceleration of the economic might of the country which is the basic branch of the national economy of our country, boosting development of which in recent years wins the state deserved glory of the largest energy power of the world. Possessing countless riches including tremendous supplies of oil and gas*, Turkmenistan strives to realize this richest potential for the benefit of people and entire humankind. Such approach allows the country intensively

* Presently, experts evaluate total supplies of the country in 71,21 billion tons of reference fuel from which 53,01 billion tons are resource supplied of dry land deposits, in 18,2 billion tons as sea. Before the energy potential of Turkmenistan was evaluated in 45,44 billion tons of reference fuel³¹.

One of sensational discoveries of the Turkmen geologists has become the block of gas deposits Southern Iolatan, Iolatan – Osman, Minara and Yashlar, opened in the east of the country. By the latest data, expert resource supply of the block is evaluated in 26,2 trillion cubic meters of gas and by volume it is the second in the world after deposit Southern Pars in Iran. By supposition of workers of fuel and energy complex President of Turkmenistan on November 18, 2011 adopted resolution, called this block «Galkynysh» deposit. Developing of the block started in 2010 by the leading companies of South Korea, China and the UAE, the total sum of contracts made up almost 10 billion USD. Organization of industrial extraction of hydrocarbon raw material at this deposit of blue fuel allowed to create nearly 5 thousand working places, providing working capacity of residents of some etraps of Mary and Lebap velayats³².

develop economy, ensuring its successful integration to the world economic system, maintaining broad international collaboration. The crucial aspects of the energy policy of the state turn out to be augmentation of the volumes of natural gas extraction and export, diversification of its delivery routes to the world market, where sustainable growth tendency for energy is observed.

Today, Turkmenistan exports natural gas to 3 directions as Iran, China, and Russia. Along with it, our country actively goes into the issues of bringing energy to other perspective markets. Along with holding talks on construction of the 2nd branch of gas pipeline on delivery of natural gas to China, grandiose importance is attached to acceleration of realization of other crucial projects as laying transnational pipeline Turkmenistan-Afghanistan-Pakistan-India and Trans-Caspian gas pipeline which will provide bringing of «blue fuel» to broad European market.

In 2011, construction of interior gas pipeline East-West was carried out at high tempos, called to close into single ring all gas deposits of the country and preparation of new perspective areas to industrial developing.

In summer of 2011 at the Turkmen shelf of Caspian Sea since commissioning in vicinities of Kiyanly settlement of gas-processing factory with 5 up to 10 billion cubic meters of gas per year capacity and land gas terminal, industrial extraction of natural gas began. One more large construction project of gas compressor station, to which gas from sea deposits runs, was fulfilled in September, 2011 on Cheleken peninsula, near Hazar seaside city. Capacity of the complex intended for gathering of casing-head gas from deposits of Turkmen shelf and Caspian Sea coastal zone and its delivery to gas-transport system of the country makes up 2 billion cubic meters of gas per year.

In October, 2011 gas compressor station Dovletabat–2 with 20 billion cubic meters of gas per year in Akhal velayat was put into operation, in Dashoguz velayat – 2nd branch of gas main, connecting Dovletabat deposit with gas compressor station Deryalyk with 80 million cubic meters capacity of blue fuel per day, in Lebap velayat – 2nd line of Bagaji gas compressor complex which installations are intended for producing 12 thousand of liquefied gas and 18 thousand tons of gas condensate per year. Workers and specialists of Turkmennebit state concern successfully developed Northern Goturdepe deposit, located in the costal zone of Caspian Sea. They revealed new highly productive oil layers at big depth, having received at 2 wells powerful fountain of «black gold».

Turkmen energy sphere gains power also due to commissioning of modern gas turbine power stations and reconstruction of running production capacities. Stepping over frames of the state smooth provision, it gradually accelerates the export volumes of energy, having great demand in the world market, delivering it to Afghanistan, Iran, Turkey. In 2011, in Lebap velayat the new energy station Turkmenabat–Karabekaul was laid under industrial load of 220 kilowatt with more than 90 km extension. Chemical industry of the country also amplifies the spectrum of produced output. In 2011, jointly with Belarus partners creation of principally new branch of the national economy was continued as mining in Garlyk settlement, Koytendag etrap, Lebap velayat where first in Turkmenistan and the largest in Central Asia mining complex on production of potassium fertilizers was constructed. Today, the largest industrial centre of the region is being successfully created. The foundation laying and erection of plants' complex on production of ammonia and carbomide in outskirts of Mary city took place.

Textile industry is one of rapidly developing, export-oriented branches of the national economy. Within the last years, infrastructure of the branch has been replenished with new enterprises, installed with premium equipment. Cotton spinning, weaving, sewing plants in close proximity to the raw material basis provide the whole cycle of production – from processing of cotton fiber* up to production of ready items. Diverse superior production of the Turkmen textile workers, produced on the basis of leading, ecologically pure technologies, is in great demand in the world market.

Particular attention in the country is paid to development of carpet making art. High results were observed by employees of food industry, presenting Turkmen people ample assortment of superior food products. In 2011, all 55 large ventures of the food industry association ran successfully. Their geographic situation and specifics of production allow receiving in due time raw material from the local leaseholders and other producers. They manufacture more than 400 kinds of output, though production of more than 150 kinds was adjusted in recent years. Just during the 1st decade of 2011 they produced 21 kinds of new goods drawing attention of customers and having good demand. Among ventures, getting recognition and authority on the Turkmen market there are Ruhubelent, Marysheker, Altyn Asyr, Lebaletnumleri, Jeyhun joint stock associations, state ventures as Altyn Halka, Korpe venture on production of baby food, Archabil drinking water plant, Akhal oil production plant, wine – making plants of Ashgabat, Abadan, Gokdepe* and others.

Construction industry occupies the considerable place in the national economy demonstrating really unprecedented rates of growth. In the country, large-scale construction activities are carried out, reforming shape of the capital, velayats, cities, etraps, settlements that is good sign of the economic and business activity. In Turkmenistan favorable investment climate is supported owing to which large capital investments are developed. * In Turkmenistan more than 140 sorts of grapes are grown. Annually, up to 30 % of their volume is processed by ventures of associations, producing grape juice and other winy productions. Within the years of independence many superior Turkmen wines gained recognition and deserved more than 150 awards of prestige international contests³⁴. The basis of this success are many years' traditions of Turkmen wine-making art brilliantly confirmed privileges and consistency in the age of high tech.

developed investments at the expense of all sources of financing increased by 23,2 % in comparison with 2010, and correlation of the given index to GDP was at level of nearly 44 %³⁵.

Today in Turkmenistan, nearly 2,45 thousand units are under construction with the total cost of 48 billion USD³⁶. Particularly, it is realized such large projects of the international scale as creation of Avaza National Tourist Zone at the Caspian Seashore, laying of transnational railroad North–South, developing of Galkynysh gas deposit, construction in Garagum of the second phase of Altyn Asyr Turkmen Lake and others. Convincing acknowledgement of the high economic potential of the country is the fact that in 2011 GDP volume in construction was raised by 2,5 % in comparison with 2010. In jubilee year 374 objects of various destination were put into operation as production and dwelling complexes, children pre-school establishments and educational establishments, medical, sport and tourist centres and other erections. It means that daily in Turkmenistan more than 1 new building³⁷ is commissioned. It is encouraging that annul collection of the Guinness Record Book which fix up all achievements in various fields included in 2011 one more sight of Ashgabat as the main architectural design of new Turkmenistan TV and Radio Broadcasting Centre in the form of Oguzkhan big star considered as one of the largest architectural image of star in the world*.

The construction scale conditions speeded development of construction materials industry, widening of spectrum of produced output. With every passing year, ventures increase assortment of production besides non-metallic materials, concrete, glass they produce facing and heat insulating materials and introducing polymer basis and other innovative technologies came out to new development stage. In 2011 near Jebel settlement of Balkan velayat it was launched the largest in the country concrete plant with 1 million tons capacity of production per year and in Koytendag etrap, Lebap velayat construction of the same industrial giant was keeping on.

* Earlier, in 2003 The Guinness Record Book included the largest hand-made carpet in the world – carpet-giant «Altyn Asyr» woven at Baharly plant of artistic carpet making art with 301 square meters area and 14 x 20 meters size and 1,5 tons weight. Before it, the first place belonged to the carpet «Turkmen soul», woven in the period of Great Patriotic War with 193 square meters area. Later the Guinness Record Book included the largest flagpole set in Ashgabat where the state flag of Turkmenistan was fluttering in 2008. The same year, the Guinness Record Book included the great number of fountains joined in ensemble constructed in Ashgabat and depicting the founder of Turkmen nation Oguzkhan with his 6 sons³⁸.

In recent time, private construction companies emerged in the country having enough work experience and carried out construction of numerous units of industrial and socio-cultural sphere, dwellings. They successfully compete with foreign companies. Majority of buildings constructed by them do not yield to units, constructed by foreign contractors. Besides it, Turkmen businessmen adjusted production of construction and facing materials, they are engaged in the sphere of interior design of edifices, accomplishment of the adjoined territories, furniture making. It evidences that enlisting the state support, local entrepreneurs are dynamically involved into modernization process of economy, take part in realization of the largest construction projects.

Crucial job on technical renovation is carried out in transport and communications sphere. In 2011 CDP in this sphere in comparison with 2010 increased by 8 %³⁹. Transport infrastructure of the country has been drastically changed which was covered by broadly branched net modern railroad and highways; sea, river and air ports are drastically reconstructed. Presently, multi vector system of transport makes up more than 3,2 thousand kilometers of railroads, nearly 13,7 thousand kilometers of highways (from them 90 % with hard coating), 700 kilometers of navigable ways and nearly 10 thousand kilometers of main pipelines. The number of personnel, involved in this sector makes up nearly 5 % from all population, engaged in the national economy⁴⁰.

From the olden times, Turkmenistan is called as «crossroad of 7 world roads». Since old times and up to present days, it occupies advantageous situation, being at crossroad of North-South and East-West direction. It is convenient transit territory on vast spaces of Eurasian continent. It permits our country to occupy the leading positions at revived in modern epoch Great Silk Road which opens all exits to the world market. On the initiative and under leadership of the President Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov efficient measures are undertaken on realization of solid transit-transport potential of the country, creation of reliable bridge for widening mutually beneficial trade-economic cooperation between various states, activation of their scientific-technical and humanitarian ties.

Within the years of independence extension of steel main of Turkmenistan has been increased by 1,5 times. More than 20 thousand people are involved in this branch⁴¹. Presently, railroad Kazakhstan-Turkmenistan-Iran is being intensively constructed which will open in the shortest period of time more economic way from Europe to South Asia, to sea ports of Persian Gulf and Indian Ocean. Transnational railroad corridor North-South will become a kind of «golden ring» which joints states with connecting link for establishing mutually beneficial relations between them. In 2011 in the northern field of this road from Bereket town up to station Serhetyaka at the border with Kazakhstan Turkmen railroad men completed laying of rail grating. Steel line with extension in 444 km lay along targeted route. 20 stations have been erected in this area. The length of southern field of the steel way that joins Bereket and etrap centre Etrek at the border of Turkmenistan and Iran will exceed 256 km. In 2011 at this field, activities carried out by the foreign contractors were going on⁴².

An important step on the way of establishment and effective usage of regional and inter regional transport routes will become creation of international transit-transport corridor that joins countries of Central Asian countries and Near East. Relevant agreement was signed in Ashgabat between governments of Turkmenistan, Uzbekistan, Iran, Qatar, and Oman in April, 2011.

On June 28, 2011 the first passenger train Ashgabat-Turkmenabad-Atamyrat started to move along railroad bridge Atamyrat-Kerkichi along the Amyderya right riverbed. Thus, less than after 2 years since opening of this bridge passenger trains started to move there, which now run along the route Ashgabat-Kerkichi daily.

In 2011, it was decided to construct railroad from Turkmenistan to Afghanistan. It is supposed to lay this main with 150 km extension towards direction of Atamyrat–Imamnazar–Akina–Andhoy. It will have immense significance for transportation of freights in the Asian continent and all over the world⁴³.

As known, in the total volume of transport services the biggest load falls on automobile transport, specific weight of which in the total volume of freight turnover exceeded by 34 % and passenger by 86 %. The crucial direction for creation of modern transport infrastructure turns out to be construction of new and modernization of existing highways. Considering it, highways are erected in the country as Turkmenbashy-Farab and Ashgabat-Garagum-Dashoguz with summed extension of 1676 km⁴⁴. For notable contribution to formation of effective transport system the President of Turkmenistan Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov in June of 2011 was given the highest award of the International Union of Automobile Transport LRU – «GrandPrix d' Honneur».

In recent years, air transport of the country has obtained rapid development. Keen attention is paid to installation of the local aviation with the latest flying technology. Within the shortest period, were purchased 5 planes «Boing–737» of the newest modification, 2 planes «Challenger» and 2 helicopters MI–17. In parallel with modernization of the park of air craft was developed the land basis. Capacity of 5 airports of the country makes up 3450 passengers. Turkmenhowayollary state national service broadens geography of flights, now annually more than 1 million people from various corners of our country and world use Turkmen airlines⁴⁵.

The sphere of sea transport is also boosting at high tempos, port provision is improved.

The Head of State Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov attaches tremendous attention to dynamic developing of modern kinds of communications in the country. Along with it, he pays intent attention to modernization of enterprises, accelerated introduction of the up-to-date technologies and equipment to the sphere of mobile telephone communication and Internet, as well as adjustment of mutually useful international cooperation ensuring further improvement of activity of the branch. Owing to concern of the nation's leader telecommunication infrastructure is developing rapidly in the country, new stations are under erection allowing qualitatively service of hundred thousand of subscribers. Turkmentelecom state communications company renders population access to the global information net-Internet. New educational establishments, commissioned every year are being accessed to this net and are provided with multimedia and interactive training aids.

Integration of our country to the world information space advance widening of outlook of people, improvement of their viewpoint. In no less measure, new Turkmenistan TV and Radio Broadcasting Centre put into operation on October 17, 2011 in the south of Ashgabat, in the crest of Kopetdag, will favor this goal. The height of this centre together with crowning powerful 38-meter antenna is 211 meters that allow broadcasting in analogue and digital regime.

With the aim to introduce broadly scientific achievements to economy of Turkmenistan, as well as adjustment and development of cosmic activity in the country, the Head of State Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov on May 30, 2011 issued a decree on creation of the national cosmic agency under the President of Turkmenistan*. Creation of this agency will allow our country to bring the national science to new level, use world technical achievements in the national economy and also make valuable contribution to solution of vital objectives, having global, nationwide significance. One of the main tasks of the agency is launching of own artificial Earth satellite that must accelerate development in the country of modern communication systems, Internet, TV, promote realization of large-scale ecological programs, perfection of methods of investigation of new mineral deposits. It will give chance to carry out monitoring for condition of the agricultural areas. Broad prospects are open for adjustment of international cooperation of Turkmenistan with the leading world centres of science in the field of astronomy, seismology and meteorology. On November 18, 2011, the Head of State Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov made decision on creation of the National artificial Earth satellite, having underlined, that exit to circumterrestrial orbit of own satellite will help to conduct from space ecological supervision, researches for needs of oil and gas complex of the country, solve other critical problems. Priority development gains agro-industrial complex of the country. The President of Turkmenistan Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov regards the priority task of agrarian policy as maximal realization of multi-aspect potential of agriculture as basic branch of the national economy, provision in the country of food abundance. The state does much for increase of profitability of agrarian and industrial complex, in due time and completely providing farmers with qualitative sowing material, mineral fertilizers, modern agricultural machinery and irrigation water, supporting and encouraging persistent work of tenants and land owners. The keen attention is given to introduction of the advanced methods of managing and agricultural technicians, development of science and domestic selection, manufacture stimulation, creation of processing enterprises, training of qualified personnel, improvement of working conditions and life of peasants.

To this care of state, peasants respond with diligent labour, skillfully using in practice ancient traditions of the Turkmen people, experienced by centuries, in combination with modern science achievements. Owing to it and first of all to successfully conducted agrarian reforms under supervision of the nation's Leader Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov, agriculture of the country has considerably advanced.

As basis for creation of food security of Turkmenistan, grain production (wheat, rice, white durra) occupies particular place in the structure of agriculture, completely providing the country with superior flour and grain products. In spite of the fact that 2011 was rather dry year, Turkmen cultivators worked with double energy in order to grow rich harvest and gather from fields 1,3 million tons of grain. This volume is enough for domestic needs of the country and for seeds of harvest 2012. Considering remnants from harvest 2010 surplus of grain were stored in the country⁴⁶.

Tremendously epochal meaning had resolution of the President of Turkmenistan Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov from March 11, 2011, in accordance with which Turkmengallaonumleri association had possibility to realize to foreign markets excess of wheat through the state commodity and raw material exchange of Turkmenistan, exceeding needs of the country in 217 thousand tons volume*. It means that for the first time in history, Turkmenistan has started to export, along with natural gas, oil and cotton, such tradable goods as food grain which is in great demand in the world market. Thereby grain growing became the export-focused branch of national economy though before there were times when it was necessary to import the major part of consumed bread into the country. Thus, in jubilee 2011, Turkmenistan was included into club of few states of the world delivering grain to the international markets. The grandiose labour successes of Turkmen grain growers let Turkmenistan President Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov in a week, on March 18, 2011 adopt resolution on presenting on behalf of Turkmen people of 1 thousand tons of flour from crop of Turkmen wheat to people of Iran in honour of international Novruz Bayram. It was done with a view of consolidation of bonds of friendship and brotherhood, based on primordial for our ancestors' traditions of good neighbourhood, high humanism and custom to exchange with neighbours celebratory entertainments.

Cotton growers of the country with honour fulfilled concluded agreements of 2011 on storing of «white gold». They delivered to the bins of Motherland of more than 1 million 50 thousand tons of raw material⁴⁷. This labour victory is obvious result for raising productivity of peasants' toiling through introduction of the market mechanisms, increasing payment of delivered raw material and widening of benefits, rendered for cotton growers. Thus, in accordance with resolution of the President of Turkmenistan, beginning from 2011 cultivators got chance to realize freely excesses of cotton harvest grown by them above the state order and products of the industrial processing (fiber, lint). Besides, they could do it independently or through Ak Altyn trade venture at the state commodity and raw material exchange for home and foreign customers or by the state purchasing prices to Turkmenpagta state concern⁴⁸. It has become a solid stimulus for raising labour productivity of villagers, augmented their concern and enthusiasm in cultivation of higher cotton harvests.

Besides grain and cotton, toilers have grown good harvest of other agricultural crops. In 2011, production of vegetables, gourds, fruit and berry produce, potatoes and grape has been notably augmented in the country.

The important component of the agrarian reform fulfilled in the country turns out to be cattle breeding development as perspective branch of agriculture, having many centuries' traditions among Turkmen people. The state undertakes purposeful measures on stimulation and support of toilers of pastures, lending them considerable benefits, improves social conditions of life, strengthens material-technical basis of the branch. The role of entrepreneurs in this sphere is augmented. Large poultry farms have been created with their participation. All taxes were abolished, tied with production of cattle breeding output, the possibility is presented of free of charge employment of pastures and water sources. As a result, the production of meat, milk, eggs is increased in the country year after year.

In natural-climatic conditions of Turkmenistan, water economy is one of the crucial branches of economy. Employees of this branch provide agricultural fields with irrigation water, better soil reclamation condition of irrigated areas by means of prevention of desalination and degradation of lands, repairing of hydrotechnical erections and ensuring their proper exploitation. They carry out large scope of work on preservation of soil fertility, construction of irrigation and collector-drainage nets*, rational and effective usage of life-giving moisture due to broad introduction of water-saving technologies as well as protection of water riches of the country.

Accelerated construction of the 2nd phase of Altyn Asyr Turkmen Lake in the centre of Garagum evidences about tremendous importance, attached to development of water economy in the country. As known, the key

* By the beginning of 2011 extension of irrigation system of the country had reached 44,2 thousand kilometers, and total extension of collector net – 36,6 thousand kilometers⁴⁹.

 The first phase of this one of the largest artificial water basins in the world was commissioned with personal participation of the head of state Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov on July 15, 2009.

value of this grandiose hydrotechnical object turns out to be collection of drainage waters for their repeated usage after process of natural filtration and purification, that will allow successful solving some other, not less important objectives as developing of thousand hectares of virgin lands, creation of oasis in desert, development of cattle breeding and fishery economy, as well as bring ponderable contribution to ensuring ecology safety in Central Asia. Though evacuation of salty waters to handmade lake has started quite recently, beneficial influence of the lake to Turkmen nature was already felt: functioning of entire collector-drainage system of the country was normalized, the level of ground waters is reduced owing to which land-reclamation condition of lands was notably bettered and harvesting is being increased, conditions emerged for enrichment of flora and fauna of Garagum⁵⁰.

In 2011, construction of new water basins was carried out at rapid pace, filled with waters of the Amyderya, Murgab, Tejen, Sumbar, Etrek Rivers. With blessing of the President of Turkmenistan Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov in Kaaka etrap of Akhal velayat and Koneurgench etrap of Dashoguz velayat construction of 2 water basins started, called to improve notably water provision of population and sowing areas of etraps.

In February, 2011 in the south of Lebap velayat after reconstruction was reconstructed and put into operation Yylgynagyz main machine canal with more than 50 km total extension, allowing to solve the matters of irregularity and shortage of water for irrigation of lands of the peasant associations of Dovletli and Beyik Turkmenbashy*.

It favors turning of the Amyderya right riverbed to one of the major agricultural breadbasket of the country. The major part of the land, developed in these localities, is allotted for wheat. Besides it, renovated canal feeds after processing Jeyhun settlement with pure drinking water being the administrative centre of the Dovletli etrap virgin.

In summer of 2011 construction of Shirdepe water distributing junction was completed, located at 25-th km lower the stream of Tejen River (Gerirud), running through the border of Turkmenistan and Iran. The junction was erected together with the Turkmen and Iranian hydrobuilders for distributing of water between 2 countries, which supply is regulated to

* If necessary up to 35 cubic meters of the Amyderya water per second can get into canal that by 2,5 times more that it was earlier⁵¹. Thus, toilers of fields of the Amyderya right river basin had opportunity not only stably grow up high harvests of agricultural crops on cultivated areas but introduce to agriculture turnover thousand hectartes of fallow lands.

«Dostluk» dam. Since commissioning of this erection and extra delivery of 60 cubic meters per second favorable conditions are created for bettering water supply of population and irrigated lands in Serahs etrap, Akhal velayat as well as developing of earlier vacant lands⁵².

Besides it, in velayats of the country large-scale work is carried out on augmenting the volumes of 15th Anniversary of Independence, Hauzkhan, Saryyazy water reservoirs, provision of speeded capacity of water to handmade Garagum River, stretched out through desert, purification, widening and deepening of drainage channels and economic water-ways, construction of hydrotechnical units, regulating inflow of water and water settlings. All this positively influences on bettering land-reclamation condition of lands and augmenting of agricultural crops' harvesting.

Thus, under leadership of the President Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov, the Turkmen people have gained sustainable and dynamic development of all branches of the national economy. Day from day, the economy of country is getting strengthened, grounded on up-to-date industry, innovative technologies, foremost experience, many centuries' national traditions. New deeds and undertakings expect us in future. At the first Session of newly created Cabinet of Ministers of Turkmenistan, held on February 24, 2012 Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov approved the programme of the President of Turkmenistan on socio-economic development of the country until 2012–2016 where priorities of the state development for the nearest 5 years have been reflected, ensuring augmenting of its power. It envisaged measures on further accelerated development of the national economy, raising the investment motion and creation of highly technological productions. «Our objective, – the Nation's Leader Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov stated, – is to build up on stable foundation strong, prosperous, highly developed, competitive country – Turkmenistan of the 21st century. Among primary tasks there is turning Turkmenistan into prevailingly agrarian country and industrial power... It means that everywhere not just new plants will be raised but industrial giants with finished production cycle and installed with the premium technology⁵³.

It embodies mentality and national spirit of Turkmen people, from time immemorial worshipped principles of order, peacefulness and friendship. These words of the Turkmen Leader outline fruitful character of gradually developing long term collaboration of our country with the leading specialized establishments and UN structures. In Turkmenistan agencies, programs and funds of UN successfully run as well as UN Regional Centre for Preventive Diplomacy for Central Asia.

On the international arena, neutral Turkmenistan is interpreted as generator of constructive initiatives, advancing formation of new world model where interrelation of national aspirations and mutual balance of interests serve for the global benefit of mankind. They found total support and recognition of the Nation Community.

Making speech at the 66th Session of UN General Assembly on September 23, 2011, the President of Turkmenistan stated the main objective, set before the world community in the 3rd millennium and seeing future of our planet in laconic but extremely informative phrase – «World Through Development». He underlined that at fulfillment of this large-scale goal, our country is relied on tremendous experience, will, mind and wisdom of the Community of Nations. Precisely telling about creative initiatives, aimed at strengthening of peace, security and development in the regional and global perspectives, the Head of State made suggestion on working out the Declaration on priority application of political-diplomatic aspects at solution of international issues with following examining at the UN General Assembly as well as conduction in 2012 in Ashgabat of the representative forum on security in Central Asia in the Caspian Sea region. It is encouraging that this appeal was unanimously approved by partakers of the world forum, with great concern apprehended initiatives and progressive ideas of Gurbanguly Berdimuhamedov.

The modern world faced with real global threats as local military conflicts, international terrorism, transnational organized crime, religious extremism, having nothing common with true Islam, illegal drug trafficking, pollution of environment and others. Being active participant of efforts of the world community with this evil, representing serious danger for entire humankind, and in all round fighting against it, Turkmenistan not only decisively claims acts of violence and terrorism, racism, religious and political extremism, but undertakes strict legislative and practical measures on struggle against this awful evil and prevention of its spreading. Our state considers that adequate reply for ominous calls of contemporary world requires collective decisions on the basis of mutual dialogue and cooperation, involvement of international support and their realization. In this trend, the international meeting of Central Asian countries and other states at high level held on November 30, 2011 in the Turkmen capital turned out to be genuine and positive. It concerned realization of the Global counterterrorism UN Strategy in Central Asia, the main results of which became Ashgabat Final Declaration and Joint Action Plan, accurately outlining concrete measures on counteraction of terrorism threat on the ground of integrated approach and solidification of international partnership.

Economic rates in 2010 remained high. Rate of increase in the real gross domestic product (GDP) made up 109,2 %. Policy of diversification of economy, diversification of market of deliveries of energy resources made positive influence on the development of economy in whole. Foreign investments were increased. Inflation was reduced up to 0,1 %. The stable exchange rate is kept in the country.

Fiscal policy, which stimulated mobilization of investment to the real sector of economy and allowed increasing expenses for social programme played an important role in achievement of economic and financial stability. The thoughtful budget policy provided fulfillment of State Budget of the country with considerable excess of income over expenditures. The founded Stabilization Fund made a positive influence on economic situation and stability.

Today, we continue to implement reforms of government financial management, new budgetary legislation and legislation in sphere of improvement of the governmental accounting and financial statement with taking the international standards into account. In all our reforms we pay a primary attention to the introduction of international standards and strengthening of the counteraction against money laundering, acquired by criminal means and terrorism financing.

Banking sector is consecutively reforming as well. Activities aimed at increase of stability, introduction of international standards of financing reporting, growth of capitalization, improvement of banking supervision and regulation are carried out. In the result of it, volumes of credit resources are augmented, liquidity of bank assets are kept, and course to financial maintenance of priorities of the business sector of economy is preserved.

Over the last period, the considerable progress in carrying out the market reforms, accelerating of rates, having the decisive importance in long-term perspective of the stable economic growth is evident.

Saying about positive improvements in state in whole, one can give an interesting and vivid factor here. If, for example, share of agriculture in gross domestic product made up almost 40 % earlier, today, it is reduced up to 10 %, was decreased by four times, but share of industry and construction activity almost grew three times and made today almost 60 % of gross domestic product.

It proves that our country is transiting from the rank of former backward agricultural country to the state with developed industry and modern leading technologies due to realization of reforms on diversification of economy and correspondingly, wellbeing and cultural level of our citizens is growing. This process is going in rather rapid paces.

It is not by chance that in UN human development report it is noted: «that Index of human development, steady growth of which conditioned the impressive position of Turkmenistan raising higher for 22 points in the world rating, made it possible to follow the stable progress of Turkmenistan».

Dear Members of the Cabinet of Ministers! Dear Heads! Despite of vivid positive progress and achieved successes, we must not rest and relax, all the more, to boast of our achievements.

In jubilee year – the 20th Anniversary of the sacred Independence – grandiose tasks, the most important goals of development of our country, keeping high rates of the economic growth and improvement of living standards of our citizens are set before us. I would like to call the main ones:

- search of new directions of development of the country in interests of future generations;

- continuation of our active international policy in accordance with status of permanent Neutrality of our state;

- continuation of diversification of economy, active development of all sectors of national economy of the country;

- issues of continuation of reforms in sphere of culture and education, democratization of society, training of highly-qualified specialists are in the centre of attention of the Government;

- to elaborate and approve the programme of establishing of joint enterprises, installed with equipment, meeting world standards and technologies, wide complex modernization of corresponding industrial enterprises with purpose of production of highly-technological output for gaining the high constituent part of export;

- to continue development of financial-banking system;

- to speed up elaboration of legislative basis on privatization, introduction of private property, further wide support of entrepreneurship by the state with purpose of further development of market economy;

- to provide further development of oil and gas complex, power industry, oil and chemical, gas and chemical and chemical industries, mechanical engineering, production of building materials, light industry, agro-industrial sector, transport and communication, tourism and sphere of services;

- to continue combating drugs is a task of state, the Cabinet of Ministers, law-enforcement agencies, Galkynysh Nationwide (Revival) Movement and all public organizations;

- and, finally, I would like to dwell on issues of improvement of work of all bodies of state administration and introduction of electronic Government;

In brief, these are our common tasks for the current year.

A. Nurberdiyeva, the representative of Mejlis! You must seriously work this year on their realization and adopt laws and bylaws, defining the further advancement of the economic and social processes in the state. I won't dwell on the tasks of Mejlis in detail now, I plan to meet with Mejlis deputies separately, but I consider that such laws like laws on privatization and establishments of various exchanges, on negotiable papers, are already ripe and their absence negatively influences on the development of our economy.

R. Meredov, as of our foreign policy, I have stated all its goals and directions in one of the previous sessions of the Cabinet of Ministers with participation of our diplomatic corps. For this reason, I won't repeat everything but I say that our foreign policy is as the «Open Door» policy as underway and in accordance with the neutral status of our country is aimed at ensuring peace and stability in the region.

Dear Members of the Cabinet of Ministers! Dear Heads! Last year, we practically completed the project-programme of diversification of our foreign economic policy, defined directions of our export gas flows. I would like to note that launching Turkmenistan-Uzbekistan-Kazakhstan-China gas main and one more Turkmenistan-Iran gas pipeline, laying the foundation of another large international project of Turkmenistan-Afghanistan-Pakistan-India gas main, we are ready to supply the European states with gas.

B.Hojamammedov, head of oil and gas complex! This year, you must solve this task. It is necessary to build condensed gas producing and gas processing plants. Transportation of condensed gas does not require laying of different pipelines and for this reason, it is easier to export it in various routes. Processing of condensed gas will make it possible to get polypropylene and other production from it. All this will allow increasing of export of our production, provision of stable receipt of currency resources to the state treasury. It is necessary to make amendments in «Programme on development of oil and gas industry of Turkmenistan until 2030» and submit me for approval at the earliest possible date.

D. Orazov, heads of the construction complex! As known, we have to work much this year on completion of the building projects. The construction programme is very intense. The current jubilee year, the year of the 20th Anniversary of the sacred Independence of our Homeland we have to commission 102 big facilities for sum of 6,2 billion USD.

We must put in commission many social and industrial facilities in accordance with National Programme on reformation of social and living standards of population of villages, townships and cities for sum of 767 million USA dollars. These are large-scale projects, among which there are West–South railroad, gas and oil pipelines, bridges, motor roads, factories and plants, facilities of Avaza resort zone, hospitals and polyclinics, residential communities and other facilities of social and cultural purposes.

In whole, numerous facilities for total sum approximately for 767 million USA dollars will be constructed and commissioned. Our country has not seen yet such large-scale application of capital investments! It also proves the increased might of our economy, good training of national specialists, and efficiency of reforms, implemented in sphere of education. For this reason, our aim is commissioning of high-quality facilities on time.

H. Shagulyev, D.Orazov, M.Yazmuhammedova! It is necessary to provide the commissioning of our new telecomplex in September of the current year. It is your assignment. We must start the transmission of all holiday reportages from new TV centre.

G.Mezilov, H.Saparliyev, D.Orazov! This year, you must begin the building of the industrial park. We plan to attract our and well-known foreign specialists to the work in this new technological centre. I think that there is no particular need to prove necessity and great importance of this centre for development of our science, training of our scientists in different spheres, development of our industry.

M.Akmamedov, Hakims of velayats and etraps! Provision of food abundance in the country is the most important task of agricultural complex. Disposing unbounded ploughed field, Turkmenistan must become a country of advanced agriculture. Successes, obtained last year, must be secured and we must achieve new big crops of agricultural production. Rational use of land and water resources, regional specialization of the agro-industrial complex, introduction of market relations – these and a number of vital issues of the agrarian reforming must get its development in new year. As before, the state guarantees its all-round support, which is expressed in technical re-equipment and modernization of the whole infrastructure of agro-industrial complex and village at large.

We direct colossal investments for development of the regions and provision of the interior of the country with the necessary facilities and it is a guarantee that in the nearest future every etrap, every township will transform, begin a new full-blooded life. As I have said earlier, next year, I intend to visit every etrap centre and separate villages to make sure of efficiency of work of local heads on renovation of our townships and villages.

H. Shagulyev, head of communication and transport sector of economy. Development of communication and transport infrastructure in the country is a goal of particular importance and here, you must implement several grandiose projects this year. You must complete construction of large-scale project – the international railroad of West–South corridor, to continue building of Ashgabat-Garagum-Dashoguz and Turkmenbashi-Farab motor roads, highway bridge over the Amyderya River, reconstruction of airports, and other planned projects. It is necessary to take measures for further development of high-speed communication facilities and Internet.

Dear Members of the Cabinet of Ministers! Dear Heads! We consecutively implement our reforms, paying special attention to the education as a basis for development of not only economy but our society. We understand that today, no one specialist can do without knowing computer, computer programmes in any sector of economy. For this reason, we try to improve the general computer literacy, installing all new and old educational institutions with up-to-date computer rooms, Internet so that our children after finishing educational establishments could get the adequate level of education, comparable with level of education in other states. H.Saparliyev and T.Japarov must study issue of provision of our first-form pupils with free of charge personal computers as well as textbooks.

Our Government also must learn ability to communicate with computer programmes. We set a task to transfer to the creation of electronic Government in the nearest future with purpose of improvement of state governing, which will make it possible to reduce considerably the circulation of the paper documents, to increase speed of information passing, exchange of information and, finally, to reduce considerably time of adoption of decision, and to get rid of unnecessary red tape. This work has been started already in some departments and we have to work much on introduction of electronic documentation in all ministries and departments.

For this reason, our Government also must study, every minister, his deputy, hakims and deputy hakims, heads of enterprises and organizations, editors-in-chief of newspapers and magazines and other heads must use computer well, to carry it to all meetings and sessions. G. Mezilov, I allow you to organize the paid computer courses for training our heads. Place for classes select please together with H.Saparliyev.

After finishing studies it is necessary for everybody to take examination and get certificate. Those who will not pass this examination will have to change their job. Times demand that our heads be competent specialists, good organizers, be an example for all workers in the sector. Requirement, of course, is severe, but it is difficult to manage economy, to obtain high results in development of the country today without it.

H. Saparliyev, it is necessary to introduce the training course on study of bases of computer literacy with taking a state examination in all schools and higher educational establishments, including Academy of State Service.

Dear Members of the Cabinet of Ministers! Dear Heads! We are at the beginning of our way, long and difficult way of turning of our country into the industrial country with developed democracy, with high level of life and the people are ahead of us. Achieved result for last years, successes of 2010, give us confidence that in jubilee year we also will cope with set goals with honour, and make next step to improvement of wellbeing of our people. People say in the Orient: «The walking person will cover a long distance», and I sincerely believe that the started way of reforms will lead us to this cherished goal.

Dear Members of the Cabinet of Ministers! Dear Heads! We complete our meeting. I wish happiness, health and wellbeing to you and your families next year. Thank you for your attention very much.

Speech at the Meeting with the Deputies of the Mejlis of Turkmenistan

(January 20, 2011)

Dear Deputies! You surely remember a detailed discussion about your tasks, fate and path of development of our country which was held here two years ago, when you, the newly elected deputies of the Mejlis of Turkmenistan of the 4th convocation, took up your powers. Since then many changes have taken place. Today we have entered the anniversary year – twenty years since the establishment of our state.

Therefore, I decided to meet with you to consider the results of your work on the implementation of the tasks set before you, consider where and what areas of your activity need to enhance as well as where and what, in our opinion, weaknesses in your activity are.

Our reform policy consistently implemented has given a powerful impetus for the modernization of all areas of Turkmenistan, initiating the radical changes which largely determine the level of both consistency of the state and the maturity of the society. Recently, while holding the enlarged meeting of the Cabinet of Ministers on the results of 2010, I quoted the estimates of the world's leading economic and financial organizations on the state of our economy and good prospects of its further development. We started the anniversary year with the commissioning of a number of social facilities in rural areas and the capital of our country – white marble Ashgabat. These openings and commissioning of dwelling houses and kindergartens, wide-section hospitals and health resorts for children, buildings, universities and cultural complexes, factories will be continued the whole year. The growth of the planned revenues and expenditures of the State Budget for the year increased by a third compared with last year. Since the beginning of the new 2011 year we have increased salaries, pensions, allowances and stipends. I will not reiterate all of the achievements in the development of our country, I will only say that, undoubtedly, your law-making activity has also given an essential support to the reforms.

Within this period 66 Laws of Turkmenistan and 94 Decrees of the Mejlis were adopted. The Mejlis of Turkmenistan managed to enrich the country's legal system with a number of important legal acts that continue the principle course for legislative provision of the policy of the reforms being carried out in accordance with the new Constitution of the country.

However, it should be noted that the deputy corps could not yet fully realize many of the tasks identified at our first meeting.

Here the weak work of deputies on lawmaking should be noted. We can say that 66 laws within two years, if compared with the activities of other parliaments, where up to 500 legislative acts are considered only within one session. This is very few for us, and the quality of laws adopted by the Mejlis leaves much to be desired.

In accordance with the Constitution of Turkmenistan the main goals, to the solution of which the efforts of the deputies of Independent and Neutral Turkmenistan should be directed, first of all, are:

- strengthening of legislative foundation of the democratic, legal and secular state;
- development of economy, science and culture;
- steady improvement of social and living standards of the population;
- provision of the rights and freedoms of the citizen and person, their filling with more weighty material and legal guarantees.

Let's see whether all these areas are in the focus of attention of law-making as well as main activity of our deputies, and whether all has been done for their implementation.

If take the economy, then today in this area, let's say, there is a huge gap of law, there is a lack of:

- new laws, amendment and improvement of the existing ones, which would build a legal foundation of the gradual, phased transition to the market economy;
- formation of the class of private owners and entrepreneurs;
- wide involvement of the population in entrepreneurial activity.

Here there is a need for the legislative acts that specify involvement in leasing the form of work as a realization of the democratic principles of freedom of choice of the forms of business, people's adaption to new economic conditions in connection with the formation and establishment of private owners, provision of the reliable social security of the citizens.

Moreover, some of our deputies seem to have forgotten their core activity, it is the responsibility of deputies to find solutions for the socio-economic tasks of their district in the executive branch.

In this connection I would like to remind you the well-known truth that a deputy is a person elected by a group of citizens to a government body, in this case, to our Mejlis. The task of the deputy, in general, is to represent the interests of citizens, electors in power-holding structures, protection of their rights enshrined in the Constitution and laws. That is, the elected deputy of any district which includes residential townships and villages, is obliged, first and foremost, to address the issues of social development of that district from which he/she was elected, engage in the existing tasks of residents, starting with the issues of construction of dwelling houses, schools, hospitals, kindergartens and other social facilities necessary for normal life.

As you know, we have adopted the Presidential Programme for rural development, for the implementation of which billions of manats are allocated annually. In the framework of this programme we have developed a number of townships and built new model townships in each velayat that meet the European standards of living. Today, our deputies have a powerful lever in the form of finance allocated for the solution of the existing social tasks. It seemed that they had only to act. However, instead of that ... I am going to give you a range of examples of unfair practices of both the deputies and representatives of local authorities in addressing the tasks of rural residents. Hence, within three years, the programme for the construction of social-cultural facilities has not been fulfilled or fulfilled for a maximum of 15 % in Ahal velayat – in the city of Abadan, in the etrap of Altyn Asyr, Babadayhan, Kaaka, Serahs, in Balkan velayat – in the city of Kumdag, Garabogaz, Etrek, in the etrap of Magtymguly, in Dashoguz velayat – in the etrap of Gorogly, Saparmurat Turkmenbashi, Boldumsaz, Koneurgench, in Lebap velayat – in the city of Magdanly, in the etraps of Atamyrat, Koytendag, Serdarabat, Hojambaz, Farab, in Mary velayat – in the city of Bayramaly, Vekilbazar, Murgab, Sakarchage, Serhetabat, Turkmengala, in the etrap of Oguzkhan.

The funds allocated for the development of these cities and etraps were withdrawn back to the budget. Here are the deputies elected from the districts which belong to these etraps and cities. They should be asked: «What have you done yourself and what kind of assistance have you provided to local authorities in the implementation of this programme? How do the committees and administration of the Mejlis react to this situation?» If I were the residents of these districts, I would call back such deputies long ago and choose new deputies who really struggle heartily for their people, support the reforms of the President and Government.

The heads of the Mejlis also need to determine why such lenient attitude for some deputies happens. The deputy is a high rank, and one cannot have it just like that, sitting in the Mejlis and without visiting districts, without knowing how people live, without making efforts for the advancement of the reforms. That will not work. Analyze the situation and take measures. I am very dissatisfied with such work of some deputies and the heads of the Mejlis on this issue.

On the contrary, I expected new initiatives from deputies on development of etraps and velayats, our state and our society.

Dear Deputies! There is a lack of relevant laws in the humanitarian sphere, especially the legislative provision of the tasks:

- bringing the level of education and general culture of the population to the best world standards;
- revival of national, cultural values and religious traditions;
- preservation of the cultural heritage of the people with the purpose of passing it to the descendants.

In the ethical sphere, probably we have not touched this theme yet.

We need to adopt legislative acts in the country in order to maintain peace, unity and stability, rooting moral principles peculiar to the developed society, introduction of the principles of healthy lifestyle, increasing of the status of the family, respect for the elders and national shrines.

The work on the implementation of the provisions adopted by Turkmenistan in accordance with international conventions and ratified by us in the country's legislative system is still going slowly. The following are among them:

- further humanization of the system of criminal penalties;
- improvement of the activity of law-enforcement and administrative agencies.

We have adopted a new edition of the Criminal Code of Turkmenistan. The humane policy aimed at liberalization of the criminal legislation has found its worthy reflection in it. A number of criminal offenses, which have been transferred to the rank of the administrative offenses on the legislative level, i.e. non-custodial sentences, has been decriminalized in this document.

At the same time, life practice requires further efforts of deputies in this field. It is, above all, elaboration and adoption of the new Criminal and Executive Code, which will promote the improvement of the activity of the penitentiary system, increase the educational role of penalties for further ensuring the social rehabilitation of the people who have committed faux pas and return them to society as full-fledged and valuable members.

There is a need to accelerate the development of the draft of a new Code of Turkmenistan on Administrative Offences. While developing this legal document it is appropriate to establish liability for violations of environmental, advertising, banking and credit legal relations, legal relations in the field of cultural heritage.

It is necessary to accelerate elaboration of the new Turkmenistan Code on Administrative Offences. It will be purposeful to establish responsibility for offences in the sphere of environmental protection, advertising activity, banking and crediting legal relationship as well as legal relations in the sphere of cultural heritage.

The development of new Code of Civil Procedure of Turkmenistan, which will allow to legislatively define the law enforcement practice in the sphere of civil legislation and promote further development of market relations, protection of material rights of the citizens in the civil legal relations demands the soonest fulfillment.

The current and prospective analysis of legislation which will bring the existing normative acts in compliance with the objectives of the reforms, better protect the rights and freedoms of a person and citizen in our state is also a task of a particular importance.

I believe that there is a need for the improvement of the quality of the adopted law. There is a range of facts when we had to introduce amendments and additions to the legislative acts since the adoption of which only 2–3 months have passed. Therefore, the preparation and adoption of laws by ordinary deputies and chairmen of the Mejlis Committees should be more thoughtful and balanced, without undue haste, it is better to take into account the views of scholars, experts, practitioners, get into closer contact with the newly created State Commission for the development of legislation, which was established by the Decree of the President of Turkmenistan.

As it is known, one of the fundamental rights of citizens in accordance with the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, to which Turkmenistan joined in 1996, is the right of citizens to form political parties. Proceeding from the task of further development of civil society, democratization of a political system as well as it is necessary to accelerate the work on the elaboration of the draft of Turkmenistan Law «On Political Parties» in accordance with international norms and standards, as well as unify the principles of formation of the elective institutions of the civil society by enshrining them in the codified legislative act which will include all election laws.

The Mejlis of Turkmenistan must work more actively also on the issues of the creation of legislative guarantees of the realization of the constitutional right of every person to housing.

In this connection it is necessary to complete the drafting of the new Housing Code of Turkmenistan at the earliest possible date. It should reflect the new level of legal relations that take place in the implementation of rights of citizens to housing guaranteed by the Basic Law, new forms of home ownership of citizens; legally fix the state's new rules of management and operation of dwelling houses and surrounding territory; bring them in compliance with civil law.

It is good that the Mejlis of Turkmenistan could legislatively regulate the constitutional right of citizens to education, adopting the new Law of Turkmenistan «On Education» instead of the old one which appeared two decades ago. But there are other legislative acts, hopelessly obsolete and not corresponding to modern realities, especially the objectives of our radical reforms, including the Law «On State Youth Policy», for the modernization of which the Mejlis has not yet showed any interest.

We believe that in modern conditions there is a need for the revision of a state policy with respect to the younger generation, the developed concept of which must be elaborated with the participation of the Galkynysh National Movement and reflected in new Law.

The Mejlis of Turkmenistan must work more purposefully on the issues of renovation of family legislation. Our state rightly considers family as the primary unit of society and believes that it is important to focus the efforts of the Mejlis on the elaboration of the Draft of the Family Code of Turkmenistan, which should reflect the modern concept of family, marriage, protection of maternity and childhood as key aspects of social relations.

In consideration of the economic and social goals of the modern period of development of the Turkmen society and state and perspective programme until 2030, it is required to modernize legislation of banking, intellectual property, environmental protection and other fields.

Successful implementation of the programmes of socio-economic development of the country directly depends on successful and efficient work of the bodies of the state authority and administration. And their activities in modern conditions are directly related to introduction of a complex of means of automation of office work and document management into these bodies. The recent Decree of the Government of Turkmenistan on the Electronic Document Management is directed to this aim.

The introduction of electronic office work and document management will make a significant contribution to the improvement of management efficiency. This is due to increased efficiency in obtaining necessary information by the officials of bodies of management, availability of control over forwarding documents, consistency of execution of incoming documents, provision of integration and information exchange systems, electronic documents of various government bodies as a whole. But the creation of such complex system in all respects will be possible only with corresponding legal basis. This direction also must be one of the priorities in the work of deputies in the current year.

Dear Deputies! All of you are well aware that the neutral status of our state delegated by the United Nations defines its role as a country that makes a significant contribution to stability and security in the region and world. All this serves as a factor stipulating development of the national legislation.

In this regard, the Mejlis must continue to work actively on the modernization of legislation of foreign policy and bring it in compliance with the new edition of the Constitution of Turkmenistan, world legal standards because, at present, we have a number of laws adopted at the dawn of independence of our country, and, certainly, they do not meet the urgent requirements of the present day.

At present, taking into account the active role of Turkmenistan in international relations, the revision of laws is vital, such as:

- «On Consular Service of Turkmenistan»;
- «On Status of Diplomatic Missions of Turkmenistan Abroad»;
- «On Legal Status of Foreign Citizens in Turkmenistan.»

Guided by the international obligations of Turkmenistan undertaken as a permanently neutral state, and taking into consideration a need for further integration of Turkmenistan in the international political and economic space, it is necessary to systematically conduct detailed analysis of the legal norms that are contained in the international treaties, agreements and conventions of Turkmenistan. This will allow the Mejlis to actively maintain a high level of legislative work by rigorously studying positive world experience in the field of parliamentary activity.

It is necessary to keep a close contact with foreign experts and legal scholars and utilize best foreign practices in law-making in the course of preparation for each project which is to apply into the legislative basis of the state.

In accordance with the neutral status of our country, we pay great attention to the development of cooperation in various fields with the authoritative international organizations, their structures as well as regional organizations.

In recent times our bilateral relations in different fields with foreign states have gained further development, they are particularly significant in trade and economic fields. I pointed out this at the session of the Cabinet of Ministers of Turkmenistan held in December of last year and brought to the attention of our diplomatic representatives.

Currently, the possibility of opening trade representations, the development of cultural cooperation, the introduction of new forms and methods of cultural contacts are under study.

In this connection it is necessary to develop the laws that form legal bases for the diplomatic service and regulate certain aspects of the foreign office of the country by taking into account the responsibility of the employees of diplomatic and consular offices.

Dear Deputies! At the 65th Session of UN General Assembly I put forward initiatives aimed at provision of security in Central Asia and the Caspian Sea basin and attaching permanent nature to the political cooperation of the states situated in the region in the form of establishment of the structure corresponding to the functions of the OSCE. The Mejlis of Turkmenistan should take an active role in the implementation of these initiatives, using the inter-parliamentary dialogue and cooperation.

The interrelations established by the Mejlis of Turkmenistan with UN specialized agencies, in particular with the UNDP, including cooperation on development of law-making activity, improvement of the work of local authorities, must be continued.

It is expedient to take advantage of currently established inter-parliamentary relations in the activity of informing the world community about the different directions of foreign policy and international initiatives of our country as well as objective, reliable information on various aspects of the life of Turkmenistan.

In short, having thousands of year historical experience of the development of our people, their ancient unique traditions, everlasting spiritual values and great achievements of the nation, which formed the cultural heritage of all mankind, the activity of the Mejlis of Turkmenistan on legislative provision in the epoch of reforms and changes must be multifaceted, aimed at solution of tasks of the promotion of further dynamic economic and social development of our country, further strengthening its international prestige.

We are confident that the heads of the Mejlis, the deputies of the legislative body of Turkmenistan will draw relevant conclusions from the critic, direct all their efforts, experience and expertise to service to the people, realizing well that the prosperity of our beloved Homeland in the 21st century – the Golden Age of the Turkmen people will depend on this.

Thank You for attention!

To the Participants of the International Scientific Conference «The Origin of the Turkmen People and the History of Development of World Culture»

(February 23, 2011)

Dear Scientists! Dear Guests – the Participants of the International Scientific Conference! I heartily congratulate You on the opening of the international scientific conference «The origin of the Turkmen people and the history of development of world culture! I am confident that interesting and valuable scientific ideas about the rich history of the origin and formation of the early hearths of human civilization in Turkmenistan, the ethnogenesis of the Turkmens dating back to antiquity, the material and spiritual values of the people who made a significant contribution to the development of world culture, analytical reports on the topical issues of archeology, anthropology and ethnography will be presented at the international scientific conference.

Dear Scientists! History, material and spiritual values are the national pride of every nation. They provide invaluable evidence of the past of each nation with the sources of its origin dating back to antiquity and define the role of this ethnicity in the development of world civilization. Turkmenistan is of interest to scientists because every inch of its holy land is the most valuable site for archaeological excavation and scientific research works.

The territory of independent and neutral Turkmenistan is the place where one of the earliest agricultural civilizations existed. Here the ancient tribes and peoples of Saks, Massagetes, Scythians, Dah, Chionites, Achaemenids used to habituate. This land is the Homeland of the Turkmen people, which has preserved ethnic and historical integrity for thousands of years, and which has enormously contributed to the political, cultural, spiritual, and economic development of the world since ancient time.

The traces of primitive society are all sorts of devices and weapons made of stone and metal, the images on the stone, graves, palace and temple complexes of early agricultural and urban cultures that confirm the interaction of the ancient cultures of Elam, Harappa, Sumer, patterned felted mats and rugs, clay female figurines, ivory beads, and other emerging evidences that increase a list of written and archaeological sources, opened Turkmenistan to the world as the country that absorbed the glorious past of all mankind. They are of great interest to historians, archaeologists, ethnographers, anthropologists and other representatives of the humanities. We are proud that today the glorious history of Turkmenistan, which is known for its peacefulness and openness, unique culture and national values of the Turkmen people, unite and bring together the countries and peoples in many issues.

Dear Scientists! Cultural heritage defines national identity and the basis of the spiritual traditions of each people. Today, our rich and multifaceted national heritage, dating back to antiquity, historical and cultural monuments that have great cultural and scientific value present the Turkmen people to the world as one of the most ancient peoples and our country as the hearth of early development of science and culture. And we are immensely proud of the fact that we are the descendants of those who made an invaluable contribution to world culture, cultural and spiritual development of mankind.

In the epoch of New Revival and great transformations, we conduct comprehensive work aimed to advocate the national values of the Turkmen people on a global level, identify and popularize the principles of humanity, friendship and brotherhood. We have made significant strides in this field thanks to the provision of ample possibilities at the state level, a new approach to the preservation and popularization of the national heritage of the people, the systematic organization of international scientific conferences and festivals.

At present, in Turkmenistan dozens of research projects are being conducted in order to preserve the monuments which have not been taken into account and thoroughly studied and a rich historical and cultural heritage for future generations, conduct in-depth study in the spirit of contemporary realities and make them known to the world community. The participation of international scientific expeditions from the United States, Italy, France, Germany, the Russian Federation, Korea, Japan and other countries in the restoration work of the historical and cultural reserves of Turkmenistan – Nisa, Dehistan, Merv, Koneurgench, Sarahs, Amul, Abiverd, Anew and dozens of other monuments serves as an evidence of successful international cooperation in this field. The fact that the scientists from more than forty countries applied for the participation in current international scientific conference also confirms a close collaboration of our scientists with the international scientific community. All this confirms the world's appreciation of our national science and cultural and spiritual heritage of the people.

Dear Scientists! Dear Guests – the Participants of the International Scientific Conference! Once again I heartily congratulate You on the opening of the international scientific conference «The origin of the Turkmen people and the history of development of world culture!» I wish you good health, family welfare, infinite scientific and creative inspiration and success in the work of the international scientific conference!

To the Participants of the International Scientific Conference «Ecological Aspects of Trans-Caspian Pipelines»

(February 28, 2011)

Dear Participants of the International Conference! Dear Friends! I heartily congratulate You on the opening of the International Scientific Conference on «Ecological Aspects of Trans-Caspian Pipelines» in the capital of independent and neutral Turkmenistan, in the beautiful city of Ashgabat! I wish success in the work of the conference on ecological security of the Caspian Sea and the Trans-Caspian pipelines!

Turkmenistan maintains close relationship with the Caspian states on the principles of friendship and positive good neighbourliness. The Caspian region is strategically important region. The development of comprehensive cooperation and mutually concerted actions in this region meet long-term interests of all Caspian states.

Our position at the third meeting of the heads of the Caspian states at top level on the issue of laying pipelines under the Caspian Sea, as well as, along with the agreement of the corresponding parties, the need for compliance with international ecological standards during construction and operation of the pipelines originates from our goal to ensure their stability and security, having established a consistent multifaceted interaction between these states.

With a huge respect to the achievements of the world community in the field of conservation of ecology and protection of the environment, Turkmenistan participates in numerous international conferences in this field. Our country pays considerable attention to the documents on the conservation of the ecosystem of the Caspian Sea.

These agreements can be considered as a joint success of the Caspian states, they show a vast opportunity for interstate cooperation. In this regard, the main challenge facing our countries is the skillful use of these opportunities for the purpose of ensuring of protection of the environment and ecology of the Caspian Sea.

Turkmenistan precisely observes its commitments in this area and together with the Programme of the United Nations on the protection of environment, the Caspian Ecological Programme, the World Ecological Fund and other international organizations and funds carries out major projects on nature protection.

Dear Guests! We must proceed from the understanding that the Caspian region is a unique, rare natural complex with a unique ecosystem. This complex includes the Caspian Sea, rivers flowing to it, coastal areas and other natural ecosystems. The flora and fauna of the Caspian Sea require very careful and cautious approach. Therefore, it is necessary to unite efforts of the Caspian states and international organizations to address relevant environmental issues. In order to protect the Caspian environment from possible adverse effects of economic activity and factorial situations it is necessary to seek out and develop international legal methodology, practical measures to counteract these influences. The Framework Convention for the Protection of Environment of the Caspian Sea serves as good base for this work.

In 2007–2008, chairing the Commission on water biological resources of the Caspian Sea, Turkmenistan offered new methods for the rules of use of biological resources. Our country stands for peaceful, diplomatic and legal methods of solving the problem of delimitation of the bed the Caspian Sea and bedding of subterranean resources.

Here, it is appropriate to recall that the first high level summit of the heads of Turkmenistan, the Republic of Azerbaijan, the Islamic Republic of Iran, the Republic of Kazakhstan and the Russian Federation on the consideration of the issues related to the Caspian Sea was held in Ashgabat in 2002.

The highest international ecological standards and norms should be observed during the construction of underwater trans-Caspian pipelines. I believe that the work of this conference is useful and efficient for undertaking these works.

I am confident that this conference dedicated to the ecological aspects of trans-Caspian pipelines will be considerable aid in the search for concrete ways of the solution of this important issue, due to which we can get closer to the common goal of turning the Caspian Sea into the region of peace and prosperity.

Dear Participants of the Conference! Dear Friends! Once again I heartily congratulate You on the opening of the International Scientific Conference on «Ecological Aspects of Trans-Caspian Pipelines»! I wish each of you good health, long life, prosperity and great success in this work!

To the Participants of the International Scientific Conference «Oil and Gas of Turkmenistan–2011»

(March 3, 2011)

Dear Participants of the International Scientific Conference! Dear Friends! I heartily congratulate You on the opening of the International Scientific Conference «Oil and Gas of Turkmenistan–2011» held in one of the most rapidly developing countries – Singapore, and I wish You great success in the work of the conference!

Today, the conduction of such an important scientific forum at the international level, outside of our state is a clear indication of interest to Turkmenistan – one of the leading countries in terms of the volume of oil and gas resources as well as confirmation of the growing number of those willing to establish mutually beneficial cooperation with us.

Our ideas and position on the need to reach a broad and secure international agreement on socio-economic, energy, ecological issues announced from the rostrum of the General Assembly of the United Nations have found broad support of the international community. Huge reserves of hydrocarbon resources as well as favourable environment for foreign investment were the main arguments of the international recognition of Turkmenistan as large energy power of the world. Currently, we do not only effectively use the enormous deposits of natural resources for the improvement of welfare of our people, but also plan to direct them for the benefit of all mankind. Large-scale measures on the diversification of the routes of delivery of natural gas to international markets carried out in accordance with a new energy strategy serves as a confirmation of that.

Dear Friends! Today we are proud to say that Turkmenistan is the land of overwhelming natural riches and one of the largest and mightiest oil powers of the world. Our country enjoys a high international reputation as a reliable and promising partner due to its geopolitical, economic status, myriad reserves of hydrocarbon resources not only on land but also in the depths of the Turkmen sector of the Caspian Sea.

The meeting of the heads of the states-participants of the project of the construction of the gas pipeline Turkmenistan–Afghanistan–Pakistan–India held in Ashgabat gave a powerful impetus to its implementation. This is confirmed by regular meetings of the technical working groups of the four states.

For account of the construction of trans-Caspian pipeline Turkmenistan intends to develop cooperation in the energy sector with the states of Europe as well. Productive dialogue between Turkmenistan and the European Union on the issues of supplies of Turkmen gas to the European direction gave impetus to the implementation of this project. The International Scientific Conference «Ecological Aspects of Trans-Caspian Pipelines» successfully held in Ashgabat is a successful beginning of the work implemented in this direction. The commissioning of East–West pipeline, whose construction is currently underway with high rates, will unite the country's all gas fields in a single ring and, thus, improve the reliability of supplies of Turkmen gas to international markets.

The results of studies and calculations of Turkmen geologists on the determination of the reserves of natural gas of the field South Yoloten – Osman located in the south-east of the country, according to which the amount of gas in this deposit exceeds 21 trillion cubic meters, are encouraging. It opens up broad prospects for international trade and economic cooperation of Turkmenistan. Mutually beneficial agreements with several foreign companies for nearly 10 billion US dollars have been concluded for the development of this field. At present, the increasing number of those willing to buy Turkmen natural gas creates broad prospects for further strengthening of the national economy.

Dear Participants of the Conference! The objectives of this international conference is further development of effective and mutually beneficial cooperation of Turkmenistan with the countries of Asia and the Pacific, attraction of investment and gas companies in the projects being carried out in our country as well as introduction of innovative technologies presently being utilized in world practice.

Once again I heartily congratulate You on the opening of the International Scientific Conference «Oil and Gas of Turkmenistan–2011»! I wish each of you good health, long life, prosperity and success in your activities.

Congratulations to the Workers of Water Industry, Rural Workers and the People of Turkmenistan on the Holiday «A Drop of Water – a Grain of Gold»

(April 2, 2011)

Dear Workers of Water Industry! Dear Compatriots! I heartily congratulate You on one of the great celebrations of the epoch of New Revival and great transformations – the Holiday «A Drop of Water – a Grain of Gold»!

Sacred water, considered a source of existence and welfare at all times, gives life to all things in nature, paints and develop a person's life, turns steppes to the blossoming gardens. And the fact that our ancestors compared every drop of life-giving water with a grain of gold is a clear indication of the reverence of the Turkmen people to sacred water.

In order to carefully and rationally use water, our ancestors built large hydro facilities of original design and were able to preserve every drop of water as a source of life.

And, nowadays, we also make every effort for the careful and efficient use of water; for this purpose widely introducing conserving technology, the latest achievements of science and best practices into the water industry of the country. Following the footsteps of our ancestors who have been able to grow generous yields in their native land, we successfully implement an ambitious programme for greening our country and turning it into a blooming garden. Thanks to this work good results have been achieved in the agriculture of the country, including water industry.

Among the strategic important major hydraulic facilities and systems built and commissioned in our independent country for the last few years, we should mention first of all Altyn Asyr Turkmen lake, an additional irrigation canal in Balkan velayat, Bagir water storage reservoir in Ruhabat etrap, basin for water filtration of Gundogar drinking water plant in Ak Bugday etrap and Yylgynagyz main machine channel in Lebap velayat. At present, the second phase of Altyn Asyr Turkmen Lake is being constructed at an accelerated pace. And though the dumping of salt water into the lake has began only recently, the work of drainage system of the country returned to normal condition, the level of groundwater reduced due to which the reclamation condition of land improved, crop yield increased, the Garagum desert enriched with flora and fauna.

Our sovereign Motherland implements systematic measures for the promotion of international cooperation in water management. The initiatives put forward by Turkmenistan are widely supported by neighbouring countries. A good example of that is the construction of water distribution centre on the river Tejen on the border between our two countries together with the Islamic Republic of Iran. At present, Turkmenistan cooperates with several major international organizations on the issues of the use of water resources.

The goal of the ensuring of the abundance of food in the country is among our priority objectives and we conduct serious activities in this field. The workers of water industry largely contributed to the successful solution of these tasks. In order to enable hydro constructors to build important facilities with high productivity, we regularly buy the most powerful and advanced technology from leading manufacturers for the industry, create favourable conditions for the workers of water industry. The Turkmen state will continue to take steps in this direction.

For further improving the living standards of the population, systematic improvement of its water supply, we have adopted the General Programme for the supply of drinking water to all human settlements of Turkmenistan. During the implementation of this programme new facilities of drinking water using modern techniques and technologies will be built, and the population will be fully provided with high-quality drinking water that meets international quality standards.

I am convinced that the brave workers of the country's water industry will continue to work selflessly for the successful solution of the tasks set before them.

Dear Workers of Water Industry! Dear Compatriots! Once again I heartily congratulate You on the holiday «A Drop of Water – A Grain of Gold!» I wish each of you a happy and secure life, family well-being and success in your hard work on the preservation of an abundance of water in our rivers, lakes and reservoirs!

Let there be full-flowing rivers on our sunny land forever and let every drop of water fallen on our blessed land bring prosperity to the families of our citizens, turning into a grain of gold!

In order to achieve the goal the state directs significant investments for the construction of modern sports schools, stadiums and other facilities for sports and public recreation, including the formation of developed tourism industry as well as the modernization of existing facilities in this area.

The material culture we inherited is a visible embodiment of the glorious path traversed by the Turkmen people since ancient times. Our ancestors known around the world – Oguzkhan, Gorkut Ata, Gorogly Beg, Chagry Beg, Togrul Beg, Alp Arslan, Myaliksha, Sultan Sanjar, Jelaledin, our holy murids – Meana Baba, Hoja Yusup Hemedani, Hoja Ahmet Yasavy, Nejmeddin Kubra and many other famous persons left immortal traits in the history of Oriental nations. It is impossible to overestimate the significance of genuine schools of wisdom of our great ancestors in the patriotic education of the younger generation. That's why today we create beautiful artistic park complexes, erect monuments and regularly conduct scientific forums devoted to historical and cultural heritage in honour of these outstanding persons.

The Turkmen state pays special attention to the consistent implementation of measures for deeper study, protection, restoration and promotion of its cultural and historical sites – our ancient material culture. In the epoch of New Revival the Turkmen archaeologists together with foreign experts successfully conduct excavations in Yylgynly-Depe, Gonur-Depe, Ajyguyy, Ulug-Depe and the Old Nisa. Rare findings on these ancient monuments increase the number of priceless artifacts of our modern museums.

Speech at the 1st Meeting of the International Akhalteke Horse-Breeding Association

(Ashgabat, April 22, 2011)

Dear Members of the International Akhalteke Horse-Breeding Association! Ladies and Gentlemen! Dear Guests! Today, we are holding our first meeting. I am addressing all members of the International Akhalteke Horse-Breeding Association with words «Welcome to the fertile Turkmen land – the homeland of world famous Akhalteke horses!» Taking this opportunity, I would like to wish good health, well-being and great success in the activity aimed at promoting horse breeding and popularizing Akhalteke horses all over the world!

In the course of this meeting we are going to consider a number of issues and award membership diplomas to the Turkmen and foreign organizations and horse breeding associations which have expressed the willingness to join our Association. We are also going to adopt the work plan of the Association for 2012 and set the date and venue for the second meeting of the International Akhalteke Horse-Breeding Association.

Taking this opportunity, I would like to invite you to take part in the celebrations of the Turkmen Horse Day.

While visiting our country and participating in the activities organized to mark the Turkmen Horse Day, you will witness our people's profound respect for Akhalteke horses – our national pride, important role of horses in our life and know in detail about the large-scale work carried out in our country to promote horse-breeding.

Dear Members of the International Akhalteke Horse-Breeding Association! As I have said before, we are holding our first meeting today. Considering the significant importance of this meeting in promoting horse breeding, to some extent, it can be called historical. Because by founding the International Akhalteke Horse-Breeding Association we lay the firm foundation for the preservation and increase of the livestock of Akhalteke horses and popularization of the Akhalteke breed or as people call them the «aristocrats of the horse world».

Numerous connoisseurs and admirers of this ancient horse breed are taking part in our first session. That's why I am not going to dwell on the history of this breed.

The depictions of Akhalteke horses can be found on various dishes, coins, in ruins of ancient buildings, rare manuscripts, preserved from the remotest antiquity till our time. They can be read about in the manuscripts of Egyptian Pharaohs and in the chronicle and writings of the prominent scholars and writers of the ancient times, including Herodotus, Strabo, Aristotle, Homer, Ovidius, Vergilius, Xenophon and others.

Our ancestors made much effort for consistent perfection of fast horses that compete with the wind and everyday care for them. They treated horses with deep respect and regarded amazingly wonderful and noble fast horses as the closest and devoted friends. Our words are fully confirmed by inspiring glorification of the horse in our ancient epic «Gorogly» «On the day of the battle you are a friend of a courageous jigit, I prayed to God not for an heir but for you, you are the dearest and closest to me».

The heavenly horses are treated in a special way in their ancient homeland, the Turkmen land. While creating the national symbols at the dawn of independence of our Motherland, we found it appropriate to depict the majestic image of the horse as an unsurpassed value in the centre of the National Emblem of Turkmenistan.

We do much in our country to preserve and increase the population of our horses, carry out the large-scale and important work to popularize them. We take the decision to celebrate annually the Turkmen Horse Day at the national level in April, in spring when our country becomes especially beautiful. This illustrates the reverence we have for our «heavenly horses». On April 24, we will simultaneously put into operation four equestrian complexes in a grand atmosphere in the velayats of the country. These complexes are supplied with state-of-the-art equipment, meeting the international standards; they provide the conditions conducive to promoting equestrian sport.

On the days when the main holiday of our country – the 20th anniversary of our sacred independence will be widely and in a grand manner celebrated throughout the country, we will put into operation a new, large equestrian complex equipped in compliance with international standards here, near Ashgabat.

The work on promotion of horse breeding is carried out in our country on a more expanding scale. Conferences, exhibitions, horse beauty contests and other activities devoted to horses are conducted on regular basis in the country. We train specialists and scientists in horse breeding at our institutions of higher education. We will continue to take the necessary measures to promote equestrian sport in the country and involve our youth in going into this sport.

Dear Members of the International Association of Akhalteke Horse Breeding! As the President of Turkmenistan and Chairman of the International Association Akhalteke Horse Breeding, I firmly believe that with your support we will speed up our work on promotion of horse breeding, conduct the scientific study of Akhalteke horses, preserve breed purity and contribute to the popularization of Akhalteke horses – the «heavenly» horses.

Our ultimate goals are to concert and coordinate the efforts of the specialists and connoisseurs of Akhalteke horses, organize and hold meetings, various conferences, horse races and international horse shows.

One of the major tasks set before the Association members is to preserve the breed purity of Akhalteke horses, increase the competitiveness of the Akhalteke breed among the other sport breeds as well as establish and expand close contacts and mutually advantageous cooperation between countries, organizations, firms and private individuals on promotion of Akhalteke horses. I believe that the Association members will apply every effort, diligence and labour to fulfill these tasks.

Another major task set before us is to compile the studbook – the international studbook of purebred Akhalteke horses. I firmly believe that you will make a worthy contribution to this important work that will have a positive impact on the fate of Akhalteke horses.

A new epoch in the history of Akhalteke horse breeding started after the foundation of International Association of Akhalteke Horse Breeding last August. After the Association was founded, the interest of horse breeders and scientists, who conduct the science-based study the «heavenly» horses and carry out the horse breeding activity, in our country and Turkmen horses aroused in many countries of the world.

This shows that our initiative to found the International Association of Akhalteke Horse Breeding is widely supported in all over the world. I firmly believe that admirers of Akhalteke horses and specialists who arrive on our hospitable and sunny land from different countries of the world will significantly contribute to the study of purebred horses, breeding and the increase of the horse livestock.

Today, an increasing number of horse breeders from the Russian Federation, France, Germany, Sweden, Hungary, England, the United States, Uruguay, Australia, the Islamic Republic of Iran, the People's Republic of China and dozens of other states willing to join our Association makes us particularly happy.

As the President of Turkmenistan, I want to assure you that our Government will provide overall assistance and support so that the activity of the International Association of Akhalteke Horse Breeding can be organized properly and carried out successfully.

The fame of Turkmen horses – renowned Akhalteke horses is spread all over the world from century to century. Our heavenly horses are the value that is compared with nothing in the world. We will continue to take care of purebred horses, which have become our national pride and amaze by their beauty, and maintain the horse breeding traditions inherited from our ancestors in order to pass them to the younger generations and strengthen their love for horse breeding.

Thank you for attention.

(May 9, 2011)

My Dear People! Dear Veterans of War! I heartily congratulate You on the holiday of all people of goodwill who are committed to the ideas of peace, unity, friendship and fraternity – the 66th Anniversary of Great Victory in Patriotic War of 1941–1945! Dear Compatriots! The years of Great Patriotic War of 1941–1945 entered the history of mankind as the time of the most severe tests and irreparable losses. This bloody war, which lasted 1,418 days, caused non-healing wounds to millions of people and brought innumerable calamities and sufferings to many nations, including Turkmenistan. In independent neutral Turkmenistan there is no home that has not suffered a heavy loss in this war, no family that has not lost relatives and friends.

In the early days of the war thousands of Turkmens left for front as volunteers, showed high patriotism and courage in the fierce battles. For the courage and heroism displayed in the fields of fierce battles of the Great Patriotic War many citizens of Turkmenistan have been awarded the title of Hero, thousands of soldiers were awarded orders and medals.

The women who remained in a rear, the elderly and children worked in the name of Great Victory day and night, sparing no efforts. Having demonstrated a high model of humanism, Turkmen women handed over 7392 kilograms of various jewelry and about 1.5 million warm clothes to the Defense Fund.

It will take years, but the memory of the unprecedented heroism of our heroic veterans who won the historic victory in the bloody battles of the World War II, and the selfless work of our women devoted to their sacred hearths will live forever in the hearts of present and future generations. A vivid confirmation of that is the creation of remarkable images of the heroic sons of the Turkmen people and their young wives – now gray-haired mothers who have been a model of loyalty to their homes – in a movie and theatre art, music and song works that praise their virtue and strength, the edition of the multi-volume books «Hatyra» (Memory) and «Shohrat» (Glory) based on documentary sources.

My Dear People! Unprecedented courage and bravery displayed by the participants of the Great Patriotic War of 1941–1945 in the battlefields, the heroism of our glorious sisters and mothers – now gray-haired women – who approached the Great Victory closer by their selfless labour, their memories of the harsh years of the war years, the persistence and fortitude of the people, instructions for safeguard and protection of the native land are of great importance in educating the younger generation in the spirit of selfless love for their native Motherland, high morality and courage, in strengthening peace and unity. For the heroic path of the life of the veterans of the war and labour is the true school of patriotism, boundless devotion to the native land and valiant service to the sacred Motherland, the people and all humanity.

We revere the unprecedented heroism of the valiant veterans of the Great Patriotic War, who defended a happy life on earth, withstood the trials and heroism of our mothers – selfless toilers of a rear – with honour. The veterans of the war and labour are in the centre of attention of the Turkmen state. The state takes care for them and attaches a special significance on the creation of decent living conditions for them. The memory of the heroic defenders of the Homeland who have laid down their lives for establishment of peace and freedom throughout the world, their virtue and glory will live forever in the hearts of present and future generations!

My Dear People! Dear Veterans of War! Speech at the Opening Ceremony of the Monument of the Constitution of Turkmenistan

(May 18, 2011)

Dear Compatriots! Ladies and Gentlemen! Dear Guests! We are here today to participate in holiday celebrations on the occasion of the national holiday – the Day of the Constitution of Turkmenistan and the Day of Revival, Unity and Poetry Magtymguly Fragi. I sincerely congratulate You all on this holiday! I wish You good health, family, happy life and success in your work!

Dear Compatriots! Ladies and Gentlemen! Dear Guests! Three years has passed since the day when the foundation was laid for the Monument of the Constitution. And today in the capital, there is a new facility designed to be a unique architectural decoration of the modern look of Ashgabat. White marble monument erected in honour of the Basic Law of our country is a beautiful work of architectural art of the epoch of New Revival.

This grandiose architectural and artistic complex built in the name of great purposes, having a unique appearance and unique design, is equipped with all engineering and technology systems. It became the major social and political centre that performs the ideological and educational, cultural and educative functions. This facility, which includes the Museum of the History of the Constitution of Turkmenistan, a library, a cinema hall, spacious rooms for conferences, exhibitions and other events, will turn into one of the most visited places in the capital. Not only the residents of our city but also guests will visit it with great pleasure. Every year celebrations on the Day of the Constitution of Turkmenistan as well as other cultural events will take place near the monument.

Dear Compatriots! Ladies and Gentlemen! Dear Guests! At present, Turkmenistan on the eve of a great holiday – the 20th anniversary of the sacred state independence – is preparing to commemorate this event with great labour victories.

In a short span of time since gaining independence, the Turkmen people, who revere the Constitution, respecting and observing laws, adhering to democratic values and observing human rights, created a distinctive model of the nation-state. Successfully implementing ambitious programmes and projects aimed at ensuring the welfare and prosperity of the beloved Motherland, courageous Turkmen people confidently build their happy life and create the bright future.

Attaching special importance and honouring the country's Basic Law, on May 18 of each year the Turkmenians celebrate the Day of the Constitution of Turkmenistan, together with the celebration of the Day of Revival, Unity and Poetry Magtymguly Fragi. Exactly 19 years ago, a very important document – the Constitution of the sovereign Homeland, which, as the basis of all legislation of the country, identified the social and political system of independent Turkmenistan, was adopted. And it is deeply symbolic that we celebrate the Day of the Constitution of Turkmenistan together with the Day of Revival, Unity and Poetry Magtymguly Fragi. Because this festival symbolizes the fulfillment of the dream of the great Turkmen poet-philosopher about a sovereign Turkmen state, prosperous life of friendly and united native people, about the recognition of our independent Homeland in the whole world. The ideas of the great poet, perceived by his contemporaries as the spiritual Constitution of the nation, being an integral part of universal human values, are close and dear to all the peoples who live in different corners of our planet.

That is why the monuments of the great Turkmen thinker set up not only in all parts of our country but also in the Russian Federation, Ukraine, Iran and other countries indicate the importance attached to the philosophical views of Magtymguly worldwide. The foundations of his philosophy reflected in the Basic Law of independent neutral Turkmenistan.

Absorbing the rich experience of the state system in our country and around the world, the new edition of the Constitution of Turkmenistan focused on the critical tasks of building of a democratic, legal and secular state, socially oriented, creating a market economy and ensuring a high level of social and living conditions of people. The Basic Law of Turkmenistan defined the further spiritual improvement of society and socio-economic development as the most important conditions for the solution of these tasks.

The adoption of the new Constitution, becoming the most important event in the political life of Turkmenistan, meant the end of the transitional period in the historical development of the country and the beginning of a new epoch. As the legal foundation of the state system, the Constitution incorporates the political and legal norms of the future development of the country, programme areas and ways of solving social tasks. Fulfilling political, legal, ideological and humanitarian functions, the Basic Law of Turkmenistan became a major unifying force in life of the society. The Constitution gives a strong impetus to the creative potential of the nation by contributing to rapid and comprehensive development of the state, creates important conditions for successful implementation of large-scale reforms that cover all spheres of the life of the country.

In the new era the courageous people of Turkmenistan build their happy life, make every effort for the prosperity of the country, live and work, following the Constitution of the independent neutral Motherland. In accordance with the Basic Law the state plays a leading role in the social and political, economic, social and spiritual life of Turkmenistan. The policy and extensive work carried out by the state are aimed at developing the national economy, strengthening of the defense of the Motherland, the broad integration of Turkmenistan in the international system of coordinates, the solidarity of the society, the full and harmonious development of personality, significant increase in the level of welfare of the people.

As the foundation of the legal system, a source of national legislation, the country's Basic Law is the guarantor of the rule of law, observance of rights and freedoms of citizens and serves as complex modernization of the state, strengthening of its political foundations, and accelerated advancement of society on the path of democratization. Currently, we pay a great attention to carrying out large-scale democratic transformations, strengthening the foundations of democracy, the formation of modern civil society, the definition of the directions and patterns of development, the creation of conditions for the active participation of citizens in the implementation of comprehensive and long-term reforms.

Furthermore, we attach a great importance to the establishment of legislative bases, ensuring the implementation of the political, economic, social, domestic and other rights of a person. In accordance with national traditions, these citizens' rights are based on respect for the individual and principles of high morality. The priorities of a person, his interests, rights and freedoms are reflected in our Constitution, the norms of international law and the achievements of world culture were taken into account in this case. Strict and consistent implementation of our main principle «The State is for People!» as well as the activities of the interdepartmental commission for the implementation of Turkmenistan's international commitments in field of human rights confirm what has been said. The work that is conducted by this commission shows how great is the responsibility of the state in the introduction of universally recognized norms of international law into national law and creation favourable political, economic, social and cultural living conditions for the citizens.

A strong state is not only efficient operating and mandatory observed laws but also smoothly functioning system of governance, robust and balanced internal and external policies, focused on solving social tasks of the economy. A strong state – this is a friendly, close-knit family in which love and harmony prevail, which attaches great importance to spiritual values, where children are educated in love, but also in strictness, where, since an early age, they acquire the skills of creative approach to any entrusted case. Each family is our national treasure.

This principle lies in the basis of our Constitution. One of the priority tasks of the Turkmen state is the creation of conditions for full development of a family, protection of motherhood and childhood. The principles of peaceful coexistence, positive neighbourliness and mutually beneficial cooperation embodied in the Constitution are the basis of our foreign policy of peace with its specific objectives. This policy has allowed to raise the prestige of Turkmenistan as an independent neutral state and ensured its recognition in the world.

At the present stage of historical development the Turkmen people, recognizing the inextricable link between the past and present, and laying their own path to the bright future in the name of the progressive development of all countries and peoples of the world confidently put forward and implement crucial initiatives, innovatively approaching to the solution of the important issues of our time. Thereby, significantly enriching common human experience gained in this field, our nation is rapidly moving forward to new heights of progress.

In the year of the grand celebration of the glorious 20th anniversary of sacred independence, we can be proud of high achievements in social and economic development of Turkmenistan. These successes were achieved thanks to broad support of the people to the weighted domestic and foreign policy of the state, their active participation in the comprehensive and deep reform of the society.

And if today our state is a strong catalyst in the process of the consistent and harmonious industrial-innovative development of the sovereign Homeland, then our brave people is a powerful creative force, transforming not only themselves but the world surrounding us!

Dear Compatriots! Ladies and Gentlemen! Dear Guests! Once again I heartily congratulate You on the Day of the Constitution of Turkmenistan and the Day of Revival, Unity and Poetry of Magtymguly Fragi! I wish You all happiness, good luck and prosperity!

Thank You.

To the Participants of the 2nd International Gas Congress and Exhibition

(May 25, 2011)

Dear Participants of the 2nd International Gas Congress and Exhibition! Dear Guests! I cordially congratulate You on the opening of the 2nd International Gas Congress and Exhibition held in the year of celebration of a momentous holiday – the glorious 20th anniversary of Turkmenistan's independence! I wish You great success in the work of the international gas congress and exhibition!

The forum that takes place in beautiful Avaza on the shore of the wonderful Caspian Sea is a special milestone on the path of the development of the fuel-energy complex of Turkmenistan and international cooperation in the energy sector.

Nowadays a lot of work aimed at diversifying the routes of transportation of natural gas to world markets is being carried out in our country. The volume of export supplies of Turkmen natural gas increases year by year.

Dear Friends! The impressive achievements of Turkmenistan in the fuel and energy sector arouse a feeling of great pride of our people for their country; contribute to the international prestige of our independent neutral Motherland. Large-scale work now deployed in the field South Yoleten-Osman, which is recognized as one of the world's largest storages of «blue fuel», requires the attraction of large amounts of investment with the participation of foreign companies. In order to accelerate industrial development of this giant gas field 4.1 billion US dollars have recently been allocated there, which clearly demonstrates the great potential of the gas sector of Turkmenistan.

The careful, rational use of the enormous deposits of natural resources is an important task set before the oil and gas sector of our country, which occupies a leading position in the world in terms of reserves of gas fields.

To date, large-scale work for intensive development of the gas-chemical sector with the participation of world-known companies is being carried out in the country, the development for prospective production of non-sour high-octane gasoline, jet fuel, diesel fuel as well as polyethylene and polypropylene from natural gas is being conducted.

In the epoch of New Revival and great transformations Turkmenistan takes concrete steps to create a multi-vector pipeline system for reliable, stable and long-term energy supplies to world markets that is profitable for the exporters of fuel and raw materials, and for their customers.

In this context, the supply of Turkmen natural gas to Europe and the establishment of close cooperation with the states of this region in the energy sector are envisaged in the long-term. Productive talks conducted at the highest level between Turkmenistan and the European Union for supplies of Turkmen «blue fuel» is a powerful impetus to the implementation of this project. In the course of these negotiations the readiness of Turkmenistan and Europe to establish a close mutually beneficial cooperation in this area was confirmed once again.

Giving an effective impetus to the project Turkmenistan–Afghanistan–Pakistan–India intended to play an important role in the Asian region determines the rise of the pace of the work carried out in order to increase the volume of export deliveries of Turkmen gas. The meetings of technical working groups of the four states on this pipeline take place regularly.

The East–West gas pipeline, whose construction in our country is being conducted at an accelerated pace, having connected major natural gas fields in a single system, will also create opportunities for multi-variant supply of «blue fuel» to world markets. I am confident that the International Gas Congress and Exhibition to be opened today will give a powerful impetus to the ongoing work on the exploration and production of energy resources on land and in the depths of the Caspian Sea, increasing the volume of processing of natural gas and development of gas industry in general.

These activities are good examples of the fact that international festivals occupy a worthy place in our society, highly humane traditions of our people, their unique culture link and bring together the peoples of the world.

Dear Children! Our brave forefathers attached a great importance to upbringing of children, instilling the best qualities in them – patriotism, honesty, modesty, hard work, high morals, courage and fearlessness. Always obey the advice of elders, because they are dictated by their life experience! Follow the precepts of ancestors, observe their traditions! Their mandates will help you find the right path, not to stray from the path and avoid mistakes, awake boundless love and pride for your Homeland in your hearts! To be worthy successors to the national traditions of the people is a filial duty of our happy children.

Today, we attach a great importance to upbringing of the younger generation by remembering how seriously our brave ancestors, who believed that «There is a need for upbringing a child since his birth», «A child is valuable, but his upbringing is more valuable», concerned about this issue. Commitment to the customs and traditions of our fathers and grandfathers gives us spiritual strength, rallies and unites us. Our objective is to give our sons and daughters proper upbringing within the scope of the national traditions of upbringing, that were formed for many centuries thanks to the way of life of the people and their historical experience, so that they grow up as kind, empathetic, selfless, honest and hardworking people selflessly loving the Motherland.

Dear Compatriots! Currently one of the main objectives of our cooperation with the world community is health care and protection rights of the child, teaching and upbringing high morality on democratic principles in children. In this direction our government closely and consistently cooperates with the United Nations, and especially with its Children's Fund – the UNICEF. Turkmenistan carries out a lot of activities in the field of protection of rights and legitimate interests of children, providing necessary assistance in coordinating the efforts of the international community, fully supporting the goals of the third millennium and actively participating in their implementation.

The accession of our country to the package of the most important international documents which include the World Declaration on the Provision of Life, Protection and Development of Children, the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child, the Hague Convention on Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction serves as an example of that. The adoption of laws «On Protection and Promotion of Breastfeeding and the Requirements for Children's Food Products», «On Guarantees of the Rights of the Child», «On Guarantees of Rights of Young People to Work» and other normative acts indicate what an important role plays a care for the younger generation in the policy of our country.

To the Participants of the International Exhibition and Economic Forum in the Field of Textile Industry Dedicated to the Day of the Workers of Textile Industry

(June 4, 2011)

Dear Participants of the Exhibition and Economic Forum! Dear Guests! Dear Workers of Textile Industry! I heartily congratulate You on the opening of the international exhibition and economic forum in the field of textile industry dedicated to the momentous holiday – the Day of Workers of Textile Industry! I wish You good health, family well-being, great labour success, aimed to bring the national textile industry to the new heights of progressive development!

I firmly believe that this exhibition and economic forum will be an important milestone in the popularization of the outstanding achievements of the national textile industry in Turkmenistan and abroad.

Dear Friends! Consistently implementing the declared policy of radical reform of all sectors of the national economy, we create optimal conditions for a happy and prosperous life for hardworking people of Turkmenistan, who fundamentally transform the look of our towns and villages with selfless work.

The textile industry that grows rapidly occupies an important place in the course of rapid economic progress of sovereign Turkmenistan. The years of independence became a period of radical restructuring and modernization of the textile industry of our country. The centuries-old glory of the primordial craft of original homespun fabrics, ketene, was revived, the secrets of manufacturing the finest silk were restored. Up to now, the high conjuncture production of the factories and plants of textile industry furnished with the best samples and focused on the issue of high quality are the backbone of modern domestic manufacturing infrastructure aimed at ensuring the sustained growth of the domestic economy. Only in 2010, large cotton-spinning factories were put into operation in the city of Dashoguz and in the etrap of Goktepe, the production of high quality products at the factory for blended cotton and synthetic yarn in Ruhabat etrap was arranged.

The technical equipment of textile mills is realized due to innovative technologies and production equipment from leading European and Japanese companies. In Turkmenistan the production of high quality denim and terry fabrics, knitted fabrics, satin, cotton and other types of textile products and a variety of manufactured finished products made of them were organized in a short period. Now products labeled «Made in Turkmenistan» are at a steady high rate in the structure of consumer demand in world markets.

One of the most important criteria for the development of the domestic textile industry has remained the ecological safety of production at the enterprises of this sector. An obvious confirmation of this is ample evidences and certificates in the field of standardization assigned to the large textile complexes and factories built in Turkmenistan by authoritative international organizations.

The rapidly developing positive international cooperation for the most efficient modernization of industrial enterprises at the expense of the most advanced scientific research and innovative technologies plays a great role.

The high level of development of the domestic textile industry achieved by inspired and dedicated labour of the workers of the industry, true labour enthusiasm of all our people, indeed, deserves to be represented at such a significant international forum intended to become an active factor in public awareness of the undoubted achievements of one of the leading sectors of the national economy of Turkmenistan.

I am confident that the forum will be an optimal platform for comprehensive familiarization with the level of development of the textile sector of independent Turkmenistan and create all necessary conditions for productive work of the participants and guests of the international economic forum.

Dear Participants of the Exhibition and Economic Forum! Dear Guests! Dear Workers of Textile Industry! Once again I heartily congratulate You on the opening of the exhibition and international economic forum in the field of textile industry dedicated to the remarkable date – the Day of the Workers of Textile Industry!

I wish You success in your work and personal life, happiness, luck and eternal well-being!

Congratulations to the Workers of the Field of Nature Protection of Turkmenistan on the World Environment Day

(June 4, 2011)

Dear Workers of the Field of Nature Protection! Experts of the Nature of the Motherland! I warmly congratulate You on the World Environment Day officially celebrated in our independent neutral Motherland! I wish you good health, happiness, family well-being, great success in your tireless work that makes a worthy contribution to the conduct of the environmental policy of the state, constantly worrying about the multiplication of the natural wealth of the country and rational nature management!

The Turkmen people from ancient times cautiously concern about ambient nature, protecting it as the apple of an eye. In the epoch of New Revival and great transformations these humane traditions have further developed under the programme on the landscaping of the country and turning it into a blooming garden which is being successfully implemented.

Concern for the unique nature of the native land, for its protection is one of the most important environmental problems. The rational use of the natural resources of the country for the benefit of the future generations, the increase of the fertility of generous Turkmen land constitute the main purpose of the environmental policy pursued by the state. In order to implement it, we carry out large-scale work on the protection and increase of the number of wild animals and rare plants in the reserves of the country, the conservation and enhancement of the unique places of the Turkmen nature.

Dear Compatriots! The issues of sustainable human development and environmental security should be viewed through the prism of close international cooperation in this field. Therefore, Turkmenistan is an initiative member of the world community in addressing global environmental issues, implementing a number of significant programmes on the protection of nature and the solution of pressing ecological issues. Global climate change, ozone hole, the threat of desertification, a shortage of fresh water in some regions of the world, air pollution, the reduction of biological diversity and other issues are the most complex and important ecological issues of our time.

Turkmenistan is also actively involved in the implementation of major conventions, programmes and projects of the United Nations on the environmental protection. Our country makes a significant contribution to the solution of the issues of environmental protection and sustainable development facing the world community. The Turkmen state actively supports bilateral cooperation with the World Fund for Environment, Development Programme and the Programme for Environment of the United Nations, the Economic Commission of Europe, the World Bank, the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe and other international and social organizations.

Turkmenistan, as a powerful world energy power, pays special attention to the solution of the issues of ecological security. The programme on the creation of the Avaza National Tourism Zone on the Caspian coast is being realized in compliance with international ecological requirements. The construction of a giant hydraulic facility in the centre of one of the largest deserts in the world the Garagum desert –the Turkmen Lake, the first phase of construction of which has been already completed, is of great importance not only for our country but also for the whole region. The appearance of this large body of water in the centre of the desert will enable to considerably enrich our beautiful nature, significantly increase the fertility of the sacred Turkmen land in the near future. The «Altyn asyr» Turkmen Lake will play an important role in the protection of the environment and solution of many ecological issues.

A human being is in close connection with nature throughout his life, living in close harmony with it. Human life depends largely on the way he uses natural resources, and his attitude to nature. This obliges all of us to protect environment, take good care of our natural resources.

Dear Workers of the Field of Nature Protection of Our Native Motherland! Once again I heartily congratulate You on the World Environment Day! I wish You good health, family well-being, great success in your noble work on the conservation and enhancement of natural resources of the Homeland for the benefit of our future generations!

To the Winners of the Scientific Competition among Young People of Turkmenistan

(June 11, 2011)

Dear Young Scientists! Dear Students! I heartily congratulate You on great success in the competition of scientific works among youth of our sovereign Homeland! I wish You good health, long life, success in the development and promotion of national science to new discoveries!

Dear Young scientists! One of the characteristic features of the modern Turkmen science is a focus on practical implementation of its achievements. Any scientific results are of great significance; therefore, they should be introduced into production as soon as possible. In this regard, the desire to achieve the profitability of your research should be a responsible task for you. An active part not only of scientists but also engineers, technicians, innovators and leaders of production should be envisaged in the relationship of science and production. For a high level of scientific thought and technology is an indicator of development and potential of any society.

Dear Students! Having created the Academy of Sciences of Turkmenistan in the new epoch, in a short period we conducted serious reforms of scientific system, opened new research institutes. We have laid the necessary foundation for the development of science, defined the priority directions of the development of modern science. They include scientific research on the development of oil and gas industry, research in the field of seismology, construction and architecture, energy, medicine and medical industry, the natural sciences and humanities, economics, communications, and, in particular, concerning the development of high technology, automation of production.

Today, the reformed system of national science works in full force. Bringing the achievements of the Turkmen science at the world level in the future will depend on your creativity and inspiration, new discoveries, the results of scientific research. We have provided all possibilities and created all conditions for conducting scientific research. We have constructed new buildings of secondary, special, vocational and higher educational establishments and fully equipped them with modern technology, computers, multimedia and interactive learning materials, provided access to the Internet. Postgraduate and doctoral studies are open in academic institutions and higher educational establishments. The state fully committed itself to science funding. All this is done for the realization of the basic directions of science, the further dynamic development of our state, so that it can take its rightful place in global political, economic and cultural space.

Dear Young People! At present, having pursued a course on the development of relations in the humanitarian sphere, we pay a special attention to the expansion of scientific cooperation with reputable research centres of the world, exchange of experts, promotion of international relations of scholars.

The establishment of contacts with world scientific and educational centres is one of the most important conditions for the development of science in our country. We have repeatedly discussed the possibilities of enhancing the relationship in this field, and this is reflected in specific matters. The programmes intended for successful cooperation in the field of science with many countries of the world, the expansion of cooperation with the leading higher educational institutions and research centres of the world serve as good examples of that.

I would like to stress once again how important it is for us to form a new generation of scholars – highly qualified specialists, scholarly people capable to glorify the Homeland with their honest work. Higher educational institutions of the country play a special role in the successful solution of these tasks. High schools must become a kind of research centres, where young people will be actively involved in scientific researches in different areas under the supervision of experienced mentors.

Dear Young People! I firmly believe that our young scientists will continue to make an outstanding contribution to the development of national science, and look forward to your scientific works and major discoveries.

I wish You great success in scientific activity!

Dear Participants of the Conference! Dear Guests! I heartily congratulate you on the opening of the International Conference on Cross-Border Cooperation between Turkmenistan and Neighbouring Countries! The fight against drug abuse and drug trafficking is one of the greatest global challenges of the modern world. Effective combat against illicit drug trafficking, which poses a threat to every country and the world community as a whole, and which has become a dangerous threat on a global scale, can be conducted only by joint efforts of all countries and international organizations.

Having determined decisive and uncompromising combat against this evil as one of the priority directions of state policy, Turkmenistan strictly complies with its international obligations. In our sovereign Motherland large-scale measures on the smuggling of drugs, the identification and prevention of drug abuse are being conducted under the «Work Plan on Combat against Illicit Drug Trafficking and Provision of Assistance to the People Addicted to Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances for 2011–2015».

In a very broad range of issues in this field Turkmenistan actively and consistently interacts with the United Nations, as the active member of three international conventions on combating illicit trafficking of narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances adopted by the UN in 1961, 1971 and 1988, also honourably solves the tasks on combating drugs set in these Conventions.

the joint efforts of the international community aimed at combating the threats of our time, including illicit drug trafficking. In this context, the accession of Turkmenistan to the UN Commission on Drugs for 2012–2015 is of great importance.

At present, Turkmenistan is implementing a number of regional and national projects and programmes of the UN Office on Drugs and Crime, the European Union, as well as bilateral projects with the participation of the government of the United States and the government of the United Kingdom aimed at combating illicit drug trafficking, strengthening border controls.

The State Border Service of Turkmenistan and the State Customs Service of Turkmenistan in collaboration with other law enforcement and military structures of the country carry out regular systematic work to combat illicit trafficking of narcotic drugs, psychotropic substances and precursors. To that, checkpoints are equipped with modern analytical devices and monitoring and technical means. For further strengthening the security of maritime borders of the State border of Turkmenistan, joint efforts have been applied with the representatives of the border services of the Caspian states.

Dear Guests! We consider the holding of this conference in our country devoted to the International Day of Combat against Proliferation, Abuse and Illicit Trafficking of Narcotic Drugs as another sign of great trust and respect of the United Nations for the neutral status of Turkmenistan and its peace-loving foreign policy.

I am confident that the productive work of this international forum will give a powerful impetus aimed at the development and implementation of effective measures to address the challenges facing the UN on cross-border cooperation and fight against illicit drug trafficking.

To the Participants of the 8th Meeting of the Ministers of Transport and Communications of the Member-Countries of the Organization of Economic Cooperation

(June 28, 2011)

Dear Guests! Dear Participants of the Meeting! I heartily congratulate You on the opening of the 8th Meeting of the Member-Countries of the Ministers of Transport and Communications of the Organization of Economic Cooperation!

In the epoch of New Revival and great transformations, our independent Motherland, confidently going through the light of progress, is widely known throughout the world as a country which is committed to the principles of peace, good neighbourliness and humanity that strives for mutually beneficial international and regional cooperation.

Currently, transport and communication system of our country has entered a new period of development. As a member of the international system of transportation, Turkmenistan provides reliable transit transport through its territory. In our country the highways that fully meet modern requirements are built. This work aims at further development of international transport and communication system that links Turkmenistan located at the crossroad of the ancient Silk Road with a number of countries. An extensive system of transportation routes opens up great opportunities for active exploration of huge reserves of natural wealth of our country, virgin land, construction of new towns and districts.

Dear Friends! Independent neutral Turkmenistan carries out immense work to create transport corridors designed to bring together peoples more closely. The discussion of such topical issue of the modern era as the creation of an international transport and transit corridor which was held in Ashgabat can serve as an example of this.

The Agreement on the establishment of the international transport and transit corridor Uzbekistan–Turkmenistan–Iran–Oman–Qatar signed during the meeting is of great importance not only for the participating countries but also for the whole region.

When such cooperation is realized, major successes in development are achieved. That's why I strongly believe in the actuality of the forum being held in Ashgabat.

Speech at the Enlarged Session of the Cabinet of Ministers of Turkmenistan

(July 8, 2011)

Dear Members of the Cabinet of Ministers! Dear Friends! Remarkable dates and very important events are before us. They inspire us to evaluate the way, passed within the Independence years, to think about what have been done by us within this period and what we must do in future.

Only several months are left for that day, when we will celebrate the 20th Anniversary of Independence of our state. Presently, the Turkmen people work hand in hand with great inspiration to meet this great holiday with labour achievements which will be written for ever into the modern history of our state. The results of this selfless labour are reviewed more distinctly in the concrete figures.

It is not only figures; they are an evidence of our common inspired labour, our opportunities to work better. These data make it possible to estimate condition of our national economy.

Saying specifically, within last half year, the volume of gross domestic product (GDP) made up 114,4 %, the rate of the industrial growth – 142,9%. Other sectors of economy were also stably developed: growth in construction made up 117,7%, in sphere of transport and communication – 109,5%. Rate of growth in agriculture reached 108,6 %. This year, about one million two hundred thousand tons of wheat have been harvested in the country. State budget has been overfulfilled, level of inflation has been reduced.

Private entrepreneurship and small-scale business have been dynamically developing in the country. Thanks to the done work, the level of wages was raised up to 113,1 %, steady growth of incomes of population was provided. Facilities of social and living purposes – schools, hospitals, dwelling houses, kindergartens and other buildings were constructed and commissioned in scheduled time. It is enough to call the following figures as an expressive evidence of scale of building works started in the country: about 2227 facilities with total cost at 48 billion USA dollars. Within five months, the volumes of investments into economy of our country made up 125,7%, and rate of growth of foreign trade turnover – 140,5%.

The mentioned data testify more vividly that our state could preserve macroeconomic stability and financial independence even in conditions of global economic crisis, and we solve successfully tasks on realization of long-term complex programmes and changing reforms in jubilee year along with continuation of works on development of economy, strengthening of the legal base, consolidation of the democratic foundation of the state.

Dear Members of the Cabinet of Ministers! Dear Friends! Not much time is left till one more remarkable event in life of the country – the elections of the President of Turkmenistan. Many things have been changed in our country and all over the world since last elections. I can confidently say that we are coming to the presidential elections with qualitatively changed civil consciousness and new world outlook.

Authority of Turkmenistan has been incredibly increased in the world. We obtained such results thanks to purposeful realization of Open Door policy, development with various states of the mutually beneficial relationships, active interaction with world community as an equal partner. Our country, using the legal status of permanently neutral state, takes active position in search of solution of the most important problems of the regional and world scale. At present, we, together with international community, wage a relentless struggle against global challenges and threats of the present time, with international terrorism and illegal turnover of the narcotic drugs. We support efforts of the UN Organization on creation of favourable conditions for stable development, act as supporters of the international relations, aimed at provision of security and wellbeing in the whole world.

Such position of Turkmenistan finds support in many states of the planet and promotes the growth of the international authority of our country.

During time, passed after previous elections of Turkmenistan President, we transformed our state and society. In new edition of our Constitution, we paid a particular attention to the issues of widening of human rights, creation of multi-party system, strengthening of democracy, development of private entrepreneurship, as well as solution of other tasks on consolidation of our state and society. Economy of the country got considerably stronger during that period. Currently, we implement the scaled projects, about which we have not dreamt recently. Construction of North-South railroad can be given as an example of it. We have built with own efforts five hundred kilometres of the road, passing through the territory of our country, laid it through desert and mountain foothills. Presently, we join it with railway system of Kazakhstan. We must construct only a small section – 100 metres of the road, which we left for ceremony of its grand opening.

I'll not dwell on thousands kilometers length Turkmenistan–China and Turkmenistan–Iran gas pipelines and other gas mains, which we lay self-help, built in the shortest interim, numerous facilities of Avaza National Tourist Zone, on construction units in cities and villages of the country, on works on building of the large bridges and motor highways, I'll not say about opening and commissioning of new largest gas fields.

There is one more, not only grandiose, but unique by its essence, is among all these important projects. It is a project of construction of Altyn Asyr (The Golden Age) Turkmen Lake, presenting the unique hydroengineering complex. We have built self-help this lake in the centre of the Garagum Desert. It is enough to say that 2600 kilometres of drains for salty collector-drainage waters were dug to understand the whole force and power of this gigantic structure.

The positive changes and achieved successes in agro-industrial complex of the country should be mentioned. Works, started by us on implementation of the state programme of the development of villages, improvement of agricultural and selection works, provision of sector of new agricultural machinery, allotment of lands on lease and exemption of farmers from all kinds of taxes, made positive influence on this rather complicated complex. Despite of unfavourable climatic conditions, our country, which produced before only 70 thousand tons of grain a year and for this reason, considered the economically less-developed country, presently, has turned into the powerful state, wholly providing its food security, state, realizing own grain in the world markets.

Dear Members of the Cabinet of Ministers! Dear Friends! We have created the powerful educational base for our youth. We have built new secondary schools, equipped with computers with access to Internet, higher educational establishments with introduced in them the latest achievements of science and technology; they are the convincing evidence that future qualified specialists for all sectors of national economy as well as members of administrative staff of all levels will be trained and prepared in them. It is a firm basis for further prosperity and wellbeing of our people.

We shall continue work in this field furthermore. In this connection, I address tasks to G.Mezilov and other heads, related to this work, connected with further development of the system of education. Considering purposeful to open Architectural and Construction Institute, I give you a task to work out this issue until New Year.

We need the highly-qualified construction engineers, talented architects and designers, capable generate original ideas and create interesting projects, harmoniously combining national motives and contemporary trends city planning because presently the gigantic construction is started in Turkmenistan. Measures on provision of rapidly developing of oil and gas sector of national economy with professional specialists should be taken. The currently existing Turkmen Polytechnic Institute does not meet the modern requirements either by its material and technical base or qualitative level of knowledge. For this reason, it is purposeful to vacate this institute and open Institute of Oil and Gas in new complex. The newly opened Architectural and Construction Institute can be accommodated in the building of the Polytechnic Institute but until a new building for this higher educational establishment will be constructed.

Dear Members of the Cabinet of Ministers! Dear Friends! Not only our society but we, ourselves, have experienced radical changes in new epoch. Today, we steadily and decisively get rid of negative attitude to the private property, imposed on us in old times. State ceases to encroach the sectors of economy step-by-step, not requiring its interference and initiating the programme of privatization, transferring the state property to the possession of the entrepreneurs. Businesspersons of our country take more active and confident part in the government programmes. Last time, large private firms and companies were appeared in Turkmenistan. Having enough experience of work, they successfully carried out the construction of the large complex of the buildings with cost of more than hundred million USA dollars, buildings of the business centre and bank, other numerous industrial structures, facilities of the social and cultural purposes and dwelling houses. In a word, today, the private entrepreneurship has become an integral part of economy of the country and life of the society.

We declared the nation-wide struggle against cruel devil of the present time – the drug addiction. The special service was created in the country with this purpose and its material and technical base was strengthened. Our state closely cooperates with international organizations in uncompromising struggle against illegal turnover of the narcotic drugs. Thanks to it, last time, we could withdraw several tons of the narcotic drugs from illegal turnover, which were destructed in presence of representatives of other states and our general public. The narcotic drugs, withdrawn from illegal turnover could undermine our economy this, do harm to our youth. We shall struggle against this evil furthermore; struggle until we shall completely cleanse our land from this filthiness.

Dear Members of the Cabinet of Ministers! Dear Friends! While carrying out work on spiritual and moral improvement of the society, we began to struggle against corruption, legalization of illegal incomes and bribery. Not long ago, the group of bank workers, who in the guise of financing the construction of buildings took bribes from entrepreneurs, was detained by the law-enforcement agencies. Presently, the inquiry of this fact is underway. Until the injury is under investigation, I shan't reveal the details of this case in its interests.

When it will be completed, the open trial will take place. The taken measures must be a good lesson for those who instead of honest and diligent work for happy and successful life of the people, try to enrich themselves by deception and briberies.

Dear Members of the Cabinet of Ministers! Dear Friends! Not long ago, we started to lay the foundation of the civil society. We have to work much to achieve this perfection. We have formed the legislative base, conditioning development of multi-party system. However, we shan't hurry in this issue and create any parties by artificial ways.

At the same time, we shall not support the ungrounded multiplication of numerous parties. I think that two efficiently working parties will be enough for appearance of effective competition and provision of the real link between people and authority, which will be supported and respected by mass public. These parties must have the concrete programme, aimed at improvement of social and living standards of the people. If some definite group of citizens expresses will to establish own party, which will serve for people's wellbeing, nobody will prevent registration and work of this party, about which I said more than once in my statements.

We are ready for the dialogue with groups, calling themselves «the opposition». If anybody from these representatives will express their wish to take part in forthcoming Presidential elections, he may come with no worry to Turkmenistan. I guarantee that equal conditions and opportunities for taking part in elections will be created for them and citizens of our country.

Great role is given to Mass Media in formation of civil society. Lately, the material and technical base of Mass Media was visibly strengthened, new TV and Radio channels, newspapers and magazines, including the private papers were appeared, Internet is introduced widely everywhere.

However, it should be noted that as well as our society is formed and perfected the Mass Media experiences the period of formation, they search new forms of work. I have said about it in my statement at recently held enlarged Session of the Cabinet of Ministers, where we have distinctly defined the tasks stood before Mass Media. For this reason, now, I am not going to dwell on this issue in details.

Dear Members of the Cabinet of Ministers! Dear Friends! It is impossible to enumerate all our achievements during previous years in short speech. But even brief review of the done work will show how during that time our country was transformed, how our civil society was radically changed. For this reason, I think that the forthcoming elections of the President of Turkmenistan will become in some measure the indicator of the achieved, including development of the civil society. Our aim is concerned ministries and branch departments, public organizations, all citizens of the country – to prepare well to the Presidential elections and hold them at the highest level. The forthcoming elections of the President must be held in atmosphere of openness and publicity, and it must be an evidence of the strengthening democracy.

Dear Members of the Cabinet of Ministers! Dear Friends! I would like to dwell on some the most important issues, necessary to solve for provision of the regular improvement of level of the people's life. Firstly, we must continue work on reduction of dependence of our country from export of the source of raw materials. We all must understand very well that provision of the stable and efficient development of economy is our most general and important issue, and that we must achieve it, relying on home market and branches, not producing raw stuff, because development of sectors of industry, construction and trade is one of the most significant conditions of provision of the economic growth of the country.

We have begun to do something in this field, to carry out required work. The structure of the national economy is gradually transformed in accordance with demands of the time. Share of industry in general volume of GDP has been approached to 50 %. We must continue work in this field furthermore. Everything must be done on support of innovations and modernization of industry, creation of powerful financial and credit system. We must increase the number of working places with high remuneration of labour, requiring participation of highly-qualified specialists, as well as take necessary measures for improvement of professional skills of workers.

The State programmes must make strict demands that the rendered services be of high quality and moderate, the budget expenses and investment programmes give high results. It is necessary to eliminate all obstacles on the way of entrepreneurial initiatives and attraction of capitals, to support entrepreneurship, the small and medium size business, to create favourable investment and entrepreneurial conditions. In our country, we must gradually create the system of reliable estimation and control of condition of competitive capacity in national economy. The appropriate work in this field must be organized not only in the centre but on spots, and particularly, in velayats of the country.

We must create the single system of strategic management. Programmes, adopted according to sectors and regions, are necessary to coordinated with priority directions of development of economy as be well as with possibilities of the budget and financial system of the country. Creation of the efficient system of control over the state programmes of the economic development of the country and introduction of necessary amendments into them is one of main objectives.

Today, we must go along the tested way, shown its efficiency in many states, – way of creation of the separate economic zones, industrial parks, all possible funds of support of innovations and entrepreneurship.

It is necessary to establish stimulating methods, promoting development of entrepreneurship, strengthening of economic might of the country. At the same time, it is important to strengthen the stimulating significance of support from the State budget; to allocate additional resources from the budget to the successfully working enterprises and organization for covering credit means, taken with purpose of fulfilling of the innovative work, for example, for realization of high-technological projects and other programmes of development.

Limitation of the state property in separate sectors of economy should be continued. Doing so, we must widen all possibilities for individual initiations. I mean not only giving more freedom to the private initiatives, but elimination of the bureaucratic obstacles, at times, put by workers of various ranks, holding the key posts.

We must carry out efficient work on increasing the level of openness of our economy. We must create new opportunities for citizens of the country and national entrepreneurship, for export to the world markets of production made in Turkmenistan, goods and services, including the services of the construction enterprises. I said before about necessity of development of production of building materials and introduction of world technologies to this sector.

As of agriculture, here, we must not refer to the external factors and conditions. Taking into account the shortage of water in our region, we must sow cereals and other crops only in those volumes which we can provide with water in full. I stress once again that we must not hope for atmospheric precipitations and approach to this issue must be very careful because year differs from other one: one can be rainy, the next may be dry. In this connection, G.Mezilov, M.Nurmammedov, the scientists of the country must clearly define the regions of estimated drought, carry out selection work and allocate seeds, resistant to our climatic conditions and capable to give rich harvests, as well as distinctly define in what volumes and which crops should be grown in particular in this or that velayat.

We must continue to render every kind of assistance to efficient realization of policy of the social development of the country, direction of investments to the improvement of level of the people's life, reforms of systems of education and healthcare, development of culture and it is our main task for today.

I would like to remind you that we have to work much and diligently to confirm our country as a state, capable to compete in the modern world, guaranteeing stability of economy, financial systems to any kind of crisis, giving opportunity to provide steady growth of level of own citizens' life. The lion's share of responsibility for fulfillment of these tasks falls on Turkmenistan President and Government of the country. For this reason, respected members of the Cabinet of Ministers, I expect the efficient creative work from you and all citizens. Particularly, it concerns implementation of long-term, strategic programmes, aimed at development of the national economy, entrepreneurship and social infrastructure. I am sure, that we can solve all these issues, we can cope with set tasks. Our diligent and courageous people are able to solve successfully any task.

Dear Members of the Cabinet of Ministers! Dear Friends! Completing my speech, I would like to note that we have obtained good results in whole for half a year. In this connection, I allow heads of all ministries and departments, editors-in-chief of newspapers and magazines, heads of TV and radio channels, public organizations to have a rest from July 13–22. (September 1, 2011)

Dear Compatriots! Distinguished Representatives of the Diplomatic Corps! I sincerely congratulate all of You on the inauguration and putting into operation of the new building of the Institute of International Relations of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Turkmenistan!

Honoured Guests – Ambassadors of different countries, Heads of International Organizations! Our Diplomats – Ambassadors of Turkmenistan in different countries, the Staff of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Teachers and Students of the Institute of International Relations, in short, those for whom foreign relations and foreign policy are part of their life and activities gathered here today. Therefore, taking this opportunity, I intend, in my brief speech to express my views on some issues of foreign and internal policies of our country in contemporary time. Taking into consideration the requests of participants to this event, I have decided to make my speech in the Russian language today.

Dear Compatriots! Dear Representatives of the Diplomatic Corps! First of all, I heartedly congratulate You on the great holiday – the Knowledge and Students Day!

This date is celebrated annually in our country as a tribute to the high respect of the ideals of enlightenment and education, as well as a symbol of our concern for the young generation, whose representatives, becoming professionals, in the very near future, will make the history of independent and neutral Turkmenistan.

These days, as per tradition, dozens of new buildings of secondary schools, vocational and higher education institutions, furnished with the most modern educational, methodological equipment are being put into operation.

Before the main holiday of the country, twentieth anniversary of the state, we will launch two large educational complexes, which are the Institute of Culture and State Institute of Economics and Management, schools, dormitories, kindergartens, apartment houses, sports facilities and shopping centres. Today we are participants of another no less important event – the opening of the new complex of buildings of the Institute of International Relations of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

I sincerely congratulate the faculty, staff and students of the Institute of International Relations with the new building and beginning of the new academic year.

I wish You all good health and success in work and study!

Dear Friends! Very soon the people of Turkmenistan will celebrate a significant event in its modern history – the 20th anniversary of independence. It is not peculiar to the Turkmens to boast of themselves but I can say that we have come up to this holiday with certain results. Our today's achievements, political stability, social accord, dynamic economic and social development are the results of hard work of all our people, government, society, every citizen of our country. One of the most important and major factors that contributed to this, I would name the reforms in education.

Our developing society needs the cult of knowledge. After all, education and high culture of the people – it is an effective work, rational economics and social welfare.

By investing heavily in building of new schools, higher and secondary special educational institutions, in strengthening their logistical base, improving the educational process and improving its quality, we are solving the main task of building a humane and just society, a prosperous democratic state, bright future of our nation.

Therefore, attaching particular importance to improving the level and quality of education, promoting inclusion and communion of people, especially youth, to the main directions of development of the modern world of science and technology, natural science, social studies, encouraging the broad cultural and humanitarian contacts, our state provides the most promising of all kinds of investments – investments in education.

This is – investing in the country's future, a guarantee replenishment of the most valuable strategic resource for the people – its intellect.

And here we have clear and distinct position, we will continue vigorously to develop the education system and to invest heavily in its development. Education, science and culture have to become a powerful boost of our socio-economic progress, the main transformative force of social development.

Distinguished Compatriots! Dear Guests! Distinguished Representatives of the Diplomatic Corps! In line with reforms in education, it was decided to establish in Turkmenistan its own higher educational institution devoted to train specialists in the field of international relations.

This decision was dictated by the objective needs of the internal development of our country, and international realities, conditions of modern, dynamic course of the global processes. Proclaiming a policy of broad international cooperation, openness of Turkmenistan to the outside world, we assumed that the realization of these goals will require training on a sound system based on qualified international affairs experts, real professionals that are able to represent our country in the world. These tasks were assigned to the Institute of International Relations of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

Today future diplomats, economists, lawyers and international journalists are being trained here.

And this is natural, as foreign relations of our country embrace new target areas and spheres, and proclaimed policy of openness of the country to the world becomes systematic. We can firmly say that Turkmenistan has made a strategic choice in favor of a broad and active participation in global political, economic, cultural-humanitarian, scientific, technological, informational processes as an integral part of its internal development.

It serves as a decisive factor in the realization of tasks to raise the country to a level corresponding to the dynamics and demands of modern global trends.

One of the key components of achieving these objectives is the diversification of international cooperation of Turkmenistan – both geographic and structural.

For example, political-diplomatic activities of the state we are considering today in close conjunction with the development of international partnership in economy and trade. We believe that these trends, in turn, will successfully develop only if there is high-level development of ICT (Information and Communications Technology) infrastructure in the country, improvement of national legislation, its conformity with international standards, the availability of educated and modern-minded professionals. They need to work effectively in international politics, business, law and information.

Their preparation requires a thorough knowledge, education, political and legal culture, good outlook, which is impossible without initiation of innovation, new scientific advances and techniques.

In fact, today we talk about the development of a set of directions based on the involvement of Turkmenistan in international relations in order to maximize its geopolitical, geoeconomic, resource and human potential.

I have repeatedly said that our goal for the near future is accelerated entry into the category of countries with the high quality of life, dynamic economy, stable and effective relations with the outside world. This is the meaning of Turkmenistan's policy of broad diversification of international cooperation which opens new opportunities for developing each of its key areas – foreign policy, economic and humanitarian spheres.

Dear Friends! Distinguished Guests! Turkmenistan keeps a strategic priority for the close and multifaceted cooperation with the United Nations. For us, the United Nations – is not just the most representative international organization. We view it as the main pillar of the modern system of global interaction, the guarantor of the preservation and maintenance of peace and balance of interests on the world stage, the stability of the existing security architecture.

We firmly believe that today, with the new global realities, the high humanitarian ideals and principles of the UN Charter continues to be the moral and legal support of the international order.

Today in Turkmenistan a number of specialized agencies of the United Nations are working on an ongoing basis – United Nations Development Programme, United Nations High Commission for Refugees, Children's Fund, the World Health Organization, the Office on Drugs and Crime, Population Fund, the Regional Centre for Preventive Diplomacy for Central Asia.

This cooperation is carried out on a systematic basis. We welcome such interaction; gratefully accept the support provided by the UN to our country through the implementation of various projects and programs.

In its turn, Turkmenistan, together with the UN will do whatever is necessary in order to consolidate peace, stability and security.

And today, actively preparing for the 66th session of the General Assembly of the United Nations, the world's principal international forum, Turkmenistan has clear positions on key issues of global and regional policy.

We have adopted our own policy of positive neutrality, and formulated its fundamental provisions: peacefulness, non-interference in the affairs of others, respect of their sovereignty and territorial integrity, non-participation in international military organizations and treaties.

What has dictated this choice? Of course, first and foremost, we were guided by national interests.

Guided by a clear ideology, which is based on the immutable principles of neutrality, peace loving and cooperation, we want to live in peace and harmony with neighbours, to maintain friendly and equal relations with all countries to develop mutually beneficial economic and trade ties.

We believe that only under such conditions we can provide to our people peace and quietness and carry out our plans for economic and social development.

Our foreign policy, as before, will be open and transparent, respectful and friendly to all nations of the world.

We principally reject military force as an instrument for achieving foreign policy goals, being firmly convinced that political and diplomatic means should be the main resource in resolving any arising situations in the world.

Turkmenistan believes that generally recognized norms of international law are the basis of the modern world order, the main criteria in the relations between states. Our country has joined more than 120 major international legal instruments, and will adhere strictly to their letter and spirit.

We always call for the strict observance of rules and principles of the UN Charter, considering this authoritative organization as the pillar of international relations.

Our country is a staunch supporter of strengthening the United Nations role in the world and improving its effectiveness.

Turkmenistan committed to a broad multi-stakeholder partnership in goal to achieve lasting and sustainable peace, stability and security and effective respond to modern challenges and threats. We consistently advocate the strengthening of international cooperation for the implementation of the tasks of global socio-economic development, to find equitable solutions to energy, environmental, food and other problems.

These positions on the key issues of international life are the result of comprehension of our rich historical experience of relations with other countries and peoples.

Let us remember that it is in Ashgabat under the aegis of the UN there were held series of negotiations, which have played an important role to achieve peace and reconciliation in Tajikistan. The capital of our neutral state has become a venue for talks to resolve the inter-Afghan conflict in the late 90-ies of last century. Thus, Turkmenistan has become a reliable ally and effective UN partner in the preservation and maintenance of political stability in the region, developing good-neighbourly friendship and cooperation.

Turkmenistan's high reputation as a peacekeeping country in dealing with the international community confirmed by the support of all states in the region that decided to open in 2007 in Ashgabat, the UN Regional Centre for Preventive Diplomacy for Central Asia.

We took this as a huge responsibility and at the same time as an indication of confidence in Turkmenistan by the UN and our neighbours.

It is by this experience, including experience gained over 20 years of independent development Turkmenistan has at the present stage, we are guided in our international practice, formulating priorities for national foreign policy.

Foremost among these is building relations with our immediate neighbours – Afghanistan, Azerbaijan, Iran, Kazakhstan and Uzbekistan, other Central Asian states – Kyrgyzstan and Tajikistan. For us, these countries and peoples living in them – are our brothers. We are united by geography, history, culture and traditions. Turkmenistan will continue in every possible way to strengthen regional cooperation, promote trade, economic, humanitarian ties.

Bounds of genuine brotherhood, shared values bind our country to Pakistan, India and Turkey. Turkmenistan's relations with these countries today are an example of genuine mutual respect and trust. We appreciate it, cherish high level of understanding and will do whatever is necessary for further successful development of cooperation in all areas.

In recent years, the dynamics of relations of Turkmenistan with the countries of the Commonwealth of Independent States has increased significantly. We develop them both at the bilateral level and through joint actions within the CIS.

One of the key trends of Turkmenistan's foreign policy is and will remain the development of multi-faceted, mutually beneficial friendly relations with leading world powers.

Today we have reached the level of strategic partnership with Russian Federation. We have centuries-old historical and humanitarian ties and a rich experience of cooperation in various fields with this country. At this stage, these relations become saturated with new content, which satisfies long-term interests of the peoples of Turkmenistan and Russia.

The Peoples Republic of China is our great neighbour in the East. During the years of independence Turkmenistan has gained considerable experience of partnership with our Chinese friends – in politics, economy, trade, cultural and humanitarian sphere. Jointly there was carried out the largest gas pipeline project from Turkmenistan to China. The huge potential of development of bilateral relations is obvious, and our countries are determined to maximize its use.

With the United States and European Union states, we have established friendly and partnership relations based on common approaches to key issues of the modern world as the provision of global and regional stability and security, combating such threats as international terrorism, drug trafficking and organized crime. There is also a real mutual interest in trade and economic cooperation, including the energy sector. We consider cooperation with these countries in a row of important directions of our foreign policy and build relations with them on the long term basis.

Today Turkmenistan has established good contacts with the Arab States, countries of Asia-Pacific region.

Development of relations with Latin America and Africa seems to be perspective.

Much attention is traditionally given to cooperation at the multilateral level. Turkmenistan is a member of 42 major international organizations, including the United Nations, the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe, the Organization of Islamic Cooperation, Non-Aligned Movement and others. We believe that potential for multilateral cooperation in solving urgent problems of global and regional development today is in acute demand. Only by joint efforts, using existing international legal instruments, international community will be able to cope with the challenges of modern world.

Distinguished Guests! Dear Friends! As you know, every year, just before the start of the regular session of the UN General Assembly, Turkmenistan, brings to the attention of the member – States of the United Nations priority positions on the main directions of its foreign policy. We firmly follow this tradition this year also. And today, speaking at the Institute of International Relations, I would like to briefly dwell on some ideas and suggestions our country intends to address to the international community.

First of all, it must be said that at the forthcoming UN General Assembly session, we intend to focus on five main spheres.

This is a matter of politics, economy, energy, environment and humanitarian issues. Today, during our meeting, I have outlined the fundamental principles that guide Turkmenistan's activities in the world.

Again I want to underline that these policies are immutable and not subject to revision. Based on these, we intend to speak at the UN session with a number of specific initiatives which will make the work of the international community more efficient and effective and intended to be an instrument of practical action to sort out current existing issues on the abovementioned spheres.

On the first of these, in political sphere, Turkmenistan will propose the working out of the Declaration on the priority use of political and diplomatic means to resolve international issues followed by its consideration at the UN General Assembly.

In our view, the adoption of this Declaration will significantly reduce the use of force in resolving conflicts in international relations, and also reduce the associated risks and threats to the overall stability and security.

We have previously proposed a number of initiatives to maintain peace and stability in Central Asia and Caspian Sea region. These initiatives were welcomed. The next logical step in our view must be representative Forum on security to be conducted in these regions.

Turkmenistan will offer to host this Forum next year. As one of the political outcomes of this Forum we consider it appropriate to establish the Consultative Council on Peaceful Development in Central Asia and the Caspian region.

Our country intends to put forward several proposals aimed at developing transportation at the regional and interregional levels, optimization of the activities of the international financial institutions in Central Asia.

We will continue to work actively within the UN on energy issues. You know, that Turkmenistan is one of the initiators of the starting of a multilateral dialogue with a view to develop international legal mechanisms governing the transit and transportation of energy.

Speaking for further consistent step up efforts in this regard, Turkmenistan at the forthcoming session will propose a specific initiative to give impetus to move the appropriate international dialogue on energy.

Vital importance is traditionally attached to environmental issues and environment protection. We will actively promote international cooperation in this regard. At the 66th session we will offer a series of measures aimed at tackling problems of climate change as well as preserving unique natural resources of the Caspian Sea. Our proposals will be of the very specific character.

With regard to humanitarian issues, here, in particular, we intend to take advantage of our permanent membership to the Executive Committee of the UN High Commissioner for Refugees for the practical implementation of measures aimed at protecting of refugees rights. We consider it useful to share with the UN High Commissioner for Refugees to carry out work to familiarize with the experience of Turkmenistan on these issues and to convene in Ashgabat International Meeting with the participation of all interested parties in 2012.

Mainly these are the tasks of Turkmenistan for the upcoming General Assembly session. The purpose of our proposals and initiatives is in the pursuit of strategic policy and comprehensive way to strengthen the partnership with the UN to achieve universal goals, foremost of which is to preserve and consolidate peace, stability and security.

We believe that in contemporary world there should be no lane lines or barriers to national, ethnic and religious signs. For all its variety, the world is one and every country, every nation is unique particle of human civilization, which makes its own unique contribution to its development and progress.

Dear Friends! Ambassadors of different countries, representatives of international organizations accredited in Turkmenistan are here today! On this occasion, I would like to express my gratitude to all of them for their professionalism, positive attitude towards Turkmenistan and the Turkmen people, for their sincere desire to strengthen ties with our country.

Dear Ambassadors, we highly appreciate your work and always ready to help you and extend our assistance in your important diplomatic activities.

Dear Friends! There are also students of this Institute in this hall. Addressing to you, I want to say that you, students of the Institute – you are the generation which has grown up and formed in the years of Independence. In the near future, you will form the basis of the Turkmen Foreign Service, you will represent Turkmenistan in different countries and international organizations, in the sphere of foreign economic relations, international information and legal area. Be worthy of the high degree of responsibility assigned to you, love your country, be proud of it, be patriotic, but at the same time, always respect other countries and peoples, their history, culture and traditions.

Your mission is to serve your country in order to promote international peace, friendship and cooperation. These high ideals must be your guiding star, your main idea – today in school, and tomorrow – in your professional activities.

On this momentous, I sincerely wish You all good health, great success, dedication, effort, and I say: «Good luck!»

In conclusion, let me once again warmly congratulate the teachers and students of the Institute of International Relations on beginning of the academic year in this beautiful new building.

Thank You for your attention.

Congratulation to the Participants of the Opening Ceremony of Hazar Gas Compressor Station

(September 17, 2011)

Dear Compatriots! Dear Friends! With all my heart I congratulate You on construction and commissioning of Hazar gas compressor station on the eve of the 20th Anniversary of independence of our neutral Fatherland!

Turkmenistan, possessing huge stocks of hydrocarbon raw materials, is recognized in the world as the largest energy power. Today we are not limited with effective utilization of our natural resources for well-being of our people, but also we direct them for the benefit of all mankind, solution of power supply issues in the world. Bright example for that are large-scale measures, undertaken by us according to new energy strategy, called to provide modernization of deliveries of natural gas to the international markets.

Dear Friends! Building of Hazar gas compressor station testifies about successful realization of measures on creation of highly effective gas infrastructure of Turkmenistan.

Because of absence of modern gas-collecting systems, extracted operation casing-head gas was burnt in torches. With putting this station into operation we can successfully realize programmes on utilization of the casing-head gas.

Construction of Hazar gas compressor station has strategic value in creation of a single complex on collection, preparation and transportation of casing-head gas, extracted in the Southwest of Turkmenistan. It is intended for collection of casing-head gas from coastal and sea deposits and its running to Goturdepe gas compressor, and then to gas lifting system and gas Central Asia – Centre III pipeline. Thus, the station opens ample opportunities for sending of the casing-head gas, extracted at the Caspian Sea coast to foreign countries.

Currently, Turkmennebit State Concern conducts industrial working out of almost thirty deposits located on the dry land. Successful developing by Turkmen oilmen of the Northern Goturdep deposits in coastal zone of the Caspian Sea and the high results, reached by them is one more large achievement of oil and gas branch of the country.

In recent years, the work on development of the new deposits, carried out in the framework of perspective projects realized by the oil and gas complex has considerably become more active. Among recently installed and put into operation deposits, it is possible to name the deposits as Chekishler, Garadurun, Southern Kamyshlyja and Nebitlije, located in the northern region of the country. Among the most perspectives ones is Altyguyi new deposit. Oil from the first drilled well has been already delivered to Turkmenbashy Oil Refineries.

We attach great magnitude to building of such modern erections, urged to serve for supplementary expansion of the national economy, for we carry out big work for the sake of prosperity of our independent Fatherland.

Dear Friends! Dear Participants of the Ceremony! Once again from the bottom of my heart I congratulate You on building and start-up of Hazar gas compressor station! I wish each of You sound health, long life, well-being, success in work.

The Speech at the 66th Session of the United Nations General Assembly

(New York, September 23, 2011)

Esteemed Mr. President! Esteemed Mr. Secretary-General!
Dear Heads of Delegations! Ladies and gentlemen!

I heartily greet You and congratulate on the opening of the 66th Session of the UN General Assembly.

I congratulate the Esteemed Mr. Nassir Abdulaziz al-Nasser on the election to the post of President of the 66th Session of the UN General Assembly and believe that the General Assembly will work successfully and fruitfully under his leadership. Let me express my gratitude to the President of the 65th Session Mr. Joseph Deiss for his effective activity on this post.

Availing myself of this opportunity, I would like to congratulate once again Mr. Ban Ki-moon on the re-election as UN Secretary-General and wish him great successes.

Esteemed Mr. President! Ladies and Gentlemen!

As in previous years, this forum is a continuation of the process of elaborating of the adequate approaches to the complicated phenomena of the modern world, searching for an appropriate response to the issues of global significance. The need to take systematic measures through the identification of clear goals, the vision of the prospects and the choice of effective international mechanisms for achieving these goals becomes more evident.

Turkmenistan formulates these goals as follows: Peace Through Development.

Today, these concepts cannot be considered separately. Particularly direct interrelation between peace and development opens up wide opportunities for consolidation of the political will, intellectual and material resources of the Community of Nations.

This is essential for the development of the sustainable, stable and at the same time flexible and balanced system of modern international relationships in the political, economical and humanitarian spheres.

This is an ambitious objective, and we believe that the responsibility for implementing it, first and foremost, lies with the United Nations. Turkmenistan proceeds from it, forming its approaches to the issues of reaching stable peace and security, achieving the Millennium Development Goals and implementing the humanitarian cooperation.

Viewing the strict compliance with the Charter of the United Nations as a fundamental condition for long-term peace and strategic stability, Turkmenistan steadily and consistently pursues the policy of peace, good neighbourliness and active contribution to the peaceful processes. We strongly deny the use of military force as an instrument of foreign policy and interstate relations.

We believe that the solutions found through force have no prospects today and neither eliminate sources and reasons for contradictions nor ensure adequate responses to many problems, emerging in the post conflict periods in most cases.

Therefore, Turkmenistan attaches paramount importance to the regulation of any situation by peaceful means and methods. In this context and strict compliance with the fundamental documents of the United Nations, we suggest that the current session start drafting the Declaration on the priority use of political and diplomatic tools to tackle international issues which will be presented to the UN General Assembly for further consideration. To our point of view, adopting this Declaration will enable to considerably minimize the use of force for resolving contradictions in intergovernmental relations and reduce the relevant risks and threats to global stability and security.

We have put forward a number of initiatives at the regional level to maintain peace and stability in Central Asia and the Caspian Sea Basin. These initiatives were welcomed positively. In our opinion, the new step must be the high-level forum on security in Central Asia and the Caspian region. Turkmenistan offers to host this forum the next year. We believe that the establishment of the Advisory Board on peaceful development in Central Asia and the Caspian region may become one of the political outcomes of this forum.

Esteemed Mr. President! While speaking about the need to ensure security on a global scale we mean not only its political component.

Global security is viewed as a holistic framework based on the combination and indivisibility of key factors defining the vectors which define modern global development.

It is a solution to economic, energy, environmental, food and humanitarian challenges. It is also obvious today that global security cannot be provided without achieving peace and harmony at the national and regional levels.

Guiding by it, Turkmenistan directs its efforts to provide utmost support for the sustainable development processes, achieve the Millennium Development Goals and create the effective models of multilateral collaboration for solution of vital international issues. The reliable and stable transit of energy carriers to the world markets is one of these challenges.

Our proposals on this range of problems have found support of the international community, reflected in the Resolution of the General Assembly, adopted in 2008. I believe the time to start elaborating specific measures for settlement of the issues of energy transit has come.

With the purpose of uniting efforts of the UN Member States, taking an active part in formation of the international legal basis in the sphere of energy provision, Turkmenistan considers reasonable the establishment of new mechanism – the Interregional Energy Dialogue under the aegis of the United Nations, assuming that the Organization will actively promote establishment of such format of cooperation like transparent and opened for all. We see the states of Central and South Asia, the Caspian, Black Sea and Baltic regions, Russia, China, the European Union, countries of the Middle and Near East, all states, companies and international financial institutions, interested in it among its participants.

The awareness of the community of the long-term goals of development and readiness to achieve together their implementation by the UN Member States acts today as a determinant condition of the sustainability of the global economic system.

The serious consequences of the global financial and economic crisis once again showed necessity of uniting efforts on formation of the viable models and realistic plans, based on the interests and needs of all countries of the world. Turkmenistan intends to take an active part in this process and promote exchange of successful experience, gained by our country in a number of directions of the social and economic development. We are ready to do it through the relevant UN bodies, first of all, in the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations. Our country nominates itself for the membership in this authoritative body for 2013–2015. We prepare with great responsibility for this work, and in the case of election, we will spare no efforts for successful fulfillment of the assigned tasks.

Turkmenistan will also participate in the World Summit Rio+20 in 2012. We consider it as a major event in the process of further advancement along the way of realization of the goals of sustainable development, and we intend to put forward with a number of definite proposals in this forum.

In the context of maintaining of sustainable economic growth, I would like to dwell on such most important component as a development of modern transport infrastructure.

During a number of years, our country together with partners in the region actively works on implementation of the large projects on optimization of the traffic flows on the Eurasian space. We consider that it is very perspective direction with taking into account of the great potential of the North–South and East–West transport corridors.

Their effective use is capable to give a powerful impetus to the development of the economic and trade relations in the continental scale. We suppose that the UN can play an important role of a coordinator in establishment of the international cooperation in sphere of transport. In this connection, Turkmenistan suggests to start at the current session the drafting of the UN Special Transport Development Programme, providing the studying of the transit-transportation opportunities between the Caspian and Black Seas, Central Asia and the Middle East.

Esteemed Mr. President! The ecological sphere is a priority direction of the international cooperation of Turkmenistan.

We respect the initiatives and decisions adopted in Copenhagen and Cancun in the course of Summits on issues of the climate change.

We expect the continuation of the constructive international dialogue on this range of problems in November of the current year at the summit meeting in Durban.

We are confident in necessity of uniting efforts in this sphere at global, regional and national levels, the necessity of coordination of actions of each of state with the UN.

Speaking about it, I would like to emphasize that Turkmenistan the scaled document – the National Strategy on Climate Change, which we are ready to present to the corresponding UN bodies as our contribution to our joint work after its completion, is prepared currently.

We consider that in the context of closer multilateral interaction it will possible to start the formation of the systematic mechanisms in this sphere in the course of the current session.

Turkmenistan proposes to establish a specialized structure – the UN Interregional Centre on Climate Change for this purpose. We are ready to provide the necessary infrastructure in the capital of Turkmenistan, the city of Ashgabat.

The most important issue, going far beyond the regional frameworks is the ecology of the Caspian Sea. Here, we are also confident in necessity of attaching definite content to the international efforts in preservation of unique natural resources of the Caspian Sea. In this connection, we put forward the proposal of establishment of the Caspian Ecological Forum as a permanent body for consideration of the issues on the environmental protection in the Caspian Basin and elaboration of the relevant proposals and recommendations.

Ladies and Gentlemen! The achievement of the goals of sustainable development is directly connected with solution of issues of the humanitarian character, support of the natural human rights, opportunities of self-realization of the personality, aspiration for deserving and full-value life of the people.

In this connection, our country will further cooperate with the UN agencies of the humanitarian direction with purpose of fulfillment of the UN conventions on human rights.

Being a permanent member of the Executive Committee of the High Commissioner for Refugees, Turkmenistan will actively promote the practical realization of measures, aimed at their protection and support.

We consider useful to carry out the work jointly with the UN High Commissioner for Refugees on familiarization with experience of Turkmenistan in enfranchisement of refugees and stateless persons and organize with these purposes of the International meeting with participation of all interested parties in 2012 in the city of Ashgabat.

Esteemed Mr. President! Esteemed Members of Delegations! The tasks, set before our Organization, are complicated and scaled. However, they are realistic and achievable because we have the common goal – to make the world better, fairer and more humane. The common values and common responsibility unite us. We are united in our aspiration to advance.

We rely on the great experience, gained during decades of existence of the United Nations, on the will, intellect and wisdom of the Community of Nations. The components of our common success are in them.

Today, every country makes its own unique contribution to the progress and development of mankind.

It opens great opportunities for origination and implementation of new ideas, elaboration of innovative models of interaction for solution of key problems of the present time.

Turkmenistan is ready to take an active part in this activity, firmly following the strategic course of close and comprehensive cooperation with the United Nations Organization.

Thank You for your attention.

Statement at the Meeting of Council of Elders of Turkmenistan

(Ashgabat, October 25, 2011)

Dear Elders! Dear Friends! My Dear Compatriots! On this grand day, uniting all of us through our love for the unified, free and independent Homeland, I am immensely proud of the path we have passed, and I speak to Your hearts!

For 20 years, we have been confidently moving hand in hand along the path of creation and progress. Every day, thanks to our inspired work, unprecedented efforts and achievements, the foundation of the new life that came to the ancient Turkmen land is growing stronger.

These days we are widely and in a grand way celebrating the 20th Anniversary of sacred Independence of our Motherland. This truly historic date is particularly important to each of us. We celebrate this glorious holiday full of joy and pride for the great achievements in economy, social sphere, science and culture. Turkmenistan celebrates the 20th anniversary of its independence as a modern and competitive state with the solid foundation, enormous economic and human potential, successfully carrying out large-scale transformations in all spheres of social life!

The 20th Anniversary of glorious independence is not only a big day for our people, but also a great opportunity to look back and give a sincere assessment of the traversed path, to understand from a historical perspective the value of what we have achieved, to identify challenges ahead.

20 years ago, with the support of the international community, Turkmenistan gained the legal status of independent state. This historic event embodied the centuries-old hopes and aspirations of many generations of the Turkmen people.

Our great poet and thinker Magtymguly expressed these great aspirations of our people in the poetic line: «I Want a Sovereign State!». In history, 20 years are simply a moment, a very short period of time. However, our young independent state and its people have undergone fundamental and crucial changes in this small by historical standards interval. Undoubtedly, the path passed by the country in the years of independence is worthy of careful analysis and comprehension by historians and political scientists, economists and social scientists.

However, it is clearly seen now that we have achieved the main goals over the years of independence, while paying much attention to every individual person, personality and respect of his rights and freedoms, his dignity, development and prosperity. All this has found reflection in our capacious motto – «The State is for People!»

The adoption of the Constitution of Turkmenistan on May 18, 1992 was a major event in achieving the high goals of independence. The key principles of state government described in the Constitution, the fundamental legal provisions based on the experience of the world and national democracy, the generally recognized principles and norms of international law, the status of permanent neutrality gained by our country, the model of social and democratic development, the transition to the market economy and implementation of strategically important state programmes – all this received a solid legal basis.

The Constitution of independent Turkmenistan legally strengthened the desire and aspiration of people to build a secular, democratic and legal state. The priority of human interests, respect of the universally recognized norms of international law in relation to the citizens' rights and freedoms, recognition and adherence to the world culture – these are the basic directions of Turkmenistan's policy. This principle is reflected in the Constitution of Turkmenistan.

In accordance with the provisions of the Constitution, Turkmenistan established the bodies of state power and administration. Turkmenistan has successfully implemented political, economic and legal reforms that have contributed to the strengthening of independence in an atmosphere of national unity and peace, national integrity, dynamic development of economy and significant increase in living standards. This work is continuing now.

From the first years of independence, protection of the rights and freedoms and ensuring high level of social and living standards of people were declared key priorities and policies of the state. Based on these priorities, each stage of the country's development towards a market economy was accompanied by necessary measures for social protection. As an example, it is enough to mention unprecedented measures of social support such as free use of gas and electricity, water, salt, a symbolic payment for municipal services, as well as other benefits which were adopted in that difficult transitional period, and that are still valid today.

Such great attention to social protection of citizens of Turkmenistan was evidence of building an independent state committed to the principles of social equality, ensuring high-level social standards. I would like to reiterate that providing comprehensive support to ensure decent living conditions and harmonious development of every member of society was one of the major focuses of our state policy.

In order to ensure economic security of Turkmenistan we agreed on the major directions of the investment policy and industrial development of the country aimed at refocusing the primary industries on production of finished products and development of new sectors of the processing industry.

In solving these issues, our country has achieved good results. The structure of agricultural production has been transformed radically. Along with the fact that cotton growing remains the leading sector in agriculture, we have revived production of grains and strengthened the foundation for further development of animal husbandry. The reforms in the agrarian sector have helped us to achieve food independence. In addition, new tax and banking systems were created, and the foundations for development of the private sector and civil society were laid.

Along with consolidating the progress achieved over the years of independence taking into account political and economic changes in today's world, we solved all the new challenges to ensure the full-scale development of the Turkmen state and society. It should be noted that as a priority we set the task of reforming the systems of science and education. Thus, it became apparent in 2007 that independent Turkmen state will focus on creating a new information society in its further development. This society, requiring creative thinking of everyone, is based on high technologies and modern knowledge.

We initiated radical changes that provided for a set of measures and steps to create conditions for bringing educated, physically and mentally healthy young people, conditions for their fruitful work and decent recreation.

Among these important steps we should mention the establishment of the Academy of Sciences of Turkmenistan, the opening of post-graduate and doctoral studies, the establishment of international cooperation, promoting development of national science. Young people's desire for lifelong learning, their great interest in science suggests that in contemporary society the importance of intellectual work is growing.

The countrywide construction of new schools fitted out with modern equipment, enhancement of international relations in the field of education, the analysis of international experience in introducing innovative technologies indicate that the state pays special attention to the qualitative development of scientific and educational sectors.

Guided by cooperation with the United Nations, the European Union, the world's leading research and educational centres, we consistently introduce international standards in the humanitarian field.

Work on improving the education system requires of teachers the application of best international practices in combination with spiritual values and national traditions, the rich historical and cultural heritage of the Turkmen people.

Dear Elders! Dear Compatriots! At a time when the foundation for an independent Turkmen state was laid and the main path of development was outlined, we set a very important task – to introduce new technologies into all areas of the country's life, especially in the national economy. Today, we can say with confidence that the essence and meaning of the term «innovation» keeps determining the characteristics of the modern history of our country.

Diversification of the economy on the basis of innovation, greater investments, and harmonious development of all sectors and regions of the country, introduction of new methods of monetary, fiscal and pricing policies, development of market relations, state support for small and medium businesses are the main aspects of the economic strategy of our state.

The main areas of this strategy are reflected in the «National Programme of Social and Economic Development of Turkmenistan for 2011–2030». This programme clearly stated the fundamental approaches to the further development of the economy with an emphasis on best practices, innovative technologies and intellectual potential of the nation.

As you know, the fuel and energy complex is a leading sector of the national economy. Introduction of new technologies in this sector is crucial. The fuel and energy sector is being developed comprehensively. It is being improved systematically and provided with the latest equipment and technologies. New oil and gas fields are being intensively developed on the right bank of the Amyderya River, the Caspian coast and Southern Yoloten. The dynamic and sustainable socio-economic development of Turkmenistan is supported by the growing interest from numerous foreign partners to cooperate with our country.

As a state producing oil and gas in great volumes, Turkmenistan intends to maintain equal and mutually beneficial cooperation in the energy sphere with different nations of the world. At the same time, we are pleased that our partners understand the importance of energy security and the need to develop completely new methods to ensure this security.

The world famous companies and enterprises operate in the energy sector of Turkmenistan. They mainly work as part of agreements for provision of special services. We also work closely with foreign companies in preparation of joint projects in the electricity sector, use of alternative energy sources and, above all, solar and wind energy.

During the years of independence, we have achieved great successes in the gas industry, and successfully put in practice the policy of creating a multi-vector pipeline system. As you know, in 2009 and 2010 the gas pipeline Turkmenistan–China and new branch of Turkmenistan–Iran pipeline were built and put into operation. Work is well underway to implement the project initiated by Turkmenistan on construction of the gas pipeline Turkmenistan – Afghanistan – Pakistan – India. Construction of this pipeline, which can give a powerful boost to the economy of our nearest neighbour – Afghanistan – will help to solve the major social problems, including issues relating to job creation and, moreover, will help attract investment to this country. Eventually, it will have a positive effect on stabilizing a political situation in this friendly country and throughout the region.

The high rates of socio-economic development of Turkmenistan are most clearly illustrated by the radical changes in key sectors such as construction, textiles, transport and communications. As part of diversification of the national economy, a modern textile industry with high-tech equipment has been established in our country. The dynamic development of this industry is important in addressing crucial social issues. The bulk of modern enterprises of this industry has been built in the regions of Turkmenistan. This allowed us to provide jobs for people living in the country's regions and to increase people's income.

The transportation system of the country is developing and improving. Located at the crossroads of transport routes that connect continents, Turkmenistan efficiently uses all the possibilities for mutually beneficial trade and economic relations in the interests of our country. Among major ongoing projects is the project on construction of the North–South railway that gives European and Asian countries the opportunity to reach the Persian Gulf through Turkmenistan. The ancient Silk Road is being reborn through construction of this road in the light of requirements of the present day.

The road transport sector is also developing rapidly. New roads and bridges are being built, and existing roads are being reconstructed. The construction of Farap–Turkmenbashy and Ashgabat–Garagum–Dashoguz highways is being carried out in strict accordance with international standards. A ring road around the capital city is also being rapidly built.

Much work is being done to accelerate introduction of advanced communication systems in the country. The number of mobile phone and Internet users is growing every year.

Thanks to the radical transformations in the country, development of agriculture has been taken to the new level, along with other sectors of the economy. We can not but be proud of the man-made water reservoir – Altyn Asyr Turkmen Lake, accumulating water in the heart of the Garagum desert. In terms of drainage and reclamation performance, this lake should exemplify an environmental standard for the entire region. There is no need to speak about the importance of this grand hydraulic engineering work for the revival of agriculture of the country, ensuring the great job of food supply in the country.

Systematically providing this industry with reliable agricultural machinery, we have significantly strengthened its material-technical base. We have managed to create food abundance in the country by transforming the forms of ownership, gradually introducing market relations, supporting entrepreneurship.

Extensive work is being carried out to increase production and improve quality of agricultural products, profitability and efficiency of the agricultural sector, to increase the export capacity of the industry, to improve significantly working and living conditions of rural people and full-scale development of the Turkmen village. Due to all these activities, this year our country joined for the first time in its history the list of countries exporting grain.

We pay much attention to the health care system and introduction of healthy lifestyles in society. This is clear evidence of the pronounced socialized policy of the state. Today, popular wisdom «The Health of Nation is the Country's Wealth!» acquires special significance, because the concept «health of people», being a political, strategic category, is the first criterion of national security and social welfare. Turkmenistan created a national model of health care based on the wisdom and rich experience of our ancestors, as well as taking into account the modern world trends in this area. At present, the system of health care in our country is the most important and integral component in ensuring a high level of social life for all people and every citizen. Modern diagnostic centres, maternal and child health care centres, new hospitals and other health facilities are operating all over the country. In addition, dozens of new medical centres, city and district hospitals and health centres are being built at a high pace.

Great work is being done in the country to protect environment, create opportunities for mass sport and recreation and to raise awareness of healthy lifestyles, honouring the spiritual and moral values. In short, development of the national health system is one of the major areas in ensuring national security, and it is a priority task of the state with a highly developed culture.

Achieving more successes in the sphere of national health care is also significantly supported by effective international cooperation. Turkmen doctors collaborate with the World Health Organization, the United Nations Development Programme, the Joint United Nations Programme on Human Immunodeficiency Syndrome, the UN Office on Drugs and Crime, the UN Children's Fund and the UN Population Fund, the United States Agency for International Development and other international organizations.

There are all necessary conditions in our country for productive activities of these international organizations. The multifaceted cooperation with these organizations is systematic. The international certificates awarded to our country are clear evidence of recognition by the international community of the achievements in public health, including prevention of a number of serious infectious diseases and their elimination.

In fact, Turkmenistan was the first country in the Commonwealth of Independent States and Central Asia and the fourth in the world to ensure iodization of table salt in accordance with generally accepted international standards. To this effect, our country was awarded a certificate in 2004. In 2010, Turkmenistan was awarded a certificate of a malaria-free country as a deserved estimate of the work done in this area. In order to prevent diseases that occur due to iron deficiency in humans Turkmenistan implements a number of large-scale projects on enrichment of food with iron, particularly flour and salt. Our country is annually awarded certificates from the World Health Organization and in other areas of work.

The scale of the Olympic movement is steadily growing in Turkmenistan. An increasing number of sportsmen uphold the honour of the country in international competitions. It was decided to hold the world championship in cycling in Turkmenistan in 2016. On December 20, 2010 the Olympic Council of Asia adopted a special decision to hold the fifth Asian Games in Ashgabat in 2017, which is evidence of the high international prestige of our country and international recognition of the great achievements in all spheres of public life. This also opens up new possibilities for development of the sports movement and strengthening health care of people.

Development of tourism, radical modernization of resort and recreational areas are also one of the most important vectors of this work. At present, a large-scale project on development of the Avaza National Tourist Zone on the Caspian Sea coast is being implemented in full. Luxury hotels and beautiful resorts are being erected with all conditions for recreation and health care. The Avaza National Tourist Zone is one of the most important initiatives that we are implementing.

The main goal of this project is full implementation of very important areas of the state policy such as improving the efficiency of the national economy and its diversification, ensuring a high level of welfare of people. This beautiful corner of the Turkmen land with favorable environmental conditions, healing mineral springs and mud, beaches with golden sand that nature bestowed on us is turning into a fairy land right before our eyes. There are all conditions for recreation and leisure and ecotourism.

After major reconstruction a second life has been given to the Bayramali resort where nature created the unique environment for healing many diseases, the health spa Mollagara with therapeutic mud and the Archman resort that has been operating in the country for many years. New buildings of Farap and Yylysuw sanatoriums were constructed. All these resorts and health centres of the country are fitted out with modern medical equipment. Significant vouchers discounts to these sanatoriums are provided.

In the future, we plan to study mineral water of Koytendag, the therapeutic thermal mud of Balkan Mountains, the unique sources of Syunt-Hasardag, the various fields of mineral waters in the Garagum Desert, in the Badkhyz plain and in the amazing natural caves of mountainous terrain.

There are all opportunities in our country for development of modern forms of international tourism – environmental, sports, cultural and other types. Already now, white-marble Ashgabat is rightly called the «Pearl of Asia», and Avaza National Tourist Zone meets all international standards for development of urban and marine tourism. Children's health centres built or under construction in a beautiful corner of nature called Gokdere and on the ecological Caspian Sea coast are clear evidence of our care of health and harmonious upbringing of the younger generation.

The past 20 years have been the heyday of our culture and spiritual renewal of society in the fullest sense of the word. In the years of independence we started a comprehensive analysis of the rich cultural heritage of the Turkmen people with a long glorious history. This heritage has been restored and carefully preserved as a national and universal heritage. Our cultural heritage is a key strategic resource for development of nation and state. We will continue paying special attention to protection, promotion, revival and analysis of our historical and cultural heritage, as well as its careful preservation for present and future generations.

Today, with a view to preserving for future generations the priceless heritage that we inherited from many generations of our ancestors, we multiply the glory of the great Turkmen thinkers and poets, we look back and perpetuate the names of the outstanding sons of our people in sculptural monuments.

The land of Turkmenistan is the birthplace of not only wonderful carpets, as the products of the talent to create beauty that is inherent in our people and transmitted from generation to generation, not only of the world-famous beautiful and playful Akhalteke horses, who are the fruit of the selection talent of our people, but also the birthplace of Zoroaster, who won the hearts of many generations of people on the planet.

This land was home to the great thinkers who created their immortal works such as heroic epics «Gorkut Ata» and «Gorogly» that for centuries played a determining role in development of consciousness of Turkic peoples. Outstanding thinker Magtymguly and other classical poets of our national literature created their beautiful works in this land.

Our land is also rich in unique natural monuments and scenic places. Among them is one of the largest deserts of the planet – the Garagum Desert, which stores untold wealth in its bosom, a special life force that greatly influenced the formation of the spiritual world of the Turkmen people.

Turkmenistan, a successor to ancient advanced civilizations, is widely promoting its invaluable spiritual heritage through cultural co-operation with major international organizations and countries. Above all, this is about cooperation with the UN Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, where we have good experience of partnership in preserving the outstanding cultural values of the Turkmen people. Back in 1999, our national pride – the Ancient Merv with all its monuments was included in the UNESCO World Heritage List. And then, Koneurgench monuments and Nisa also received the status of sites of universal significance.

Having acceded to the Convention for the Protection of the World Cultural and Natural Heritage of the UN Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, Turkmenistan committed itself to careful preservation for future generations of the unique fund – the whole complex of cultural and natural sites located in the territory of our country. Working in this area, we significantly strengthen the foundation for the future that we are building and contribute to the enrichment of modern civilization.

Numerous cultural events that we hold together with a number of foreign countries are clear evidence of the enhanced cultural ties with the international community and effectiveness of cooperation in this field. For example, it is now a good tradition to hold the Days of Culture of friendly states in our country and the Days of Turkmen Culture in foreign countries.

Turkmenistan, guided by its spiritual heritage, customs and traditions, sees such interaction of the world cultures as a solid foundation of international relations. We regard building a dialogue with the international community on the basis of ethical and human values and comparing our achievements with theirs as an essential condition for a state with developed culture in the 21st century, which is a measurement of a civilized society.

Modern independent Turkmenistan implements the strategy of renewal and innovations in an environment of broad international cooperation. The principles of neutrality lie in the basis of our cooperation with neighbouring countries and the international community. Turkmenistan, being a member of the global community of nations, having adopted its unchanging principles of mutually beneficial cooperation and openness in the name of common interests, worthy of recognition and support, has taken very important steps on the path to successful integration into the international system of coordinates.

This positive approach of our country has been largely predetermined by the legal status of neutrality that 185 countries delegated to Turkmenistan on December 12, 1995, which is now an important factor of security and sustainable development in Central Asia. Supporting stability and security in the world, establishing friendly relations with the countries of the world, working closely with major international organizations, primarily with the United Nations are the priorities of our foreign policy.

In the history of relations between Turkmenistan and the UN, there are many specific examples of mutually beneficial and effective partnership, joint implementation of a number of important projects, including in the field of democracy and law. At present, a number of structural institutions of the world's largest organization work in Turkmenistan on a permanent basis. They are the United Nations Development Programme, the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, the United Nations Children Fund, the United Nations Population Fund, the Regional Centre for Preventive Diplomacy for Central Asia and others, with whom Turkmenistan cooperate on a regular basis. The UN Development Assistance Framework for Turkmenistan for 2010–2015 is proof of this.

Close cooperation has been also established in the fight against international terrorism, extremism, organized transnational crime, illicit drug trafficking.

Our country has great potential for international cooperation. Every year there appear new promising areas for this cooperation. Turkmenistan takes active part in the work of the United Nations. At high rostrum of the United Nations we put forward our initiatives for establishment of various forms of cooperation and development of specific forms of this cooperation. For example, energy security is one of the key vectors of interaction of Turkmenistan with the United Nations and the international community.

As you know, Turkmenistan proposed in 2008 to establish a multifaceted broad discussion on this issue under the UN patronage. The Resolution «Reliable and Stable Transit of Energy and its Role in Sustainable Development and International Cooperation» adopted by the UN General Assembly on December 19, 2008 with the support from the entire world community became an important first step in this direction.

Our country sponsored many constructive international initiatives. Turkmenistan offered the international community the concept of peaceful coexistence and sustainable development in the complex Central Asian region. Turkmenistan's election as Vice-President of the 62nd and 64th Sessions of the United Nations, the opening in Ashgabat of the UN Regional Centre for Preventive Diplomacy for Central Asia, as well as many other Turkmenistan's initiatives helping to solve the key issues of our time are the graphic confirmation of the growing international prestige of our country. The international community highly appreciates the achievements of Turkmenistan in creating a stable, successfully developed, competitive state, as well as the policies to strengthen national unity.

These issues primarily relate to ensuring universal energy security. More specifically, this is about establishing an expert group under the UN auspices to develop effective mechanisms on ensuring safe and secure transit of energy resources to the world markets, and to establish a special body – the Energy Council of the United Nations in the future.

Other initiatives of Turkmenistan such as establishment of a high-level forum on security and cooperation in the Caspian Sea region, settlement of the situation in Afghanistan by political means and restoring the economy of this country, addressing environmental issues in the region, including saving the Aral Sea, rehabilitation and preservation of the unique natural complex of the Caspian Sea, efficient management of water resources received considerable attention in the world.

Turkmenistan's relations with neighbouring countries as well as the Russian Federation, the People's Republic of China, the United States and the European Union rose to the next level. At the same time, the existing common interest and desire to expand cooperation that includes political, economic and humanitarian aspects are an important factor in this area.

After 20 years of independence it is clearly seen that the chosen path of development of Turkmenistan – modernization in all spheres of public life on the basis of national identity in combination with the peace-loving foreign policy of positive neutrality was correct.

The fact that our country has turned into a giant construction site also proves the right course chosen by Turkmenistan. The look of Turkmen towns and villages have been completely changed. There were built many new facilities, modern roads, international airports, railway lines, and advanced telecommunications technologies were introduced.

The current progress of our country not only increases prosperity of the Turkmen people, but also determines the stable development of the region, making a positive effect on the establishment of peace, mutual understanding and trust among nations.

What should be said when we look back at the distance passed? First and foremost, I want to give an adequate assessment of the achievements made by our creative, peace loving people, guided by wise life principles and inviolable self-confidence.

Dear Friends, at the current difficult time, when the geopolitical map of the world has been shaken by tremendous calamities, the Turkmen people have not only demonstrated extraordinary patience and endurance, but also showed that in any situation they can protect, as the apple of an eye, peace and tranquility in our land and defend their sacred hearth!

And this is the path chosen by our people. This inviolable self-confidence of people is based on the will and unshakable faith inherited from our courageous ancestors as our core values of life. Our country, formerly a raw material region and remote corner of the Soviet state, by fate has found itself in the movement of global events. All these developments have also had an impact on us. But our fate depended only on us.

On the one hand, great historical opportunities opened for us, and on the other we faced great difficulties in finding our way. It was impossible to use the vast natural resources, the enormous potential of the country for the benefit of the people without their inexhaustible strength and power. However, strength and power of people are the result of trust in the state, the fruits of its customs, traditions and worldview.

The great credit goes to the first President of Turkmenistan, Saparmyrat Niyazov – Turkmenbashy, who made the good will and desire of people the main principle of his policy. It is this will and desire that was a driving force in our social and national development, and it remains so.

Today, when 20 years have already passed as the main condition of the young independent state that proclaimed love for peace and humanity as the fundamental principle of its policy one can clearly see the rightfulness of the chosen path that aims at uniting and consolidating all social forces.

This path that follows the will and desire of people and mentality of the nation has gradually formed a harmonious political system. The basis of this system is neutrality, as the way to self-awareness of the nation and state in the variable and transforming world environment.

It is impossible to enumerate all the deeds carried out in such a short period of history. You all were the participants and eyewitnesses to the grand art development that has radically transformed the face of the country. The transformations have equally taken place in the capital and other cities and most remote regions of the country. The notion such as «remote region» has lost its relevance because of the introduction of criteria and standards of a developed culture in the regions.

The present day Turkmenistan is a country that managed to bring economic development and scientific and technological capabilities to a high level, making it possible to turn all the wealth of the generous land not only to the benefit of native people but all mankind. We are building gas pipelines in all directions, as well as transportation routes reaching up to the regions in Europe, Asia and the Middle East and uniting the continents. We export our textile products to half the countries of the world.

And we invite the other half of the countries to various conferences, symposia, seminars held in our country. During these events, we discuss our interests and capacities, plans and intentions to establish close business relationships. In implementing our plans we are inspired by excellent examples of the masterpieces created by our ancestors such as magnificent carpets and horses. They got the immortal glory of being the first in the world.

Celebrating the 20th Anniversary of our sacred Independence, we are also celebrating the creation of the State, which is bringing up literally the generations of people who are able to realize the most ambitious programmes and ideas. If in the past we used to invite experts from foreign countries to implement projects known as projects of the century such as development of hydrocarbon resources, laying the foundation for the construction or textile industries, today we rely more and more on the national staff.

As an example, I want to name great achievements of Turkmenistan's oilmen who are involved in exploring hydrocarbon resources of the Caspian Sea, the geologists discovering huge reserves of oil and gas, the construction workers that built a wonderful Art City in Ashgabat, as well as industrious people of different professions, who made a worthy contribution to the development of our state, strengthening its economic power owing to their hard work, knowledge and inexhaustible strength and courage. Dear Compatriots, glory and honour to these faithful people!

The defensive military doctrine is natural for our country. However, this does not mean that our state does not keep abreast with the latest achievements in the military sphere. The feeling of patriotism and love of country that is inherent in our people is becoming a professional feature of soldiers protecting integrity of borders and sovereignty of the country, honestly serving in the army, which is being modernized in accordance with modern principles and patterns. The National Army, Navy, Border Troops, law enforcement agencies of the country, provision of our army with modern weapons, social and household issues in this sphere will always be in the focus of the government attention.

Dear Compatriots! I have already said that it is impossible to enumerate all the facilities constructed in our beautiful country in the last few years. This is not my objective. We can be proud of our roots and our future, our deeds, in which we invested our desire, work and love. Our dear children are our future. Our love for them we have made a state priority. Today, our children make victories at the international intellectual and art contests. They achieve the highest results in the world in chess and other sports. Soon, they will grow up and take part in the Asian Games to be held in the country in 2017. It is the success of our children that demonstrates the scope of work conducted in the country on bringing up physically and mentally healthy, highly moral young people.

Born in the early days of independence and reaching by now the age of 20, the new generation of citizens of Turkmenistan picks up the baton of further spiritual revival and creative development of the country. The generation of the same age as our Independence will assume full responsibility for the destiny of the Motherland and the people. I firmly believe that our young people will cope with this task with honour, because they are witness to a miracle – a great revival of their native land, which is an integral part of the advanced civilization of the entire planet!

Dear Elders! Dear Compatriots! Dear Friends! I also want to speak about our future tasks, to share with you the plans for future.

Indeed, in twenty years, having made an unprecedented historic leap, our country has turned from a backward, peripheral region to the developed, powerful, modern state. However, much work has yet to be done.

The heights we achieved, the great victories we scored should not dilute us. We are facing enormous challenges, equal to the global changes that are happening in the world. What are these very important main tasks? And what task can encompass the rest, what task can come to the foreground? This task is mainly about turning Turkmenistan from a predominantly agrarian country to an industrialized and powerful state.

This means not only construction of new factories in all parts of the country, but also construction of huge industrial complexes with a full production cycle and modern equipment. It also means that the country will need many workers. We need to raise a generation of specialists, capable to operate all modern communication and multimedia technologies. The future of our country will rest in the hands of these people. I see our country as a state with a high level information society, capable of solving complex challenges of the time, with a highly developed culture, driven by the progressive achievements of the human mind.

This also means that following to the sectoral principle in management of diversity, we get specific results that match all natural geographic and socio-psychological directions of the economic strategy and technological upgrading. In other words, we will adjust all the mineral resources of the country in accordance with the tasks to ensure the welfare of the people, and we will convert agriculture, production industry or oil and gas industry into the processing industries.

In agriculture, we will move from livestock grazing to livestock farms with well-automated advanced technologies. Thanks to cultivation of high-yielding varieties of crops and widespread adoption of greenhouses the agriculture industry rises to new levels. The multi-purpose irrigation system and experience of many centuries of ameliorative farming will enable us to completely solve the problem of water supply in the agricultural sector. In turn, we expect that the agricultural sector will not only fully ensure the food independence of the country, but also make it possible to export high quality, organic fruits and melons in significant quantities to other countries.

If we talk about the key industry of our country – the energy sector – in this area, considering the development of major oil fields, exports of gas to the world markets along with the further development of the gas pipeline system we envision establishing a deep processing of hydrocarbon resources on the basis of most modern technologies and production of high-quality variety of products such as gasoline, polypropylene, liquefied gas, petroleum oils that are in great demand in the world.

We will continue further developing our country. We will establish new districts and build residential complexes, schools, hospitals, museums, stadiums in our Motherland. Our country has already turned into the construction site. In the near future, our towns and villages will get new facilities and buildings, and most comfortable conditions will be created for people. Our hard-working people deserve the immense honour and respect, the most prosperous, fertile and happy life. Our people should enjoy all the benefits of modern civilization.

Dear Compatriots! These are our principles for realization of strategic future tasks to improve the social conditions of our brave people!

We will also continue developing our culture and widespread introduction of its main principles into social life. The Turkmen land has always been famous for outstanding people, who are able to influence society on a national scale. We will fully support people's desire and love for beauty.

It was noted not once by the experts and representatives of the world financial organizations, which highly estimated the economic and financial reforms, implemented in our country, where the increase of the investment dollars brought to the achievement of high results. Held in 2008, the stabilization of the exchange rate and later its denomination positively influenced on the Turkmen economy. It made it possible to achieve the stable exchange rate, brought to the accessibility of the foreign currency, strengthening of support of the small and medium-size entrepreneurship. In their reports large international financial organizations express their speculation about expectant dynamic development of economy of Turkmenistan in future as well.

Work of perfection of the financial and banking system will be further developed in our country. Beginning from January 1, 2012 the financial accounts will be conducted in all banking establishments in accordance with international standards, the introduction of the latest communicational technologies will be continued in the banking and financial sphere. To the Participants of the International Conference «The Global Integration of the Energy Markets is Maintenance of the Energy Security»

(November 3, 2011)

Dear Participants of the Conference! I cordially congratulate You on opening of the International Conference «The Global Integration of the Energy Markets is Maintenance of the Energy Security», which begins its work in our wonderful capital – the city of Ashgabat! I wish the work of the conference be successful and effective.

The regularly and multilateral consultations on delivery of the energy resources to the world markets on the stable and long-term basis, creation of the system of the multi-vector pipelines, achievement of their universal full-scale security and reliable transit are necessary for it. The political stability in the countries of Eurasia must be provided, all favorable conditions for harmonious development of the economies, including the legislative basis in the foreign economic activity must be created particularly in the interest of equal and mutually beneficial collaboration. Turkmenistan, being the great state-exporter of energy resources as a partner, recognized all over the world, has positive experience in this field.

The diversification is one of the main determinatives of the modern universal energy policy. Being one of the kinds of the international business, the pipeline transportation of the energy resources is in the zone of the regularly growing demand. In its turn, it increases demand of the world economy for the energy raw stuff, in particular, oil and gas resources, which in the nearest future will be very required for the whole world industry, including Turkmenistan, to increase the export potential, to create many-vector, modern, efficiently functioning system on transit and delivery of the energy resources to the consumers.

The energy security is the main component of the foreign economic strategy of our country, one of the key factors of its development. For this reason, diversification of energy routes in modern conditions and expansion of their geography due to involvement into collaboration of new counties and regions will promote increase of interest of the participants of the international energy market.

With a glance of colossal reserves of the natural gas, proved by the Turkmen and international experts as well as taking into account its demand for wide consumption in future, we plan to direct our pipelines to new, more profitable markets.

Dear Friends! Presently, our state actively develops its pipeline systems. In the result of diversification besides of the functioning Turkmenistan–Russia, Turkmenistan–Iran, Turkmenistan–China gas mains, the project of Turkmenistan–Afghanistan–Pakistan–Iran gas pipeline is discussed. The work, carried out on delivery of the Turkmen natural gas to Europe has become one of the main goals of the energy policy of Turkmenistan.

Successful realization of our energy strategy, first of all, presupposes studying of energy markets, account of needs in «blue fuel» of the country, wishing to purchase the natural gas. For this reason, the European direction is an important vector of our new energy politics.

Mutually beneficial interest of Turkmenistan and Europe in energy sphere is a natural process in the economic and commercial aspects. It, in its turn, promotes establishment of the mutually beneficial collaboration, and creates possibilities for its expansion. Activization of the interstate links of Turkmenistan with the European countries, opening in our country of House of Europe, signing of Memorandum on mutually understanding and cooperation in the field of energetics between Turkmenistan and the European Union, beginning of work in Ashgabat of the Representative Office of the European Commission – all this is a vivid proof of strengthening of relations between Turkmenistan and the European countries. The activity, performed by Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe deserves attention in this context.

Export of energy resources in the European direction is the most important peculiarity of the foreign policy strategy of Turkmenistan, and correspondently, the Trans-Caspian pipeline system is an important project, which testifies about readiness of Turkmenistan to the mutually beneficial collaboration with all interested parties.

Dear Participants of the Conference! I cordially congratulate You once again on the beginning of work of the International Conference «The Global Integration of the Energy Markets is Maintenance of the Energy Security». I am sure of successful holding of this International Conference.

I wish You all sound health, longevity, successes in Your activity! I wish successes to the work of the International Conference!

To the Participants of the International Exhibition «Oil and Gas of Turkmenistan–2011» and Scientific Conference «Development of Oil and Gas Industry of Turkmenistan within 20 Years of Independence and Perspectives of International Cooperation»

(November 15, 2011)

Dear Participants of the International Exhibition and Scientific Conference! Dear Friends! Dear Guests! I cordially congratulate You on the opening of the International Exhibition «Oil and Gas of Turkmenistan–2011» and Scientific Conference «Development of Oil and Gas Industry of Turkmenistan within 20 years of Independence and Perspectives of International Cooperation», held in the capital of our Motherland – Ashgabat! I wish You sound health, family wellbeing and great successes in the work.

The development of oil and gas industry is one of priority tasks in implemented in the country of reforming of all spheres of the national economy complex. As of today, a number of large deposits – Garabil, Gurrukbil on the right bank of the Amyderya River, the group of reserves in the Central Garagum Desert and others is developing in Turkmenistan.

We have set a task before ourselves at the recently held the Council of Elders of Turkmenistan on leading our country to the level of the industrially developed states of the world. The foundations of the large facilities, called to serve the interests of our people, have been laid and commissioned within 20 years of the sovereign development in the oil and gas sector.

Presently, the Turkmen specialists jointly with companies of China, the United Arab Emirates and the Republic of Korea develop the South Yoloten gas deposit. The foundation of the plant, processing potash fertilizers, was laid in the Garlyk Township of Koytendag etrap of Lebap velayat, the specialists of the Republic of Belarus carry out its construction. Our Japanese partners erect Ammonia and Carbamide Producing Plant in Mary velayat. The project of the construction of the third oil processing plant in the west of the country is elaborated. The large-scale measures are realized on production of goods, in the result of processing of oil and natural gas, widely used in the national economy. Generally speaking, it is difficult to count the number of buildings, commissioned and laid facilities in this branch.

Turkmenistan has a favourable geopolitical location and inexhaustible reserves of the hydrocarbon resources. Proceeding from it, we carry out much work on efficient consumption of colossal natural and economic potential in the interests of the present and next generations of the Turkmen people.

We consecutively implement the course, oriented on creation of the multi-vector routes of delivery of the energy resources to the world markets. Launching of Turkmenistan–China gas main, laying the foundation of the forming of new multivariant pipeline system in Central Asia is a definite step on the way of development of the global energy cooperation. We also increase the volume of export of the Turkmen gas to the Islamic Republic of Iran. The launching of the second Dovletabat–Serahs–Hangeran pipeline, laid to the neighbouring state promotes it as well.

The project of building of Turkmenistan–Afghanistan–Pakistan–India gas main, which will not only provide long-term delivery of «the blue fuel» to the large countries of Central Asia, which interest for the Turkmen energy carriers is stably growing, but will give a powerful impetus to further social and economic development of the region, has an important significance in this context.

We defined the most important tasks of realization of fuel and energy strategy of the country in accordance with «Programme of Development of Oil and Gas Industry of Turkmenistan until 2030». By means of this accelerated development of new, perspective oil and gas areas, activization of the exploration works and drilling operations, aimed at search of new deposits of oil and gas, introduction of the modern technologies into the fuel and energy complex, we send the richest natural resources for efficient use by next generations of the Turkmen residents and the whole mankind.

In epoch of New Revival and great transformations, the wealth of the country serves to interests of the people, their successful life. The Turkmen residents consume natural gas, electric power, and petrol free of charge in defined volumes. The free of charge provision of population of these resources, having high price all over the world, is a vivid evidence of concern of the Turkmen state about its people, creation for them benefits and realization of measures on provision of social protection of the people.

The West–East gas main, the building of which is carried out in a rapid pace, has the most important significance for successful realization of the energy strategy of the country. This gas pipeline will pass through the territory of Mary, Ahal and Balkan velayats. Much work was carried out in elaboration of the project, all required conditions for guarantying of its reliability and security for environment are provided.

Dear Guests! Dear Friends! Interview to the Representatives of Mass Media of the People's Republic of China

(November 16, 2011)

Chen Zhisin,
(«Zhenmin Zhibao» Newspaper):

– Esteemed President, let me on behalf of numerous readership of China congratulate you on 20th anniversary of independence and wish further prosperity to Turkmen people and ask some questions. Tell please about priorities of foreign policy of modern Turkmenistan and in this context about development of Turkmen-Chinese relations.

– Thank You for congratulations. I will start my answer from the last part-interrelations of the Turkmen and Chinese peoples, which sources have been originated from deep antiquity. In 49 B.C. forefathers of the present Turkmen – the Khuns (as you know they were called Syuns in China and Huns in Europe) concluded the so-called «The Oath Agreement» with the ruler of Celestial Empire (China) where interrelations of two powerful states were regulated.

– This agreement proved not only that henceforth dynasty Hann and Hunn make up one family and each other, but included appeal to future generations: «Let our sons and grandsons from generation to generation be faithful to oath». It was written in «The Oath Agreement».

The modern historians, studying ancient handwritten works and manuscripts, have come to the conclusion, according to which the diplomatic experience of other states, including the Ancient China was used in the international activity of the Turkmen people already in early stages of the history. One of famous scientists wrote that yearly about ten Chinese embassies came to our land.

Thus, one of such embassies that were sent to our region by Chinese Emperor U-di moved towards Parthia – one of the powerful countries in ancient Asia which was founded by the Turkmen people. By order of the Parthian ruler the 20 thousand horse cavalry waited for the Chinese guests at the border. This huge horse cavalry solemnly escorted representatives of the Chinese government throughout the entire journey showing high respect to the diplomats from the Celestial Empire.

The Turkmen-Chinese relations were greatly strengthened due to the Great Silk Road, which already in deep antiquity brought closer together the East and West, connecting them by economic and political ties. The parts running across the territory of Turkmenistan with stops in the big and blossoming cities – Merv (the present Mary), Amul (the present Turkmenabat), Nisa and others were the important links on this route.

Much could be said about extremely fascinating and instructive history of friendship and cooperation of our two peoples, but you, I am sure, you will agree that the present stage in development of the Turkmen-Chinese mutual relations is not less interesting and instructive. But before beginning the conversation about the modern stage of cooperation between our countries, I would like to tell briefly about foreign policy strategy of the Turkmen state in the frameworks of which our interstate relations is successfully developing.

– Yes, please, Mr. President, indeed it is one of the frequently asked questions by our readers.

– As you know, in foreign policy we have selected a model which we call «positive neutrality», and we formulate its fundamental principles: peacefulness, non-interference in the affairs of other states, respect of their sovereignty and territorial integrity, nonparticipation in the military blocks and treaties. The neutrality has become the optimal model for realization of these plans and objectives by the form in which the foreign policy of the Turkmen state fits more harmonically and naturally.

Today, Turkmenistan lives in peace and harmony with all states of region and world. We are fully integrated into the main tendencies of the present time. The whole complex of the direction, focused on the maximum involvement of Turkmenistan into the international links with purpose of use of our geopolitical, economic, resource and human potential and accelerated entering into the category of the states with high quality of life, dynamic economy, stable and effective relations with external world is purposefully developing in the country. The sense of the policy of the international cooperation, pursued by Turkmenistan, opening new possibilities for development of each of its main directions-the foreign policy, economy, cultural and humanitarian and scientifically-educational spheres is in it.

Today, the interests of our country are designated both at the regional and continental as well as global levels. The present Turkmenistan possesses the accurately outlined course in the international affairs, has the own position on such most important global agenda like support and maintenance of universal peace and security, disarmament, resistance to new challenges and threats, stimulation and protection of human rights, ecology, a food problem, overcoming of consequences of financial and economic crisis, issues of development of science, culture and education. The Turkmen diplomacy considerably strengthened its work with international organizations of various profiles; its representatives became the regular participants of large forums and other forms of multilateral interaction on the most diversified range of problems.

The space and subjects of cooperation of Turkmenistan at the bilateral level which presently dialogues on all geographical azimuths have been considerably expanded. The Asian-Pacific region, Europe, the countries of the American continent, Near and Middle East is in the field of our vision. Lately, the dialogue with a number of large and economically powerful states representing the Arabian world and Latin America was established simultaneously with development of cooperation with traditional partners of Turkmenistan. The Turkmen foreign policy more and more clearly gains the global thinking based on compatibility of own long-term interests with modern tendencies of the world development. Expansion and diversity of foreign policy links of Turkmenistan create favorable conditions for diversification of the international economic, trade and investment cooperation of our country.

Lu Tszinli,

(«Xinhua» News Agency):

– Mr. President, diversification of energy flows acts as strategic priority of foreign policy of Turkmenistan taking into account the objective geopolitical and resource advantages. Will You say few words about it, please.

– Yes, in fact it is so. Following the policy of diversification of energy routes and creation of multiple-choice pipeline infrastructure, our country, realized two new large projects on delivery of its energy carriers to the world markets: Turkmenistan–China gas pipeline and new Turkmenistan–Iran gas main along with use of the traditional routes. Today, another large energy project – the building of Turkmenistan–Afghanistan–Pakistan–India (TAPI) gas pipeline is at the closing stage and also the projects in the European direction are actively discussed.

All our achievements in this sphere, successful realization of joint international projects are in many respects stipulated by Neutrality of Turkmenistan. We have never politicized the economic cooperation. This fact finds due understanding and is highly appreciated by our partners, makes it possible to develop equal in rights, mutually beneficial links with various countries and companies. As a neutral state we can form our long-term foreign economic strategy, guiding by clear and distinct principles, following from our international status.

The close multi-aspect cooperation with the United Nations Organization remains to be the strategic priority of Turkmenistan. The UN is not simply the most representative international structure. We consider it as a strong pillar of the whole modern system of global interaction, the guarantor of preservation and maintenance of peace and balance of interests in the world arena, stability of existing architecture of safety. We are firmly confident that today, against the background of new world realities, high humanistic ideals, principles of UN Charter continue to be a moral and legal support of the international order.

Underlining that we will further adhere to the peaceful coexistence in our foreign policy and will follow our policy which I have formulated, while speaking at the 66th Sessions of UN General Assembly as «PEACE THROUGH DEVELOPMENT!»

Chang Chunyu,

(«Guanminzhibao» Newspaper):

– Thank You very much, Esteemed President, for Your detailed answer and now let me ask a question about the present stage of our interstate relations.

– Our relations with the People's Republic of China is a cooperation of two friendly states, united by common aspiration for strengthening of multi-aspect interaction in all spheres – in policy, economy, cultural and humanitarian sphere. We build cooperation with the People's Republic of China on long-term, strategic prospect. The content of the Turkmen-Chinese relations is conditioned currently by full mutual understanding both in views on priorities and prospects of bilateral partnership and on tendencies of global development.

The affinity or coincidence of our approaches to problems of provision of the universal stability and security, counteraction to terrorism, extremism and separatism is the most important factor of it. Together with China we act for equality and justice in the international affairs, for realization of goals of the sustainable development, we support measures taken by the world community on efficient respond to global challenges.

Our country highly appreciates the respectful attitude of China to the neutral status of Turkmenistan and foreign policy pursued on this basis. Turkmenistan firmly acts for the territorial integrity of the People's Republic of China, adheres the policy of «One China», supports peaceful development and relations of China.

Lately, the Turkmen-Chinese trade and economic relations have assumed a powerful dynamics. The goods turnover volume has a stable annual tendency of growth. It is enough to tell that in 2011, China became the largest trade and economic partner of Turkmenistan. Within 9 months of current year, the foreign trade turnover between Turkmenistan and China has made 3 billion 564 million 940 thousand US dollars.

Presently, 37 enterprises with participation of the Chinese capital have been registered and operate in Turkmenistan, 66 investment projects for total sum of 4 billion 438 million US dollars and 2 billion 328 million Chinese yuans have been registered.

Today, cooperation of Turkmenistan and China is implemented in such spheres like fuel and energy complex, trade, investments, transport, communication, chemical industry, agriculture, medicine, and high technologies.

Van Delu,

(«The International Radio of China»):

–Mr. President, despite of multiple directions of our intergovernmental interaction, the fuel and energy complex still remains to be one of priority spheres of the Turkmen-Chinese cooperation.

– Yes, you are right. The fuel and energy complex is one of priority spheres of our international cooperation. In December, 2009, Turkmenistan–China gas pipeline – the longest in the continent, has been put in operation. It was a great event. This project has a strategic importance for both parties, it meets the long-term interests of Turkmenistan and China, corresponds to logic of global economic development in which deliveries of energy carriers play an escalating role.

In this sense, the realization of the project of Turkmenistan–China gas pipeline is an example of unique partnership relations, based on equality, comprehension of mutual advantages, on long-term vision of prospects and possibilities, which opened with beginning of practical realization of the given project. Today, together with the Chinese partners we work on issue of further increase in volumes of deliveries of Turkmen natural gas to the People’s Republic of China taking into account of the increasing requirements of the Chinese economy and great possibilities of natural reserves of Turkmenistan.

For Turkmenistan China is not simply large and great state, but the most powerful world economic and industrial centre, the extensive and perspective market. It is a reliable and time tested friend. Our relations have today a long-term, strategic character. They have been tested by time, have proved to be efficient and now they serve as a serious factor of stability and development on the Euroasian space.

Chen Zhisin,

(«Zhenmin Zhibao» Newspaper):

– Mr. President, in the recent years under your wise leadership great success have been achieved in the building of state and development of economy in Turkmenistan and it attracts the attention of the world community. How do you view the further development plan of Turkmenistan?

– I see the future of Turkmenistan as an advanced information society. The state which can solve the most complicated problems and answer the calls, put forward by time. It will be the industrial country with the developed agriculture, an advanced science and original national culture.

In spite of the fact that for 20 years of independent development, our country has made an unseen development from being once a backward one into the modern developed state, we still should do very much. And I spoke of it at the Session of the Council of Elders of Turkmenistan, held on the threshold of the 20th Anniversary of Independence of our native land.

Paramount problem is transformation of Turkmenistan from the mainly agrarian country into the industrially developed and powerful state. For the solution of this problem, we will not only build new factories and plants all over the country, but also began to erect huge industrial complexes furnished with the latest equipment with the finished production cycle. It will be necessary to grow generation of experts of new formation who perfectly orient in all advanced technologies for its realization.

In perspective the state will make everything for the richest natural resources of our land work with maximum feed back for provision of the highest living standards of our people. We will strive for our industry and agriculture to be engaged not in delivery of raw materials to the foreign market but the export of completely processed production in future. The fuel and energy complex, besides the export of blue fuel to the largest markets of the world, will carry out deep processing of hydrocarbons and put out high quality products in a great demand in the modern world.

Our people will further continue to develop their land. If till now we have accomplished our cities and villages, have improved them, building new apartment houses, stadiums, museums, hospitals and other objects, then in the near future we, taking into account industrialisation of the country and agriculture development, will start to erect absolutely new modern cities which will grow on once deserted areas. The Turkmen people deserve such life. And it is in the hands of the people. And, they are in power to realize all our plans.

Lu Tszinli,

(«Xinhua» News Agency):

– Dear Mr. President, it is common knowledge that You are very busy with state affairs. Please, tell us what you do during your free time, what hobbies You have.

– What do I do in my leisure time? I will answer simply and definitely – I actually have not got free time. I take interest in scientific investigations and achievements, literary experiences, going in for sports, reading books as well as I am interested in creativity, I write poems about our Homeland, achievements of our people, wonderful nature of our country, I play various musical instruments, and as I have already said I like reading books. By the way, among my favorite books I like to re-read there are very didactic Chinese books.

Chang Chunyu,

(«Guanminzhibao» Newspaper):

– Your works are well-known in our country, thanks to the translation of them into Chinese. The latest of them are – «The Medicinal Plants of Turkmenistan» «Flight of Heavenly Racers» and «Turkmenistan is Resort Country». Tell us, please, upon which research or literary works You are working now?

– It would be better if you know about those books I am writing now after I will complete them.

Van Delu,

(«The International Radio of China»):

– Esteemed President, Your state visit is looked forward with great impatience in China. Tell us, please, what wishes you would like to convey to the Chinese people through the Mass Media.

– What can one wish to the great Chinese people? I have already told of the grandiose project of the gas pipeline, which our countries have realized and it brings warmth and light of the Turkmen land to our Chinese brothers. So here is the locality where this gas pipeline takes its start and it is called «Bagtyýarlyk», which means «the bringing of happiness». Boundless happiness! That is what I would like to wish our Chinese friends, and to your great country – further prosperity.

And as stipulated in the agreement of eternal friendship, which our remote ancestors concluded: «Let our sons and grandchildren remain to be true to the oath from generation to generation!».

Dear Scientists! Dear Guests, Participants of the International Conference! I cordially congratulate You on the occasion of the beginning of the work of the International Scientific Conference «Bahaveddin Nagyshbendi and Sufi Literature»! I am sure that your scientific presentations will have a great importance for the further research of teaching about Sufi, founded by Bahaveddin Nagyshbendi, studying of his humanistic views and principles, contribution to the cultural development of peace, his merits in the enrichment and perfection of the Turkmen classic literature.

Dear Participants of the Conference! Muhammet ibn Burhaneddin al-Buhary, who became famous in the sufi world by name Bahaveddin Nagyshbendi and got the title of the «Great Haji», is a prominent personality, a thinker and a well-known scholar, who made colossal contribution to the cultural development of mankind through the community of sufis called «Nagyshben-diye» founded by him. He proclaimed the triumph of labour and justice, glorified wonderful feelings and called people for the mutual respect, spiritual and moral maturity.

The creativity of Bahaveddin Nagyshbendi is related to the third period of the development of Sufi science. This stage of advance of Sufi philosophy is distinguished by the fact that opinions of the previous periods were developed in the course of social conditions, existed at that period. Nagyshbendi expanded more his doctrine about justice, characteristic to all stages of Sufism, with beliefs that it was necessary to earn only by own labour, not using the labour of other people. His views and principles are expressed more intensely in the precept: «Hands must be in work and the soul – in divine and human love». These thoughts are particularly valuable in the Epoch of New Revival and great transformations for achievement of further success in the activity for wellbeing of our peaceful and calm country, for the bright future of our friendly people. The outlook of the thinker is particularly vital in the present stage of the development of the Turkmen State.

Dear Friends! Bahaveddin Nagyshbendi is a philosopher, who lived in the Middle Ages. This epoch entered the history as a period of prosperity of the Oriental science and culture. The humanitarian sciences like history, philosophy, sufism, philosophic and romantic trends of literature highly flourished at that period. The philosophic thought itself experienced the renovation at that period, too. The doctrine of Nagyshbendi, sounded as an appeal to honesty, spiritual beauty, moral purity, takes grandiose place in the development of history of the Oriental science. He considered the famous coryphaei of science of that period, philosophers Abdulhalykaal-Gijduvany, Hoja Ali Ramitan, Hoja Muhammet Baba Semasy, Seyit Mir Kulala al-Buhary as his teachers and tutors. It was an appeal to the strict performance of norms of Islam, one of the leading religions. It was innovation in the long history of development of Sufizm as a science. In accordance with his doctrine, Nagyshbendi came closer to the comprehension of meaning of the human life, laws of social development and secrets of spiritual world. This doctrine was spread in the entire Muslim East.

The humanistic ideas of Bahaveddin Nagyshbendi found its continuation in the works of the great Turkmen thinkers of the 18th century – Dovletmamed Azady and Magtymguly Fragi. These philosophers attached importance to Nagyshbendi's teaching using it for the analysis of the Turkmen people's life of the 18th century, developing it on the basis of their own creative views on moral purity and beauty of the human being, and illuminating souls of his contemporaries with light. Magtymguly Fragi appeals to Nagyshbendi as his spiritual tutor, deeply opening the main goal of his philosophy. Magtymguly Fragi adopted the thought that one can ennoble the human soul and revive his spirit by labour and divine love; the poet artistically interpreted it in accordance with socio-economic and political conditions of that time. So, Fragi continued and expanded his spiritual tutor's teaching, a thinker, famous all over the East, bringing us his wisdom. All this proves how ancient sources of the scientific thought of our people are, how deeply roots of their culture go. That is why, calls of Bahaveddin Nagyshbendi for honesty, spiritual purity, assiduous labor are so vital for the present day of social, cultural and spiritual reviving of people.

This International Scientific Conference shows a great honour, with which the Turkmen people treat this great thinker of the East. We will further initiate scientific researches on opening of the prominent merits of the philosopher before mankind, as well as the importance of his contribution to the cultural and spiritual development of the Turkmen people.

Dear Guests – Participants of the Conference! Once again I cordially congratulate You on the opening of the International Conference «Bahaveddin Nagyshbendi and Sufi Literature»! I wish You sound health, long and happy life, peace and wellbeing, great successes in scientific creativity!

This day, the glorious pages, becoming the starting point for new period in their history were added to the annals of our sovereign country and people.

The Neutrality is a doctrine, opening to the world our basic principles, calling for peace all over the earth, for happy life of the people and humanism. Dear Compatriots! Turkmenistan invariably adheres to the status of the permanent Neutrality, in practice proving that principles of the peacefulness and good neighbourhood make a core of the foreign policy strategy realized by it. Within 16 years of the Turkmen neutrality our country has been changed unrecognizably and made a considerable contribution to the progressive development of mankind. The number of the inter-Tajik and inter-Afghan negotiations were held in our white-marbled capital – Ashgabat, becoming a peace-making centre of Central Asia. Turkmenistan having a favourable geopolitical and a geo-economic situation, has initiated large projects, aimed at protection of interests of the whole mankind. The Tejen-Serahs-Meshed railway, two gas pipeline branches, laid to Iran, Turkmenistan-China gas main can be named among them. The construction of the important branch of the North-South transport corridor is carried out in a rapid pace. The achievement of the agreement on realization of the building of Turkmenistan-Afghanistan-Pakistan-India gas pipeline is one more vivid evidence of the practical implementation of our policy of the positive neutrality. All these projects have a great importance for maintenance of peace and safety, economic progress in the region of Southern and Central Asia.

Dear Compatriots! Guiding by legal status of the permanent neutrality of our state, we make active cooperation with the United Nations Organization – the large international organization acting as a main guarantor in maintenance of the global peace, security and progress. Congratulation to Workers of Oil and Gas Industry and Geological Sector of Turkmenistan on their Professional Holiday

(December 14, 2011)

Dear Countrymen! Dear Oil and Gas Industry Workers and Geologists! I cordially congratulate You on professional holiday – the Day of Oil and Gas Industry Workers and Geologists! I wish each of You sound health, longevity, wellbeing and great successes in work!

In epoch of New Revival and great transformations, the oil and gas sector of our economy achieved high results in its development. Integration of oil and gas complex of the country to the world energy system, construction of reliable pipelines for export of energy resources to the world markets, large oil and gas facilities, which were built and commissioned to the 20th Anniversary of the glorious Independence, – all these are fruits of selfless labour of workers of oil and gas industry.

Works on development of oil and gas industry, in particular, aimed at accelerated development of opened oil and gas fields, studying of the structure of the deep strata, revealing of regions, rich in oil and gas, conduct of exploratory works and deep-hole drilling, considerable improvement of the technical equipment of fuel and energy complex are aimed at systematic increase of volumes of export of energy resources.

Introduction of the innovations to the oil and gas sector, intensified development of discovered and existing fields of hydrocarbon resources, as well as oil and gas resources of the Turkmen sector of the Caspian Sea, delivery of energy resources to the world markets through the multi-vectoral pipelines makes it possible to increase the capacity of the fuel and energy complex of the country. Thanks to mutually beneficial collaboration in oil and gas sector with leading foreign companies new large facilities are constructed and commissioned, and the branch is developing along the way of diversification. In accordance with Programme of Development of Oil and Gas Industry of Turkmenistan until 2030, we will widely introduce modern technologies to the sector furthermore and systematically increase the production of energy resources.

Dear Workers of Oil and Gas and Geological Sectors! In the result of researches and estimations, held by the Turkmen geologists in the South Yoloten-Osman-Minara and Yashlar fields, as well as according confirmation of the famous Britain auditing Caffney Cline & Associates Company, the existence of 26,2 trillion cubic meters of gas of these unique fields was justified. It is a pleasing fact for us, which will make it possible to increase considerably the efficiency of work, carried out in these deposits, possessing enormous even by the world measurements reserves of gas, to cope with set tasks with honour. Particularly, for this reason, we have decided to call Galkynysh (Revival) gas deposit as a symbol of the present historical epoch.

We are not limited ourselves to using of countless natural riches of Turkmenistan, taking leading positions among states, rich in oil and gas resources, only for improvement of our people's wellbeing, but plan to consume them in interests of the whole mankind, aiming at global energy provision. Our participation in grand events on occasion of delivery of the Turkmen gas to the Pacific Ocean region – the Chinese Kwangtung province, held in the course of the recent state visit to the People's Republic of China, became the evidence of successful realization of our projects on export of energy resources to the international markets. Henceforth, annually, 65 billion cubic metres of the Turkmen natural gas will be delivered to the People's Republic of China by Turkmenistan–China gas main – the largest project of the present time. We also intend to implement large projects of delivery of energy resources by Turkmenistan-Afghanistan-Pakistan-India route in the European direction as well. I am sure that our courageous oil and gas industry workers and geologists will make their deserving contribution with their inspired labour to the successful realization of these projects and solution of tasks, set before oil and gas sector.

Efficiently using the countless natural riches of the country – the energy resources, we will provide our people the successful, stable and happy life and create all conditions for further prosperity of our Independent Homeland.

The courageous workers of oil and gas industry and geologists of our Independent Homeland! I congratulate You once again on Day of Workers of Oil and Gas Industry and Geological Sector – the holiday, marked with great labour successes and pride for Your achievements. I wish You sound health, longevity, family wellbeing and immense successes in your noble labour!

Speech at the 7th Congress of Galkynysh National Movement

(Ashgabat, December 15, 2011)

Dear Participants of Congress! Dear Compatriots! Five years ago my native people elected me the head of the state and by that expressed me their great trust. All these years I, observing the Constitution of Turkmenistan and remaining faithful to the Oath of the President to justify the trust given to me, I fulfill with honour duties of the head of the state, I do it with immense love for Fatherland, the native Turkmen land, the inspired and hardworking people and being a true son of the people I serve them with good faith and fidelity. In my work on the top state post I constantly feel strong support of the native people.

From the first days we set before ourselves the great aims, corresponding to the interests of the country and people, each separately taken citizen. Guiding by these goals, we hand in hand confidently go along the way of great transformations, along the way of unity and solidarity in the state and society, friendship and harmony. We go along the course corresponding to our great national interests because we wish to transform Turkmenistan into the powerful, prospering state, we do our utmost to provide to the native people a happy and safe life. In a word, we steadily realize all great aims set before ourselves.

The way along which we go, of course, is uneasy and hard, we should overcome difficulties meeting on this way. But, we have selected this way, proclaiming a policy of great transformations, introductions of high technologies, maintenance of innovative development and high social standards. Today, in the 21st century Turkmenistan is confidently going to new heights of development and is gradually turning into the powerful, prospering state, with firm foundation, well-known in the world.

Not long ago, we celebrated the 20th Anniversary of the state Independence of our beloved Fatherland widely and in a grand way, in atmosphere of inspiration, unity and solidarity. As showed the time, today, the whole world became confident that the Turkmen people within historically short terms have gone the original and the only true course, successfully implementing policy of New Revival and great transformations, as well as its main motto «The State is for People!» and has achieved grandiose results and successes.

Within historical short terms, we have laid the firm foundation of the democratic, legal, secular state and currently, stage by stage are passing to the market economy. Guiding by the best traditions of our heritage in the state system, carrying out of economic transformations, implementation of the home and foreign policy, combining invaluable national experience with world achievements in this area, we carry out radical reforms in the country. I would like to note that the members of all public organizations, entering Galkynysh (Revival) National Movement take an active part in the successful solution of all these responsible tasks.

In the course of the legal reforms, implemented in the country on the basis of new edition of the Constitution of Turkmenistan, confirmed in 2008, we have solved a number of important issues, connected with strengthening of law and order and legal norms, support of the civil and interethnic concord, more development and enrichment by the definite content of the democratic principles of the state and society, observance of the fundamental laws and freedoms of the human being and citizen. Proceeding from these tasks, we have adopted new laws, continuing fruitful work on perfection of legal bases of the state and society in this field.

During 16 years Turkmenistan fulfills his historical mission of the peace-making state according to national originality and peculiarities, characteristic to our people from the ancient times. As known, our state put forward its new important initiatives and proposals at the international level, suggesting the world community to concentrate efforts on issues on five basic positions – politics, economy, energy, ecology and humanitarian direction at the 66th Session of the General Assembly of the United Nations Organization.

We put forward a number of proposals, aimed at the development of the transport communication at the regional and interregional level. We, continuing to carry out efficient work in energy sphere, put forward definite initiatives in the United Nations Organization, called to give new impetus to the international relations on issues of the power supply. We also proposed a number of the measures, aimed at solution of issues, connected with climate change, preservation rare endemics and unique natural resources of the Caspian Sea.

Turkmenistan carries out its foreign policy, based on openness and publicity, the respectful attitude to all states of the world, on friendship. We are confident that any situations emerging in the world are necessary to regulate only by the political and diplomatic means. Guiding from the priority of national interests and with a view of large-scale and active participation in solution of the world political, economic, cultural-humanitarian, scientific-technological, information issues, we have selected a strategic way and consider it as the integral part of internal development of our country.

Dear Participants of Congress! Dear Compatriots! It is probably hardly to enumerate everything done within five years in short speech. Thereupon, I prepare the special Information Bulletin in which I have stated all pre-election promises, given by me during meeting with voters in 2007, and results of their fulfillment. You have this collection; having familiarized with it, you can vividly be confident, what work is done and estimate it.

The motto «The State is for People!» has become the main principle of policy, pursued by me and continues to remain. This principle has a firm connection with carrying out of the market reforms and all-round social security of the population.

Within five years of my work on post of Turkmenistan President, the firm platform for rapid advancement of our people to the bright future and achievement of colossal successes has been created. Those heights, which we have reached, of course, are very important, but it is only one stage on the way of our Independent and Neutral Fatherland to the great goals. The wonderful discoveries, great deeds and big successes are ahead! We trust in ourselves and our abilities! I believe in my people, in their high and staunch spirit; I believe that we, all more closely uniting, all together will change our native Turkmenistan more and we shall build our wonderful and happy future!

Dear Friends! Galkynysh National Movement carries out enormous work on implementation of home and foreign policy of Turkmenistan according to the goals assigned to it getting its name in the period of formation and strengthening of the sovereign Turkmen state. Galkynysh National Movement has taken important place in political life of the country and conducted a great work on strengthening of bases of the young Independent Turkmen state. As rallying and uniting power, it has rendered a great assistance in the solution of the political, social and economic and spiritual-moral issues at the preliminary stage of formation and development of our state and society. It is a historical merit of Galkynysh National Movement!

Uniting in its structure the Democratic Party of Turkmenistan and large public organizations of the country, basing on national spiritual values, assisting unification and rallying of the people, strengthening of social bases, upbringing of youth in the spirit of patriotism, revival of rich cultural heritage of the people, Galkynysh National Movement has completely fulfilled all tasks assigned to it. We will further use widely a great experience of Galkynysh National Movement. I am sure that public organizations inspiring people to new labour achievements and creative successes, will work also effectively furthermore, I believe that you will do your utmost for further rising of authority of our Fatherland to new height!

Today, in new historical epoch, life demands from us a new approach to creation of the civil society and further development of the contemporary state institutions. Important tasks are before each public organization. Each of them is responsible before the members for solution of tasks, provided by their own programmes.

For example, the task of the Youth Organization consists in upbringing of the politically literate, with own civic position young citizens, feeling their responsibility, the true patriots, able to think in new way, not having bad habits, not pursuing exclusively mercenary interests, not relating life in an exploitative manner, hardworking and confident in their future!

The responsible tasks stand before trade unions of the country as well, which must be on constant guard of the rights of the members for labour, protect working condition and life of citizens, defend interests of workers both in state and private structures, be engaged regularly in training of highly skilled specialists and improvement of their qualifications, develop labour initiatives of the people and harden them in labour, to bring up the generation continuing labour traditions, give a worthy estimation to the front-rank workers and stimulate their inspired work, regularly take concern about creation of favorable conditions for rest of the citizens.

The Union of Women also has numerous responsible duties. First of all, it is a provision of active participation of women in the state, labour and social life, protection of maternity and childhood, care of mothers having many children, their working and living conditions, timely rendering the material and other necessary assistance to them. Women are pride of our Fatherland!

The important tasks are before the Veteran Organization as well. This organization should regularly care of veterans of war and labour, to honour them and surround the elder people with care and attention. Provision of veterans with all necessary conditions for life, medical treatments, and rest is one of the basic duties of this organization. It is necessary to involve widely the senior generation to the work on patriotic upbringing of youth because particularly, elders have a wide experience of selfless work and courageous protection of Fatherland. That is why, the particular place is given to the veterans of war and labour in deserving upbringing of the young generation, showing a high example of service to Fatherland.

As of the Democratic Party of Turkmenistan, I would like to stress in particular that the main part of its work consists first of all in carrying out the ideological work among various layers of population. The main role belongs to the primary party organizations on spots – in working collectives, cities and etraps. Our Democratic Party which will celebrate its 20th Anniversary on December 16, was strongly strengthened within the Independence days, its authority was considerably grown during these years. Presently, this party has turned into the active public force in solution of the most important state and political issues. Particularly, for this reason, the main role is given to the Democratic Party propaganda and explanation of the state policy.

New stage of development of our state puts necessity of solution in uneasy issues before each public association, dictated by the present life. Certainly, there are no quick ways of solution of these issues it is necessary to carry out the daily well-thought work to search the most optimum ways of solution of these tasks, act according to the requirements of time and set tasks.

Presently, along with that any public organization will work independently and in the spirit of time, it is important for it to feel its responsibility before the state and society. There is no necessity for the public unions to be in structure of Galkynysh National Movement and to assign the whole responsibility to this organization.

During 20 years, all public unions of the country became so perfect that they turned into true public organizations. They have enough political and public experience. Thousands of citizens who became members of these organizations, support their work.

Because at the present stage of the state and social development of the country, Galkynysh National Movement has completely fulfilled all tasks set before them and I offer this congress to make the decision on the termination of activity of this organization according to Point 4 of Chapter 5 of Galkynysh National Movement Charter.

Dear Friends! Dear Compatriots! I express sincere gratitude to all party and public organizations, which nominated my candidacy to take part in elections for the top post – the post of Turkmenistan President and gave me high confidence.

First of all, I perceive such trust as recognition of positive results of important work on radical reforming of all spheres of life of our state and people, initiated by me hand in hand with my dear people.

I express my particular gratitude to the native people for high confidence given to me, the service to whom I consider as the purpose of my life and activity! Participation in the presidential elections of Turkmenistan is not only a great honour, but also a great responsibility. I consider our present meeting, held in the end of year of the 20th Anniversary of Independence, as a good opportunity for reporting before citizens of the country about work done during the past period and defining of tasks for perspective.

Dear Friends! At present stage, when political and economic bases of independence of the state are created, it is time to set new tasks before us, demanding modernization of all spheres of life of the Turkmen state and society, taking into account the political and economic changes taken place in modern world. Our main objectives in new historical epoch were improvement of social and living standards of the people, economic development of the country, which continue to remain. All large-scale transformations, carried out by us have found reflection of their essence and content in capacious slogan «The State is for People!». The potential of colossal natural resources of Turkmenistan will be aimed at further intensive development of our Fatherland, considerable improvement of social and living standards of the population.

Dear Compatriots! All my concerns are in service to the people! For this reason, I understand my duty before the people in creation of all conditions for confidence of the citizens of the country in successful and peaceful tomorrow, strengthening of the international authority of the Independent and Neutral Turkmenistan, prosperity of native Fatherland! I am sure that together we can realize successfully all dreams and grandiose plans on creation of the powerful state and modern highly developed society for the sake of happiness and well-being of each citizen of our country, and all Turkmen people!

Long live epoch of New Revival and great transformations of our courageous people!

Long live our Fatherland – Turkmenistan!

Congratulation to the Members of the Democratic Party of Turkmenistan on the 20th Anniversary since the Date of its Formation

(December 16, 2011)

I wish celebrations on the occasion of this significant event, to become unforgettable moments in life of members of the Democratic Party of Turkmenistan and all people!

The Democratic Party of Turkmenistan was formed soon after proclamation of the state independence – on December 16, 1991. The social and political principles, arisen at the initial stage of the sacred independence – the responsible period of our modern history, lay on the basis that these dates came one after another. The sacred independence, having become revived by fate of the people, gave an impulse to origination of the political power, capable to provide stability, civil consent in the state and society, to arouse belief in the great future in hearts of the people, in revival of the Fatherland, protection and inviolability of ancient traditions, formation of new democratic and legal world outlook in the Turkmen society.

At that time, the Democratic Party of Turkmenistan was a great political force and continues to remain so in our present epoch of New Revival and great transformations. The Honest fulfillment of the high duties assigned to it during last 20 years, strengthened more a role of this political party in life of society and increased its authority.

This party, which considers its main task as a basic direction of development of the country, being in constant movement and taking into account our national peculiarities, searches efficient methods of conducting political – explanation and propaganda work. Guided by principles of humanism and social security, making a basis of our motto «The State is for People!», it widely developed its work.

It is pleasant that the Democratic Party of Turkmenistan, which became the original democratic organization, more and more strengthening its influence and authority in society, in new historical epoch aimed its work at solution of modern tasks of the innovative development of the country, diversification and modernization of the leading branches of economy, active introduction of the market relations, at successful implementation of the historical programmes of the development of state and society, systems of education, healthcare, science and culture, sports and tourism, at implementation of the economic and social reforms, strengthening of spiritual revival and stability.

Dear Compatriots! The epoch of New Revival is a fine gift of fate for recognition of Turkmenistan in contemporary, quickly changing world as a highly-developed, industrially powerful state with civil society. Certainly, this challenge of time lets know that renewal in all directions is necessary to conduct taking into account of achievement of the highest levels of development, the party and social organizations should search new forms of carrying out work and establishments of relations with population, perfect methods of working, act more decisively and keep up with the times. The most different views and opinions are existed in contemporary world. The multi-party system appear in the nearest future. For this reason, the Democratic Party of Turkmenistan should be in constant search and be in vanguard in any affair. «The walking person will cover a long distance», – this philosophy should become our belief. We should not calm on achievement, be in constant movement and creative search, and go forward along the way, leading to heights of the modern society.

Dear Members of Party! Together with other public organizations, you must conduct consecutive explanatory work among population, opening people the sense and importance of our state policy, pursuing great aims, our programmes, aimed at provision of worthy life to the country and people. Actively using all methods available in your arsenal, you should promote development and strengthening of the Turkmen society in epoch of New Revival and great transformations. I firmly believe that you will achieve great successes in work on upbringing of active citizens of a society, worthy sons and daughters of Fatherland, implementation of initiatives, more uniting people at this new stage of development on the basis of unity, peacefulness and national concert!

Dear Compatriots! Dear Members of Party! I cordially congratulate You once again on the 20th Anniversary since the date of formation of the Democratic Party s of Turkmenistan! I wish each of You sound health, longevity, happiness and well-being, immense successes in Your work!

The New Year Address to Turkmen people (December 31, 2011)

Dear Compatriots! My Dear People! The year 2011 marked with an abundance of momentous events in life of the country is coming to an end. Our independent neutral Motherland is confidently entering the New Year 2012 with great expectations and hopes. I heartily congratulate You on the coming of the New Year 2012!

I wish You good health and long life, happiness and prosperity, the fulfillment of all your hopes!

Let the New Year 2012 be the year of good luck, kindness and prosperity for our people!

As is known, we have done the tremendous work for the benefit of the beloved Motherland that is moving forward like a swift horse to new heights of progress, continued implementing the drastic reforms in all spheres of life and laid the groundwork for future ambitious changes.

In 2011 our people were advancing with confidence along the path of unity and solidarity, friendship and cohesion, constructive endeavours and progress and gained significant achievements in the development of the state and society. This year we have fulfilled the ambitious tasks to make our Motherland a strong and prosperous state, ensure happiness and welfare of our people.

Our courageous people in a grand way and widely have celebrated the 20th anniversary of state independence of our Motherland this year. The nationwide celebrations in honour of the anniversary of independence fully reflected spirituality of our people and their endless love for their Motherland.

The ongoing economic reforms in the country have given a powerful impetus to develop the industrial sector and enhance the economic strength of our state. The progress in the economic sector has created conditions for the significant improvement in the people's well-being and living standards.

The year 2011 marked with the outstanding achievements in modernizing the agro-industrial sector and creating an abundance of food products has become the year of high incomes.

We have performed the work planned for this year as provided in the National Programme for the improvement of the social and living conditions in villages, settlements, towns in etrap and etrap centres for the period till 2020.

The implementation of this Programme has made it possible to dramatically change the appearance of velayats and etrap, towns and villages and significantly improve the people's welfare.

Large-scale construction of various facilities, including plants and factories, industrial facilities and apartment houses, medical, tourist and sports centres and hundreds of other buildings has been launched in Ashgabat as well as throughout the country this year. As a result, our country has turned into a blossoming oasis, a paradise on earth. This work will be continued at a rapid pace in the future.

Our national culture is some kind of mirror reflecting outstanding economic achievements, harmony reigning in our society and spiritual revival of the nation.

Culture and art in our wonderful country have come to a qualitatively new level of development. The vast opportunities to promote this sphere were provided through the construction and commissioning of dozens of cultural facilities, including the arts town.

Dear Compatriots! The great traditions underlying unity and solidarity of the Turkmen people for millennia, Gorkut Ata's wise precepts that helped to strengthen the foundations of the states built by our ancestors, the humanistic policy that ensured the prosperity of the Seljuk state and Magtymguly's dreams of a sovereign state are embodied in the Monument to the Constitution built in the capital of Turkmenistan this year.

The distinctive features of the national character such as the love for the motherland, the aspiration for solidarity, friendship and brotherhood permeated by the spirit of the Basic Law have led to the enhancement of the international prestige, authority and fame of our state.

This year our neutral Motherland has made great progress in the foreign policy. This policy pursued in line with the national principles and for the benefit of the people has won widespread international support. Our country moving forward along the path of peaceful development has established close contacts and mutually advantageous cooperation with developed countries of the world.

The mentality helps our people to faithfully perform the historic mission of the peacemaking state in the region, and the significant work has been done in this sphere.

Our country put forward the new important initiatives and proposals at the sixty-sixth session of the United Nations General Assembly. Our neutral state advocates a respectful attitude towards all nations and by pursuing the friendship-based foreign policy urges to address emerging problems in different regions of the planet by political and diplomatic means.

The initiatives we put forward from the rostrum of the United Nations are aimed at promoting the interests of our people as well as the interests of mankind. And these proposals evolve from our fundamental principle «State is for People!»

Being guided by national interests, our country taking an active part globally in the political, economic, cultural and humanitarian, scientific and technological and information spheres of collaboration has chosen the path of wide cooperation with all nations of the world. We have worked much towards promoting equal cooperation with many countries this year.

We can say with confidence that the year 2011 has been concluded with great successes and outstanding labour victories! In 2012, Almighty giving, we are going to maintain a rapid pace of the large-scale reforms launched in all fields and broaden the scope of work.

Dear Friends! As you know, the important political event in life of the country – the presidential election will take place on February 12, 2012. We believe that this important political action will be held in a proper manner in accordance with national laws, on an alternative basis, in line with the principles of democracy, openness and transparency, with active involvement of all segments of our society. I wish every success to all presidential nominees!

Dear Compatriots! The year 2012 will hold ambitious plans for us. To fulfill them we will rely on inexhaustible vigor and unbending spirit of our people! We will unite closely and work more persistently and enthusiastically next year as we are to achieve our common goal – to make our country a prosperous state!

Dear Turkmen Citizens! The New Year 2012 will come in a few minutes! Let this New Year bring bright hopes, high expectations and benign intentions, be the year of happiness and prosperity, the year of the fulfilled dreams, the year of good luck and great success for every citizen of Turkmenistan!
